SAVE THE BIRDS

The Review asks for the co-operation of all lovers of nature in using their influence to prevent the wholesale slaughter of our birds. It is the recognized sport of many of the youths of the town to go out into the country and kill everything they can find. Squirrels, even, one of the most harmless and the most pretty animals in the whole animal creation, are not safe from destruction at the hands of these young vandals.

Revolvers, air guns and catapults are the weapons used, and so destructive are they in the hands of the maliciously inclined that unless some protective measures are taken the rural districts will be deprived of so much of their charm by the killing of birds of song and beautiful plumage.

EAT ORANGES

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP WELL

Careful tests have proved beyond question that orange juice has clearly defined medicinal virtues. Those who suffer with Indigestion—are compelled "to diet"—find that after eating oranges regularly for breakfast there is no distress, no palpitation.

Where there was a tendency towards constipation, the eating of oranges regulated the bowels.

In skin troubles, those who began the morning meal with an orange were noticeably improved.

There is, however, a quicker way to get better results. This is to take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" tablets at bedtime in addition to the juice of an orange before breakfast the next morning. "Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes, in which the medicinal action is many times intensified by the special way of combining them. Valuable tonics are then added.

Take the juice of an orange before breakfast—take "Fruit-a-tives" at night—and you will quickly be rid of Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Constipation and Biliousness. "Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box—6 for $2.50, sent on receipt of price by "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

THIS EXCUSE WILL NOT DO

So severe are the comments upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier's action in representing that the Grand Trunk Pacific would cost this country no more than $13,000,000 that the Government has felt it necessary to make reply through Mr. Paterson, the Minister of Customs. That gentleman announced in his Parliamentary speech the other evening that 'the statement of Sir Wilfrid can easily be squared with the facts. All that Sir Wilfrid said, argued the Minister, was that we were to pay the interest for seven years on the bonds guaranteed for the mountain section of the railway, and the rental for seven years of the Government end of the line. 'And,' proceeds Mr. Paterson, 'he estimated that the accumulated interest during the seven years might possibly amount to the sum of $13,000,000.'

This explanation, however, does not tally with the language employed by Sir Wilfrid. What Sir Wilfrid said was that 'the sum total of the money to be paid by the Government for the construction of that line of railway from Moncton to the Pacific Ocean will be in the neighborhood of $12,000,000 or $13,000,000, and not a cent more.' This calculation was addressed to Parliament and to the country for the purpose of commending the scheme to the public. There was no 'possibly' in it. The calculation was given as definite and as an outside figure. Had Sir Wilfrid desired to convey to Parliament the idea which Mr. Paterson now puts in his mouth he would have said that the expenditure upon the construction of the road would be $100,000,000 or $150,000,000 as the case might be, but that the interest would be $13,000,000. The actual cost was, however, not mentioned by Sir Wilfrid, and for the very good reason that had he spoken of it the effect he wished to produce by using the $13,000,000 estimate would have been lost. But is the case any better for Sir Wilfrid Laurier now that Mr. Paterson's explanation has been made? Let us look at the obligations which this scheme imposed upon the country outside of the cost of construction. In the first place we have to pay the interest on three-fourths of the cost of the mountain section of the road for seven years. This section is 500 miles long and a very low estimate of the cost is $50,000 per mile. This makes the outlay $25,000,000 with $3,000,000 added for interest during construction, or $28,000,000 in all. Three-fourths of $28,000,000 is $21,000,000, and that sum at three per cent for seven years calls for $4,410,000. The Government built section between Winnipeg and Moncton is costing $64,000 a mile. But placing the figure at $50,000 the cost of the 1900 miles will be $95,000,000. To this must be added the interest on the money used during construction, which, at 4 1-2 per cent. for eight years, will be about $16,000,000. This makes the cost $110,000,000. If we borrow that sum at 3 1-2 per cent. and give the line to the Grand Trunk for seven years free of rental, we pay $3,850,000 a year, or $26,950,000.

Next we have the Quebec Bridge to pay for and that will cost probably $10,000,000. These liabilities are then:

Mountain section	4,410,000
Eastern end	26,900,000
Quebec Bridge	10,000,000
Total	$41,310,000

And, according to Mr. Paterson, it was to this burden that Sir Wilfrid Laurier referred when he stated that the total money to be paid by the Government would be in the neighborhood of $12,000,000 or $13,000,000 and 'not a cent more.' That Mr. Paterson's explanation makes the case any better than it was cannot be admitted. There was deception in the estimate as explained, and such ineptitude is inexcusable. — Mail and Empire.

Tercentenary Celebration at Quebec an Important Event

What the Festivities Are Intended to Commemorate—An Important Chapter in History of the Dominion—Some of the Features.

It was in August, 1608 that Samuel de Champlain with a few hardy followers, founded at Quebec, the first permanent settlement in Canada. He had been at Port Royal, now Annapolis, in two of the early attempts to found a colony there and once, with another explorer he had sailed up the St. Lawrence to the head of ocean navigation where the city of Montreal now stand. It was on that occasion that his eye, on the lookout for places favorable for settlement, detected at once the natural advantage of the promontory overlooking the St. Lawrence.

In imagination he saw an imposing fortress rising from the crest of impregnable rock warehouses and marts of trade crowning the summit, ships from distant parts anchored at its wharves and the fertile valley of the St. Lawrence dotted with the happy homes of a thrifty and industrious people.

PROPHETIC VISION SINCE FULFILLED

The vision was prophetic and its fulfillment is the inspiration for the tercentenary celebration in which the Prince of Wales is to take the leading part in August next—a celebration which will strike a deeper chord of national sentiment through their being associated with the ceremonies. the reservation and dedication of the famous battlefields where the fight between England and France for North America reached its culmination, and where the heroism of the two races was inscribed on the role of fame in characters that can never be effaced while time lasts.

One can but glance briefly here at Champlain and his work. On one of his frequent visits to France he appealed for thrifty householders to emigrate to the new settlement offering flattering inducements, but making no secret of the hardship to be endured. They came but with feeble and uncertain progress, pioneers of an advancing host, priests, soldiers, peasants, men with feudal escutcheons, and brave women, like Dame Hebert— all doing their share in a work that was encompassed by perils.

The pencil of Champlain regardless of proportion and perspective, preserved for posterity the foundations that were laid—the pile of wooden buildings on the brink of the St. Lawrence, near the site of the present market place of the Lower Town of Quebec. A strong wooden wall surmounted by a gallery. loopholed for musketry. enclosed 3 buildings containing quarters for Champlain and his men. A moat surrounded the whole and two or three small canon were planted at salient points toward the river. There was a large storehouse near at hand, and part of the adjacent ground was laid out as a garden.

CHAMPLAINS OCCUPANCY WAS SOON DISTURBED

Small as were the attractions it offered, Champlain was not long allowed to enjoy Quebec in peace. First, there was a plot to deliver it into the hands of the Basques and Spaniards then at Tadousac; then his harassing fights with the Iroquois, and more serious still than either, there was a conflict with the English — foretaste of the grim struggle of a later day—which resulted in the colony passing into the hands of King James after Champlain had spent nearly twenty years in trying to render it habitable. Its restoration came in a few years, however, when the Treaty of St. Germain again placed the French in possession of the whole of Canada.

Before leaving, Champlain, Montrealers may be reminded that St. Helen's Island, our present river summer resort was named after his wife Helen, the daughter of Sieur de Boulle, secretary to the King's Chamber, who, with Dame Hebert was one of the earliest women settlers.

The intervening years must be very swiftly passed over—the years in which the French race established itself with its laws, customs, and religions, on the banks of the St. Lawrence for the next feature of the commemoration—calls attention to the battlefields, which proclaim the close of a war that was not only rich in picturesque detail, and dramatic situation, but that formed an important part of the most interesting struggle in which the two countries were ever engaged. The campaigns of Braddock Loudon, Abercromby, Montcalm, Levis and Wolfe have been the schemes of many fascinating narratives. The two outstanding figures in the war are as every schoolboy knows, Wolfe and Montcalm, and the battle of the Plains of Abraham is all but universally known as the culminating feature of the struggle. Few, however, give much thought to the still bloodier battle of St. Foy, fought upon the same ground by the same troops within six months in which the French, under Levis, were victorious.

There is abundance of romantic detail interwoven in the story of the seige of Quebec, and the strategy by which the British troops under Wolfe, succeeded in scaling the heights. Wolfe spent months awaiting a favorable opportunity. He was in one of the leading boats as they swept along with the tide on the night before the great day, reciting, it is said on good authority, the famous Elegy, which had just been written by his friend Gray, as he drifted along in the darkness to victory and death.

Captain Howe, a brother of the nobleman who fell at Ticonderoga, with a small body of picked soldiers, led to the ascent up the cliffs, which the French regarded as impregnable. The point of landing was the narrow beach of Anse du Foulon. Some of the boats accidentally overran the spot, but it made little difference as the narrow path was in any case found to be blocked and the soldiers were forced to throw themselves upon the rough face of the cliff which at that point is over 200 feet high, but, fortunately for the attacking army, sprinkled thick with stunted bushes. Swiftly and silently Howe and his men scrambled up the steep face. No less eagerly the men behind as boat after boat exchanged its load of redcoats under Wolfe's eye hit the narrow shore, following in their precarious steps. Day was just beginning to dawn as the leading files leaped out on the summit and rushed upon the handful of astonished Frenchmen who fired a little volley and fled. They captured the officer of the guard, de Vergerr—a man who had distinguished himself rather ingloriously in the defence of Beausejour, in Nova Scotia. By six o'clock Wolfe had his whole force of 4300 men drawn up on the plateau, with their backs to the river and their faces to the north. Wolfe drew up his line of battle in the historic ridge of the tableland known as the Plains of Abraham; with his right resting on the cliff above the river, while his left approached the bushy slope, which led down towards the St. Charles. He had outmanoeuvred Montcalm, the French commander. Would he succeed in crushing him. No doubt Wolfe was confident that he would although the confidence might well seem audacious for a leader of less than 4,000 men with twice that number in front of him, and half as many in the rear.

CURBS HOME RULE FERVOR.

Mr. Asquith Declines to Support Resolution In British House.

London, March 31.—The House of Commons last night, after a lengthy debate on the question of home rule for Ireland adopted by a vote of 313 to 157, a resolution moved by John E. Redmond, the Nationalist leader, that "in the opinion of this House a solution of this question can only be attained by giving the Irish people legislative and executive control of all purely Irish affairs," after it had been amended by adding the words, "all subject to the supreme authority of the Imperial Parliament."

It was known beforehand that the debate could have but an academic interest, because the Government already had pledged that there would be no deal in the matter of home rule until it had been given a mandate at the general election. But the debate was made notable through the strong declaration of Chancellor Asquith, which was all the weightier because made at the moment Mr. Asquith is actually assuming the Premiership.

Mr. Balfour, in a brief speech had accused his opponents of speaking with two meanings, a radical meaning and a Nationalist meaning. He ased how it was conceivably possible to carry out great Irish reforms with British money, except by a British Parliament, and ironically challenged Mr. Asquith to clear up this ambiguity.

Amid ironical Unionist laughter, Mr. Asquith rose and said that never in his life had he felt less embarrassed. For over twenty years he himself and his colleagues had steadily and consistently advocated self-government for Ireland's purely local affairs. He held that opinion now as strongly as ever.

He could not, however, support Mr. Redmond's motion in its present form, because he found in it no explicit recognition of Imperial supremacy, and, further, because no Parliament would be justified in embarking in such a task unless the matter first had been submitted to the electorate. It would be a gross and inexcusable violation of their promises to do so in the lifetime of the present Parliament.

As far as the present Parliament was concerned, he said, they had expressed their powers in regard to the problem of Irish Government in the Irish councils bill last year.

BOWIN SEEN WITH WOMAN.

Damaging Evidence In Trial of Woodville Boy For Murder.

Detroit, Mich., March 31.—Rose Manage, known to the underworld as Rose Laveick, the woman who gave the Detroit police the tip that led to the arrest of Percy Bowin for the murder of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, occupied the witness stand all Monday afternoon at Bowin's trial. Her testimony was by far the most damaging evidence that the prosecution have uncovered against the youthful defendant so far.

The woman roomed at Mrs. Welch's place, and, on the witness stand she declared that shortly before midnight on the night of Friday, Jan. 3, when Mrs. Welch is supposed to have met her death, she went down to Mrs. Welch's sitting room to get some milk. There she declared that she saw Mrs. Welch writing a letter while Bowin stood looking on.

Attorney Kennedy made a desperate effort to discredit the testimony, which, if believed by the jury, bodes ill for his client.

Mr. Kennedy made an effort to prove that the girl, who is a French-Canadian and speaks English very imperfectly, could not read. In this he was unsuccessful. It was the hardest blow that has been dealt the defence during the trial.

Dan Scott, who, according to the theory of the defence, is the murderer of Mrs. Welsh, was on the stand all the morning. Although admitting his relations with Mrs. Welch, Scott remained cool and imperturable all through the scathing cross-examination to which he was subjected by Mr. Kennedy, and nothing was brought out that would tend to connect him with the murder.

Both attorneys agreed that the case will not be finished before the end of the week, probably Friday or Saturday. The reading of Bowin's alleged confession to Capt. McDonnell will probably occupy considerable time, as Mr. Kennedy has announced that he will insist upon Stenographers Bliss and Johnson reading the statement from their original notes and not from a typewritten copy.

WORK FOR PRISONERS.

In Future They Will Go Back to the Land.

Toronto, March 31.—In accordance with the report of the special commission on prison conditions presented to the Legislature some time ago, Hon. Mr. Hanna will submit the subjoined resolution in the House this afternoon. It will be observed that no reference is made to the indeterminate sentence, that being of a matter under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government.

The resolution is: "That in the opinion of this House with a view to improving the conditions existing in respect to the custody and employment of prisoners in the Central Prison in the province it is deemed expedient:

1. That a tract of land suitable for the transfer of the central prison thereto and for the employment thereon as far as practicable of the inmates thereof be purchased.

2. That steps be taken towards the erection thereon of a new prison.

3. That the property now known as the Central Prison be disposed of when proper accommodation for the transfer is provided.

4. That no further contracts on what is known as the contract or piece price systems of employment be entered into, but that the inmates be employed in the improvement and cultivation of the land and the making so far as practicable of such supplies as are necessary for the various institutions of the province, and in such work as the making of highways.

5. That a branch prison or reformatory be located in Northern Ontario as soon as conditions warrant the establishment of such branch.

The Daily Review

TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1908.

NIAGARA CENTURIES AGO

In Father Hennepin's drawing of the Buffalo appears as accompaniment, supposedly for the purpose of giving a correct idea of the surroundings, a bird like a pelican, and a rat with a prehensile tail. The bill of the bird like a pelican, and not materially as with the pelican but front and back. All three are now practically extinct and so far as known the rat and the bird completely so. His sketch of the falls shows how much that natural wonder has changed in the course of two and a half centuries. The horseshoe on the Canadian side was evidently not quite of that shape. There was a sort of cross flow that ultimately resolved itself into the horseshoe form of fall.

LA PATRIE

"Plus on y pense, plus on se convainct que le rapport sur le service administratif est une mauvaise affaire pour le Gouvernement." — La Patrie (Liberal).

La Patrie, of which Hon. J. I. Tarte was the head and whose sons have taken his place reflects the balanced opinion of Quebec and of the whole French-Canadian race. "The more one thinks of it the more one is convinced that the Civil Service Commission's Report is a bad business for the Government." This it will be admitted is a fair Englishing of the quotation, and La Patrie's remark will strike Ontario equally with Quebec as a just and impartial summing-up of the whole unfortunate affair. Rumors are persistent that Sir Wilfrid will appeal to the country sooner than has been expected. We all knew of course that it would be "impossible" for him to leave it off till next year when Mr. Fielding's promised deficit of thirty millions arrives. By that time, too additional payments on G.T.P. account will have been met. Then as we see in last month's returns of customs receipts at Toronto, where they declined by the extraordinary amount of $246,000, it will be no longer possible even to pretend that our trade is buoyant and expanding. The penalty of failure is defeat. Sir Wilfrid has had his triumphs and like the rest of men in high places in the end falls a victim to his own infirmities and the weakness of others.

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS

There have been several warm encounters at Ottawa this session over provincial rights. The Hamilton Radial Railway was considered bad enough in that particular but the Ontario and Michigan Power Company in infinitely worse. The object of a federal charter as most people know, is simply the getting of at Ottawa what can not be got from the provincial legislatuires, by declaring that the objects of the company to be chartered are 'for the general benefit of Canada.' The charter is supposed to slip through without comment and the incorporators proceed to gobble up all that is of value or that can possibly be supposed to be, by the highest flight of the imagination, "for the general benefit of Canada.' The Ontario and Michigan Power Co. is one of these monstrosities. It seeks to corral all the water-powers and other kindred sources of wealth in the hinterland of this province. The scheme was detected by the watchful eye of Mr. Whitney who has brought in a bill praying His Majesty to so amend the constitution as to prevent its passage and generally to protect the province from pillage.

HARRY ORCHARD

Harry Orchard represents wickedness crystalized. He is the most advanced, the foremost evolutionary type of the moral degenerate —the man who appeals not to the higher ideals of man and womanhood, but to the low animal instincts otherwise known as the "practical" side of life. Orchard believed as did those who inspired and abetted him, that what a man wants that should he also get, and that nothing of a so-called moral character should be allowed to stand in his way. Restraints to a bad man are simply obstructions. Orchard having murdered without stint now seems sincerely willing to bear the brunt of his villainy and to expire upon the gallows. It cannot be that he has a conscience or else where has it been all this time?

More likely is it that he is tired of life. There is very little in life to such a man and we cannot wonder that he ceases to take an interest in it. His alleged conversion we must take with a grain of salt. It may be as alleged, but it is more likely that it is not. In any event the whole affair is extraordinary and yet not, in this age of stabbing and poisoning, uncommon. It recalls us however, or ought to do so, to our senses. A sharp look-out is needed or else both as a nation and individuals we may go on the rocks at any time. The murderer is wicked. The robber is bold of bad. The briber is of a different and even lower type. He is cowardly and mean, masquerading as something that he is not.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Quebec elections are said to be called for May. M. Gouin is not doing as he has been requested to do in so doing.

"Why, oh why,' cry the Goderich Tories, 'should we be buried in a Grit hive?'—The Globe.

This sounds even worse than the Signal's roar of indignation.

Until the full text of the report and recommendations of the Civil Service Commissioners is available the matter can only be discussed in a general way. It is necessary, in the first place, to recognize that this should in no sense be a party question.—The Globe.

Ha! Ha! From this we may safely infer that the Opposition is equally to blame. But is that true?

Mr. Studholme is interesting because he is free from all discipline and fear, and says exactly what he thinks on all subjects. He also has a tendency to say all he thinks on some subjects, and this is distressing for he certainly thinks a great deal, and thinks he thinks a great deal more—The Globe.

The independent member gets praise only when he is defeated at the polls. The Globe is a little hard on the only Labour member.

Whoever selected Messrs. Courtney, Fyshe and Bazin as commissioners to investigate the civil service had certainly no desire for anything but an utterly brank trenchant and energetic revelation, and no one who has had anything to do with our public business had the least doubt that such investigation was called for. The waggon had got, as the report hints, so very deep into the mire, and the ruts were so worn that even the waggoner was helpless to get it out.' — The Witness.

And yet there are, or rather were those who called demands for investigation, obstruction.

It is reported that Mr. R. R. Gamey, M.P.P., will address a number of meetings throughout the province in the interest of Conservative candidates. His knowledge of New Ontario from the Quebec border to Kenora is greater and more intimate probably than that of any other single man, as shown by his speeches in the Assembly. He has shown himself to be a man of exceptional ability and information. He must always be reckoned with in any discussion of provincial affairs and as a speaker he has few equals.

Goderich Signal:—The gerrymander of Huron county reported from Toronto this week is nothing short of an outrage upon the people of this country. . . . The public will stand a little jockeying by the parties and the Liberals of Huron were probably prepared to take their medicine in the re-arrangement of the ridings; but when the public interest and the will of the people are wantonly violated the responsible party courts danger, and the "honest" Government which has deliberately set about stealing a seat may find that it has gone a little too far.—The Goderich Signal.

Is this true or only half true? It is to be hoped that it isn't even that. The Conservatives are raising Cain up

Mr. Whitney has strangely belied his party in one important particular. He has intimated that it will take weeks in which to prepare the statement regarding changes in the public officials since his government came into power.

The inference is that he is not going to bring down the information on the ground that it cannot be supplied before the close of the session. Supposing the opposition said, then, that the house would not close until they received what they wanted; Suppose the Liberals undertook to hold up public business, to block proceedings at every point? Would the Conservatives applaud them?—Kingston Whig.

Yes. The Opposition is entitled to know. The return should have been moved for, earlier, that is all. If Mr. Whitney were trying any hocus-pocus, he would, as the Whig observes, 'strangely' belie both his party and himself. However even Mr. Whitney is not infallible. The Whig seems to think that no Canadian is strong enough to be decent for longer than 24 hours, if that.

Hon. Clifford Sifton Endorses Borden's Civil Service Reform

An Acknowledgment of the Shortcomings of the Present Policy—Mr. Borden Commended for His Courage —Civil Service Patronage an Evil.

A most important question, continued Hon. Mr. Sifton, was that of Civil Service reform. The Minister of Railways had declared himself in favor of the reform of the Civil Service in his province, and Mr. R. L. Borden for the first time in Canada to put in the forefront of his platform a plank in favor of Civil Service reform.

"For my part, I would be delighted to have the whole Government join with the whole Opposition, and we could perform for the public of Canada the very great service of removing the public service entirely from political patronage and putting it on a higher plane.

"Every member of Parliament knows that the greatest nuisance in connection with public life concerns the dealing with the question of patronage. Every minister knows the same thing. It is an entire mistake if anybody supposes that dealing with this question is a political advantage to the party in power. Take the case for instance of appointing a collector of customs to a postmaster.

How many of us in this House have had any advantage by the exercise of patronage? Take the case of appointing a clerk to the customs office in Vancouver or in Montreal or in Halifax; how is he appointed? The Minister asks the member to make a recommendation; the member writes to someone in these cities, he gets back the name of a person, of whose qualifications he knows nothing, and the man is appointed. There is no other way to do it under the present system. It was done by honorable gentlemen on the other side of the House, when they were in power, and it has been done by us.

Possibly owing to the natural virtue of Canadian citizens the results are not as bad as they might have been; and yet obviously this is not the best system under which the public service of the country may be carried on. There is a better system and I want to say this, while I know the feelings of many members upon this subject, whatever we may say of the principle involved, I am sure that Canada will outgrow this system very soon. The people of Canada will demand that it be changed.

Stable and Fifteen Horses Were Destroyed by Fire

Mr. Harry Scott of This City Receives Word of Conflagration at Home of His Father Dr. Scott, Seaforth—Two Barns Containing Two Hundred Uninsured Horses Escaped—Loss Covered by Insurance

Mr. Harry R. Scott, of the Canadian Dairyman and Farming World received a letter this morning telling of the destruction by fire of a large barn on his father's property and fifteen valuable horses that were in the barn, as well as some vehicles that were also there. The letter was written to Mr. Scott by his father, Dr. Scott. No particulars concerning the origin of the fire were given.

The loss is fully covered by insurance.

It was most fortunate that a breeze was not blowing southward for if it had been two other barns containing two hundred horses purchased by Dr. Scott and his brother and waiting to be shipped to Western Canada next week would also have been burned. These barns were insured but none of the two hundred horses were.

In the letter Mr. Scott was requested to return to Seaforth at his earliest convenience and he will leave for there probably on Wednesday. He thinks he is wanted to arrange some matters in connection with straightening up matters in connection with the damage and confusion resulting from the big blaze. Mr. Scott was part owner of the barns and horses.

Wolves in Algonquin Park; Many Deer Killed by Them

Superintendent Bartlett writes under yesterday's date:—

Editor Ottawa Free Press:

I have your letter of the 24th instant, with clipping giving Rev. Dr. Long's opinion re wolves and deer in Algonquin Park.

Dr. Long is my personal friend, and I regret that this statement should appear in its present for,; I don't for a moment think Dr. Long intended the public to understand that "at the present moment," as the interview would imply, there are a thousand carcasses of deer lying in Algonquin Park. It would be absurd for anyone to make that statement. Then Dr. Long was only in this section a short time and spent most of that time outside the Park limits. He and his companion, during the whole time they were here, saw two carcasses of deer killed by wolves, and these were some nine miles apart.

While it is only too true that the wolves are numerous this year, more so than I ever saw them, and certainly do kill a great number of deer, it is far from correct to say, as your article does, that the wolves are exterminating the deer.

In Algonquin Park the deer have increased in the past two years beyond belief, and everywhere over this two thousand square miles they are to be found in hundreds, the woods are literally padded with their tracks.

A TRAMP THROUGH THE PARK.

I have just returned from a snowshoe tramp of over two hundred miles in the Park. In doing so I should have a good idea of what is going on. Leaving South River on the Grand Trunk Railway, I struck across country to Kah-Way-Ego-Mog lake; from there down the Amable Du Fond River to Tea Lake; from this point I visited the following sections, making a thorough examination of same:—Long Lake Beach, Burt, Erables, Maple, Tillie, Raven, across country to Little Nipissing River, Robinson, Burnt, Red Pine, White Trout, Ottersides, Island, Lindies, Cranberry and Cache Lake.

I left home on the 4th of March, returned on the 17th, travelled all day, and every day found game of all kinds most abundant.

In all that distance I saw two carcasses of deer killed by wolves, and also the carcasses of eight wolves killed by the rangers.

I have been in the woods a great deal all winter and I actually only nine or ten deer being killed. On Cache lake there is one carcass and another about a half a mile from the lake.

My men have brought in altogether this winter sixteen wolves. Of these seven were females. As I have already stated, a great number of deer are killed that we never see, and every possible inducement should be given for the destruction of these wolf pests. We are doing our utmost. When I tell you some of my men have put out eight ounces of strychnine this winter you will see that we are putting up a fight. I, myself, have bought eight ounces. We kill a great many wolves that we never get as they get out into the woods and die and are covered with snow.

Your reasons will, I am sure, be pleased to know that the deer are much more numerous than ever and at the present time are in splendid condition.

G. W. BARTLETT.

Rev. Mr. Long is the gentleman who was described by President Roosevelt as a nature fakir. If he was correctly reported, he, in view of Superintendent Bartlett's statement, is at least an exaggerator.

A KILLING AT BRULE LAKE.

By today's mail there also reached the Free Press a letter from a reader at Brule Lake, also in Algonquin Park, some distance west of the Park headquarters. The writer says;—"A wolf killed a deer right near our school house door and left it lying where it was found warm at 8 a.m. today (March 25) with only ten pounds of meat taken off. What Mr. Long says in interview published in yesterday's Free Press is quite true."—Ottawa Free Press.

Le Barge Was Dismissed on the Charge of Biting Castle's Lip

Fred Le Barge charged with assaulting and inflicting grevious bodily harm to Harry Castle on Monday, second day of March, and who had his trial yesterday morning, appeared for judgment this morning, and was discharged.

His Worship said in summing up that Castle came to the city that day in pursuit of trouble. The two men met in the New Oxford Hotel, and were drinking. They then came up to the American House, where the row commenced. At this place Castle received the first blow, getting his eye blackened. There is no doubt but that Le Barge saw Castle enter the Royal Hotel and followed him in. But at this place no one seems to have seen the fight start. The charge is that LeBarge bit Castle, but that has not been proven. Had that been proven, His Worship added that he would have punished the man so severely that he would never again repeat the offence. It is most brutal and unmanly act.

"I do not understand, and furthermore I do not think it possible,' said His Worship, "for a man to deliver three blows with the clenched fist and in each case inflict a straight cut." The magistrate was of the opinion that LeBarge must have inflicted the wounds with something else other than his fist. However, the particular charge with which he was dealing had not been proven and he dismissed it.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 30.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending March 28 were 2911 cattle, 133 sheep and lambs, 1285 hogs and 914 calves. The offerings to-day for the local trade were 850 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 300 calves. The strength which developed in the market for cattle a week ago was more pronounced to-day, and prices scored a further advance of 20c to 25c per 100 pounds. This to some extent is due to the steady upward tendency of prices in the Chicago market of late, sales of prime beeves on Saturday being made at as high as $7.35 per 100 pounds, but the higher prices here are attributed more to the continued small supplies coming forward, and the fact that choice cattle brought from the country are not plentiful; consequently, the prospects are that values will go still higher within the next two weeks. The attendance of buyers this morning was much larger than it has been of late, owing to the fact that butchers generally were well cleaned out of stock; therefore, the demand was good and an active trade was done. There were no prime beeves on the market, and the percentage of choice was small, of which sales were made at $5.50 to $6.00; good at $5 to $5.25; fair at $4.50 to $4.75, and common at $3.75 to $4.25 per 100 pounds.

Liverpool cables on Saturday stated that the market for cattle was firm at an advance of ¼c to ½c per pound, but to-day was slow, with American steers quoted at 12c to 12½c, and Canadians at 12c per pound. There has been no further change in the condition of the market for lambs since this day week, but prices are firmly maintained under a good demand and small supplies. Sales of choice lots of yearlings were made at 7c to 7½c, and good at 6½c to 6¾c per pound. Receipts of spring lambs have increased some and prices are lower, at $5 to $8 each. Sheep are very scarce and prices firmer, at 5½c per pound. There is a good demand for choice calves at 7c to 8c per pound, dressed, but common and inferior stock meet with a very slow sale on account of the strict inspection now being enforced and the fact that a large number have been confiscated as being unfit for food; consequently butchers will only buy now subject to inspection. The market for hogs continues strong and prices are steadily tending towards a higher level, they having scored a further advance since last Wednesday of 15c to 25c per 100 pounds. This is due to the fact that supplies coming forward are small for this season of the year, for which there is a keen demand from packers on account of the near approach of Easter, when the consumption of hams and bacon will be large. An active trade was done this morning, and sales of selected lots were made at $6.50 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars. Cable advices from all the leading foreign markets on Canadian bacon showed no improvement, but they stated that the undertone was steadier.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, March 30.—Cattle—Receipts, 2800 head; fairly active and 10c to 25c higher than last Monday. Prime steers, $6.25 to $7; shipping, $5.65 to $6.50; butchers, $5 to $6.40; heifers, $4.50 to $6; cows, $3.25 to $5.25; bulls, $3.50 to $5.25; stockers and feeders, $3.50 to $4.75; stock heifers, $3 to $3.50; fresh cows and springers steady to strong, $30 to $54.

Veals—Receipts, 250 head; active and steady, $5 to $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 15,300 head; active and 10c to 15c higher; heavy, $5.90 to $5.95; a few, $6.00; mixed, $5.90; yorkers, $5.25 to $5.85; pigs, $4.75 to $5.25; roughs, $5.00.

Women Have Less to Say Than the Men

Interesting Debate at Meeting of St. John's A. Y. P. A. Last Evening

There was a splendid attendance at the meeting of St. John's A.Y.P.A. last night, and an enjoyable evening was spent. After the reading of reports and general business was discussed, a most amusing and interesting debate was held, "Resolved that women talk more than men." Mr. C. Coleman, who was leader of the affirmative, was ably assisted by Mr. A. Northcote. Mr. Charles Reid, assisted by Mr. J. Hogan, was successful in proving that women are the least talkative. During the debate the speakers introduced many points to prove their contentions. The leaders of both sides are experienced debaters, and handled the subject ably. Each speaker was allowed eight minutes to speak and the leaders three minutes at the conclusion. After the speakers had finished the subject was put before the society for discussion during which several of the lady members of the society took part. A vote was then taken, and it was the unanimous opinion of all present that women talk less than men. The meeting was then adjourned until Monday, April 13, when the Biblical Committee will provide a programme. A social evening and concert will be held on April 27th.

MORE EVIDENCE HEARD IN GOULD CASE AT TORONTO

Harry Saunders Will Go Free—Dr. Fletcher is Still Held—Investigation Being Continued To-day.

Toronto, March 30—After several adjournments the investigation into the charge of murder prefered against Dr. Ashton Fletcher and Harry Saunders, by an alleged illegal operation on Jessie Ellen Gould, was held this morning before Magistrate Denison.

J. W. Curry, K.C., appeared for Dr. Ashton Fletcher, and T. C. Robinette, K.C., for Saunders.

The prisoners did not appear to be at all nervous and sat beside their counsel durring the investigation.

Dr. J. Hardy Todd, 165 College st., said that he had gone to 73 Shuter street, in response to a telephone call.

"What name was given you," asked Crown Attorney Corley.

"I caught the name Saunders, I think," said Dr. Todd.

He said that he had gone to administer an anaesthetic to a girl for an operation.

"What was the matter with the girl?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"She was suffering from a miscarriage," said Dr. Todd. He added some details in the operation which he deemed necessary, and said that the girl, who appeared much better after it, was sent to the hospital.

"Did you see the girl afterwards?"

"Yes, on a Tuesday night. She was dead then."

DR. FLETCHER WANTED POST-MORTEM.

"Was anything said about a postmortem?"

"Yes. Dr. Fletcher said he wanted one; would hold the death certificate till he got one. Afterwards the undertaker telephoned that he could not get the consent of the parents. He heard that the death certificate had been made out attributing the death to aruptured pustube of peritonitis

"You have known Dr. Fletcher for years?" asked Mr. Curry.

"Yes."

"And his character is good, of the best, in fact?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did you think was the cause of death?"

"Either septicaemia or blood poisoning."

"And you have never had anything against him?"

"No."

"This operation then was one which required a reputable physician to perform and no doubt aided the girl?"

"Yes."

Dr. Silverthorne came next. The gist of his evidence was that the girl died of septicaemia, following a miscarriage, but of course he could not say what had induced that. Mr. Curry objected to all the evidence connected with the embalming.

Dr. Cotton confirmed Dr. Silverthorne's evidence. The only evidence of disease they had was an almost negative one.

WITHDREW CHARGE AGAINST SAUNDERS

"With your Worship's permission I shall withdraw the case against Saunders," said Crown Attorney Corley. "I take all the responsibility in this step."

The move of the Crown Attorney created a good deal of interest in court.

Saunders immediately went into the box. He said he was engaged to marry Miss Gould in June. He met Dr. Fletcher, and walked with him from Church to Yonge street, and told him he thought the girl was in trouble. The doctor warned him to be care of it.

"No particular price was mentioned. We were talking about the Turner [illegible] the doctor said no particular [illegible] was charged, sometimes $50, sometimes $30, and sometimes $20," said Saunders.

"I met the doctor two or three weeks later at my uncle's, and asked him to call and see the girl, who was very sick with cramps.

VISITED DOCTOR'S HOUSE

"He called to see her, and told me to bring her up to his house on a Sunday afternoon. We went up together between 4 and 5 o'clock the following Sunday. The doctor motioned her to go upstairs, and I waited in the parlor. She came down in half an hour, looking very white. I said 'What's the matter?' and the doctor said she'd be all right in a day or two. That was all that was said then."

"Did you instruct the doctor to attend her further?"

"No."

"What did you do then?"

"She came down to my place, and we played cards. Then she went home."

Saunders said that about midnight the girl had been taken ill gain with cramps, and he had stayed with her as she was so sick she didn't want him to leave her.

The doctor came to a house in Mutual street where she was. A day or so afterwards she went to the Shuter street house. On the morning of the 10th, a nurse, who had been employed by the doctor, told him to telephone for him. He came at once, and told Saunders to get another doctor at once.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock the girl had been taken to the Western Hospital, under the instructions of the doctor. About 7 o'clock he called at the Western, and found the girl very much better; she talked and laughed and told him to bring her books and papers the next morning. She died very suddenly. He said he had been told that the girl died of pneumonia, as he was unable to remember the name: peritonitis.

NEVER ARRANGED OPERATION.

"You never made any arrangement with the doctor to perform a criminal operation, or arranged any price with him?" asked Mr. Curry.

"No, sir," said Saunders.

"You brought the doctor down to see the girl from your uncle's house?"

"Yes."

The witness added that he wanted the girl, who was already complaining of illness, to be carefully nursed, and offered no objection to the hiring of a nurse. It was under Dr. Fletcher's instructions that he telephoned for Dr. Todd. Dr. Fletcher had told him to get any one of a half a dozen physicians to help him in the operation. Dr. Fletcher was anxious to have a post-mortem.

To both the Magistrate and Mr. Corley Saunders repeated his statement that he has made no arrangement with Dr. Fletcher for any operation. Two prescriptions had been filled, but they were for harmless things like quinine or something of a kindred nature.

The investigation adjourned at 1.55 and will be resumed tomorrow morning.

BRILLIANT AURORA WAS A SPECTACLE

Magnificent Display of Northern Lights Seen in Several Places—Hard on Telegraph Business

Winnipeg, March 28—One of the most magnificent auroral displays which has been witnessed for some years was visible last night, reaching its maximum about the hour of ten o'clock. For some time the entire surface of the heavens was one flashing, dancing wave of phosphorescent light, which kept continually changing. It presented at times the appearance of a huge crown, whose centre was almost straight overhead and the rays of which flashed from its circumference over the entire sky. Sometimes it looked like a huge illuminated wheel whose axis was the pole of the dipping needle and whose spokes were the streamers and waves of blue and crimson light which converged from the horizon and whirled in orderly array round the centre. At other times the streamerss and waves dissolved into a milky vapor which rushed tumultously and with prodigious velocity from east to west and looked like snow driven violently across the prairie by a high wind. The corona at the centre at times appeared like a full blown rose, milky white and of full texture. Indeed, such a variety of form and action has seldom been seen in Winnipeg. It is seldom that the aurora is seen anywhere excepting in the north but last night it flashed north, south, east and west with equal brilliancy.

INTERFERED WITH TELEGRAPHS.

One of the drawbacks of the aurora in a commercial sense is the trouble which it invariably creates with the electric telegraph and the newspapers get their telegraphic news under the greatest difficulty on the occasions when this mysterious natural phenomenon is most brilliant. Last evening the Canadian Pacific wires to the east were practically out of business up to midnight and the messages were exceedingly difficult to take, as the instruments become almost uncontrol'able. Last night the Free Press' special despatches from Montreal were wired to San Francisco and thence up the coast to Vancouver, from which place they came direct to Winnipeg. The aurora on this occasion extended further south than it has been known to do for years. The Great Northwestern company's wires were affected also, but not to such an extent as the others, as the wires running directly north and south do not apparently come so much under the influence of the aurora.

CLASSIFIED BY SCIENTIST

According to the classification of the Smithsonian institution, made and adopted many years ago last night's display belonged to class I of Aurora. This class is characterized by the presence of at least three out of four of the most magnificent varieties described by Professor Olmstead, namely, arches, streamers, corona and waves, and last night's display included all four. Arcs or circles or zones, which were sometimes the mere boundary of a segment and at others a dense pillar of light forming a grand column at each arch, which spanned the heavens from east to west, streamers which shot upward from the arches and danced like phantom armies toward the zenith, the corona forming a circular zone overhead made up a wreath of auroral vapor either of pure white or of prismatic colors with the streamers radiating from the circumference, waves or undulations flowing along the line of the streamers toward the centre of the corona and seeming to reflect in the sky a drift of snow on the earth beneath—all of these phenomena were included in last night's fine display. It was noticeable that the centre of the corona remained almost stationary overhead slightly southwest of the zenith. This point is called the 'dipping needle.' A dipping needle or magnetized needle which is free to turn in a vertical line through its centre of gravity plane about a horizontal line through its centre of gravity will take up a position of rest such that the end containing its north pole will be depressed below the horizon through an angle which is called the 'dip' or 'magnetic inclination.' In Winnipeg the dip is somewhat over 78 degrees. It becomes greater and greater as the place of observation approaches the magnetic pole of the earth. It is the opposite or elevated pole of the needle which forms the axis of the corona, so that the point about which the corona is formed is about 15 degrees south of the zenith.

SPRING.

Will you harken, my friend, to another,
On the over-wrought subject of spring;
When the poet's fancy awakened,
Like the birds to the northland takes wing.

They may thing of Spring and it's pleasures
And clothe well their conclusions in rhyme;
But some look askance at their measures,—
It brings with it house-cleaning time.

Now the fat man swears as he bumps the ice;
Or wades knee-deep through the slush;
Here, the ladies kind, have things in mind
'Gainst the Council and Burgomau Rush.

They may praise the life in the city,
It's pastimes in needless array;
But so soon as I've finished this ditty
I will "hike" to the country away.

From this city's hustle and grind I'll fly;—
From it's tyrannous fashions cut free;—
To where the farmer gathers with thrift
The sweet juice of the maple tree.

Where the farmer's fair lass is as sweet
As the stuff she helps her father to boil,
Give her attention the length of a day
And you'll ne'er get enough of her smile.

Now are the days when at Preston's command
From the fogs of old London they'll go—
The Shoreditchy chap his slim baggage cheque
For the land "Our fair Lady of Snow."

Be sure then enough of them come
As recruits to George Cochrane's "Mess";
Scores must arrive by the end of the year,
If the "boarding house scheme's" a success.

I have endeavored to follow the formula of verse given by the Editor:—Spring, bring, snow, blow,—with the exception of the last word, which I cannot use, and will leave it to him to "blow himself."

Splendid Meeting at Geo. St. Church

Hall Was Crowded With Men Last Evening—Address by Rev. C. H. Coon

The basement of George street Methodist church was filled with men last evening at the first of a series of special meetings which are being conducted by the Men's Social Adult Bible class. The service was entered into most heartily, and it no doubt would be productive of much good to all who were able to be present. The musical part was led by J. Miller, and a male quartette gave several numbers which added greatly to the attractiveness of the service. An earnest address was given by Rev. C. H. Coon of Mark street church, and the after meeting was conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Pearson. Tonight the second meeting for men will be held.

Col. Buchan, C.M.G., now ranks as a brigadier-general.

Young People's Union Society Reorganized Last Evening

Interesting Missionary Rally at St. Andrew's Church—Large Attendance—Reports of Pittsburg Convention Presented—Able Address by Rev. Dr. McTaggart of Toronto.

That the young people of the city of Peterborough are deeply interested in the missionary movement, has, during the last month been amply evidenced. Three weeks ago Knox church was crowded with an enthusiastic gathering, when an able address was delivered on the young people's missionary movement. Last evening another big audience assembled in St Andrew's church. Reports of the recent international convention at Pittsburg were presented by Rev H. J. Keith and Mr. H. C. M. Potter. An able and stirring address was delivered by Rev. Dr. McTaggart, of Toronto, and president of the Provincia Christian Endeavor Union. As a result of the meeting the Young People's Union Society has been reorganized in this city. The different societies will combine as one and will take up the missionary cause.

The meeting was presided over last evening by Rev. Dr. McTaggart. After the opening hymn, Rev. H. M. Manning read a portion of Scripture and Rev A. H. Brace led in the prayer. The chairman made a few introductory remarks after which an excellently rendered vocal solo was given by Miss Ruth Dawson.

PRESENTATION OF REPORTS.

Mr. H. C. M. Potter, president of St. Luke's Young People's Society, was a delegate to the international convention at Pittsburg. He read a most comprehensive and lucid report of the four days' convention, pointing out clearly and interestingly what took place at each meeting. His report was complete in every detail and it was the subject of much commendation by those who heard it last evening. Thirty-nine denominations were represented at the conference and it has been said that it was the greatest international convention that has ever been held. Mr. Potter outlined the addresses of the different speakers, giving what he considered was the message they wished the delegates to take home with them. Among those who delivered addresses were missioners from almost every heathen land and representatives from Great Britain. In summing up, Mr. Potter said that the convention was, in a few words, "A review of the mission work of the world."

REV. H. J. KEITH.

Rev. Mr. Keith commenced his remarks by congratulating Mr. Potter on his excellent report, and did not think that there was much left for him to speak of. It was indeed an inspired sight, he said, to look upon the vast assembly of thousands of delegates in that great hall. Mr. Keith referred to one thing that particularly impressed him at the convention. At the present time in the different organizations of Young People's Societies there is a growing sense of responsibility and a deeper interest is being taken in the missionary movement. Most of the delegates were also Sabbath school workers. The interest in missions is becoming general. This is proved by the existence of three organizations, namely, the Student's Volunteer Movement, the Young People's Missionary Movement and the Laymen's Missionary Movement. The latter, the speaker hoepd, would soon be an active organization in this city. Critical conditions exist in heathen lands at the present time. Everyone ought to feel it a privilege to engage in mission work." If we are to be consistent followers of Christ we must do something for Him," said Mr. Keith. Everyone should become educated along missionary lines and if all would unite, the day would not be far distant when the whole world would be evangelized.

Interspersing the reports vocal solos were given by Miss B. King and Mr. F. C. Freeland.

REV DR. McTAGGART.

Rev. Dr. McTaggart delivered a very stirring and forcible address. The scope of the Young People's forward movement is limitless, he said, and in this generation the world must be won for Christ. The aim of the Young People's Societies should be to impart knowledge to its members. That knowledge should be the desire of every one. The speaker said that often a society took up the study of some literary topic, but the result was that only a few enjoyed it. Many of the church organizations that have only as their aim the study of some literary subject are dwindling down. The speaker was proud to see a great revival among the young people and also the forming of adult Bible study classes in the churches.

Dr. McTaggart appealed to the people to join in love and fellowship and put forth every effort to advance the missionary movement. It is the young people that is going to evangelize the world, and as in union there is strength, it will only be in this way that all shall be won for Christ.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Upon motion of Rev. J. G. Potter, seconded by Rev. Robt. A. Pogue, it was decided to re-organize the Young People's Union Society and the following officers were elected:—

Hon. President—Rev. J. R. Webb.
President—Rev. H. J. Keith.
Vice-President—Mr. H. C. Potter.
Secretary—Miss Thompson.
Treasurer—Miss Effie Munroe.

The Executive will consist of the presidents and secretaries of the different Young People's Societies of the city.

The meeting closed with a hymn and the benediction.

A big irrigation ditch is being made at Fort Steele, and water will be taken from the Little Bull river.

HOUSE PROTESTS; IS DETERMINED

Rights of the Province Must be Protected—Strong Resolution Carried in Legislature Yesterday—Mr. MacKay Says it is Not Fair.

Toronto, April 1.—"As the leader of this Government I am well satisfied that the House by division should pronounce itself on the great question of Provincial Rights," said Hon. Mr. Whitney at the close of the short debate upon his resolution proposing protest to the Imperial authorities in the matter of encroachments and interference with Ontario's rights by the Federal authorities, when the Liberal leader introduced an amendment, which, according to the Prime Minister, was designed to bring political considerations into a great question in which they should have no part.

Upon a division, at the close of the afternoon, the Prime Minister's position was sustained by a vote of 59 to 19. Mr. Allan Studholme (Labor) and Major Rathbun (Independent Liberal) were both classed with the Government. "I stand with Mr. Whitney on this matter of Provincial Rights like I stood with Oliver Mowat in the old days," quoth Mr. Studholme, as he recorded his vote.

In moving his Provincial Rights' resolution Mr. Whitney said that on March 26 he had telegraphed the Dominion Minister of Railways calling his attention to the serious consequences of the proposed Senatorial bill confiscating the rights of the province in the Pigeon, Sturgeon and Nipigon rivers. He had replied that he would look into it, but nothing further had been heard.

"The Government has taken several days to consider the matter," said the Prime Minister, "and feels that the time has come for Ontario to take a firm and dominant stand. If the Dominion is to be allowed to disregard and trample upon the property and civil rights of the province, then we shall lose all power and control over our public domain."

Referring to the Conmee corporate operations Mr. Whitney intimated that the province had under its watchful eye other efforts "introduced under the same baleful influence."

"I recommend this House to pass the resolution," he continued, "and place itself upon record. In that event if the bill is approved at Ottawa to-morrow we will understand that the Dominion Government has deliberately and with malice aforethought thrown down the gauntlet that it can outrage the rights of the province. Ontario will welcome the gage of battle on those lines," declared Mr. Whitney amid rounds of applause. "This province stands ready to combat the pirates and adventurers of her rights in a very effectual manner. However," he added, amid Government "Hear, hears" and laughter, "I am convinced the Dominion Government will not care to take any such action and will undertake to kill the vicious Senate bill to-morrow."

Hon. Mr. Harcourt agreed in condemning the bill before the Senate, but explained that the Dominion Government should not be held responsible for it. It was the private bill of a Liberal Senator.

Hon. Mr. MacKay complained that the Prime Minister's motion was too emphatic and far-reaching. It was not fair to the Dominion Government. For himself the Liberal leader said he was ready to condemn the bill as severely as the Premier. It was assuredly an encroachment on Ontario's right. But the resolution was too sweeping. He submitted the following amendment:

"That all the words in the resolution after the words 'generated by means of them' be struck out, and the following substituted therefore:

"'That this House, while not unmindful that the said bill is only a private bill, and not a public act to which the Government of Canada is committed, deems it advisable and timely to emphatically and unanimously express its disapproval of the said bill in some of its parts, and to assert and declare the rights of this province in the premises;

"'And this House, while not claiming the right or power to deal with international matter, firmly asserts its territorial sovereignty over lands, rivers, streams, water powers and water privileges within the confines of the province; as also jurisdiction with reference to international rivers, and water powers of water privileges thereon, and to the land there underlying, to the thread or middle of the river;

"'And this House expresses its opinion that it is the duty of this Government upon all such occasions, without specific directions or instructions from this House, to use and adopt all reasonable means and measures to safeguard in any and all respects the rights of the Province of Ontario;

"'And this House hereby declares its approval of the actions of the past Governments of this province in defending and maintaining the rights of the province and hereby declares its readiness and determination to support all lawful means requisite to assert, maintain and defend the legislative and territorial sovereignty of the province against encroachment from any and every quarter;

"'And this House recommends that a conference between the Government of Canada and the Governments of the several provinces be held with a view of arriving at a reasonable solution or settlement of all matters in doubt as to the respective jurisdictions of the Government of Canada, and that of the various provinces, and that if necessary Imperial legislation be obtained to confirm a settlement.'"

The Prime Minister replied amid great enthusiasm. It was not, he said, a matter on which he was prepared to straddle the fence. He welcomed the issue of unequivocal Provincial Rights. Repeatedly the province had suffered from Dominion encroachments. "They shall strangle and choke Ontario's rights no longer," he announced amid cheers. "I welcome the vote."

The House then divided.

The following Government bills were introduced:

Hon. Mr. Beck introduced a bill to provide for the development of water power at Dog Lake. It provides for the construction by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario of a dam or dams in Dog Lake or in the Taministique River for the purpose of storing and controlling the flow of water, and the commission will develop electrical energy, and may sell or lease such water power to such persons, firm or corporation as the Government may see fit. The commission is given power to regulate the use of the waters of the river by the owners or lessees of any water powers below the Dog Lake dam. The cost of the work is not to exceed $30,000 and is to be paid out of the consolidated revenue fund of Ontario.

Hon. Mr. Monteith introduced amendment to the act respecting agricultural associations and agriculture societies act. The former substitutes the Gardeners' and Florists' Association for the Toronto Agricultural Society. The latter introduces a number of agricultural societies under new names.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane introduces a bill creating Fort Francis a separate judicial district.

Hon. Mr. Matheson introduced a bill for raising money on the credit of the consolidated revenue fund of Ontario. The bill authorizes the raising of a loan of four million dollars, of which $3,000,000 will be used to repay money advanced by the Government for the construction of the T. & N. O. and the balance for the completion of the railway. The bill was read a second time.

Hon. Mr. Matheson also introduced a bill to provide for auditing the public accounts of the province. The bill is a consolidation of the old measure carried out by the statute revision committee.

Hon. Mr. Foy introduced the usual statute amendment bill, which only contains some formal amendments, which will be added to before the close of the session.

GOVERNMENT ELEVATORS

Grain Growers Plan to Overcome Distrust Among Farmers.

Ottawa, April 1.—The farmers of the West are engaged in a struggle with the Western Grain Growers' Association, composed, as it was admitted yesterday, of Winnipeg bankers and big railroad corporations and the grain buyers, exporters and brokers.

A large deputation waited on Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. Sydney Fisher, and Hon. Frank Oliver, to present their grievances against the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Their case was very well stated by two or three intelligent agriculturalists and representatives of the exchange were also heard. The deputation urged the adoption of a system of Government-owned terminal elevators, and they voiced the general distrust of the farmers in the way the grain is handled.

Under the present system, it was urged, the way was opened for fraud by the mixing of grain and sending inferior grades out as No. 1 hard, when mixed with the real goods. They wanted the Federal Government to own the terminal elevators and the Provincial Governments to control the small elevators and central points in the West.

Doctor Sent For Trial.

Toronto, April 1.—Magistrate Denison yesterday committed Dr. Ashton Fletcher for trial on a charge of murder arising from the death of Jessie Gould, but in doing so commented that the evidence was not very strong. Crown Attorney Corley consented to the release of the defendant on $2,000 bail, which Justice Anglin later approved.

Undertaker Miles was questioned as to having embalmed the body. He said it was necessary so as to ship the remains by rail. The crown called Undertaker Millard, who testified that it was not necessary to make many punctures to administer the fluid.

Shot Through Store Window.

Wilmington, Del., April 1.—John Cook, Jr., aged 13 years, while sitting in Sergt. Lacy's cigar store, near Fort Dupont, Monday night, was shot and instantly killed by some one who fired through the window from the street. Cook sat next to Sergt. Blackburn. It is reported that the bullet was intended for Blackburn.

Twenty-Seven Years For Burglar.

New York, April 1.—Judge Platt, in the County Court at White Plains, sentenced James Harlan, one of the burglars masquerading as a yachtsman in evening clothes, and committed 13 robberies in New Rochelle, Mount Vernon and Yonkers, to 27 years in Sing Sing prison.

BOWIN SHOWED THE JEWELRY

Belonging to Murdered Women—Strong Case Being Established

Detroit, April 1.—Beginning Wednesday morning, Stenographer H. Bliss of the prosecuting attorney's office, will enter upon what he himself declares will be a two-day ordeal, that of reading from his original notes the alleged confession of Percy Bowin to Capt. McDonnell.

Edward H. Kennedy, Bowin's attorney, has insisted that the confession must be read from the notes that Mr. Bliss took at the time it was being made.

Detectives John Downey and Edward Fox, who had charge of the case against Bowin, divided the time on the witness stand. Yesterday afternoon, Downey told of his trip to Woodville, Ont., and bringing Bowin back to Detroit. He admitted that he led Bowin to believe that he was wanted merely as a witness against Dan Scott, who was then under arrest. Detective Fox told of Bowin's arraignment in the Police Court, at which he pleaded guilty.

Otto Kersten, employed as a jeweler at Werbes' second-hand store at Michigan and Wayne streets, gave damaging testimony against Bowin. He said that Bowin approached him in a saloon the morning after the murder and asked as to the value of a diamond ear-ring that he had in his pocket, together with a roll of bills.

Fred Sykes, one of the proprietors of the place, testified that Bowin was a frequent visitor at the place.

Henry Simons, proprietor of the American Hotel on Cadillac square, about a block from Mrs. Welch's place, said that Bowin remained there on the night that he is alleged to have committed the murder. He said that Bowin went out after being shown to his room, Simons did not know at what time Bowin returned, but said that he left about seven o'clock the next morning.

EACH SENTENCED TO FIVE YEARS

Men Who Held Up Doctor at Tilsonburg Sent to Penitentiary

Woodstock, April 1.—Charles Sells and Frederick Yohum, both of Tillsonburg, appeared for trial yesterday before Judge Finkle in the County Court, charged with highway robbery. The cases against the two were taken up together.

Both of the prisoners are young men.

John Birks, veterinary surgeon, who lives in South Middleton in Norfolk County, told his story. He said that he left Tillsonburg on the night of the robbery about nine o'clock. When about a mile and a half out from the town he was struck on the head by one man, from behind, while a second man jumped in the buggy, grappled with him and began to feel his pockets. They fell out of the buggy together, and when Birks came to himself, his money, $30, was gone and the two men were running away.

He identified Sells as the man who jumped into the rig with him and the two prisoners are the ones he saw running away. About a dozen witnesses were called to prove the movements of the prisoners during the afternoon proceeding the robbery. They had been around the Royal Hotel, Tillsonburg, with Birks and some others, drinking and amusing themselves. Birks said he was not under the influence of liquor.

For the defence the fathers of the prisoners were called as to character and means of livelihood. The prisoners were also called in their own defence. Both swore that they had not seen Birks after he had left the Royal Hotel, between eight and nine o'clock. Messrs. Peter McDonald and W. C. Brown addressed the judge on behalf of their respective clients. His honor found the prisoners guilty and sentenced them to five years each in the penitentiary at hard labor.

IRISH UNIVERSITY BILL IS INTRODUCED IN THE HOUSE

Mr. Balfour; Approves the Project—Irish Leaders in House Also in Favor—Will Have Support of Catholics in Ireland.

London, April 1.—Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell introduced his Irish university bill in the House of Commons yesterday. There was a full attendance of members, and a large number of visitors crowded the galleries.

The central idea of Mr. Birrell's project is to found by real charter two new universities in Ireland with headquarters in Dublin and Belfast. The Secretary explained that the Dublin university would be composed of three constituent branches, two of which, Cork and Galway, exist already, and the third new college to be founded at Dublin. The existing Queen's College at Belfast is to constitute the proposed new northern university, which probably will be called the University of Belfast. Opinion at present is divided as to whether to call the Dublin seat of learning St. Patrick's University or the University of Ireland. Incidentally Chief Secretary Birrell defended Jas. Bryce, who has been subjected to criticism in connection with his outline of a university scheme given out just before he became British Ambassador to the United States.

Mr. Birrell referred to Mr. Bryce, who preceded him in the office of Chief Secretary for Ireland, as being "busily and nobly engaged in removing all possible causes of dispute between Great Britain and the United States.

A. J. Balfour warmly approved the broad lines of Mr. Birrell's scheme, and John Dillon, on behalf of the Irish party, also expressed approval, and assured the Government that it would have Catholic support in carrying the project through.

The new universities are to be governed by senates to be elected by the colleges. The professors are to be appointed and may be dismissed by the senates, but they will have the right to appeal against dismissal. The crown is to have the right of making certain nominations to the senates. No religious test is to be applied to professors, students, or graduates, and no public money is to be spent in theological or religious teaching. The present annual exchequer grant of $182,500, which is divided among the four existing colleges, is to be increased to $400,000, and divided between the two new universities.

Belfast is to be given a building fund of $300,000, and Dublin a building fund of $750,000. The head of the new Dublin building is to be a Roman Catholic layman. Mr. Birrell's scheme does not affect Trinity College, Dublin.

SERIOUS COAL STRIKE.

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Miners Quit Work.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 1.—Two hundred and fifty thousand picks dropped from the hands of as many bituminous coal miners of the United States last evening, not to be used again until a wage settlement has been reached and a scale adopted between the members of the United Mine Workers of America, and the coal operators of the various fields. This morning 250,000 men are idle.

The situation, however, does not indicate a prolonged strike. An open winter and industrial depression have left a large stock of coal on hand, and the differences between miners and operators are very slight. It is practically agreed that the present wage scale will be continued, but some policies in connection with the change in the national offices of the miners' organisation and local differences between operators' miners have resulted in temporary suspension from work until a new wage scale is agreed to either by districts or individual mines.

Prosecuted For Perjury.

New York, April 1.—Flora Whiston, one of the girls who testified recently in the case against Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, was indicted by a grand jury yesterday on a charge of perjury, alleged to have been committed in her testimony in the Hitchcock case.

Fire at Coldwater.

Coldwater, Ont., April 1.—About 3 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in the dwelling owned by John Woodrow on Bush street, Coldwater, and occupied by Alex. McCuie.

The fire spread to the dwelling owned by W. H. Manning and occupied by Mr. Bassett. Both dwelling were totally consumed with part of the contents. Both are partly covered by insurance. The dwellings of Mr. McKerroll and Mr. Tipping were badly scorched, but the firemen did good work and saved them. Cause of fire unknown. Loss about $2,000.

Jewelry Store Robbed.

Brockville, April 1.—Joseph Lane, a local jeweler, was robbed of $500 worth of gold watches and rings during the night. The burglars gained an entrance by raising a back window. One of the watches Mr. Lane valued at $100, and a diamond ring at $70, the latter of which was removed from the unlocked safe, had been sold and part payment made upon it.

About midnight two men were seen to pass out of the alley leading from the rear of Lane's store, and shortly before an occupant over the store heard talking below. The police are working on a description of the men.

Finnish Senate Resigns.

Helsingfors, April 1.—The Finnish Senate has decided to resign as an outcome of the vote of lack of confidence, which carried on March 28. The vote was the work of the Socialists.

Unknown Man Killed.

Berlin, April 1.—An unknown man was instantly killed last night by an eastbound freight, a hundred yards east of the depot. His head was completely severed. He had only 45 cents.

Caught Red-Handed.

Guelph, April 1.—The police Monday night arrested Mark Price, who said he was from Toronto, in the act of burglarizing the home of H. Gummer, proprietor of The Guelph Herald.

Derrick Fall Fatal.

Woodstock, April 1.—Peter Bradt of Corinth was killed at Delmer Monday night by the collapse of a waterdrill derrick on which he and John Lewis were working. Lewis had a leg broken.

Killed by Street Car.

Montreal, April 1.—Mary Brueslofsky, nine years old, was instantly killed by a street car on St. Lawrence street, while on her way to school.

SCENE IN LOBBEY OF THE COMMONS

Mr. Brodeur Has Encounter With Editor of La Patrie—Journalist Refuses to be Turned From Duty by Protests of Minister.

Ottawa, April 1.—Mr. Fielding moved the House into committee for the purpose of adopting the supplementary estimates for the year, which closed yesterday, amounting to $5,319,633, and one-eighth of the main estimates, amounting to $11,246,043, in addition to the portion, $4,585,538, already granted in full. The total for next year was $15,831,881.

R. L. Borden enquired if the estimates of 1908 had been prepared on the same basis in previous years. Would the supplementary estimates to come be of the same character as those asked for from year to year?

Mr. Fielding replied that the Minister of Militia had assured him that he had asked for all he would require. The general aim of the Government was to get nearly all into the main estimates, but it was impossible to avoid asking for supplementaries. He hoped that this year the supplementaries would not be so large as last year.

Mr. Borden objected to the preparation of the estimates without including all amounts that it was intended to spend.

Mr. Fielding said that it was at least courtesy that could be extended to a deputation to say that an enquiry should be made. It was quite easy to tell the deputation that the matter would be looked into.

"In this case it doesn't mean anything," suggested Mr. Foster.

"I don't know what it means," replied Mr. Fielding.

The reference to the subject of dredging brought W. D. Bennett to his feet. He charged that there was collusion between dredging contractors and he asked the First Minister if he would allow a full enquiry before the public accounts committee to ascertain, if possible, if two tenders for a certain work were not written by the same hand. It was well known that the profits of these dredge owners amounted to from 50 to 75 per cent. These men were making a "lavish display of vulgar wealth."

Sir Wilfrid pleaded that he was unfamiliar with such matters. He could not on such short notice promise an investigation.

Mr. Paterson remarked that the weight of Mr. Bennett's criticism was discounted by the statements accompanying them.

The member for Simcoe never got up in the House, but he insinuated that some members of Parliament or a relative was involved in some dredging contract.

Mr. Bennett challenged the Minister to produce one statement that he had not made good.

Mr. Paterson replied that the other day Bennett asked the Minister of Marine if "so and so" was not the fact; and the Minister gave it an emphatic denial. It was true that was put in the form of a question.

The bill to incorporate the Institute of Architects of Canada passed its third reading last night, after Mr. Blain (Peel) and Mr. Gervais (Montreal) had succeeded in striking out several of its provisions.

At the suggestion of Mr. Blain the clause prohibiting manufacturers or contractors from the privileges of the society was dropped, while Mr. Gervais moved to strike out the classification clause and the clauses giving the right to affiliate with other associations and to establish branches. Provincial rights are protected by providing that the bill shall not affect privileges conferred by provincial charters.

What promised to develop into a scene occurred in the lobby of the House yesterday when Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, encountered L. J. Tarte, proprietor of La Patrie, and son of the late Hon. J. I. Tarte, and protested against the severe comments of that paper on his administration of the Department.

La Patrie, which speaks for a large community, has printed some biting criticism of the Minister in connection with the revelations of the civil service commission.

Mr. Tarte, who seems to be a chip of the old block, retorted hotly that the course of the Parliamentary reporters of La Patrie had his approval, and that the paper would not be turned from its duty by anything the Minister might say. Some words followed, and Mr. Brodeur, to prevent a disturbance, moved away.

Lancaster Bill Passed.

Ottawa, April 1.—The Lancaster bill, as amended by Senator Beique, was passed in the Senate yesterday.

The bill of Senator Cloran to prevent the re-marriage of persons divorced in Canada, was killed on the second reading by 23 to 20.

IS ARRESTED FOR FORGERY

Chippewa Man Cashed Cheque and Had Others Ready

Buffalo, April 1.—A man who gave his name as J. Frank Thomas of Chippewa, Ont., and had letters to back up his statement, was arrested yesterday and is held pending investigation.

Thomas presented to a bank an automobile company's check, endorsed by the local sales manager, for $75. He got the money. After he had left the endorser was called on the telephone and stated that he had not endorsed such a check. He said he had heard of a man who was about town posing as a relative of one of the members of the automobile firm. The police were notified and two detectives started for the railroad station in a fast motor car. The man was arrested on description.

At police headquarters, one of the checks was found in his possession, all purporting to be drawn by the automobile firm in amounts from $50 to $100. A letter was also found on a security company's stationery introducing Thomas and requesting that all checks and drafts on them be cashed under the amount of $100. It was signed with the name of the company's vice-president. To the forging of this signature the police say Thomas confessed.

After getting the money on the check Thomas went to the Iroquois Hotel and paid his bill of $62.65. He had been at the hotel a week.

Customs Collector Drops Dead.

Brockville, April 1.—Frank Gidlay, collector of customs at the port of Morristown, across the river from here, dropped dead yesterday afternoon in his office. He was a highly honored citizen and a veteran of the civil war.

Drowned at Dundas.

Dundas, April 1.—A sad fatality occurred last night, when a young man, Sidney Phanton, an Englishman out about a year, lost his life, and Chas. McLaughlin had a narrow escape.

The two young men went to the Desjardines Canal to spear fish, and when returning to the boathouse upset the boat, both sinking into the cold water. McLaughlin managed to hold to the side of the boat for a time, but Phanton sank at once.

McLaughlin's cries for help brought to the scene of the trouble Edwin Norton, S. McKenzie and David Larmer, who made valiant efforts to get the men out of the water. McLaughlin was taken out and helped to his home.

McKenzie dived in after the Englishman, and after hard work the body was brought to land. Dr. Smith was called and the first aid corps of John Bertram & Sons, but all efforts to resuscitate Phanton proved fruitless. The body was taken to the Town Hall by Chief Twiss.

MURDER TRIAL AT BRAMPTON

Man Who Shot Wm. Curry is Said to be Insane

Brampton, April 1.—Insanity will be the main line of defence for John Tearse, charged with the murder by shooting of William Curry, farmer, on Christmas night. Not only that, but the crown will assist in that line of evidence. Tearse, who is an immigrant, had been employed by Curry as a hired man only a short time. It is alleged that because of a fancied grievance he wantonly shot the aged man with a shot gun and murderously attacked his son, who, however, got the better of him. The defence is in the hands of T. C. Robinette, K.C., while G. T. Blackstock, K.C., is crown prosecutor.

Yesterday Dr. W. A. Young of Toronto, and Dr. Clark of Toronto Asylum, examined the prisoner before he entered the dock, and will testify to-day. It is understod they noted signs of insanity.

Mr. Blackstock, in a lengthy address to the jury, mentioned the importance of the medical evidence, and said the crown's desire was not so much to convict for murder as to bring out all the facts. He himself was convinced that the prisoner was an epileptic, and the question would be to determine what should be done with him.

It is stated that Tearse's father died in an insane asylum after having attempted to murder his wife; a sister was insane and his grandparents on his father's side also showed symptoms.

Fort William Bill Passed.

Ottawa, April 1.—When the railway committee met yesterday morning the Fort William Terminal Railway & Bridge Co.'s bill was reported. Mr. Conmee announced that its promoters and the City Council had reached an agreement.

Ballet Constance's Latest.

Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson, younger sister of the Countess of Cromartie, has added ballet dancing to the accomplishments she gained before her marriage to Sir Edward Austin and when she was Lady Constance MacKenzie and regarded as the most athletic young woman in the United Kingdom.

She was born in 1882 and in her teens was known as a fine shot and bold rider. She has hunted and shot big game in the Rocky Mountains, is a splendid horsewoman, an enthusiastic fisherwoman, and holds the swimming championship of the London Bath Club.

Lady Constance's courtship was a romance, her marriage a sensation. Both were conducted on horseback. Recently she has been taking lessons of the ballet mistress at Covent Garden, who says she has a genius for the terpsichorean art.

This woman says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her after everything else had failed.

Mrs. W. Barrett, 602 Moreau St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For years I was a great sufferer from female weakness, and despite every remedy given me by doctors for this trouble, I grew worse instead of better. I was fast failing in health, and I was completely discouraged.

"One day a friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and am thankful to say that it cured the female weakness, making me strong and well.

"Every woman who suffers from female troubles should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

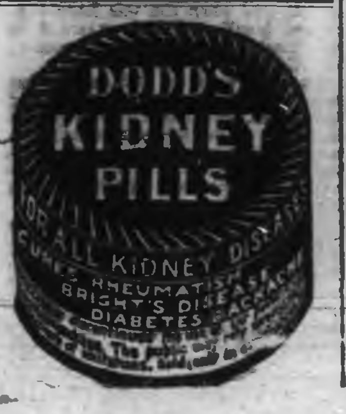
LOCAL CONDITIONS

Local conditions are not promising. Whereas last year there was a really immense amount of work in hand, this spring there is scarcely any. It will mean a great set-back to the city and to the country round about. The same conditions prevail everywhere. Since there is no money to be put in circulation there is no possibility of expansion. There is also no such thing as standing still. Like a car on a down-grade, business must either go ahead or go back. Life depends on the circulation of the blood which in turn depends upon the action of the heart and that upon the nerve or vital force which is the original impulse given to the machine. The original impulse given to this machinery of state by the W.P., was just what was required. But the heart has become degenerate. The blood is dried up or tied up and the organs are degenerating. The individual goes back. The body politic decays. Such unhappily is our present condition. Until the banks release enough cash to promote circulation and this they cannot do, we are in the grip or chill of death. There is no effect without a cause. The cause of our condition is not far to seek.

NEW ONTARIO

It is customary for Liberal organs that claim anything and everything on sight to lay claim to a generous policy of dealing with the settler. That is just what has never been the case under any government up to the present resolution of the Whitney administration to give to the settler both timber and mineral rights. This is only fair and although it will mean a loss of provincial revenue it will do a vast deal to build up this province by the influx of settlers who compete with no one and help to provide a market for our cities. In former days the form of settler who went in to the bush was known as the squatter, a man who had no rights at the time but lived in hope of getting them. On the advent of the present government it was found that enormous piles of petitions from these deserving men lay unsettled and unreplied to, an evidence of what an administration can do by way of injustice and crookedness. But if there were discovered anything worth while on these squatters' properties the squatters were ejected and dispossessed without delay, while their places of abode were given over to government heelers and speculators. There was no rake-off from the squatter. He was too poor. But there was from the heeler and prospector. Never before have these petitions been read and adjusted. Never before have the rights of the poor settlers been respected. But at last has arrived an administration whose ministers, one and all, are striving to do what is right regardless of either pelf or power. Mr. Whitney has been charged with saying that New Ontario was the land of the stunted poplar. We all thought the same. The Ross government and its predecessors disseminated information to that effect. But lo! How all that is changed. We now know the truth about the hinterland and that it is not the land of the stunted poplar anymore than British Columbia was as Mr. Blake described it a sea of mountains. But the heelers of the halcyon days had intended New Ontario for their own. The squatter's freedom and the Gillies limit testify to the changed conditions.



EDITORIAL NOTES

There is feeling of discontent abroad that men who do not intend to settle permanently in the country are given jobs on national work. In some instances workmen are all foreigners and make no scruple of their intention to depart.

When Hon. Clifford Sifton was in office he was a spoilsman of the spoilsmen admired by his followers as a Canadian counterpart of Hon. Webster Flanagan, of Flanagan's Mills, Texas, the patriot statesman who remarked at a public convention in Chicago:—

> "Gentlemen, if we're not here to get offices, what the blank are we here for?"—The Telegram.

This is the cult of many a good man yet.

The Review has presented the Young Conservative Club with a fine new portrait of Hon. J. P. Whitney. It is a finely finished, high-class photograph of life size, and will serve to remind his admirers that the local elections are near at hand and that Mr. Bradburn, M.P.P., will in all probability be returned by acclamation. It would be an appropriate tribute to the good work both of the local man and his chief.

The statement of the chartered banks of Canada for February shows large decrease in deposits and consequently in current loans. Deposits in Canada, payable on demand, of $140,995,192, represent a shrinkage of $27,487,497, compared with the corresponding month of last year, and a decrease of $5,702,771, compared with January, 1908. Deposits in Canada, payable after notice, of $396,710,995 represent a shrinkage of $9,597,067, compared with February, 1907, and of $590,588, compared with January, 1908.

Everything is on the decrease. Decrease and downgrade are the watchword of the day.

A week ago a letter appeared in the Review on the question of anchor ice, etc. It was remarked in the course of the letter that the trouble in our water supply could be avoided, which might be taken to reflect on the superintendent, Mr. Henderson and his assistants. While we are not responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents, we feel that it is doing an injustice to capable and hardworking men to suppose that they have not taken all known measures to remedy a recognized inconvenience. Anchor ice, as its name betokens, is yet an unsolved problem short of great expense.

The returns of trade of the Australian Commonwealth [illegible] considerable increases [illegible] 1906 and all previous years. The imports of merchandise amounted to £50,413,000 in 1907, compared with £42,582,000 in 1906; the exports amounted to £63,000,000, against £52,866,000 in 1906. Thus both in imports and exports there have been increases of about 18 per cent. in the course of the past year.—Overseas Mail.

The trade of Australia is therefore $565,000,000 as against Canada's $635,000,000, but she is earning $60,000,000 more than she is spending, the balance of trade being in her favor by that amount. Therefore Australia is just so much more prosperous than Canada. Her population is 25 per cent. less and her trade 10 per cent. less, therefore she is beating Canada both ways in the development of trade.

Mr. Bazin was born in Quebec 63 years ago. At the age of 21, he entered the firm of N. Turcotte and Company, one of the largest wholesale provision houses in Quebec, of which he is now and has been for many years past, one of the partners. A Liberal in politics he has been for many years a councillor of Parish of Notre Dame de Quebec, and has also been its mayor. In all matters affecting the trade and commerce of Quebec, he takes the greatest interest. He has been a member of the council, and also president of the Quebec Board of Trade. He is also a member of the civil service commission of the Dominion, which has just made its report to the Government. —Montreal Star.

Mr. Bazin is one of those men who occasionally go to the rescue of their country and without whom it could not even last long enough to be a prey to 'advanced politicians' and grafters.

A Toronto newspaper prints a report that Parliament will be dissolved at once and an appeal to the country made by the Government before the Ontario provincial elections are held. A Western paper more than a week ago gave currency to a like statement. Things have been happening to rattle Sir Wilfrid Laurier. His taking Mr. Pugsley into the Cabinet did not strengthen him in New Brunswick. He is suffering in the estimation of business men everywhere because of the mess he has allowed the finances to get into. The whole country now understands that his colleagues have made a muddle of the civil service, and that Western lands have been the prey of exploiters. A rattled leader might well think his hopes of remaining a leader in such a situation would lie in his bringing on the election before the storm gets any worse.—Montreal Gazette.

Our exchanges all seem to think that the Dominion elections will be held at midsummer.

The Globe gives its answer to Mr. Whitney on the university question. The government is turning over a great trust to a commission virtually admitting that it could not trust itself to act freely towards the provincial institution.—Kingston Whig.

Past experience has shown the Whitney government what governments can do. Anything more ruinous to the interests of the University of Toronto than the devious performances of Mr. Ross and his merry men it would be hard to think of. Mr. Whitney's action is endorsed fully by all those best qualified to know viz., the University of Toronto comprising staff, graduates and undergraduates, itself. Why, might we ask the Whig, did the Toronto University graduates vote against Mr. Ross almost to a man if his method was the right one? Then, too, the editor of the Globe is a member of the Commission.

"The other story was of a Missouri legislator who, after receiving a bribe, left the capital by train with the bribe-stuffed money stuffed into his pocket-book. When he awoke on the sleeper the next morning, he could not find his pocket book. He called the porter, who at first denied all knowledge of the theft, but later confessed and returned the money. The legislator thereupon read him a lecture. "See here, my man," said he, "I could send you to prison for that; but I will not. I will however, give you a piece of advice. Always remember that honesty is the best policy."

"'Six years ago,' said Governor Folk, in commenting on the two incidents, 'men would give and take bribes and still pride themselves on their honesty. They have learned better than that now. The public conscience has taught them better.'" —Literary Digest.

There are people still who pretend to think that a man can be honest and dishonest at one and the same time. It is easy to find a test and apply it. What is a bribe for? Is it simply to rouse a man to his sense of duty? Or is it to get a man, right or wrong, to do what the briber wants? If it is right it is pay and may well be made in public. But why is it bribes are never given in public? A man has poor brains and still poorer conscience who can persuade himself that bribery is pardonable.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., 82, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother, her home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

BULLDOG CUT UP THE ROBBERS

Sensational Story of an Exciting Affair in Paris, France

A Paris despatch says:

Two burglars made an attempt last night to force the safe in the office of M. Bonfils, at 8 Rue Barbette, but they had hardly got to work when they were suddenly attacked by a ferocious bulldog, who slept in the office and was the guardian of the safe.

Astonished at this unexpected attack, the two burglars drew their knives and attempted to kill the dog, but in the struggle the dark lantern which they carried fell and went out, and in the darkness there was a loud scream; Robert Morland one of them, striking at the bulldog had stuck his knife into his companion's back.

Aroused by the noise all the neighbors began firing off their revolvers out of their windows into the street and the burglars alarmed by the shooting made off down the back staircase but found their passage barred by several of the residents with loaded revolvers.

They thereupon retreated to M. Bonfil's office, and had once more to face the terrible bulldog, who, though badly wounded, made another furious attack on the two men tearing a big piece out of the leg of one of them.

Finally the two men climbed out of the window and escaped, but later were captured by the police in their lodgings nearby.

CABINET CHANGES

An Ottawa despatch says:—The Irish Catholics of the Dominion are becoming insistent upon receiving better representation in the Cabinet. They point out the fact that in Sir John Thompson's Cabinet there were four Irish Catholics, thus: Sir John Thompson, Hon. J. J. Curran, Sir Frank Smith, Hon. John Costigan, while in the present cabinet their only representative is Hon. W. R. Scott, who is not in a position to look after their interests owing to his advanced age.

It is urged that two additional Irish Catholics should be appointed to the Cabinet, one as minister of labour, and the other without portfolio, and the two names most prominently mentioned in this connection are Charles Murphy, of Ottawa, and Controller Ward, of Toronto.—Kingston Whig.

J. Bedlyonic, station man in the G.T.P. camp at Dryden, was killed by a dynamite explosion.

DANCED HER HAIR OFF FOR CHARITY'S SAKE

Miss Mandain's "Dolly" Curls Succumbed to Merry Widow Waltz With Donald Brian

A New York despatch says:

'Merrry Widow, a la Melisande,' a brand new theatrical concoction was served up to a large audience in the ball room of the Plaza yesterday afternoon, when a matinee vaudeville was given in aid of the Darrach Home for Crippled Children.

The 'Merry Widow, with lavish hirsute effects, was quite impromptu but resulted in prolonged laughter. Donald Brian, the original Danilo of the 'Merry Widow' Company, was present to sing and dance for the crippled children. May Naudain, the ingenue of 'The Girl Behind the Counter' Company played with him. Mr. Brian, shorn of his regimentals and minute mustachio, was a revelation and delight, and the thousand women in the audience would not let him leave the stage until after Mrs. Ethel Watts Mumford Grant, the authoress, who was impresario, had called out to him and Miss Naudain:

'Dance the 'Merry Widow,' thats what they want.

The stage whisper was caught up in a storm of applause and the piano was pushed aside. Miss Naudain took off her Spring hat, with swirling plumes, realizing the risk to impediments. The music started and the pair began the dance. After the first few steps Miss Naudain's coiffure began to resent the strain put upon it by the violent waltz, and a 'dolly' puff broke from its moorings.

'Stop, Donald! There goes—' began in a whisperr.

But Mr. Brian had no thought of stopping and another 'dolly' puff flew away. Then Miss Naudain's hairpins went on strike, and finally Miss Naudain's coiffurre was completely demoralized and her ample crown of natural hair hung about her shoulders. The dance was finished and Miss Naudain and Mr. Brian took their calls, meanwhile picking up the fugitive 'dolly' curls.

'Merry Widow, a la 'Melissande,' said Mrs. Grant to the disheveled Miss Naudain.

After the act Miss Naudain retired, but soon reappeared in the tearoom, as artistically coiffured as usual.

Mr. Brian attained a high place in the hearts of matinee girls, as was illustrated by a remark dropped by a schoolgirl as she left the ballroom. Turning to her sister, she observed gravely:

'Do you know Edith. I never knew what real love was till I saw Donald Brian this afternoon.'

She was 12 years old.

NEW SYSTEM FOR BANKING

The German Government has decided to establish by decree a postal check system similar to that used in Austria. At the outset check offices will be opened in only nine of the largest cities ,the new department to be located in the present post-office buildings wherever possible. No interest will be paid on deposits.

Each person wishing to avail himself of the check privilege regularly must deposit 100 marks, equal to about $25, and keep his balance up to that amount. Payments to his account may be made by anybody at any post-office in the empire, and he can draw against his account in making payments to other account holders or to outsiders. In the latter case money will be sent to the receiver by messenger. Checks cannot be endorsed; and can, therefore, be sent to the post-offices in ordinary letters.

Small fees will be charged for various forms of service, and any surplus money not needed for current payments will be deposited with the Reichsbank to be invested for the Imperial Treasury.—Trade Review.

POWER FOR INDUSTRIAL PURPOSES

The contract of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission with the Ontario Power Company for a supply of electric energy for transmission to the municipalities ofOntario has been placed in a shape satisfactory to both parties. A provisional agreement was entered into some time ago, some of whose terms have been modified. The commission will thus be in a position to supply power as soon as the municipalities are ready to enter into contracts for it. The majority of them have already made formal applications to the commission, and the remaindèr, it is expected will be heard from very shortly. When all have signified the amount of electricity they are willing to purchase the commission will be ready to call for tenders for the transmission of power to the various places in the power zone. Government lines, will, it is probable, be constructed through much of the territory to be served.

Under the contract the commission will obtain power at the rate of $10.40 a horse-power per annum for all quantities up to 25,000 horse-power, and $10 for that amount and over, as under the provisional agreement. The commission has been negotiating with the company for some time to have the power delivered at a high voltage over the transmission lines. The new contract, it is said, contains a stipulation whereby the commission will receive the electricity at low pressure direct from the bus bars, at a voltage of 12,000. It can then be stepped up by the commission to any tension desired, and can be sent to the municipalities at the reduced cost. The consumer will thus benefit from the change. It is reported that the company will sell 50,000 horse-power to the commission at a price which will be a good deal less than those given above.

Thes is the famous power policy of Mr. Whitney brought to a successful climax. It has involved enormous difficulties and much criticism, but all have been swept aside effectively but fairly. "Where there's a will there's a way," was never more aptly illustrated than in this case. The people are gradually getting out of the grasp of the monopolists.

PAYING COMPLIMENTS.

A Couple of Historical Examples in the Polite Art.

All people enjoy being complimented, though many say they do not. But this denial comes either of affectation, shyness or over self consciousness. There is no conceivable subject on which people do not take pleasure in a well turned compliment. They like one on their good looks, their wit or grace, the books they have written, their touch on the piano, the puddings or pies they make, their babies, their sermons, their everything, from the heavens above to the earth beneath and the waters that be under the earth.

Now, there is an especial art of complimenting that needs to be studied and mastered quite as much as the art of music or poetry or oratory. Compliments should never be fulsome, never troweled on, never open to a suspicion of a private ax to grind in the way of currying favor. They should be purely objective in the sense of having no other end in view than that of imparting pleasure, encouragement and the recognition of cordial good will. Still, if only humorously couched, there may be plenty of badinage and exuberant imaginative exaggeration in them, carried off with a laughter and play of sportive fancy that will relieve them from being oppressive. And yet always must they have a basis of sincerity and genuine human love.

To study the art of complimenting one needs only to familiarize himself with recorded instances of those who have been past masters in the way of doing it both sincerely and delightfully. When, for example, Turgot, that noblest of French statesmen and lover of humanity, came to Paris to greet Voltaire, he was so piteously afflicted with gout in both legs as scarcely to be able to move. "As I look on M. Turgot," said Voltaire, "I think I see the statue of Nebuchadnezzar." "Yes," said Turgot, "the feet of clay." "And the head of gold—the head of gold!" replied Voltaire. Were ever gout, decrepitude and the glory of human virtue so deliciously and magniloquently intermingled as in this imagery from the book of Daniel of the colossal statue of the four Assyrian dynasties—its feet of clay, its thighs of brass, its breast of silver and its head of fine gold?

One more example. When Sir Joshua Reynolds was painting the portrait of Mrs. Billington, an entrancing singer in her day, in the character of St. Cecilia listening to the celestial music on high, she took with her the great composer Haydn and showed him the picture. "It is like," said Haydn, "but there is a strange mistake." "What is it?" hastily asked Reynolds. "You have painted her listening to the angels. You ought to have painted the angels listening to her." "Mrs. Billington sprang up and threw her arms around my neck," added Haydn. What woman with a soul in her would not and have clinched it with a hearty hug?

Nefarious Scoundrels.

No modern advertising column is likely to contain an advertisement as vigorous in its language as one published in an old Newburyport Herald of a century ago, threatening with "public exposure"—no mention is made of prosecution—if he should repeat his raids, the "nefarious scoundrel, void of either manners or breeding," who had stolen apples from a certain orchard.

Whether or not the remainder of the crop was spared, it is impossible not to feel that the satisfaction of seeing "nefarious scoundrel" in good black print must have proved eminently soothing to the spirit of the peppery old gentleman who penned the advertisement.

The disproportion between the language and the offense reminds one of that trial, in another old colonial town, at which a pompous judge had discoursed so eloquently on the offended majesty of the law and the wickedness of lawbreakers in general that the plaintiff, who was simple minded, began to fear the special larceny in question would be lost sight of.

"Don't ye hang him, judge!" he broke in suddenly. "No, don't ye hang him! Mebbe he desarves it for goin' agin the law and the prophets, but I don't want he should forget he stole my three biggest pumpkins! I want he should set sorrowin' in jail and remember what brung him there. Try and forgive him his other villainies, judge, and jest you jail him for them pumpkins!"

The Lambs on the Track.

One never knows the value of an amiable deed till he knows all its consequences, and the merit of it is in not knowing them all beforehand. An engineer of a passenger train was driving through a snowstorm, eagerly scanning the track as far as he could see, when, halfway through a deep cut, something appeared lying on the rails. It was a sheep with her two little lambs. His first thought was that he could rush on regardless of them, probably without damage to his train, but the sight of the innocent family cowering in the storm touched him, and as they paid no heed to his warning whistle he pulled the air brake and sent his fireman ahead. In a few minutes the man came back with a terrified face. There had been a landslide, and just beyond the cut the track was covered with rocks. It seemed certain that if the train had gone on at full speed in the blinding snow it would have been impossible to stop in time to escape disaster. In the absolute sense the incident was providential, as everything is, but circumstantially the passengers on that railway train owed their safety, if not their lives, to an engineer who was too tender hearted to kill a sheep and her lambs.

Hon. R. Lemieux addressed the Ottawa Canadian Club on Saturday on the Japanese treaty.

Another big crowd was present at the men's meeting at George street Methodist church last evening. A song service preceded the meeting and during the evening a quartette consisting of Messrs. Tretheway, Zepp, Walton and Cunningham, gave several numbers. Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's church, gave the address last night and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Pearson conducted the after service.

Tonight the meeting will be open to both men and women, and will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Pearson.

A site for a Methodist church has been purchased at the corner of Springer avenue and Main street, Hamilton.

A CHANCE FOR EMMA TO TALK

High Priestess of Anarchy Will Have Freedom of Speech in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, April 1.—Emma Goldman, the high priestess of anarchy, will not be interfered with by the immigration authorities or the police on the occasion of her visit to Winnipeg next week. She is announced to give a series of six lectures upon anarchy and kindred topics. Trades hall has been secured for her use, and the first lecture will be given there on Tuesday evening, March 31. Five of the addresses will be delivered in English, but it is expected that on the afternoon of Sunday, April 5, she will speak in German.

The police expect to keep in close touch with her moments here, and with the colony of anarchists located in the city, but absolutely no trouble is anticipated. Their leader will be permitted all freedom of speech so long as no appeal is made calculated to inspire the fanatical or ignorant to violence.

Emma Goldman is a peculiarly dilomatic lady and her mild manner and plausible arguments on the platfor mare the opposite of what might be expected in the leader of the fiery enemies of organized society. Her utterances at the present time will be watched with special interest, in view of the recent outrages and demonstrations against the representatives of law and order, which are laid at the door of anarchy.

NO LONGER TO BE A TERMINAL POINT

C.P.R. Decides on a Change That Will Affect Carleton Place

Carleton Place is to be abolished as a terminal of the Canadian Pacific Railway. After May 1st all train crews running out of Carleton Place will run from Smith's Falls through to Chalk River, direct. The reason given by the company is 'economy.'

What effect this order will have on this busy town of Carleton Place is problematic, but directly it will mean the removal of some 250 trainmen, about half of whom are married.

They will remove to either Smith's Falls, 17 miles south, or to Chalk River. This change has been under consideration for some time, but nothing in the way of definite action has been taken until now.

TELEPHONE MEN IDLE

Many Linemen are Out of Employment in Manitoba—The Reason

A Bell Telephone man who is at present employed in the city, has just received a letter from another employee of the company, who went to Winnipeg a few weeks ago. The correspondent paints a somewhat gloomy picture of Manitoba as far as labor for telephone men is concerned. He states that there are over two hundred linemen walking the streets of Winnipeg, unable to secure employment and that conditions are muhe the same throughout the province. The reason given for the slackness in the telephone business as regards the construction department is that the Government has not yet started active operations. The Government of Manitoba, recently bought out the Bell Company in that province, and since then very little work has been done as the Government has hardly decided on its telephone policy yet. It is expected, however, that everything will soon be running along as formerly and that the telephone men will be as busy as before thte transfer took place.

ANOTHER STORY OF VAST ESTATE

This One is Valued at $200,000,000 More or Less---Heroine of Long Point an Heir

Here is the material for an interesting story:

Two brothers named Becker came to America in the early days previous to the Revolutionary War, and settled in Maryland. They received large grants of land in Maryland and New York from the British Crown. They became real estate agents and accumulated great wealth. One of the brothers died, leaving no family. The other brother leased some of the large tracts of land for a long term of years. During the war property belonging to Becker was confiscated by the rebels and before George Washington had crossed the Delaware the other Becker died. His family was left practically penniless. They grew up and drifted apart. Some came to Canada.

Some of the leases of land which have now become very valuable, have fallen due, and the heirs, like the heirs of Christopher Springer, are commencing a legal fight for the property, which amounts, it is said, to almost $200,000,000.

William Wilson, conveyancer, who has an office in the East End, is acting for several descendants of the original Becker, who live at Walsingham Centre. Toronto lawyers are pushing the claims of other descendants living in Toronto and Long Point.

Abigail Becker, whose heroic work some years ago in rescuing the crew of a schooner which went ashore during a storm at Long Point, won her praise throughout America, was a granddaughter of the oldest Becker, who died during the Revolutionary War, and for whose property, the fight is being made.

RECEPTION TO THE MEMBERS

OBITUARY

JAS. LOUDON

The death occurred last evening shortly before six o'clock at his late residence, 173 Park street, of James Loudon. While it was generally known that Mr. Loudon had been in failing health for the past five weeks his death came very unexpectedly and was a great shock to his wide circle of friends. He had been suffering from a disease of the liver. He was 50 years of age and was born in Allendale. Thirty-five years ago he came to this city where he resided until the time of his death. He was married to Eliza J. Pogue, of Verulam, thirty years ago, who still survives him. He leaves no family. He was a member of the Independent Order of Foresters and of the Moulders' Union.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. J. G. GERRARD.

The many friends of Mrs. J. G. Gerrard will be grieved to learn that she passed away at four o'clock this morning at her late home in Hamilton. The late Mrs. Gerrard, was formerly Miss White of this city being the daughter of Mr. W. H. White, Peterborough. She was 26 years of age and lived all her life here until she removed two years ago to Hamilton. Four years ago she was married to her now surviving husband.

Besides her husband, her father and two brothers and one sister are left to mourn her loss. The brothers are Evans and Joseph of this city and the sister is Mira, also residing here.

The remains will arrive to-morrow on the 11.16 train and will be taken to the residence of her uncle, Mr. John White, 96 Aylmer street, from where the funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock to the Little La kecemetery.

OLD RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

Death of Mr. Valentine Best Early This Morning

The death occurred early thismorn-

The death occurred early this morning of a highly respected resident of Peterborough, for many years in the person of Valentine Best, who passed away at his late residence, 209 Brock street. About thirty years ago the late Mr. Best sufered an accident in which he lost his right hand and it is thought that the shock he received caused the severe palsied condition in which he has been for several years. He had been confined to his room for the past year, and about two weeks ago he had a slight stroke of paralysis which with other developments resulted in his death.

The deceased was 87 years of age and was born int he township of Emily, where he resided until twenty-six years ago when he removed to his late residence in this city. In early life he was a successful and prosperous farmer and a man always held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. In politics he was a Liberal and in religion, a Presbyterian. He was a faithful member of St. Paul's church.

Besides his wife, one daughter, Miss Effie, residing at home, is left to mourn his loss. Two brothers, Mr. Mr. Lowry Best of North Dakota, and Mr. Isiah Best of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. Fair of Omemee, also survive him.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence 209 Brock street, to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

TWENTY-FOUR APPLICATIONS FOR LICENSES RECEIVED BY INSPECTOR STEWART

Will be Considered at Meeting of Commissioners on April 21st—Mr. George Dettman Wants to Get License for Liquor Store in Galway.

Applications for licenses for West Peterborough are all in the hands of Inspector Stewart and will be considered at the next meeting of the Board of License Commissioners on the evening of Tuesday, April 21st.

There has been twenty-four applications received for the current and ensuing year, nineteen for hotels and five for liquor stores. Those for hotels are all from the city and all for the stores except one are also from this city. The one outside the city is from Mr. George Dettman, Kinmount, who wants to establish a liquor store in Galway.

THOSE WHO APPLIED

The applications for licenses were received as given below:

Jas. A. Lawless, National; Chas. R. Nixon, Gold Dollar; J. B. Larocque, Montreal House; M. C. Tooley, Queens Hotel; Donald Fraser, Snowden House, Geo White, White House; Application for transfer of license of City Hotel to Martin Connors, from estate of late Jas. Dolan; Mary Bowman, New Oxford; Timothy Cavanah, Cavanah House; Steven Holland, Royal Hotel; Jas. Head, Peterrborough House; Geo Long, American House; Geo. N. Graham, Oriental; Margaret O'Shea, Commercial Hotel; Arthur T. Johnson, Windsor Hotel; Fred A. Clarke, Crown Hotel; R. J. Munro, Munro House; Patrick Hogan, Albion Hotel; Geo. Lipsett, Maple Leaf Hotel.

Applications for licenses for retail liquor stores were received from the following:

J. C. Sullivan, Arthur Rountree, F. R. J. Mitchell, Alex. Elliott and Co, and George Dettman, Kinmount.

LIQUOR STORE FOR GALWAY.

This latter's hotel license has been cut off by the enforcement of the local option bylaw and he has made application for a retail liquor store in Galway, just across the line from Kinmount. He owns the property on which he would erect the store should the license be granted him.

Inspector Stewart has received a petition favoring the granting of license with a certificate attached, signed by ninety-six voters in subdivision 1, Galway, where Mr. Dettman wants to locate his store. A contra petition signed by thirteen ratepayers has also been forwarded from the same sub-division in opposition to the grranting of the license.

All of the above business will be considered at the next meeting of the License Commissioners.

NEW OFFICERS AND BOARD OF DIRECTORS FOR Y.M.C.A.

Seven New Men Among Those Elected Last Night—Prospects Are of the Brightest Nature—Delegates to Convention.

As a result of the meeting of the active members of the Y.M.C.A., held last night, the following are the new officers and Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A.:—

Hon. President—J. W. Bennett.

President—J. C. Shook.

First Vice-President—V. Eastwood.

Second Vice-President—J. H. Connal.

Treasurer—J. J. Howden.

Board of Directors—G. M. Roger, A. Cunningham, B. F. Ackerman, Dr. J. E. Middleton, E. M. Best, A. W. Grassman, B. A. Lillie, W. E. Conway, E. A. Peck, C. Sisson, J. J. Turner, jr., J. F. Thornton, R. J. Kidd and A. McFarlane.

The meeting was largely attended and much interest was manifested. In the absence of the president, the former vice-president, Mr. R. J. Kidd, occupied the chair.

The nominating committee brought in a report recommending a list of officers and directors. Three further nominations were made by members present, and a ballot had to be taken. The decision resulted in the officers and directors given above, there being only one change from the selection of the nominating committee.

The position of the honorary president is a new one in connection with the Y.M.C.A., being created last night. Mr. J. W. Bennett has been a hard worker for the Y.M.C.A., but did not desire to remain on the Board of Directors, as his health would not permit him devoting the attention he would like to give to the work. The members, however, did not want to lose Mr. Bennett's services, and appointed him honorary president.

There are seven new men on the Board of Directors, as follows;—A. B. Cunningham, Dr. J. E. Middleton, E. M. Best, B. A. Lillie, W. E. Conway, Charles Sisson, and J. J. Turner, jr. It is likely that some infusion of new blood will have a beneficial effect and that now the Association will go ahead more rapidly than at any time in the past.

Several other matters were discussed during the evening.

The president, Mr. J. C. Shook, and Mr. Wright, the Secretary, were appointed to attend the Y.M.C.A. convention at Stratford on April 8th and 9th.

"Rubber men are bouncing with joy," peals a Montreal paper. No doubt, but if there was no more real rubber in a rubber man than there is in an average pair of rubber boots there would be mighty little bounce of joy or any other kind, in them.

TWO SIGNS.

An original and efective scheme of advertising "The Vanderbilt Cup" which is the attraction at the Grand tonight has been adopted by the management of the opera house. They have placed a couple of alternating illuminated window signs in the windows of Merrill and Meredith's on George street, and Lillicos' new grocery on Charlotte street, the signs being artistically lettered, and are attracting much attention.

They are excellent publicity agents for the great racing comedy success.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

Special to the Review.

New York, April 1.—The market opened very strong, being influenced by the belief that the Erie bankers had arranged successfully for the financing of the road's requirements. There was a very strong market for Americans in London.

The floor element was generally operating on the bull side, but were quick to take profits on the bulges with the result that there were sharp reactions from time to time. Covering on the part of traders who went short during the day, caused a hardening tendency in the early part of the last hour, which was particularly noticeable in the case of the steel stocks.

There was a fractional decline in the local copper metal market today and the failure of a couple of mining companies to pay interest on their bonds was also an unfavorable feature, but actual technical conditions still rule in connection with the metal stocks.

The market shows good buying power, and we look for a fair rally on short covering. We would buy the active stocks on any weakness, but for the time being would be satisfied with fair profits. Bull tip out to buy B.R.T. The closing was steady.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

SPORTING NEWS

FIRST LACROSSE MEETING OF SEASON NEXT FRIDAY

A meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club will be held at the National Hotel on Friday night at eight o'clock, when a discussion for the outlook of the coming season will be held and preliminary arrangements will be made.

The local candidate for the C.L.A. Council will probably be selected and others matters of importance will be dealt with. It is understood that Mr. Ambrose Regan, who polled the second largest number of votes in last year's election of the Council, will not run again this year.

The meeting will be a most important one and a full attendance of those interested is requested.

THE NEW BASEBALL RULES POINTERS FOR THE FANS

RULES IN SIMPLIFIED FORM.

The Bat—The bat must be round, not over 2 3-4 inches in diameter in thickest part, nor more than 42 inches long.

The ball must also be sound, without length and being 9 inches 5 oz.

Warming Up—Pitchers, at the beginning of each inning, are allowed to throw five balls to catcher or infielder for "warming up" practice.

Time Allowed Pitchers—If a pitcher occupies more than 20 seconds in delivering the ball to the batter, the umpire may call a ball for each offence of this nature.

Block Ball—Whenever a person not engaged in the game touches a batted or thrown ball a "block ball" results, and runners shall be privileged to advance around the bases until the ball is thrown to the pitcher standing in his position.

Time Allowed Batters—A batter failing to take his position within 1 minute after the umpire summons him will be called out.

Interference—The batter shall be called out if he attempts to hinder the catcher from fielding or throwing the ball.

Fair Hit—A fair hit is a legally batted ball that settles on fair ground in the infield, or that bounds from fair ground to the outfield inside of first baes, or third base, or that touches the person of a player or the umpire on fair ground.

Bunt Hit—A bunt hit is a legally batted ball, not swung at by the batter.

Out on a Bunt—The batter is out on a bunt that rolls foul if the attempted bunt is made on the third strike.

Infield Fly—A batter is out on a pop fly to the infield, with first and second, or first, second and third bases occupied, provided the fly is batted before two men were out.

Three Strikes—The batter is out when three strikes are called and first base is occupied, whether the catcher holds the ball or not, except there be two out at the time.

Umpire's Ruling Final—No appeals can be made from any decision of the umpire on the ground that the official was not correct in his conclusion as to wether a batted ball was fair or foul, a base-runner safe or out, a pitched ball a strike or a ball, or on any other play involving accuracy of judgment, and no decision rendered by him shall be reversed except that he be convinced that it is in violation of the rules.

A Base-Hit—A base hit is credited to the batter when the ball strikes fair ground outside of the reach of the fielders; when the ball is partially or wholly stopped by a fielder in motion, but such player cannot recover himself in time to field the ball to first base before the batter reaches that base; a base hit is also credited to the batter when he hits the ball with such force that the player cannot handle the ball in time to put out the batter or force out a base runner. In cases of doubt the batter is credited with a hit and the fielder exempted from an error. A base hit is never credited to a batter when a base runner is forced out by the play. Where a base runner is called out by being hit by a batted ball, except by himself, the batter is credited with a hit.

Fielding Errors—An error is a misplay which allows a base runner to make one or more bases when perfect play would have insured this being put out.

Battery Errors—These are not charged up against pitchers and catchers. They include wild pitches, base on balls, balks, etc., by the pitcher; wild throws by the catcher, in an attempt to prevent a stolen base; passed balls are also classed as battery errors.

Stolen Bases—A player is credited with a stolen base whenever he advances a base unaided by a base hit, a put-out or a fielding error.

Balk—A balk is any motion of the pitcher while in position to deliver the ball to the bat without delivering it, or to throw to first base when occupied by a base runner without completing the throw; a balk is also a thrown ball by the pitcher to any to any base to catch the base runner without stepping toward the base in the act of making the throw.

Dead Ball—A dead ball is a ball delivered to the batter by the pitcher, not struck at by the batter, but hits the batter while he is standing in his position. If, in the opinion of the umpire, the player made a reasonable effort to avoid being hit, the batter is given first base.

Substituting Players—A substitute may take the place of a regular player at any stage of the game, but the player that retires from the game cannot resume playing again in the game.

Coaching—Two coachers are allowed in a game, one near first base line and the other near third base line, to coach base runners only. The coachers are not allowed to incite or try to incite the spectators to demonstrations during a game.

HOW TO FIND AVERAGES.

To find the batting percentage—Divide the number of base hits by the number of times at bat. Example; Thoney of Toronto, in 1907, made 136 base hits and was at bat 413 times; 136 divided by 413 equals .329.

To find the fielding percentage — Divide the number of chances accepted by the total of chances. Example; Bud Sharpe, first baseman of Newark, in 1907, had a total of 1518 chances and accepted 1502 (1421 put outs and 81 assists); 1502 divided by 1518 equals .989.

To find standing of teams—Divide the number of games won by games played. Example; The Toronto team in 1907, played 134 games and won 83; 83 divided by 134 equals .619.

MUNRO'S COLTS SHOWED CLASS

Won Three Straight Games From the Octagon Club Last Night —Good Scores

Munro's Colts, a bowling aggregation of some fame, hit up a lively gait last night when they defeated the Octagon Club five in three straight games at the Peterborough Bowling Club alleys. The Colts showed their form in the first game when they came out ahead although playing a man short, one of their players not showing up. The Octagon club quintette are all new at the game, but showed up well and threaten to have revenge on the Colts in the near future. Kirn was high man for the Colts with 405 and the highest single, 166 while Huston was a good second with 398. Herb Martin didn't get his hook ball working until the last game when he was coming along nicely.

'Jake' Moore was high scorer for the losers with a creditable total of 399. Savigny came next with 369, getting a single of 154. The two teams will meet again shortly. The teams and scores follow;

TROPHIES FOR TOURNAMENT

Mr. Smyth of Majestic Alleys Arranging for Them—Outside Teams

Mr Smyth, proprietor of the Majestic Bowling Alleys, is at present making arrangements about the trophies to be given as prizes at the second annual spring bowling tournament to be held at the Majestic Alleys probably on Monday, April 13th, although the date has not been definitely decided upon.

An Owen Sound team and another outside team will likely take part in the tournament.

Y.M.C.A. TEAM FOR OLYMPIA

There is Some Talk of Sending One—Ten Man Basketball Team

Besides the representative Canadian team which will go to the Olympic games in London, there is also a possibility of a Y.M.C.A. gymnastic team making the trip. The Y.M.C.A. Athletic League, with headquarters in Toronto, is taking up the proposition and has already approached the various associations throughout the Dominion concerning the project. Should such a team go it will be selected from the best Y.M.C.A. athletes in the country and they would no doubt make a showing worthy of their name.

No provision is made in the Olympic programme for a basketball championship, but there is also talk in Y.M.C.A. circles of sending a ten-man basketball team to England. Vancouver would likely find quite a representation on this team as the strongest Eastern and Western teams would make up the half score players. Vancouver and Winnipeg Y.M.C.A.'s would likely fight it out for the honor of representing the West, and, by the way, some fur should fly then.—Vancouver Sunset.

THE SCOTSMEN OF CITY RALLY

Big Meeting of Camp Alpine, Sons of Scotland—Banquet on April 14th.

To the skirl of the pibroch the Scotsmen of the city rallied at the Orange hall, Simcoe street, last evening on the occasion of the second meeting of the rejuvenated Camp Alpine, Sons of Scotland. Over 50 were in attendance and great enthusiasm was evidenced. Mr. Jas. MacPherson occupied the chair, and there was a fine programme of songs, recitations and speeches. Bagpipe music was furnished by Mr. T. H. MacKay, and warmed the blood of the clansmen. Short addresses were given by Organizer Grieve, Bro. Stewart, of the London Camp; Bro. Westherstone of the Cobourg Camp and Bro. Robertson of the Kingston Camp. Organizer Grieve is meeting with splendid success in Peterborough and will have the local camp in flourishing condition before he leaves the city. A number of candidates were to have been initiated last night, but it was decided to leave them over until April 14th, when a big meeting will be held followed by a banquet. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

Many Old Country Scotsmen were present at last night's meeting, among the places represented being Dalbeattie, Dundee, Perth, Inverness and Glasgow.

W. R. McLeod fell from a wharf at Vancouver and was drowned.

Guelph police raided Alex. Cudney's house near Morden and recovered $200 worth of goods stolen from city houses.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS

The Crop Competition in Standing Fields of Grain Has Aroused Much Interest

Fairs and Exhibition Branch.
Department of Agriculture.
Toronto, March 27, 1908
To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—The Crop Competition in standing fields of grain which was inaugurated in 1907, in the Province of Ontario, by Honorable Mr. Monteith, proved so beneficial to all concerned that the Minister has, this year, secured a largely increased appropriation for this purpose.

The objects aimed are at to encourage the growing of grain of the best quality free from other varieties of grain and weeds, and also from diseases, such as rust, smut and insects.

The competition excited much interest last year in the districts where they were held, and the results were decidedly profitable to those who were prize winners, inasmuch as, without leaving home, they sold their grain from the fields, which were in the competition to leading seedsmen at prices from 25 per cent. to 50 per cent. above market quotations.

This year, owing to the larger sum available, entries will be received from 100 societies, or ten times as many as in 1907. Rules and regulations governing the competition will be mailed to you in the course of a week or ten days, and I trust you will bring this important work as fully as possible before the readers of your paper.

Faithfully yours,
J. LOCKIE WILSON.

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY

Many Converts Have Recently Been Made in Islam

"It is a common notion that converts from Islam are almost unknown; but nearly every Christian congregation in the Punjab has some Moslem members in it, while throughout Northern India there are nearly 200 Moslem pastors or evangelists, and among them many eloquent preachers of the gospel and able controversialists. Over 190 converts of distinction have forsaken Islam for Christ, like the late eminent Dr. Imad-ud-din, who was formerly a most determined opponent of Christianity. In Persia, Arabia, Egypt, Syria, and elsewhere the fanaticism of the past has decreased; thousands of the young are receiving a Christian education, and the word of God is gradually working its way into the minds of the people, who seem ready for evangelizing. The largest number of Moslem Christians are to be found not in great continents, but in Sumatra and Java, where there are over 16,000 gathered into churches.—Rev. T. E. Slater, in Missionary Review.

WEDDING BELLS

MORROW—WEST.

Wednesday, 18th of March, was the occasion of an interesting and happy event at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen West of Percy, when their fifth daughter, Miss Marguerite and Mr. James Morrow, son of the late Wm. Morrow of Norwood, were joined in holy wedlock, by the Rev. Mr. Duprau of Roeseath, in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The bride looked charming in a becoming fawn suit, and was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Flora Morrow of Peterborough, who was becomingly dressed in a suit of pearl gray, while the groom was ably supported by Mr. Harry West, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony the young couple received the hearty congratulations of friends present, after which an adjournment was made to the dining room, where a well appointed repast was served.

The bride was the recipient of a host of beautiful presents, attesting the esteem of her wide circle of friends.

MIX THIS YOURSELF

Easily Prepared at Small Cost and Many Swear by It.

Mix the following, by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from any good prescription pharmacy.

This mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive Kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Uurinary trouble of all kinds if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

CHORUS GIRL QUITS CHOIR

Withdraws From New York Church Because of Anonymous Letters

New York, April 1.—The Board of Trustees of Calvary Methodist Church has been relieved of the responsibility of establishing a precedent as to whether or not a chorus girl can sing in the choir of a Methodist church. Up to yesterday it looked as though the Trustees would have to decide this question—one over which the congregation was said to be divided. But yesterday the perplexing question was removed.

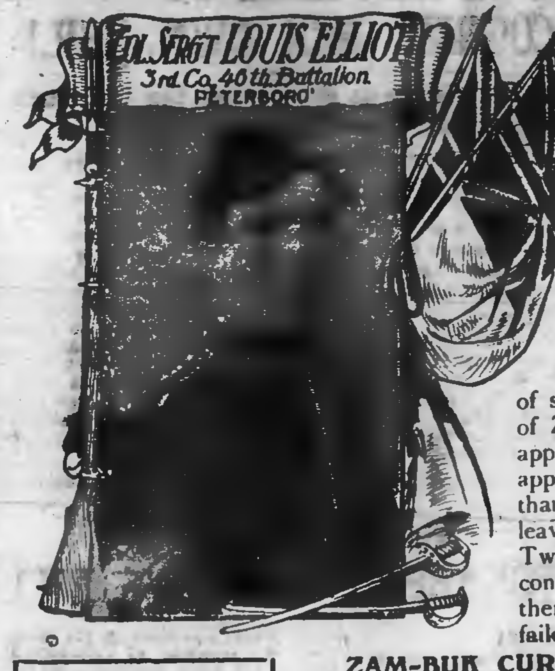
Miss Lillian Norton of 355 West Twenty-eight street, who is appearing in the chorus of a theatrical production now showing in this city, applied for membership in the choir and was accepted. A fortnight ago she sang in the choir and her voice, a high soprano, was admittedly an acquisition.

But a few days later it became known to the congregation that Miss Norton was a chorus girl. She received several anonymous letters advising her to resign. Some of the letters had a threatening tone. Some were signed "A Member," and all were ostensibly from members of the Calvary congregation.

Miss Norton had a conference with the pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles L. Goodell and she agreed to sing no more until the question of her eligibility to the choir was settled. Then came more letters to Miss Norton from her friends urging her not to back down because of anonymous letters.

The young woman wanted to remain in the choir, she says, but she didn't care to do so unless her fellow choir members wished her to stay. She decided the question and yesterday sent her resignation to Dr. Goodell, saying that she had decided not to sing at the church in view of the opposition, and that she did not wish to place the Trustees or anyone else connected with the church in any embarrassing light.

Dr. Goodell, upon receipt of Miss Norton's resignation, promptly tore it up and consigned it to the waste basket.



ECZEMA ATTACKED CHEEK AND CHIN

FESTERING SORES CURED BY ZAM-BUK.

In all walks of life Zam-Buk has found favor as the only pure and reliable healing balm. It is found in the home (for no mother would be without it), in the workshop and in the soldier's kit. Col.-Sergt. Louis Elliott, 3rd Co. 46th Battalion, Peterboro, Ont., bears testimony to this, for he says: "Three months ago the lower part of my face, cheek and chin, broke out in small red pimples, which later festered and broke, forming nasty sores and dry scabs. The itching set up by these eruptions and sores was cruel and seemed far worse during the night. All kinds of soaps, washes and ointments were tried without relief. Finally I thought of Zam-Buk and straightway procured a box at the drug store. One night's application brought great relief from the intense itching, aud as I kept on applying this balm daily the inflammation was soon drawn out, and in less than a week's time the sores were thoroughly healed and every scab banished, leaving my face perfectly clear and smooth, for which I was very grateful. Two years previous to this I first tested Zam-Buk for the prairie itch which I contracted thro' sleeping with a fellow-boarder. Three tins of Zam-Buk was then sufficient to check and clear it off my skin, while the fellow-boarder failed to use it, and in consequence was troubled all that winter. I have the utmost confidence in the merits of Zam-Buk."

MANY IMMIGRANTS NOW PASSING THROUGH CITY

Authorities Hope to Place Them on Farms in Western Part of Province But Will Have Difficulty.

Two hundred English immigrants passed through Peterborough on a special train early yesterday morning. The immigration authorities are trying to locate them on farms in Western Ontario They were for the most part a happy lot, and seemed to concern themselves more with pleasures of the moment than the thought of the future

The majority of the trainload looked to be of the inferior class of townspeople A big hulking fellow here and there, towering high above his comrade, spoke of the Yorkshire farm hand or Scottish mountaineer The dialects of Southern England predominated, and Irish speech was almost entirely lacking

The people who passed through Peterborough seemed scarcely fitted for farm labor. But where to put them is the question The immigration authorities seem to be of the opinion that when they get out on the farms in Western Ontario they'll develop into farmers But the trouble is that these people don't want to go on the land They're from the cities and towns for the most part, and the city element is the most congenial for them to live in

Another train load passed through in the afternoon

APRIL FOOL IS HERE AGAIN; JUVENILE JOKER IS GLAD

There Will be Many Laughs To-day, Perhaps at Your Expense—The Lemon is Playing an Important Comedy Part.

All Fools' Day more generally and in fact almost exclusively known as 'April Fool' is with us once more. The small boy will be in high spirits as the result of the perpetration of jokes on everybody but himself and will be especially delighted if he should happen to be the originator himself of any of the jokes or alleged jokes. Those who are the victims of the practical witticism will simply have to take them in a good natured way and have the consolation of knowing that April Fool like Christmas comes but once a year.

The old sayings of 'There's a bug on your shoulder,' or 'You've dropped your handkerchief' and other such expressions are heard on all sides today while the lemon is one of the April Fool comedy. The yellow fruit referred to is being made good use of today. It is a decided relief for once in the year to hear the good old 'April Fool' supplant the widely used and somewhat expressive 'stung.'

The day comes as a surprise to many a person who arises in the morning without ever thinking of looking at the calendar and doesn't realize that he has been ushered from the stormy month into the one of spring sunshine and warm rains. The first he is made aware of the fact that joke day of the year has dawned is when someone exclaims 'April Fool' and the laugh is on him. In retaliation he tries the fooling game on somebody else and so it goes.

Although the day is still widely observed and especially by juveniles, there is not nearly as much mirth on 20th Century April Fool according to our grandparents as there was in the days of long ago. Then it was observed as a really great occasion and the professional funsmith was right in his element. However, it still has quite a hold on the people and probably always will have.

A SEASONABLE SMILE THIS; GIRLS ENJOY A LAUGH

A well-known citizen, out for a morning stroll, went as was his habit, to the pillar of the door of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company's office on George street, to see what the weather bulletin promised for this day He there read to his manifest astonishment, the fatal words, "April Fool," while several very pretty girls within went off into fits and ripples of laughter, aided and abetted by the male clerks It was a take-in of the old-fashioned sort and was enjoyed by the victim who was put in mind of the days when he had played equally effective but less delicate jokes upon much more indignant people It is pleasant to find that the spirit of "fun" which is so distinct from the average horseplay, has yet a place in this workaday world

HOW OLD RUBBERS CAN BE PUT TO AN EXCELLENT USE

It will be remembered that last spring a committee of Peterborough ladies undertook the raising of money for the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, by collecting old rubbers and rubber goods of any kind that have outlived usefulness. By this means the splendid sum of $166 was realized, the people of the city entering into the matter with a hearty spirit of co-operation. Mrs. J. Kendry, the secretary-treasurer of the committee, desires the Review to state that the committee has decided to have another collection of rubbers this spring for the same laudable object as last year. They can be left at the same place as last season, the old stand of the Dominion Bank, next the Metropolitan grocery on Simcoe street. Mr. Percy Hamilton has kindly consented to look after any old rubbers that are left at the place indicated.

Old rubbers or rubber goods of any kind can now be left at place mentioned, and the Review requests the citizens of Peterborough to give their hearty co-operation in this matter. The money is being raised for a most deserving institution, and as everyone has old rubbers that are of no value to themselves, a large sum should be raised.

MOTHER HARDLY ABLE TO RECOGNIZE HER OWN CHILD

The Little One Had Grown so Rapidly at the Children's Shelter—Children Are Well Looked After.

They make children strong and healthy at the local Children's Shelter. Caretaker Henry and his wife apparently have a good receipt for keeping the youngsters in good health and to make them grow big and strong. A case of recent happening bears out this statement.

A few weeks ago a mother was taken ill and had to be taken to one of the hospitals. There was no one to look after the few months' old baby, the father being at work all day, and the little one was given over to the Children's Aid Society until the mother became well again. The mother was able to leave the hospital a few days ago and went at once to the Children's Shelter to see the baby She was accompanied by her husband and when she was ushered into the room at the Shelter where there were several small children she was unable to recognize her own child for some time, so great was the change since she last saw the baby. It was only a few weeks, but the youngster had grown so much in that time that the mother was hardly able to recognize it. The husband considers that it was one good joke on his wife.

THIS OLD MAN IS A NUISANCE

Persists in Calling at Water St. Residence---Has Been Told to Stay Away

A lady residing at the north end of Water street, has complained to the police that a certain old man in this city persists in calling at her house, and especially when she is out, and annoying her daughter. He has made several of these unwelcomed visits and of late he has become quite a nuisance. The daughter who is only a girl of about fourteen years of age, has told him to go away every time he comes, but so far the cold reception he receives from her has proved to be no insult to the old fellow. However, the police are on the lookout for him and the next time he makes a call he will be taken into custody.

VOL. LVI., No. 78. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., CANADA, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1908 TEN CENTS PER WEEK

EXPLANATION FROM MR. ROBT. PRINGLE

Makes Speech in House of Commons Exonerating Bank of Commerce—Withdraws Statement if it Left Wrong Impression With the Public

Ottawa, April 2.—In the House yesterday afternoon Mr. Pringle rose to clear up some misunderstanding regarding his recent speech on the banking system. He said Mr. Kemp had received a letter from B. E. Walker, president of the Bank of Commerce, objecting to some of Mr. Pringle's statements, and the member for Cornwall thought it due to the Bank of Commerce to clear up any misapprehensions, as he would regret doing any injury to any Canadian bank.

With reference to the statement that the Bank of Commerce was a gambling bank, he merely referred to a reference by the Insurance Commission to certain transactions. On this point Mr. Walker in his letter to Mr. Kemp says: "On the basis of three actual transactions in purchasing shares, reasons for such purchases being unknown to him, Mr. Pringle calls the bank a gambling institution. He even suggests that important events in banking history, such as the absorption of other banks, were brought about as part of a policy of speculation in stocks. These statements are all utterly unfounded. The Canadian Bank of Commerce does not now, and never has at any time, made a practice of buying and selling stocks in public markets or otherwise. It does not now, nor has it ever, speculated in stocks, and its history and reputation as known throughout Canada and in foreign countries are such as to entitle to immunity from criticism of the nature of that in question."

Then the letter deals with charging of high rates of interest in the west. The case in point occurred in the Yukon where prices were enormously higher than in any other part of Canada, and higher rates of interest, therefore, were unavoidable. Referring to the comparison between the Commerce and the newest of banks to show the Commerce had less percentage of assets in proportion to liabilities to the public, the letter pointed out that it was fallacious to make a comparison. Any new bank on this basis was making its position worse with each addition to its customers. The figures properly used were the strongest evidence of esteem in which the Commerce is held, because they indicated extent to which people do business with the bank. The proportion of assets to their public liabilities of several banks at the end of January was Commerce 117 per cent., Montreal 117 per cent., Dominion 121 per cent., Merchants 126 per cent., Nova Scotia 127 per cent.

The next point dealt with was loss of deposits. It was stated by Mr. Walker that all banks found that depositors had drawn upon their balances in much closer manner than when money was easy. All banks had experienced the same result from greater scarcity of money.

Mr. Pringle concluded by saying that he did not take back anything he had urged in support of his amendments to the act, but if he had conveyed the impression that the Bank of Commerce was a gambling bank, he would withdraw the statement.

Mr. Kemp read Mr. Walker's letter in full.

W. H. Bennett, rising to a question of privilege, read an article from Le Canada, which after a column of adulation of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, said his accusers were tainted by persons who boodled with money of the I.O.F., like Foster, Fowler and Bennett. Mr. Bennett said the statement was a "deliberate untruth." Mr. Fowler followed, characterizing the reference to himself as an "absolute lie."

Dr. Sproule asked if the Government intended taking steps to prevent the importation of cattle and horses from the United States which are being brought in and sold in such large numbers as thoroughbreds for breeding purposes, but which are not in reality eligible for registration in Canadian herd books.

The Minister of Customs said regulations for the entry of cattle and horses for improvement of stock have continued the same as when established by order-in-council in 1887. These regulations do not require animals for improvement of stock to be eligible for registration in Canadian herd books, and the question of amending them is and has been under consideration.

E. H. Lewis introduced a bill to amend the criminal code respecting injuries to persons due to motor vehicles. It provides a penalty of two years imprisonment on drivers and owners of automobiles.

Hugh Guthrie, M.P., spoke 2 3-4 hours on the budget, deducting from trade returns that Canada was never so prosperous.

Joseph Armstrong had the floor at six o'clock, and will continue to-day.

SENATE TALKS ABOUT REFORM

Premier Charged With Holding Vacant Seats Over N. S. Politicians

Ottawa, April 2.—That the Government has been holding Nova Scotia vacant Senatorships over the heads of their followers for two sessions to compel them to vote as demanded, was the belief expressed by Senator Perley in the Red Chamber yesterday afternoon during a discussion on Senate reform. Hon. Mr. Perley's principal suggestion was that to correct the evil of the great political majority, the Opposition should appoint half the Senators.

In his contribution to the debate, Senator Ellis said the evidence that the Commons was not beyond criticism, was the fact that the Prime Minister had often to go outside Parliament to fill a vacancy in the Cabinet.

Senator G. W. Ross claimed the record of legislation passed and rejected by the Senate showed that partisanship could not be successfully pressed against it. He did not agree with the proposal to return Senators by provincial authorities or that the Opposition should name Senators. The Opposition had no responsibility. The use of Senatorships as described could be as well used by the leader of the Opposition to keep his followers faithful as Senator Perley alleged the Government used the places.

Senator Ross was not so much impressed with the need for maintaining an equalization in the Senate. Measures got fair treatment in the Senate, no matter how the parties stood. Senate reform should be internal and should be along lines of procuring more original legislation and more Government legislation.

How Senator McMullen's son got out a company that had Government contracts was told by the elder McMullen to his colleagues. He had mentioned to W. H. Bennett that he had urged his son to dispose of his stock, but in the Commons Mr. Bennett used the information, declaring that the withdrawal was due to certain "disclosures."

The Senator was sorry he had mentioned the matter to Mr. Bennett, who he thought was a gentleman enough to treat it as private conversation.

Jumped From Fourth Storey.

New York, April 2.—Lena Isabelle, the 18-year-old daughter of Vincenzo Isabelle of 81 Pleasant street, Lynn, Mass., died in the Flower Hospital yesterday from injuries she sustained from fire and in jumping from a fourth storey window of her uncle's apartment in East 46th street.

Rosebery Chancellor.

London, April 2.—Lord Rosebery has been elected chancellor of Glasgow University, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Lord Kelvin, who was chancellor since 1904.

Blizzard In the West.

Winnipeg, April 2.—After flirting for a few days with spring, the Canadian West is again in the grip of winter. The worst blizzard of the season which struck northern Saskatchewan Tuesday is now general, and for the first time this winter reports are coming in of traffic blocked on the branch lines, and delays on the main lines.

This is more unfortunate, as a good deal of stock and settlers' effects are now being moved in from south of the boundary, but the railways are in a vastly better condition to handle an emergency than during the distressful storms of this time last year.

There is no shortage of power, and rotary plows are doing good work.

Menace of the Anarchist.

New York, April 2.—Following the receipts from police headquarters of a warning that evidence had been obtained that an anarchistic attack might be made upon the members of the exchange, the Consolidated Stock Exchange has decided to close its galleries.

Similar warnings are said to have been sent officials of the other exchanges, including the Cotton Exchange and the New York Stock Exchange.

Made Mild Protest.

Ottawa, April 2.—The Hamilton Radial Electric Railway bill was reported by the Senate railway committee last night.

After it was declared carried, Senator David (Montreal) entered a mild protest against the principle, saying he believed the railway should be left under the jurisdiction of the provincial authorities.

Laid Off 880 Shop Hands.

Montreal, April 2.—The C.P.R. has laid off 880 hands at their Angus shops, in this city. The men take in all classes of labor—mechanics, carpenters, painters, etc.

Bomb Thrown In New York.

New York, April 2.—Following the sending of letters demanding money a bomb was thrown yesterday at the home of Joseph Scullitto, in Beaver street, Brooklyn.

The explosion broke all the windows in the house, blew down the front door and wrecked the vestibule, but the occupants escaped uninjured.

The Scullitto home is within a block of that of Selig Silverstein, the man who threw the bomb in Union square Saturday.

Workman Killed at Montreal.

Montreal, April 2.—George Gray, while working yesterday afternoon on the new Eastern Townships Bank building, Victoria square, fell down the well and was instantly killed.

Austria Rejects Proposal.

Vienna, April 2.—The Neue Freie Presse announces that Austria has definitely rejected Great Britain's proposal for the appointment of a governor-general of Macedonia.

MYSTERY OF THE DUBLIN JEWELS

Chief Secretary Birrell Clears Lord Haddo From Suspicion

London, April 2.—Chief Secretary for Ireland Augustine Birrell, in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, publicly denied the rumor which has been current in Dublin and other parts of Ireland, connecting the name of Lord Haddo, the eldest son of the Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, with the theft of a portion of the state regalia, valued at $250,000, from Dublin Castle last summer.

It has been suggested that this was the Government's reason for its refusal to grant a public enquiry into the affair.

Mr. Birrell stated that the jewels must have been stolen between June 11 and July 6, and he wished to take this opportunity of denying the "cowardly falsehood" connecting Lord Haddo with their loss.

He explained that Lord Haddo left Dublin March 7 of last year and lived in Scotland and in London thereafter until Dec. 11.

FATAL TRAIN SMASH.

One Killed, Several Injured on I.C.R. at Derby Junction.

Newcastle, April 2.—One man was killed, one fatally and several others seriously injured in a train wreck on the Intercolonial at Derby Junction, near this place, yesterday afternoon, when a westbound special, on which the airbrakes failed to work, crashed into the Indiantown branch train.

The latter's engine was completely demolished.

Albert Lamkey, brakeman on the special, 17 years old, was instantly killed. Two passengers were hurled through the car doors and one man, Havelock Jardine, will die. The other man's jaw was broken.

Driver McCabe of the special saved his life by jumping. Several passengers received a severe shaking up.

Brickwood Not Guilty.

Kingston, April 2.—The trial of James Brickwood, for outrage upon Minerva Topping, aged 18, lasted all day. The girl, after three hours' cogitation, decided to testify and relate the horrid details of the assaults made by four men in a shack.

Brickwood's defence was a denial of any participation. He was elsewhere when the assault was alleged to have occurred. To-day, Devine, Crozier, and Mozier, also implicated, will be tried. The jury found Brickwood not guilty.

THE REPORT OF CIVIL SERVICE

Justice Cassels Appointed Commissioner to Investigate the Charges

Ottawa, April 2.—Walter Cassels, judge of the Exchequer Court, has been appointed a commissioner to investigate charges made by the Civil Service Commission against the administration of the Marine and Fisheries Department. The Prime Minister made the announcement in the House yesterday afternoon.

He accompanied this with a statement that three officials of the Department had been suspended and that Deputy Minister Rodolphe Gourdeau had during the day pressed the Minister for acceptance of his resignation. The suspended officials are: J. F. Fraser, commissioner of light; J. W. Gregory, agent of the Department at Quebec, and A. W. Owen, accountant.

R. L. Borden asked if the royal commission would deal with the Marine Department generally, or solely with matters advanced by the report of the Civil Service Commission. As to the qoestion of civil service reform, he asked whether or not the Government had come to the conclusion that as a matter of policy they would adopt the principle of competitive examinations by an independent commission in connection with appointments to the civil service.

The Prime Minister answered that he would bring down an order-in-council outlining the scope of the commission. Before making any announcement as to the policy of the Government he had thought it better to have the report before the House.

The Opposition are expected to discuss Justice Cassels' appointment to-day. They would have done so yesterday but for the fact that the scope of the commission was not outlined, the order-in-council not being brought down, as promised.

It is understood that objections will be taken to Justice Cassels on the ground that his duties are to adjudicate matters of difference between the Government and its contractors; that he is a civil iervant himself, just appointed, and that it is putting him in a wrong position to ask him to decide a matter of serious consequences to the men who appointed him.

Further, they claim that the Civil Service Commission should be asked to complete their work; that having partially investigated some of the conditions to be found in the Marine Department and being familiar with the questions, they should be asked to make the report more thorough.

TEARSE FOUND GUILTY AND WILL BE HANGED IN JUNE

Jury's Verdict Wilful Murder With Plea for Mercy—Sentenced by Chief Justie Meredith to be Hanged on June 11

Brampton, April 2.—A thunderbolt from heaven could not have produced a greater shock upon the 3,000 people assembled in and around the court room yesterday afternoon, than when the jury brought in the verdict of "Guilty of murder, with a recommendation for mercy" against John D. Tearse, accused of killing William Curry in Peel County on Christmas night.

The spectators were shocked, the counsel for defence were shocked, the crown was shocked, the judge was shocked, and the jury when they learned the true significance of their act, were dazed.

Tearse was sentenced to be hanged on Thursday, June 11.

The 12 talesmen admitted afterwards that they had no idea that their verdict left no course open to the court but to pronounce a death sentence upon the prisoner. To Crown Counsel Blackstock, and to Counsel Hassard, they admitted that they believed their verdict would elicit nothing more serious than a life term in prison. They ignored an insanity verdict because they thought, like the possibilities with Harry K. Thaw, the accused would merely be locked up for a short while and released. They realized the insane tendencies of the prisoner, but thought they would be relieving society of a pernicious element if he were locked up for life.

They refrained from styling it a case of manslaughter, because they thought it would mean imprisonment for a term of from three of five years, and then freedom.

To-day the defence will apply to Ottawa, to the Governor-General, for a commutation of sentence. The doctor who gave expert testimony favor it, the crown counsel had no hesitancy in declaring he favored it, and the general impression of those officially connected with the case is that the judge's report will strongly favor it.

Boys Tested the Powder.

Shawnee, Okla., April 2.—Boys playing near a half carload of giant powder and dynamite caps at the Missouri & Kansas stock yards became involved in a dispute as to whether the powder was good or bad. They determined to test it, and applied a match. An explosion followed that was heard for miles. The car was blown into fragments, and people passing were blown from their feet and across the road. Six people were seriously injured.

Failed to Report Parole.

Brockville, April 2.—William Tomlinson, a native of Brockville, of respectable parentage, is now in the county jail, awaiting extradition proceedings commenced by the United States Government, for neglecting to report to the proper authorities at Syracuse while allowed his liberty on parole, after serving a sentence for burglary.

Bell People Satisfied.

Montreal, April 2.—The officials of the Bell Telephone Co. are particularly pleased at the outcome of the negotiations with the Alberta Government for the sale of the company's line in that province, and steps will be taken almost immediately with the Saskatchewan Government for the sale of the line in that province.

Rowley a Free Man.

Kingston, April 2.—William H. Rowley, who wrecked the Atlas Loan Co. of St. Thomas and was in 1904 sentenced to 12 years in the penitentiary, has been pardoned and is now in the States.

His health has improved greatly since his confinement.

A Tragedy of the Track.

Los Angeles, April 2.—Mrs. Helen Griffin, 28 years old, who has been a resident of Monrovia since the beginning of the racing season at Santa Anita, was shot and killed by Mrs. L. Z. De Arman, wife of L. Z. De Arman, who has been racing horses at Santa Anita during the past season.

Mrs. De Arman fired five shots.

The motive for the shooting is admitted by De Arman to have been jealousy of him by his wife.

Casually Discussed.

Ottawa, April 2.—Senator Scott said yesterday that the question of inviting the United States fleet to visit the Pacific coast harbors and also to send a warship to the St. Lawrence for the Quebec celebration had been casually discussed by the Government, but no definite conclusion hod been arrived at.

Fiddler Quit Job, Duke Sued.

The Duke of Devonshire was plaintiff in a County Court action recently at Eastbourne, where he sued Leonard Crawshaw, a musician, for £350 damages for breach of contract.

Like Leopold Rothschild, the duke enjoys a private orchestra. The defendant was engaged to play second violin for a year and after three weeks threw up his job. The duke's secretory testified that although Crawshaw had been gone five weeks it had been impossible to fill his place. Advertisements inserted in two London papers failed of results.

The court awarded the duke $50. The case affords a curious commentary on recent agitation relative to starvation wages paid musicians in theatrical and other orchestras.

SESSION NEARING CLOSE AT TORONTO

Premier Whitney Desires to Prorogue Legislature Next Week—Will Hold Morning Sittings—Discussion on Prison Labor

Toronto, April 2.—Hon. Mr. Whitney told the Legislature yesterday that he would like to see the House wind up its business on Tuesday next and prorogue on Thursday. With this end in view he suggested a Saturday morning sitting and regular morning sittings thereafter.

Hon. Mr. MacKay concurred in the proposals for morning sittings, but was not disposed towards the idea of ending the session next week.

Hon. Mr. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, in discussing his prison labor proposals predicted a new era in the provincial treatment and reformation of criminals. The Government proposed a policy redemptive rather than punitive, and purposed inaugurating it at once.

Mr. Hanna submitted his resolution, already published, based upon the findings and report of the committee of the House which recently investigated prison conditions generally. He sketched the work done by the committee and the character and scope of its investigations. Mr. Hanna referred particularly to the conditions in the Mansfield, Ohio, prison, which, he said, profoundly impressed the committee. In connection with this institution was a very successfully operated farm. Prisoners were not garbed as such and, when their conduct warranted it, they were given positions of responsibility and trust. These were rarely violated. In some cases they were even permitted to "hire out."

Hon. Mr. Hanna said it was the Government's intention at the present session of the Legislature, in the supplementary estimates, to ask a grant of $20,000 or $25,000 for the purchase of land in a suitable place and with sanitary surroundings for the establishment of a prison farm. This would be located outside of Toronto and would be the beginning of the ultimate end of the institution known as the Central Prison. It would also be necessary, the Provincial Secretary said, to establish, as an adjunct, a similar institution in the north country to save the great expense bill now incurred in removing prisoners.

"I trust," said the Minister, "that this may be the dawn of a new era in the treatment and reformation of prisoners, without in any way conflicting with free labor." It was, he said, getting the erring ones back to the land, the great curative operation.

Mr. Dargavel (Leeds) a member of the investigating committee, heartily endorsed the resolution. "Let us get rid of the suits and the cells," he urged, "and do better work in seeking to reform particularly the younger men."

Mr. T. H. Preston (Brant) moved the adjournment of the debate.

Hon. A. J. Matheson presented the report of the Redistribution committee. In so doing he pointed out that the adoption of the report did not mean that it could not be discussed or amended in committee of the whole. On this understanding the report was adopted.

The following Government bills went through committee without change: To amend the act respecting Queenston Heights Park, respecting municipal telephone systems, and to amend the Public Schools Act.

While the Education Act was under consideration Hon. Dr. Pyne, in response to a question from Hon. Mr. MacKay, said it was the intention to drop the Model Schools by degrees, not all at one time.

Hon. Mr. Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, introduced the following Government bills:

Re Agricultural Societies Bill—The present act permits the expenditure of $70,000 for agricultural societies, and no more. As an additional $7,000 was voted in the estimates, an amendment to the act is required to make it available.

The amendment also provides for the incorporation of three societies, namely, Colborne, Richmond Hill and Freelton. Colborne was formerly a horticultural society doing agricultural work. Richmond Hill has been in existence for fifty years but was not working under the act. Freelton takes the place of the West Flamboro Society which has gone out of existence.

Re Agricultural Associations amendment—Provision is made to include the Gardeners' and Florists' Association of Toronto under the act.

The Ontario Horticultural Association, which controls the Ontario Horticultural Exhibition, held annually in Toronto, is brought under the act and placed on the same footing as the associations controlling the winter fairs at Guelph and Ottawa.

TO GET POWER FROM PROVINCE

Protest Was Effectual—Senate Throws Out Conmee's Bill

GET POWER FROM PROVINCE.

Protest Was Effectual—Senate Throws Out Conmee's Bill.

Ottawa, April 2.—By 19 to 15 the Senate railway committee threw out Mr. Conmee's bill to incorporate the Ontario & Michigan Power Co. A big fight was made on the proposition, but the protest of the Ontario Legislature against this new invasion of provincial rights had its effect.

The bill sought to give the company very wide powers, namely, the purpose of developing power and distributing it to any place in Canada or in Isle Royale, or in any place in the United States. The company should be permitted to acquire lands and water rights on Nigeon, Nepigon and Sturgeon rivers in Thunder Bay district, to construct dams and reservoir and otherwise control water in any lake whose waters flow into any of these rivers or in any streams conveying such discharge to bore for natural gases, manufacturing gas and sundry like works.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell led the attack on the bill and was well supported by Senators Edwards, Lougheed and others.

Senator Kerr violently attacked the theory that it was the business of the Provincial Government to control the rivers of the province.

Mr. Whitney was not an authority on any matter involving the question of rights.

All through the discussion political feeling cropped out. Mr. Conmee characterized the Beck policy as a fad, asking the Senate not to do the bidding of a politicol party which had humbugged the people of Ontario for four years, and had done nothing.

The Price In Blood.

Winnipeg, April 2.—A staff representative of The Winnipeg Telegram has just returned from a trip of over 100 miles of line of the Grand Trunk Pacific between Kenora and Fort William, and makes a showing of 50 men blown to pieces during the past 12 months and as many more marred for life.

The report is replete with figures, names and dates on which the tragedies have occurred. A statement is made that the fatalities are chiefly due to the inferior quality of explosives used and the ignorance of the men handling the dynamite.

Ingersoll In Line.

Ingersoll, April 2.—Owing to local conditions there has been much discussion of late in the council as to the course this town should follow in connection with Niagara power.

As a result a resolution was unanimously passed authorizing Mayor Sutherland to make formal application to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for 500 horse-power. The distribution problem will be solved later.

SOME UNREST IN THE ISLAND

French Minister at Hayti Has Shown Considerable Alarm at Government Action

UNREST IN HAYTI.

French Minister Has Shown Considerable Alarm at Government's Action.

Port au Prince, April 2.—The spirit of uncertainty and of unrest still prevails in Port au Prince. The recent abortive attempt at a second uprising here, in which Gen. Larraque, chief of the cavalry, and several other army officers are alleged to have been implicated, had given the Government a cause for making searches in all quarters of the city, in the hope of finding others they suspect of being involved in the plot.

The French Minister to Hayti, M. Carteron, has recently shown considerable alarm concerning the action the Haytien Government may take against the refugees now asylumed in the French legation. Some of the refugees themselves state that the Minister has advised them to procure pistols and as much ammunition as possible, so that they may be prepared to defend their lives.

According to the refugees, M. Carteron declared to them that he was unable to guarantee protection in the event of an attack upon the legation by Government troops.

The French Minister, when asked yesterday with regard to this statement, declined to deny or affirm it, but he did say that he had made a representation of the case to M. Borno, the Minister of State, pointing out to him the French contention that the giving of sanctuary to the refugees was an absolutely legitimate proceeding.

Will Reward Hero.

St. Catharines, April 2.—The governors of the Royal Canadian Humane Society are considering the case of Samuel Culp of Thorold, who, at the imminent peril of his life, rescued from a horrible death Mrs. Alexander Singer and her five-year-old daughter, Pearl, on the evening of Oct. 5 last.

Mrs. Singer, in order to reach home, made use of the G.T.R. bridge at Jordan, and when about half way over discovered the train from the east approaching at full speed, while the western train was behind.

Samuel Culp, recognizing their extremely dangerous position, rushed to their assistance, and not a moment too soon, dragged them to the timber between the tracks.

Douma is Progressive.

St. Petersburg, April 2.—Following the lead of the legislators of Paris and Washington, 50 members of the Russian Douma yesterday introduced a bill for the increase of their salaries by the extension through the recess of their present compensation of $5 a day.

They complain that the sum they now receive is wholly inadequate to the St. Petersburg scale of living.

NOW I AM WELL

THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Eli, Manitoba.

I wish to state, for the sake of others who may be sufferers like I was, that I suffered from severe indigestion and constipation for years and that there was also womb trouble with unpleasant pains in my back which made me miserable, constantly. I tried physicians and took many remedies but I got no relief. I was induced to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I can truly say this was the first medicine that ever did me any good. "Fruit-a-tives" quickly relieved the constipation and indigestion and completely cured me of all symptoms of womb trouble. I cannot express too strongly my great gratitude to this medicine as I am as well now in every way as ever I was, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives". I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives", it is easy to take and the effect is always mild like fruit.

THE WM. HAMILTON LOAN

The loss of the Wm. Hamilton Co. business to Peterborough was a serious one. The interests of a community are made up of the interests of all those within its borders. A municipality must look to its own well-being. It cannot allow its own existence to be a thing of hap and hazard. We see the baleful effects of such neglect in towns around us. Nothing short of the fear of doing an unwarranted injustice should prevent the municipality's doing its share in helping to re-establish this great business concern. Those entitled to vote on the bylaw are a discriminating class. They will not vote even a loan without knowing fully the conditions of the loan. While they have a strong desire to help out the Wm. Hamilton Co. their desire to help out others is not so strong. Could the desired end be gained in any other and cheaper way? That is the question now presenting itself to the mind of the eligible voter. A public meeting to discuss a statement from those interested, and a draft of the proposed agreement with the new Company, will all be necessary before what may be a very desirable issue can be consummated. We hope that this will be looked to in due time. The electors will surely require that $30,000 shall not go otherwise than towards the improvement of the security for the loan.

WHAT GOOD TO THE FARMER?

The Grand Trunk offered Sir Wilfrid Laurier to build, equip and run its own transcontinental railway if the Dominion Government would give it a charter. This offer was, as we all know, rejected. That it should have been rejected is one of the incomprehensible things of our time. What government pretending to represent a people could have entered into a scheme such as the present one is when it could have escaped liability in the way indicated. Now, Canada is in for a merciless soaking. Moreover if the Grand Trunk had built the road it would have been done gradually so that the needs of the west could be served and the farm values of the east protected. But this did not satisfy the "financiers." Delays reduce the profit of such undertakings. It was rushed madly into. No matter who lost the financiers could not lose. They make a profit out of building the road and by lending money to the government in its difficulties also. The farmer has to pay for all this. The manufacturer is benefitted. He gains by just so much as his market is extended. But the farmer's market is not the same as the manufacturer's. The developing west does him no good. If, too, Canada becomes a manufacturing country it will want to admit foodstuffs free as England does, and agriculture will decline.

The Canada Pac. Ry. reduced the price of farms in Ontario, and made them a drug on the market. The direct and indirect contribution of the farming community of Ontario in cash and losses was enormous. It crippled agriculture for 20 years. The same blunder is now being repeated but without excuse. Experience should have taught, but nothing can teach those whose hands are tied. Not only was the Grand Trunk prepared to build of its own accord and without assistance, but the Canadian Northern is actually doing so. Manifestly another commission is badly needed. The farmer no sooner recovers from his depression and begins to show signs of prosperity than the vultures make ready to pick him again. And all this is done under the protection of a "great statesman."

What a difference there is however, between Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Whitney! The one can talk. The other can act. One meets difficulties to be overcome by them. The other meets them to conquer them. Poor excuses are not better than none. They are much worse than none for while being equally excuseless they prevent punishment and invite repetition of the fault.

We prophesy bad times for the farmer unless the Laurier policies are headed off with all speed. Then too as if to make matters infinitely worse the farmers receive less for their deposits in the government banks while the financiers get a higher rate. Thus is the candle being burned at both ends. All is chaos at Ottawa.

THE OPPOSITION LEADER

No amount of cavilling will excuse the action of Mr. A. G. MacKay, the Opposition leader in voting against the protest of the Ontario legislature with regard to the action of the Laurier administration in the Michigan Power Company's affair. It was clearly an infraction of provincial rights. It is so admitted on all hands. It was announced by Mr. Whitney not to be a party question. Many of Mr. McKay's followers voted for it. Yet this leader of the Opposition recorded his vote against it! No wonder that there are persistent rumors of Mr. McKay's resignation as leader. The wish seems to be "father to the thought."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Globe reports today that the Ontario Provincial elections are to be held May 28th.

The Conservative members of the Legislature presented their leader, Mr. Whitney, with a handsome silver service last evening at a caucus dinner. It was well deserved.

The streets of Peterborough are full of unemployed. It is a sad sight and reminds one that misgovernment is responsible for much misery.

The report on Prison Labour and the ultimate benefits to be derived therefrom is largely the work of Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P., who is one of the ablest as he is one of the most upright men in the Legislature.

"Another source consists of carrying profits. How does Canada stand with reference to that? Great Britain carries from 70 to 80 per cent. of the whole trade of the world. That is where she makes her invisible exports—where she gets money as a neutral, and helps to tidy up the balance of trade."

The above quotation from Hon. G. E. Foster's speech on the balance of trade is an interesting revival of a fact frequently lost sight of. The balance of trade cannot be against a country and yet that country remain prosperous. The theories and absurdities of Liberal statesmen have too often gone "to the wall" to be of the slightest value in these practical times. In the account of trade must be reckoned our interest debts. It is this adverse balance that takes the cream off all enterprise and leaves us slaves to gold.

Dreny v. Chapin, a case recently dismissed by Chancellor Boyd throws an interesting side-light on Provincial affairs. Dreny claimed that Chapin, et al, were to "fix things" with the Ontario Government so that his title should become "good" for a valuable consideration, to Cobalt Lake. The amounts involved were, of course, large. The defendants didn't "fix things," and suit was brought against them, which was dismissed as improper and therefore untenable.

That the Conservative newspapers should seize upon the report of the Civil Service Commission as party ammunition was to be expected, nor is there any call for homilies upon so obvious a manifestation of party spirit. Any Opposition would do the same thing. The danger is that after partizanship shall have fired off this ammunition and picked up something else, civil service reform may be forgotten.—Toronto Star. Lib.

No Civil Service reform will not be forgotten. The Opposition will see to that.

HASTINGS WANTS A PATRONS' MILL

Newspaper There Advises Following the Example of the Central Mill at Peterborough

The Hastings Star says:—In another column will be noticed a news item regarding the Central Milling Company of Peterborough, which has just declared an annual dividend of eight per cent for the year just closed. As will be noticed the profits on this business for the year have been 27 per cent on the capital stock.

This mill is a patron's mill and most of the stock holders are farmers living in the vicinity of Peterborough. These stock holders get all the benefits of reduced prices in buying feed, chop, etc. They get their flour cheaper and in addition to this receive 8 per cent per annum on the money invested.

Surely this is an object lesson to the farmers and residents of this district; for Hastings had advantages that the Peterborough mill is without in several particulars. Where the Peterborough mill has to purchase power the mill here has its own. The cost of labor here is far less, and there would not be the competition.

There are very few farmers in this district who would not very much like to get the local mill going, but have no one to take the matter up properly. Eight per cent. is far better investments than you can get anywhere in this vicinity, and with the advantages from purchasing flour, feed and chop at your own mill should it at least 2 per cent, more. You have your money invested right here where you can see it. They are, and have been doing it in Peterborough for ten years, and why not in Hastings?

Somebody make a move.

BACK ACHE IS THE FIRST SIGN

Mixture Said to Relieve Lame Back and Prevents Kidney Disease

Take care of backache. A great many cases of kidney complaint are reported about here, also bladder trouble and rheumatism.

An authority once stated that pain in the back, loins or region of the kidneys is the danger signal nature hangs out to notify the sufferer that there is something wrong with the kidneys which should receive immediate attention. Only vegetable treatment should be administered and absolutely no strong alcoholic patent medicines, which are harmful to the kidneys and bladder.

The following prescription, while simple, harmless and inexpensive, is known and recognized as a sovereign remedy for kidney complaint. The ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This preparation is said to restore the natural function of the kidneys, so they will sift and strain the poisonous waste matter uric acid, etc., from the blood, purifying it and relieving rheumatism. Backache will be relieved, the urine will be neutralized and cleared and no longer a cause of irritation, thereby overcoming such symptoms as weak bladder, painful, frequent and other urinary difficulties.

This is worth trying and may prove just what many people here need.

GIRL CHARGED WITH MURDER

Said to Have Shot Man Who Tried to Court Here

Columbia, Miss., April 2— Eunice Spencer has been arrested here charged with killing Charles Wesley in his home here yesterday. It is said that the right to pay attention to Miss Spencer was the stake in a euchre game in which Wesley and P. P. Coombs were the players.

Each player won two games, and in the deciding game, with one point to go out, Coombs accused Wesley of cheating. In the fight which followed Wesley had Coombs on the floor with a knife at his throat. At this moment Miss Spencer is said to have seized a rifle and shot Wesley, who died in a few minutes. She asserts that the shooting was accidental.

ANOTHER YORK LOAN DECISION

Affecting Shareholders Whose Right of Withdrawal Has Not Been Taken Advantage of

Toronto, April 1.—Another judgment in the York Loan cases was given out by Referee George Kappele this morning. It related to the claims of shareholders whose right of withdrawal had arisen by effluxion of time, but who either had failed to give the necessary notice demanding payment or whose notice had not expired at the date of the winding-up order. Mr. Kappele holds that this kind of shareholders can have no priority.

The text of the judgment is as follows:

I have found against the contention raised by Mr. Douglas that under the by-laws and certificates there is no absolute promise to pay to withdrawing shareholders, but only a promise to pay in a particular way which failed prior to or at the date of the winding-up order.

I have found against the contention of Mr. Scott that the company was insolvent in the sense that there could be no withdrawal rights before any of the claimants in the class had acquired the right to withdrawal, but have fixed the date at which the right of withdrawal ceased as the 22nd day of November, 1905.

I find in favor of Mr. Scott's contention that these shareholders are chargeable with the losses of the company and that this account can be taken in the winding-up proceedings, and that as a result they can only share pari passu with the other shareholders.

I also find that as a matter of law upon the proper construction of the powers of this company under the statutes governing it, these shareholders cannot have any priority, the statutes in this province governing this company being different from the Imperial statutes upon which the Imperial statutes, upon which the English cases are decided.

In the result I find that this class of shareholders have no preference or priority over the other shareholders and must come in and rank pari passu with the general body of shareholders claiming no preference or priority.

Mr. W. N. Wotten, 413 Downie St., has been suddenly called away to Enniskillen to arrange some matters in connection with the winding-up of the estate of the late Rodger B. Beacock. The late Mr. Beacock purchased the grocery business formerly carried on in Enniskillen by Mr. Wotten.

The latter recently moved to Peterborough and will open up a grocery business in this city probably inside of a week. He has not yet selected where his stand will be as he has several locations under consideration.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

TORONTO DIVINE GAVE ADDRESS

Large Attendance at St. John's Church Last Evening

A large congregation was present last night at the mid week Lenten service at St. John's church when a most scholarly and biblical address was deliverred by Rev. J. D. Fotheringham, rector in Trinity College, Toronto. Rev. Mr. Fotheringham spoke from the words, 'What do ye more than they?' His address was a reference to the common things in life, such as salutation and kindly, feeling. It was a call to the Christian to have these preeminent in his character and by the practice of these, life would be made more beautiful.

Next Wednesday evening Rev. Canon Cody, rector of St. Paul's church, Toronto, will be the special speaker.

EIGHT HUNDRED MEN LAID OFF

C. P. R. Reduces Staff at the Angus Shops, Montreal

Montreal, April 1.—Eight hundred men have been laid off at the C.P.R. Angus shops, most of these in the repair department.

An official of the company described this as between season's time, and there is nothing definite known at present as to the future of the company in respect to the employment of men.

Evidences point to a quiet summer.

CANADIAN ESKIMOS STARVE.

Dominion Government Faces Serious Problem In Ungava.

A problem of annually increasing seriousness for Canada is that of maintaining the Eskimo wards alive in her territory of Ungava.

A peculiarly appalling instance of this has just been reported by Rev. S. M. Stewart, an Anglican missionary from the diocese of Newfoundland, who has been laboring among the heathen natives of Ungava Bay for the last four years. His report is that last winter, owing to scarcity of deer, severe weather and poor hunting otherwise, many of the natives in the territory perished of starvation, and in some instances the survivors had to maintain life by feeding on the corpses of the dead.

Their contact with the white man in the shape of whaling crews has inoculated them with all the white man's vices. Prof. A. P. Low, of the Canadian exploring expedition of 1903-04 in the steamship Neptune, describes the extinction of a tribe of Eskimos on Southampton Island, at the mouth of Hudson Bay, in a single winter.

They numbered one hundred souls, and made shift to live with fair success without employing civilized implements of war or chase, as they were isolated from any neighbors. But in 1900 a Scotch whaling firm established a station there and manned it with a party of Eskimos from one of its other posts, who could use a modern repeating rifle successfully. These recklessly slaughtered the musk oxen and the deer of the region for the sake of the hide, which they sold to whaling employers, and as a result the whole of the original tribe perished of starvation during the second winter, while the others, who were morally responsible for their death, if not legally punishable, survived through the aid of provisions furnished them by their employers. Two years later the whaling station was abandoned again, and now this large island is absolutely unpeopled. The same story is told of other whaling stations.

Canada a Nation.

The British press is not overlooking the imperial aspect of the agreement arrived at by Canada and Japan, and expresses the greatest pleasure at the dignified and friendly settlement of the immigration question. The Morning Post points out that the conciliatory attitude of Japan was inspired largely by her friendship for Britain. The Daily Graphic observes that it would be impossible not to contrast this dignified termination with the humiliating spectacle presented by the treatment of British Indians in the Transvaal.

The Times says the passage in which Mr. Lemieux turned to the broader aspect of the immigration question, touching on the British alliance with Japan, thus showing that he appreciated the solidarity of the British race in matters relating to the rest of the world, should awaken a responsive thrill throughout the Empire. "The negotiations," it says, "were admittedly concerned with a question of the utmost delicacy and importance, but even this question sinks into insignificance compared with the principle enunciated by Mr. Lemieux." The Times adds that Canada is now a developed nation, and can talk to other nations of the world with an assured voice and almost on an equality with them. It is a cheering sign of her sense of dignity and reality that she should thus begin her career as a separate factor in the world by remembering that her strength and honor are bound up in the strength and honor of the Mother Country.

Chased by Game Wardens.

That thrilling act of Eliza crossing the ice pursued by bloodhounds was beaten about a hundred blocks recently at Toronto.

Chased by a couple of game wardens, two duck hunters made a dramatic attempt at escape by crossing the ice on the Western Gap. One man got away, but the other was caught, and, after giving his name and address, was let got.

The two hunters were busy on the sandbar potting away at ducks, although this is the close season, when suddenly two strangers appeared. Not liking their appearance, the hunters decided to decamp, and started away towards the gap.

Then the chase began. One was quickly caught, but the other, reaching the cribwork, made a desperate jump on to the cracking ice below and, in view of spectators on the other shore, kept on his perilous path.

It was thought he would surely go through the ice and, at the least, get a cold bath. But fortune was with him and he made the path in safety. However, he dropped his gun halfway over and did not wait to recover it. One of the game wardens followed in his path and secured the gun, which was impounded.

The Age of Niagara.

The question, always interesting for the light it throws on the past history of the earth, has had many answers. The latest is that of Dr. J. W. Spencer, who, from recent studies on the spot, finds that the mean rate of recession of the falls at present is 4.2 feet a year, and that this has been the rate for approximately 227 years. But owing to the fact that originally the waters of Lake Erie only were discharged over the falls, giving only one-fifteenth of the present water supply, the rate of recession was at first much slower. A sudden widening of the gorge above Foster's Flat indicates the position of the falls when the other Great Lakes began to discharge into Lake Erie. From this data, Dr. Spencer calculates the entire age of the falls at thirty-nine thousand years. The cutting, with the power of the four lakes is estimated to have lasted thirty-five hundred years.

Forced Reform.

"I judge that young Goit is broke."

"What makes you think that?"

"Because he says he is on the mend."

Hon. R. Lemieux addressed the Ottawa Canadian Club on Saturday on the Japanese treaty.

NIAGARA FALLS PARK COMMISSION

Reports---A Wasteful and Extravagant System of Charter-Giving---The Fenderal Government to Blame

Toronto, March 31.—The annual report of the Niagara Falls Park Com-Commission has been presented to the House. After dealing with the improvements which have been carried on at the park during the year, the commissioners state;—Impressed with the vital importance of the subject, the commissioners would again draw attention to the charter which has been granted by the Parliament of Canada to several corporations to generate power at various points in the Niagara district, but which charters have not up to the present time been proceeded with. Without question, the works already constructed by the companies operating on the Canadian side are of sufficient capacity to supply the demand for electricity for lighting and power purposes for Canadian users for a great many years to come. As the undeveloped charters are all without limitation as to the volume of power which may be developed and without restriction as to the quantity of water which may be taken for such development it is essential to the safe-guarding of the falls that immediate steps should be taken to conceal them or to place a limit on their operations, so that the menace they now present to the preservation of the falls as a great natural wonder may be removed.

REV. MR. MUNT AT ST. ANDREW'S

W.C.T.U. Missionary to Ontario Lumber Camps Will Give Address---A Topic of Great Interest

Statistics tell us that Canada's forestry products have reached an annual value of over eighty millions of dollars. Now think of the 25,000 men, scattered in groups of hundreds in our vast northland, who make this revenue possible. Deprived of all the comforts of civilization, these lumbermen, most of whom are English speaking put in their long day's work to the music of the saw and axe. This work is often with great danger to life or limb.

All who would like to hear of the life of the lumbermen should be at St. Andrew's School room on Friday evening at eight o'clock to listen to Rev. Mr. Munt, WCTU missionary to the Ontario lumber camps.

NAME OF HOTEL IS THE "GRAND"

Wrong Name Used Yesterday in Report of Applications for Licenses

In yesterday's issue of the Review through an oversight, the name of "The Gold Dollar" was used as the one for which Mr. Charles Nixon had made application for a license for his hotel—the "Grand"—for the current and ensuing year.

It is well known that the first mentioned name is one that is never used in seriousness. It will be remembered that when Mr. Nixon secured the hotel, which was the Southern at the time, and cut down the big tree in front of it and made improvements to the building, the name was changed to the Grand, and since then is still known as such.

INTERESTING QUESTIONS

Will be Answered at Meeting of Astronomical Society This Evening

Unusually interesting promises to be the meeting of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society at the Y.W.C.A. this evening. The meeting starts at eight o'clock sharp, and it will be "Question Night." A large number of interesting questions have been sent to the president, Rev. Dr. Marsh, and they will be answered this evening. Among the questions submitted are the following:

Why do the stars in the northern part of the sky not rise and set as those overhead?

What causes northern lights, and why are they not visible every clear night?

night?

What does declination mean to astronomers?

Where do meteors come from, and what is their origin?

What are shooting stars; Do they differ from meteors?

Why do the stars appear to twinkle, especially in the winter time?

How many miles are there between longtitudinal lines?

Do meteors fall to the earth during the day as well as at night?

Is there an association between comets and meteors?

The meeting should be a splendid one and everybody is invited. A meeting of the council of the society will be held.

Fresh tea is all-important. Ten weeks after being picked in the tea gardens of the Island of Ceylon (the finest tea-producing country in the world) "Salada" reaches you. The flavor of tea consists in an essential oil, which deteriorates rapidly with age. In order to preserve the delicious flavor of "Salada" Tea it is packed in sealed lead packets (never sold in bulk), guaranteeing you a superior tea, in flavor, quality, purity and economy in use.

PRESENTATION TO DEPARTING C.G.E. EMPLOYEE

Cabinet Makers Remember Mr. Wm. Barry on Eve of His Departure

A number of the employees of the cabinet shop of the C.G.E. works gathered at the home of Mr. Wm. Barry last evening and presented him with an eulogistic address and a handsome cased pipe and a tobacco pouch. Mr. Barry, with his wife and child, sail on Saturday by the steamship "Corinsian." He is returning to his home at Halifax, Yorkshire. He has been in this city for the past four years, during which time he had made many friends. He was prominent in local Oddfellow circles and acted as their pianiste.

The following address was read last night by Mr. Jos. Begley and the presentation was made by Mr. R. Martin:—

Peterborough, April 1, 1908

To William Barry:

Dear Friend:

It is some time since we, your fellow workmen became aware that you had a longing in your heart to return to the land of your birth and the home of your childhood. As the hour is fast approaching when your hopes are about to be realized, and it is time for us to say good-bye, we feel that we cannot do so without expressing in some manner our feelings of sorrow at your departure from our midst. We wish to assure you that it is not on account of any custom that we are here this evening; it is because, in our daily intercourse with you, we have found you every inch a man, and that you always when the opportunity presented itself, made proper use of the golden rule. "Do unto others as you would wish to be done by," and it is a well-known fact amongst us that not matter what knowledge you had gained in regard to your work, it was ours for asking. Such a quality in a man will always gain him friends, and such we wish you to consider us, because we have found in you a true man. We wish you and Mrs. Barry a safe and pleasant voyage, and that you will enjoy a long and happy life, and that the little Canuck whom you are taking back may be the joy and happiness of your old age. You must agree with us when we say she was well worth coming after. We ask you to accept this pipe and pouch as a slight mark of the esteem that your fellow workmen have for you.

Signed on behalf of the workmen.

JAMES PRICE,
E. E. DICKINSON,
R. J. MARTIN,
JOS. BEGLEY.

Mr. Barry made a brief reply, thanking his fellow employees for their gift, and complimentary remarks, and said that he would always cherish pleasant memories of his residence in Peterborough.

FIFTY PER CENT SUGGESTION DOES NOT MEET WITH FAVOR

Government's Plan Regarding Ontario Regiments at Quebec Celebration is Not Approved in Peterborough

It is learned that the proposition has been made to the 57th Regiment that fifty per cent. of the corps be sent to the tercentenary celebration at Quebec next summer. This is the Government's policy regarding the Ontario regiments and it does not seem to be meeting with much favor of the officers.

It is likely that a meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment will be held during the next few days to consider the proposition. From remarks dropped by several of the officers it is not likely that the Government's offer will be accepted.

It is felt that any attempt to divide the regiment would be injurious to its best interests. Such a move would no doubt create ill-feeling and of course this is not desired by any means. If the whole regiment could go everything would be alright, but the fifty per cent. scheme doesn't look satisfactory at all.

HAD THE SAME NAME BUT SHE WAS NOT THE RIGHT PERSON

Review Reporter in Search of Miss Helen Dubois a Cousin of Mr. Jas. Lang, of Lang & Mahers—Saw Lady of That Name But She Was Not His Cousin

It was simply a case of two persons having the same name. To express the matter concisely, Mr. Jas. Lang of Lang & Maher's, has a cousin on the comic opera stage by the name of Miss Helen DuBois with "The Vanderbilt Cup," he naturally thought it was Cup," he naturally thought she was his cousin.

When the company arrived in the city yesterday, a Review reporter made enquiries and found out that Miss DuBois was registered at the Snowden House. He went there and inquired for her with the object of getting an interview with her thinking that the talk might be of interest on account of her being related to Mr. Lang. The newspaperman was informed that Miss DuBois was not at the hotel, and was told that she would probably be at the opera house. He called there and waited for a short time and she arrived.

"I don't know whether you know it or not," said the reporter after introducing himself, "but you are a cousin of a local merchant, Mr. Jas. Lang, of the firm of Lang & Maher." "I don't think so," she replied, "I'm informed you are, was your mother's name not O'Brien?"

"No, that was not my mother's name."

"Did you sing a part in the 'Wizard of the Nile?'"

"No, I never was with that production."

The reporter saw that he was "in wrong," and after explaining why he had sought the interview, said good-bye.

THE CAT AND THE SUPPER; A FATALITY ON LONDON-ST.

A well-known resident of London street came home last night about 10.30 o'clock feeling tired and hungry. When he reached home there was no one up, but he knew his wife might have his supper in the oven of the kitchen range in order that it might be kept warm for him. He went to the oven and reached in for his meal when a very unexpected sight greeted his eyes. What should he find there but the white family pussy and what had that pussy done but eaten the supper that had been so carefully put away for the head of the house. It is easy to imagine the latter's rage at finding his meal gone. The rest of the story is not hard to tell.

When the irate man had sized up the situation he seized a stick of wood and went after the cat in such an emphatic manner that the feline's enjoyment of the stolen supper was very brief for one hard bang and the white cat was no more.

This morning the housewife was very indignant over the cat's shockingly sudden demise. She is up in arms against her better half over the incident and is very much grieved over the sudden loss of her household pet.

CONTROLLING NATURE

Everybody knows that of late years natural forces have been wonderfully subjected to man's need. We are dazzled by the spectacular achievements in steam and electricity, but are likely to forget the less noisy but no less ble fruits and vegetables was far less marvelous conquest of animal and plant life.

Horses are swifter, cattle heavier, cows give more milk and sheep have finer fleeces than in days gone by. In plants the transformation is even more marked. People now living can remember when the number of edithan at present, and even those that could be grown were vastly inferior to what we now have. For example, our parents knew nothing of the tomato except as a curious ornament in the garden. Sweet Corn was hardly better than the commonest field sorts. All oranges had seeds. Celery was little known and poor in quality. In the flower bed the magnificent Pansy has replaced the insignificant Heart's Ease, from which it was developed, and the Sweet Pea in all its dainty splendor traces its origin to the common garden vegetable.

This progress has been made in spite of the great tendency manifested in all plants and animals to go back to the original type. It is indeed a battle to keep strains pure and up to the standard they have already attained let alone any improvement. The practical results are accomplished by man operating largely for love of the work, like Luther Burbank in California and Eckford in England, as well as by the great seed merchants D. M. Ferry & Co. of Windsor, Ont., who are not only eternally vigilant to hold what ground has been gained, but have a corps of trained specialists backed by ample means to conduct new experiments. The results of their experiences can be found in their 1908 Seed Annual, which they will send free to all applicants.

HAVE WOMEN A SENSE OF HONOR?

I mean that small personal honor in everyday relations which govern the business world of men, without which business could not go on on the same basis it now does throughout the countries of the civilized world, says Mary Heaton Vorse in Appleton's.

There is an unwritten code which prescribes that a man shall keep his word; that having been told anything it shall be permanently binding, that the property and letters of another person are not to be scrutinized with a curious eye. These are some of the elementary forms of honor, on which is built an elaborate structure of a thousand niceities of conduct. The list of things that are not done by a gentleman is a long one; the list of things that a mere common or garden variety of man doesn't do is a long one, though perhaps not quite so subtle in its variations.

Until a while ago, if I had been asked the question, "Have women a sense of honor?" I should have replied unhesitatingly, "Why, of course, they have!" If I had been asked further, "As great a sense of personal honor of men?" without stopping to think, I should have replied, "Why, sure!"

There came to my notice a little series of events which made me pause then as my interest in the subject grew, it broadened out more and more. I observed among the people me so many details which, though all of them insignificant in themselves, piles up into a fairly large sum of evidence.

There is a general consensus of opinion, that women are, as a sex, nobler, more moral, and better than men, a finer article in every way. Without going into the matter much, I had vaguely agreed with the popular theory. I know that every little while a scientific book is written which shows one that the scales don't tip so heavily towards the balance of woman's virtues. Every little while we have it brought to our notice again that we have never counted in the world of art or invention; but I had always, as I said, had an unthought-out belief belief that in a number of larger virtues and in many of the minor ones—honor for instance — we deserve the crown.

I sorted out my evidence. It was a pretty long list of indictments. I had been brought to see women grafting for benevolent purposes, perjuring themselves for the sake of justice, using what we euphemistically call "the feminine appeal" of gaining their ends in politics and in business, using unscrupulously their influence or position to further their own personal ends or the ends of their friends; and all with a beautiful simplicity. I had to admit their lack of honor in regard to letters, and now I came to think of it, there were other things I had to admit. It had happened to me many times in my life that I had friends come to me, religious women of exalted piety, who had betrayed the trust that their friends had placed in them, and repeated things they should not have repeated, because they felt that it was their duty to let me know what was going on. In the man world, as I have seen it, if a man gives his promise to another man to keep his confidence on a certain subject, this promise is considered binding upon the time of friendship. There are women who will keep their friends' secrets, but let the friendship cease and the secrets given to their trust are anyone's property.

I recalled only too clearly a little family tragedy of which I happened to be the witness. The brother had told his sister certain facts of his life. He wanted her advice. They quarrelled, and the sister immediately told the mother and father all about it. She had long felt it her duty to do so, she said; in fact she seemed to think that her better nature had struggled with her all along to make her tell the scrapes the boy was getting into. As soon as they quarrelled the better nature triumphed, and she told everything, and made a great deal of trouble doing it.

I know many women who automatically pump their servants who come from some friend's home. They do it without knowledge what they have done. If one were to accuse them of gossiping with the servants, they would deny it indignantly. I have had a woman talk down a telephone receiver and listen at a keyhole has no suchscruples in regard to a telephone.

I present this little investigation I have made for what it is worth. I do not for a moment mean to say that all women are lacking in personal honor, or that all men abound in it, but I do think that there is a code among men which does not exist—certainly to the same extent—among women and when men break this code they are discredited, as a woman is not. From my own personal experiences, the professional women who have been trained with men, share the man's code to a far greater extent than many women of equally high ideals and purity of life who have lived only in their own homes, cherishing the notion that because they are women their acts are good.

Mr. own conclusion is that lack of honor in the restricted sense I have specifiied is a women's vice, and that this will continue to be so as long as women give themselves virtuous reasons for breach of confidence of every kind.

THE WRONG TRACK

The Editor of The Review;

Sir,—The police authorities are after the needle in the haystack —the expectoration on the foot paths. But they could find much more detrimental causes of bad health. The streets might be much improved, many are just made for show. There are many insanitary buildings, and grounds requiring draining. The wharf at the only public access to our beautiful is within a few feet of the sewage outlet.

CHARGE OF A V. S.

(To the Editor of the Review).

Sir,—I wish to call your attention to what I consider an impertinent thing on the part of the foreman of the fire hall, Mr. Walter Pakenham. About a month ago I was called to the hall to attend a horse, sick with colic. I treated the animal, and few days ago sent in my bill.

This morning I met Mr. Pakenham. He asked me, "Don't you think you charged too much for attending that horse?" I told him no as the price asked was a very moderate charge. "What did you give it?" he further asked. Whereupon, I replied that it was nothing to him what I gave it as long as I cured it. He told me that he would see that I would not attend another horse at the fire hall.

Now Sir, I would like to know if it is Mr. Pakenham's business to dictate to me what I charge, or what medicine I give a horse. I intend to go before the city council next Monday night with the matter, and would like Mr. Pakenham to be also present.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor for the space in your paper.

STUDENTS TIE A GIRL TO TREE

Also Paint Seniors Faces in School---Riot Quelled by Police

Munice, Ind., March 31.—While the Junior class of the Munice High school was holding a class party at the home of Miss Norma Pattinger last night they were attacked by members of the senior class, and a riot followed, which six policemen could not suppress, and which was brought to an end only when a riot call brought the entire force upon the scene.

A dozen of the participants, including two young ladies, were severely injured, and Jacob Merz, father of one of the juniors, was roughly handled when he went to the rescue of his son. After the seniors had been dispersed and the police had retired the juniors started out after the seniors, and several of them were found together and attacked.

Miss Jessie Stylers, a senior, was captured and tied to a tree where she remained several hours almost exhausted till found by a searching party organized to look after her. Two other girls and several boys were taken to the Pattinger home, where their faces, necks, hands, and arms were painted red with house paint.

While this was going on in the parlor the seniors returned to the house obtained ladders, and mounting to the second story windows, entered the house and stole all the wraps of the juniors.

LARGE NUMBER AT OPEN SERVICE AT GEORGE ST.

Great Interest Being Taken in Special Services---Testimony Meeting Held Afterwards

A great deal of interest is being shown in the special services at the George street Methodist church and last night a very large congregation was at the open service. The basement of the church being filled. The service was in charge of the Social Adult Bible class and Mr. George Robertson's young men's class. Mr. R. J. Soden was in the chair, and gave a short address.

The song service from 7.45 to 8.15 o'clock was most interesting. Mr. McCann presided at the organ, and a male quartette consisting of Messrs. Thornton, Doidge, Cole and Miller took part.

Rev. Mr. Pearson delivered the address, and chose his text from Philippians 4—13, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

After the open service there was a testimony meeting at which there were several expressions of conversion.

CHARGED WITH STEALING WATCH

There was not much doing in police court this morning. A young man was charged with stealing a gold watch from Chas. Peters. The matter was settled last Tuesday out of court and this morning the case was dismissed without costs.

SPORTING NEWS

IS SIXTY-ONE BUT WILL WAGER THAT HE CAN BEAT HARTLEY

The walking match in Peterborough which begins on Easter Monday will bring out some well-known old-time heel-and-toe artists besides James Reynolds and Hartley —George Kekewich who was walking hereabouts a score of years ago, Jack Cooper, the former Essex harrier, who was second to Butler in his famous London to Brighton walk, and S L Brooks, an old-time champion of New Zealand Australia and Wales.

The last named is now sixty-one, but has no fear that he will not hold his own in the company, and yesterday he said: 'I will take two to one that I beat Hartley, old as I am.' Brooks, who is a resident of this city walked 117 miles in twenty-four hours in New Zealand as long ago as 1889. He says that plenty of challenges were flying about a few months ago, and now all the walkers, old and young, will have a fair chance to show what they really can do.—Toronto Glboe.

TORONTO MAN HAS ENTERED

Sends Letter to Dr. Johnston and Says He Can Walk With the Best of Them

Dr. Johnston's "dark horse" promises to be a feature of the big walking match at Brock street rink. The dark horse does not want his name mentioned but some information of interest is contained in the following letter received from him by Dr. Johnston;

Toronto, April 1st, 1908.
Dr. Johnston, V.S.;

Dear Sir,—Would you please make my entry in that 36-hour walk, in the rink in your city, commencing April 20th. Please send me the conditions of the race. I am the man who challenged Hartley both before and after he walked Jimmy Reynolds here, but got no reply. I won't say what can do, but I know what I have done with what I think better walkers than Mr. Hartley, and I think I can give the most of them a race yet.

Excuse me for being so forward, but, as I wrote you a few days ago, a letter for P. McCarty, in regards to Hazel Bell, and being a stranger in Peterborough, I thought I would ask you to do me this favor. Now you can enter me as Dr. Johnston's Unknown. I will go up a week before the race, and will call on you. You can withhold my name if you wish. all I will say I will be there at the finish.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

New York, April 2.—A fair degree of activity attended the opening this morning. The London market was heavy on the whole on account of the new German government offerings. Floor element hesitated about doing very much either way, but some of the more courageous traders were inclined to be bearish.

Moderate short covering set in later in the day and the market took on a strong tone in the afternoon with Union Pacific leading. One of the bull arguments during the day was that the administration and the Interstate Commerce Commission favored an advantage in freight rates.

We are inclined to feel hopeful regarding Erie's outlook. It seems to us that it would be the wisest course for the holders of the $5,500,000 unsecured notes to extend them, on condition that they receive security for the new notes which are to take the place of the old. The weakness of Erie issues may have been due solely to bear attack though it is likely there was some selling by timid persons. The firmest issues were the industrials. If Erie recovers the desired relief probably stocks will have a sharp rebound. This will give a chance to take profits on purchases made on recent setbacks. Buy only on drives, such stocks as Southern Pacific, B.R.T., A.C.P., Anaconda and the Steels. The close was somewhat heavy.

AN INDICTMENT EXTRAORDINARY

The Condition of Affairs Shown up--The People Being Robbed Systematically--An Appalling Record of Crime

It is not to be assumed, however, that there is no honest dealing under the system, and that every merchant, trader and manufacturer who shares in the Government patronage necessarily robs the country. In every Government there are Ministers who seek to get fair value for the public money. These are scores of men on the patronage list who exact only legitimate profits from the Government. But the system inevitably tends to waste and jobbery. Its beneficiaries are practically bound to contribute to the election fund of the ruling politicians. This they must accept as one of their regular liabilities, and they quote prices accordingly. The substantial result is that the Opposition goes down into its own pockets for money to run elections, while the Government, through the patronage system, taxes its beneficiaries, who in turn assess their contributions upon the public.

But this only touches the fringe of the evil. It is in the vast number of minor contracts that the chief jobberies are practiced. In very very many cases the awarding of contracts by tender is deliberately fraudulent. Forms of tender are sent out to the group of favored contractors who are on the patronage list by virtue of their support of the Government, and to one of these the contract is awarded. Petty contractors so unwise as to adhere to the Opposition are ignored. The primary consideration is that the public money shall not go outside the party, and that the appropriations shall be used to strengthen the loyalty of Liberals, or, in special cases, to detach Conservatives from their allegiance to the Opposition. Thus soundness in the latter is rewarded, and judicious conversions effected. Thus every dollar of public money paid out under these circumstances is made to serve the interests of the governing politicians and incidentally to accumulate money for elections, to subvert or penalize contractors who hesitate to adopt the policies of the Government, and generally to divide and destroy the Opposition.

There is also another feature of the system which calls for consideration. In not a few cases it is well known who are on the patronage list and these fortunate firms or individuals reach an understanding, and either divide the work at prices determined upon in advance, or they agree to take certain contracts in regular order. In all such cases the figures are excessive and the public is boldly plundered. Honest public officers do something to check and defeat those rascally manoeuvres. But they cannot always know where there is collusion and fraud. They know that the patronage list is inviolable. Moreover they understand that they must not busy themselves unnecessarily with the public interest as distinguished from the party interest. They are the servants of a party government and cannot find shelter behind an independent non-partisan civil service commission.

There is yet another feature of the system to be examined. There is no evidence that tenders are often manipulated at Ottawa. Indeed there is reason to think that a high average of honesty prevails amongst the permanent officials of the departments. But it is noteworthy that all over the country local Liberal politicians form themselves into companies, or embark in business as individual contractors. Lawyers, doctors and traders who have no experience whatever in the field in which they operate are conspicuous in these companies and they are singularly fortunate in receiving public contracts. It is interesting to recall how many Liberal politicians have turned their energies in this direction since 1896 and generally with fairly satisfactory results.

In short, patronage-making and patronage-giving has become a science and generally the experts are acknowledged supporters of the Government. There is no remedy short of a non-partisan organization of the civil service under an independent board, the honest observance of the contract system and the destruction of the patronage list. All this, by the way, was to come as the result of the accession of the Liberal politicians to office. If the only result has been to develop and extend the system they obtained office under false pretences and should again be relegated to the Opposition. In the meantime the taxpayers are plundered out of millions every year in order to maintain a system which benefits a favored political hierarchy and provides an easy means of raising huge funds for electoral corruption.—Toronto News.

BIBLE STUDY AT GOSPEL HALL

"Evidences of the Christian Life" Subject for Tomorrow Night

The subject tomorrow night will be "Evidences of the Christian Life." First, how one may know he is a Christian; second, how the world may know one is a Christian. This subject is the development of the study. On Friday night last the interest was so intense we heard of one family who stayed up till near two o'clock next morning searching the Word. The public is invited to hear the discussion and take part, if so inclined. —Com.

USE POTATOES AS PEN WIPERS

Kansas City Hotel Has Reviewed Unique Feature

One hundred and fifty hotels in Kansas City use a style of cabinet on their desks in which a receptacle is provided for a raw potato, in which it is the custom of the clerk to stick the pen after it is used for any purpose. The potato serves as a cleaner for the pen, and also a handy place in which it may be kept. A fresh potato is supplied every morning.

A guest at one of the hotels where this cabinet is used took the trouble to figure up how many potatoes were used for that purpose in Kansas City in one year. He not only surprised the clerk, but other guests who heard his comment. Counting two potatoes to each cabinet and 150 cabinets in the city, he found that 300 potatoes were used in one day. That didn't look so bad, but when he figured 300 potatoes a day for thirty days, or the average month, the figure nine with three ciphers after it looked rather appalling.

"Now, just figure up what that would be in a year," suggested another guest.

The man with the pencil figured: "Nine thousand potatoes a month for twelve months would be 108,000 potatoes a year."

"In two years enough potatoes would have been used for this purpose in Kansas City to supply"—

"That will do," said the second guest. "You have gone far enough with your figures. Just let it go at that."—Kansas City Journal.

DEBATING CLUB CLOSE YEAR WITH ENJOYABLE BANQUET

Delightful Time at Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Evening—The Toast List—Many Excellent Speeches Made.

The meetings of the Y.M.C.A. Debating Club for the winter season were brought to a happy culmination last evening, when a most enjoyable banquet was held in the Y.M.C.A. hall. The fortnightly meetings of the club held during the fall and winter months have been exceptionally successful, and have been the means of training a large number of young men to speaking before an audience. This last mentioned result is one of the aims of the Society, and there is no other medium so beneficial to a young man than to attend and take part in the debates of the club. They are also very educative and their topics have always been along the highest literary lines, and their debates have been on subjects of public interest.

Last evening about thirty members gathered around the festive board and a social and profitable time was spent. After the many choice and dainty viands provided by Coleman Bros. had been partaken of, the toastmaster, Mr. J. E. Hodgson, called the gathering to order and proposed the first toast, that to the "King," which was honored by the hearty singing of the National Anthem.

The next toast was to "Canada," proposed in a neat speech by Mr. G. Armstrong, and replied to by Mr. N. Greenhalgh.

Other toasts honored were "The Motherland," proposed by Mr. B. A. Lillie and responded to by Mr. W. McLaren; "Literature," proposed by Mr. W. G. Shinen, and replied to by Mr. E. Ray; "The Y.M.C.A.," proposed by Mr. E. C. Coleman and acknowledged by Messrs. H. C. Wright, J. M. Laing and E. A. Frewde, and "Our Critic," proposed by Mr. W. Common and responded to by Mr. J. E. Hodgson.

The speeches of the evening were cleverly made and reflected great credit on the speakers. Their remarks were presented in a clear and interesting manner amply evidencing the results obtained from the practice they had received in the meetings during the year.

The banquet was declared the best ever held by the club, and everyone went away having enjoyed themselves.

MR. STEFFENS ON THE GRAFTER AND HIS ART

American Writer Addressed the Canadian Club of Montreal at Weekly Luncheon Recently.

Mr. J. Lincoln Stefens, of New York, a writer of magazine articles, who has made a reputation by digging up facts in connection with the sins of United States cities, was the guest of the Canadian Club of Montreal at the weekly luncheon today. The chair was occupied by Mr. H. Gerin-Lajoie, K.C., who, in introducing the speaker, referred to the many United States grafters who have made Montreal their home in the past. Mr. Stefens was warmly received, and his address was listened to with much interest by the seventy-five members of the club present. His study of graft, he said, had taught him to believe that it is really the good fellows and the able men who are the grafters. Grafters, he said had just as much interest in the technique of business as the painter or the writer. He told the story of an alderman in an American city who was a grafter, but who declared to the speaker that if ever there was a reform movement in his city, he would join it. "That man," Mr. Stefens declared, "did join the movement, and he was the last one to leave it when it finally broke up. Our worst men are our best men.

Railways are the principal sources of corruption and I think police graft comes next. It seems strange, but it is a fact that the leading citizens of the big cities are the men who give the biggest opposition to reform movements. Insurance, railways and banking commissioners in our country are hard at work, and will you believe it, it is the banks themselves that control the commissioner. The good banks do not care what he does, but the bad banks do. You in Canada, have a young country and you have not given away everything as yet; don't do it. The happiest men in the world are those who are working for other men. Men are pretty good. Give them a chance; it is not what you want; it is what the common people want. Work for it."—Montreal Star.

ONE LIFE FOR EVERY MILE OF TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY

Winnipeg, April 2.—In the period of one year from March 29 last year to March 31st this year the lives of fifty men were sacrificed through negligence or carelessness on the hundred mile stretch of the National Transcontinental Railway between the Manitoba boundary and the east end of Canyon lake, a distance of 100 miles. This does not include those killed on the section east of Vermillion, nor does it take note of the scores of poor fellows who have lost eyes or limbs on these sections of the National Transcontinental. Criminal negligence and the use of low grade explosives and inexperienced workmen are causes.

The undertakers at Kenora have not been so busy in many years since the work on the Transcontinental commenced a couple of years ago. The little cemetery never contained so many new graves. Not in all the years of Rat Portage mining booms were so many lives sacrificed as on this hundred mile stretch of track, in the space of twelve months.

It is freely stated in Kenora that on the section of Dutton and McArthurs work stretching ten miles east of Winnipeg river the toll of lives expended was over a man a mile. Perhaps the fifteen miles on the south side of the Canyon Lake north of Vermillion will mark the death beds of more men than any other one hundred mile stretch already alluded to. Men have been slaughtered there in six and sevens and buried on work in unconsecrated grounds.

It is stated that thirty corpses lie beneath the sod on this windswept hill, but as to that only those who laid them there can answer. Thirty men killed for fifteen miles of work is indeed a high average.

IS PETERBOROUGH TO HAVE ANOTHER PICTURE SHOW?

It is said that Mr. George Scott, who for some time conducted Scott's Coliseum in this city, is negotiating to secure the south half of the store on George street that has been formerly occupied by Mr. R. A. Dutton, for the purpose of carrying on a moving picture show. No definite arrangements have been made in the matter, however.

The quarters referred to are at present unoccupied, Mr. Dutton having gone out of the fish business and will in the future carry on solely a fruit business in what was the northern half of the present store.

It is understood that there is not much likelihood of the picture show being established, as it is probable that a staircase will be built connecting the ground floor with the one above. If the staircase were built there would not be sufficient room on the premises for the picture show.

George Lafleure, of Colborne, barber, fell downstairs and died of his injuries.

THIS WAS A SAD SAD PEDESTRIAN

Dropped Little Jar on the Pavement and Precious Contents Were Spilled

There was a sad scene on Hunter street, near the post office yesterday, and at least from the standpoint of the one who is like the cup that cheers and sometimes inebriates.

About ten o'clock a man was hustling along towards the post office, carrying a parcel under his arm. The parcel was just an ordinary looking one and its covering of newspaper gave no hint as to the contents. In front of J. T. O'Connell's real estate office the pedestrian slipped on a piece of ice and in trying to stay on his feet, the parcel dropped. There was a crash of breaking stone and then a clear liquid started to trickle through the paper wrapper and out onto the pavement. The little brown jug was broken into twenty pieces and the odor of the stuff that was spilled left no doubt as to its nature. There was a lively discussion among some passers-by as to whether it was "Scotch" or high wines and the point was not settled.

"Too bad to waste it that way," was the comment of many who passed. The owner of the jug proceeded on his way in a sorrowful mien.

AUTO BURSTS INTO A HOUSE

And Landed in the Parlor of a Trenton Man's Home

A despatch from Trenton, N.J., says;

An automobile containing two women and their chauffeur last night crashed through the front of a frame cottage into the parlor of a citizen in this city. In the car were Mrs. Karl G. Roebling, niece of Robert C. Clowry; Miss Emily Roebling, and Chauffeur John Roupp. The car belonged to the Roeblings, and the party was returning from the seashore. The house that was so unceremoniously invaded was that of W. J. Chinnick, and is situated near the Inter-State Fair Grounds.

The night was very dark, and the chauffeur failed until the last moment to notice a herd of cows in front of him. The machine was running at a high rate of speed when a white cow showed up. The car dodged the white cow, but hit a black one, wrenching the steering wheel from the driver.

The machine then zigzagged across the road, smashed through a light picket fence, and did not stop until it had forced its way into the Chinnick parlor. Although the house front was smashed, none of the party was injured.

Mrs. Chinnick was putting her child to bed in a back room when the crash came. She opened the door into the front room, and was amazed at the sight of the snorting machine, containing her unannounced visitors.

The chauffeur helped the women to alight, and mechanics were at once put to work on the wreck, but it took until this morning to remove the car. The front of the house will have to be practically rebuilt.

The black cow which was hit got a broken leg and had to be killed.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

secretary of local YWCA

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.W.C.A., held on Tuesday afternoon, Miss Mayneord, secretary of the association, placed her resignation before the board, the same to take effect, the end of June. Miss Mayneord's decision to sever her connection with the local Y.W.C.A., came as a great surprise to the directors and it was received with the profoundest regret. Miss Mayneord has filled the office of secretary for two years, and during that time she has made a large number of friends both among the members of the association and in other circles. Miss Mayneord intends after leaving Peterborough, to visit with friends, and early in the fall will sail for her old home in London, England.

WEDDING BELLS

WHITE—BOTHWELL

An interesting and very pretty first of April wedding was celebrated yesterday evening at 7 o'clock at the residence of Mr. John Bothwell, High Park Cottage, North Monaghan, when his daughter, Miss Violet Teresa was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Lawrence White, grandson of Mr. John Fowler,, Gravel Road. About 80 guests were in attendance, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Dr. Marsh, pastor of the Springville Presbyterian church. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with beautiful flowers producing a splendid effect in the candle light.

The ceremony took place before a bank of flowers and ferns. The bride was attired in a costume of cream chiffon broadcloth trimmed with maltese insertion. She also wore orange blossoms. She was assisted by Miss Ella White, a sister of the groom who wore a pretty white costume and carried pink roses. The groomsman was Mr. Harry Bothwell, a brother of the bride. Miss Mildred Mahood, niece of the bride was the pretty little flower girl. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Master John Marsh, son of Dr. and Mrs. Marsh.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests sat down to an inviting repast spread on beautifully decorated tables. The presents were handsome and numerous including a number of cheques. Mr. and Mrs. White will reside on the Gravel Road, North Monaghan.

RAT ATTACKS A GARDNER

"Mr. Thomas Flynn, the market gardener living on the Hamilton road had an exciting experience on his way to market Saturday morning," says the London Free Press.

"He was walking along near the second gore, when he was tackled by a large muskrat, which ran after him making a furious attack.

"Mr. Flynn, however, was undaunted by the fierce onslaught, and by the help of a large stone succeeded in separating the animal from his leg and despatching it.

"The animal was put into a basket, and brought to town, where Mr. Flynn exhibited it to a throng of admiring friends as a proof of his story.

"The animal was weighed and turned the scale at seven and a half pounds."

AMUSEMENTS

"The Vanderbilt Cup," the much heralded race comedy, was given its first presentation in Peterborough last night at the Grand, when it was witnessed by a large audience. The piece won considerable applause but did notpossess any conspicuously brilliant parts.

Genevieve Victoria, in the part of Dorothy Willetts, a simple country girl, was the bright shining star of the production, and was really excellent in the leading role. Her work was delightful throughout, and her piquant comedy was much appreciated. "Somewhere in the World," was the prettiest song number of the show. Other songs that took well were "I Can't Help Thinking of You," and "The Light That Lies in Girlish Eyes."

BANK FALLS FORTY FEET

Yesterday morning at ten o'clock when the waters of the Grand were at their highest, the steep embankment along the tracks of the Grand Trunk one mile south of Doon quietly slipped into the river.

About forty feet of the roadbed has been washed away but the railway authorities at Stratford were immediately notified and soon had a large gang on the spot to make repairs. By working continuously this morning, adequate temporary repairs hadbeen made to give the scheduled train service.

It is most fortunate that this slide took place when it did for had it occurred on a week day it would have been accompanied with more serious results.—Galt Reformer.

ARRESTED WHILE SELLING BIBLES

Society's Agents Placed Under Arrest in Hull, Que.

Ottawa, April 1— Representatives of the Ottawa auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society who attempted to sell or distribute bibles in the transpontine city were arrested yesterday and taken to the police station on a charge of peddling without a license. The representatives, was however, released, but a little trouble may follow over the matter. Rev. A A Cameron, in company with some others went to Hull this morning to see Mayor Thibault about the matter but as the mayor is absent from the city nothing was done. The officials however, advised the delegation to wait upon the council at its meeting next Monday evening and to lay their case before that body. The Bible society claim that as the representaitves were no peddling goods for personal gain they should be allowed to sell unmolested. The Bible Society holds that in the event of the prospective customers are not able to buy a bible they are given one as a present and they hold that it is for the good of God, and the people that they are endeavoring to spread the bible. hTe Hull police state that some of the residents informed the police that the Bible Society representatives wrce also talking religion and this is the reason that they informed upon them and asked that they be arrested as peddlars.

It is very probable that the Bible Society will be allowed to distribute bibles in future, but the sanctino of the council must be obtained before they can do it without a license.

FANATICAL DOUKS. MAY GO TO TAHITI

Russian Consul in Montreal States Proposition is Now Before French Government

Montreal, March 31.—Doukhobors who are discontented with Canada, and refuse to become Canadian citizens or obey Canadian laws, may find a home under the French flag where they can do as they please.

The fanatical ninety at Fort William, who have broken away from the main body, and seem to be irreconcilable and opposed to all modern ideas, are anxious to leave Canada. They are not wanted back in Russia; no other country seems anxious to have them, and the problem of how to settle their grievances without inflicting grievances on other people, seems only solvable by isolation.

M. de Struve, the Russian consul in Montreal, who has taken a deep interest in the Doukhobors, had made a suggestion, which is at present under consideration by the French Government, that the fanatical section of the Doukhobors should be permitted to settle under the French flag, near the French dependency of Tahiti in the Pacific ocean.

ISLAND DESCRIBED.

Tahiti or Otaheiti is the largest of the Society islands, comprising about four hundred square miles. It is of volcanic origin, and consists of two mountainous slopes culminating in a peak over 7,000 feet high. The seat of Government for the French oceanic possessions is situated at Papeiti, the capital of Tahiti, where there is a French Government resident, with a privy council and an elective council general

Tahiti is surrounded by several hundred small islands, many of them little more than coral reefs, and it is on one of the larger of these, which is well wooded, and watered, that it is suggested the Doukhobors should be quartered As they do not use beasts of burden, and do not eat the flesh of animals they would not suffer through lack of fauna, which are scarce, and the mild, healthful climate, it is thought, would suit them admirably

The islands export principally copra, pearl shells, oranges, cotton and vanilla, and in the cultivation of the last two products there would be an ample field for the energies of the Doukhobors

The Fort William community are believed to be willing to emigrate, The leaders state that they only wish to be left alone, and if the French government is agreeable, their wish would probably be gratified, as there are several islands of the society groups entirely uninhabited, and it is proposed that the community should be located on one of them

The scheme, of course, does not affect the main body of the Doukhobors, who are content to remain in western Canada, where they are leading industrious lives, and assisting in the development of the country,

The body of a female infant was found in an outhouse in London yesterday.

J. Bedlyonic, station man in the G.T.P. camp at Dryden, was killed by a dynamite explosion.

SPRING POETRY

Then it's back to Old England for me;
For there's no milk and honey,
And darned little money,
So it's back for a trip o'er the sea.

PROBE NOT TO BE DEEP IN THIS CASE

Commission Will be Restricted to Supply Purchase System—Other Damaging Statements in Report Are Ignored

Ottawa, April 3.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday laid on the table a copy of an order-in-council appointing Justice Cassels a commissioner to investigate charges against the Department of Marine and Fisheries. The order cites one paragraph of the report of the Civil Service Commission, which asserts that in making purchases for the Department some one assists the trader to get better prices from the Government than he gets elsewhere. To enquire into this charge Judge Cassels is commissioned. That is all.

Apparently the investigation is to be restricted and other damaging statements ignored.

R. L. Borden enquired of the Prime Minister if Judge Cassels had accepted the duty of investigating the charges made by the Civil Service Commission against the Department of Marine and Fisheries. He also asked why three officers mentioned by the Minister had been suspended, having regard to the fact that no officer had been mentioned by the commission. It seemed to Mr. Borden that the report was a condemnation of the Department as a whole.

Mr. Brodeur replied that one of the officers was suspended some time ago. As to the others, J. F. Fraser and J. U. Gregory, the Minister had made some enquiries and found out orders given by himself had been disregarded by those officials.

"They were not suspended as a result of the report of the commission?" asked Mr. Borden.

It was the result, said Mr. Brodeur, of some enquiries made by himself since the report was brought down. He would bring down the papers.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he had a letter from Judge Cassels, which he had not yet read.

Mr. Blain asked how many copies of the civil service report would be printed. There was a great demand for it.

This, replied Mr. Fielding, was under the control of the printing committee.

Mr. Borden asked when the third official, Owen, was suspended, and upon what grounds.

"On account of his private conduct," said Mr. Brodeur. "I wouldn't like to give the reasons."

Mr. Fielding corrected an answer he gave some days ago with regard to advances made by the bank on account of the Quebec bridge. In addition to the sum mentioned, there was an item of $155,000 advanced by the bank to the company, which went into construction of the bridge.

Mr. Speaker announced that a joint meeting of the House of Commons and Senate would be held at 11 o'clock to-day in the Senate Chamber, to discuss the Champlain tercentenary.

Mr. Graham informed Mr. Lalor that John Escott, deputy superintendent of the Welland Canal, at Dunnville, had not resigned.

The budget debate collapsed unexpectedly last night because of a misunderstanding between the whips of the two sides.

There was a long "waiting list," and it had been arranged that Sinclair of Nova Scotia would follow Martin of Prince Edward Island. When Martin sat down there was an awkward pause, and Deputy Speaker Marcil, put the motion to go into committee of ways and means. No one claimed the floor. and the deputy speaker put the motion.

The resolutions to rearrange the excise duties on tobacco were discussed in the House last night. Mr. Templeman, Minister of Inland Revenue, and Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, explained to Mr. Bristol that the new duties would make small difference in the revenue, wages of cigarmakers would not be decreased and the price of cigars would not be increased.

Major Beattie (London) claimed that the new regulations would be hurtful to Canadian industry. He spoke for a large number of cigarmakers in London who opposed the single stamp for all brands of tobacco. Under the regulations it would be possible to put any brand of tobacco into cigars.

Mr. Clarke (Sussex) who favored the single stamp, said it was unfair for the Government to put the stamp of inferiority on cigars made of Canadian tobacco.

AMPUTATED WITH KNIFE

Pinioned Under Wreckage, Man Pleads to Have His Leg Cut Off

St. Louis, April 3.—While pinioned under the wreckage following a collision between a freight and a Burlington passenger train at Spanish Lake, near here, yesterday, J. A. McKittrick suffered the amputation of his leg with a pocket-knife in order to avoid death from the scalding steam. Rev. R. C. Allen of Grove City performed the operation at the urgent request of the prisoner, who was later brought to a hospital here, where it is said he will recover. Four others were injured in the wreck.

McKittrick's left leg was caught under the demolished cars and scalding steam from the passenger locomotive enveloped him in a cloud. The prisoner pulled out his pocket-knife and handing it to Rev. Mr. Allen, who, with others, was trying to drag him free, commanded the minister to cut off the crushed leg and save him from being scalded to death.

Rev. Mr. Allen began cutting at the tendons, but the knife was dull, and McKittrick suffered intense agony.

"Throw it away and get an axe," he finally cried. However, Mr. Allen desperately continued, and in a few minutes had severed the tendons and McKittrick was carried into a car.

Mrs. Emma Renner, a trained nurse, who was a passenger, made a tourniquet of her veil, and staunched the flow of blood, and then gave McKittrick morphine and strychnine to ease the pain and stimulate the heart action, until he reached the hospital in St. Louis.

Tips Low In British House.

Waiters in the House of Commons complain of the low record of modern times in tips. The record figure climax was reached when one of the waiters handed as total tips for the day into the pool the sum of two pence.

Waiters' wages run from 18 to 25 shillings a week. Tips are expected to make them 30 and sometimes 40, but now the waiters ask a steady and adequate wage and the abolition of tipping.

They declare the Labor members are good to the waiters in proportion to the little waiting they need. Unionists are the most generous and always have been. Some of the richest Liberals are the least liberal.

Embracing His Opportunity.

The deacon, who did not often have a chance to speak, was appointed to open the exercises. He dragged his address out in a most tiresome manner, repeating the same thought again and again.

Unable to endure it any longer a couple of boys left the church. A coachman who was waiting for his employer attending the exercises within asked them if the deacon had finished his speech. "Gee, yes," replied the boys, "but he won't stop!"

Henry Campbell, of Port Dalhousie, a ship carpenter, is dead, aged 59.

Students on Strike.

New York, April 3.—The entire student body of New York University went on strike yesterday and refused to attend their recitations to voice a protest against the suspension of Alfred Young, president of the junior class.

Young's suspension was the result of the hazing of Henry Bloch, a freshman, who was ducked in the campus fountain Wednesday. Bloch has been unpopular and it is said that some of the students have asked his father to take him out of the university.

Blyth Bank Robbed.

Blyth, April 3.—Two thousand dollars in cash was secured by expert burglars, who Wednesday night wrecked the safe in the private bank of James McMurchy. The safe was badly wrecked.

"They made a good job of it," said Mr. McMurchy. "Only cash was taken, and papers which could have no negotiable value to them were left."

The burglars gained an entrance by forcing the front door with a crowbar and dynamite was used on the safe. It was the work of experts.

Dead Horse In River.

Chatham, April 3.—City Engineer Johns' investigation of a rumor that a dead animal had been thrown into the Thames River, above the city, found that a dead horse is in the source of the city water supply. Dr. Charteris, health officer for Chatham Township, was notified and will have the water cleared. Prosecutions will follow.

Death In Prairie Fire.

Paxton, Neb., April 3.—A prairie fire has been raging in the sandhills for two days.

James Kane was burned to death, many houses destroyed, hundreds of heads of live stock lost and thousands of acres of the prairie burned.

Standard Weight For Bread.

Toronto, April 3.—Ordinary bread must be a standard weight of one and a half pounds, according to the decision of the bread committee of the Legislature, which concluded its work yesterday.

Fancy loaves may be one and one and a quarter pounds, but must have a label showing the weight, baker, and the fact that it is fancy.

The inspection will be at the factory or bakery, and in the shop when the bread is sent out of town.

Fought and Disagreed.

Chicago, April 3.—A fight between jurymen in which a heavy oak chair was demolished, tables and other furniture dented and several men slightly injured, marked the jury's deliberations in the "Barney" Coffey Sunday saloon closing case in the Municipal Court.

Hague Treaty Ratified.

Washington, April 3.—The general arbitration treaty agreed upon at The Hague conference was yesterday ratified by the Senate, as were arbitration treaties between the United States and Mexico and between the United States and Italy.

A DISASTROUS TENEMENT FIRE

Three Killed and Fifteen Injured in New York Yesterday---Inmates of House Jumped From Windows.

New York, April 3.—Three persons were killed, 15 injured, some seriously, and the lives of nearly a hundred persons were endangered by fire in a five-storey tenement house at No. 44 Hester street, early yesterday. The dead are: Berel Weinstein, his wife Anna, and their one-year-old son. They were suffocated in their apartments on the fifth floor.

That more lives were not lost was largely due to the prompt action of three policemen, who seeing flames in the hall, rushed through the building and aroused 16 sleeping families. By that time the stairways were a mass of flames, and the only means of exit was by the fire escapes. In their attempt to escape scores of scantily-clad men, women and children became wedged in solid masses on the fire escapes. There they stood helpless, unable to extricate themselves from the crush, and blocking the way of those who had not yet succeeded in getting out of the building. This was the situation when the firemen arrived, and began to run up ladders to take down the panic-stricken fugitives. In the meantime the flames had been constantly spreading, and the terror among many at windows and on the fire escapes had passed the point of self-restraint. While firemen on ladders and others on the ground were calling out to them that there was no danger, and that help soon would reach them, they began, one by one, to jump from the windows. David Miller sprang from a fourth storey window and sustained injuries which probably will cause his death. Others who jumped from windows on the second and third floors have broken limbs and were internally injured.

Weinstein and his wife and baby were found lying dead in their home on the top floor of the building after the flames had been extinguished. Apparently they had been overcome by smoke while trying to reach the stairway. The property loss is small.

BIG FACTORY WAS BURNED

Several Firms at London Lose Heavily.

London, April 3.—Fire last night destroyed the building and contents of the Hobbs Plate and Stained Glass Manufacturing Co., including the mirror plant of the Canada Furniture Co., and a portion of the stock of the Western Wire and Nail Works, in all of which companies T. Hobbs is largely interested.

The loss is estimated at $300,000, with insurance about $240,000.

The fire broke out at 6.20 p.m., apparently at the bottom of an elevator shaft, where a considerable quantity of straw is said to have been. The cause of the outbreak is not known. The building is situated near the Grand Trunk depot, and across from the Tecumseh House.

When the fire department reached the spot the flames were in full possession, and nothing could be done to save the building, which was of irregular construction from one to three storeys.

Falling bricks injured Firemen Ferguson and Haylock, but not seriously. Debris, which fell across the railway tracks, forced the Grand Trunk to send trains around by Port Stanley.

Safe Crackers Got $5,400.

Muskegee, Okla., April 3.—Robbers blew open the safe of the Bank of Mounds, at Mounds, Okla., 50 miles west of here yesterday and obtained $5,400 in currency and silver and escaped. Posses are in pursuit.

A Serious Charge.

Brantford, April 3.—William Dyer, a colored man employed at local stables, is under arrest here, charged with criminal assault on Sadie Bedford, a 10-year-old colored girl, niece of the prisoner.

Bad Fire at Ingersoll.

Ingersoll, April 3.—The Manchester Cereal Co.'s factory was destroyed by fire here at 9.30 last night. The loss is about $26,000, of which $17,000 is on the building.

WILD SCENE IN THE COURT; A PRISONER OPENS FIRE

Convicted Prisoner Opens Fire on Police Officers—Henry McDonald Found Guilty of Arson Draws Revolver—Kills Chief of Detectives

Terre Haute, Ind., April 3.—Found guilty of a charge of arson, Henry D. McDonald, in the Circuit Court room yesterday, shot and killed Chief of Detectives Wm. E. Dwyer, seriously wounded three other officers and a bystander. McDonald had been tried for dynamiting stores and a church in Sandford last year.

As soon as the jury reported its verdict McDonald jumped up, drew a revolver and fired at Prosecuting Attorney James A. Cooper, Jr., but missed, because Cooper tipped his chair over backwards. McDonald continued firing at the officers seated around the counsel table. Detective Dwyer fell dead at the third shot.

Policemen and deputy sheriffs in the court room drew revolvers and opened fire on McDonald, who returned the fire. Before the convicted man fell with half a dozen bullets in his body, he had shot Harvey V. Jones, the superintendent of police, in the side; Deputy Sheriff Ira Wellmann, in the chin; Sylvester Doyle, court bailiff, in the leg, and a bystander in the side.

The jurors jumped to their feet at the first shot. Judge J. T. Walker, one of the attorneys, tried to stop McDonald, but he only hindered the officers, who were afraid of hitting him when they shot at McDonald.

Judge Crane, who presided at the trial, ran to the railing of the jury box, and the spectators rushed out in confusion.

Persons in offices below the court room heard the shots and rushed towards the upper floor only to collide with the people leaving the court room. About 1,000 persons collected around the building in the few minutes, and the police had to be called to prevent the crowd from forcing its way into the court house.

Some of the spectators to the shooting said McDonald's brother also fired at the officers. The officers are looking for the brother.

McDonald was finally overwhelmed by the officers, his ammuntion spent and his strength weakened by wounds and taken to a hospital. It is said that McDonald and the other wounded men will recover.

BRIDE ENDED HER EXISTANCE

Gowned in Wedding Finery Suicides by Inhaling Gas

New York, April 3.—Mary Green, aged 22, the daughter of a former sea captain, living in East Ninety-Fifth street, attired herself in all the finery she had planned to wear at her wedding at Easter time, and then committed suicide by gas asphyxiation yesterday.

She was engaged to marry William Edgington, an electrical engineer, and she seemed to be happy when her friends gave her a party on Tuesday evening.

While her brother was asleep in an adjoining room, she entered the bath tub, tied a rubber tube leading from the gas jet to her mouth and was dead when discovered. She left a note to her fiancee begging his forgiveness, but giving no reason for her suicide.

Vancouver, April 3.—When the number of Japanese entitled to admission to Canada during any one year is reached, the Federal authorities have the assurance of the Japanese Government that the issue of passports for Canada will be stopped and there will consequently be no arrivals here during the remainder of the year.

New York, April 3.—The suit of Evelyn Thaw for the annulment of her marriage to Harry Thaw will come up in the Supreme Court on Monday next.

REQUESTS OF LABOR ELEMENT

Old-Age Pensions, Shipbuilding, Bounty and Other Matters.

Ottawa, April 3.—The National Trades and Labor Council of Canada, through its representative, interviewed Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux to present to them the resolutions passed at the annual convention in Glace Bay. Among their requests were the following:

1. The introduction of a system of old-age pensions.
2. The granting of a Government bounty on shipbuilding large enough to put the Canadian shipbuilding firms on a footing of equality with their foreign competitors.
3. A customs duty of 60 per cent. on vehicles and imported parts thereof.
4. The granting of Government shoe contract to contractors who use the national label.
5. The amendment of the Alien Labor Act to allow the Government to take preliminary proceedings under the act, and to assume the legal costs involved.
6. An increase of the poll tax on Asiatics from $500 to $1,000.

The deputation also asked for deep sea quays at Levis and a large drydock at Quebec.

Emperor Will Be Careful.

Vienna, April 3.—As a measure of precaution on account of ill-health, Emperor Francis Joseph will abstain from taking part in the customary holy week ceremonies, which included the washing of the feet of the poor.

Coal Men Deadlocked.

Pittsburg, April 3.—Shortly after 3 o'clock the conference between the miners and operators adjourned without reaching a settlement. Both sides were deadlocked all day, but it is said another effort will be made in a few days.

RETORT OF THE ONTARIO PREMIER

Says Senator Kerr Acts as Footman to Jim Conmee—Date of Election Not Yet Decided Upon—Report of Redistribution Committee

Toronto, April 3.—Hon. Mr. Whitney, the Prime Minister, will announce the date of the forthcoming provincial elections from his position in the House, if the date is determined before the Legislature prorogues. He made the announcement at the opening of the House yesterday, and followed it with a caustic reference to the reported comments of Senator J. K. Kerr, whom he characterized as "a running footman to the carriage of James Conmee," on the position of the Legislature on Provincial Rights. "I see," said Mr. Whitney, "that he has made ducks and drakes of my reputation as an authority on constitutional law. I am fully cognizant that my knowledge of constitutional law is infinitely less than the knowledge of unconstitutional practices possessed by the distinguished Senator."

Mr. C. M. Bowman (North Bruce) laid upon the table the minority report of the redistribution committee. "It dissents," he observed briefly, "from the report of the majority and recommends that the schedules attached be adopted."

Hon. Mr. Whitney observed that the action was irregular and out of order. The minority report should have been moved in committee. In the matter of redistribution, however, he was anxious that every reasonable suggestion should be heard, and accordingly asked that it be referred for full consideration to the committee of the whole House to whom the bill had been referred.

The report of the Liberal minority on the redistribution committee recommended the following arrangement of the Hurons:

Centre—Ashfield, Colborne, Hullett, McKellop, Goderich townships; Goderich and Clinton towns.

South—Stanley, Tuckersmith; Osborne, Hay, Steven townships; Seaforth town; Exeter, Hensall and Bayfield villages.

North—East and West Wawanosh, Morris, Grey, Howick, Turnberry, and Wingham townships; Brussels, Wroxeter and Blythe villages.

The Liberals accepted the arrangement in Brant and York Counties, but recommended that the ridings in Middlesex, Essex, Toronto and Peterboro be left as they were. The same recommendation was made with referenc to Brockville, Cardwell, Peel, Ottawa, Leeds and West Northumberland.

The redistribution of New Ontario, so as to afford increased representation was accepted.

"Lest there should be any misapprehension," said Hon. Mr. Whitney before the orders of the day were called, "I want to put to rest the rumor that we are rushing business in a hurry to get through and hold an election on May 28. Nothing is further from our thoughts. If the date of the election is determined before the House adjourns I shall take it upon myself to formally announce the date in the House. As soon as the date is determined by the Cabinet it will be made known to all at the same time. I am aware that in adopting this course we are establishing a precedent, but it will not be the first good precedent that has been created by this Government. I am aware that this course is not followed at Ottawa, but I trust good example will tell in time.

"In suggesting Tuesday for winding up the session I desired to cause the members to get at the work remaining. I have not recently been apprehensive of any member's health suffering from overwork—"

Mr. Studholme—"Hear, hear."

"The municipalities," continued the Prime Minister, "were making arrangements for their bills, some of them after the middle of next week. I foresaw if someone did not wake up we would sit here till July 1. Outside of the redistribution measure there is not enough on the order paper to keep the House one busy day.

"One thing more," added Mr. Whitney, "I see that a certain Senator before the committee at Ottawa on the Ontario & Michigan Co. bill yesterday made ducks and drakes of my reputation as an authority on constitutional law. The Senator in question is one of peculiar proclivities and is known as J. K. Kerr. This gentleman objected to paying any attention to a resolution from this Legislature and said, as reported: 'I have yet to hear of Mr. Whitney proving an authority on Provincial Rights or anything else.'

"Of course, I deemed myself duly crushed," observed Mr. Whitney amid laughter. "But I shall endeavor to survive. This Senator is best known as the running footman to the carriage of James Conmee. (Laughter and applause.) He is the individual, the House will remember, who carried around the fake resignation to enable Mr. Conmee to keep the public in uncertainty as to whether or not he was a member of this House. Under the circumstances I realise that my knowledge of constitutional law is much less than the knowledge of unconstitutional practice possessed by this distinguished Senator." (Government applause.)

Mr. C. N. Smith (Sault), referring to the question of elections, said the preparation of the voters' lists in unorganized sections had only started two or three weeks ago. There was, he said, a rumor that the Government would not hold the elections in the newly-created constituencies until after the general election elsewhere.

Mr. Whitney replied that he was satisfied that the Government would act in a proper and desirable way in this, as in other matter.

In moving the second reading of the bill providing for the development of water power on Dog Lake, Hon. Adam Beck stated that it was part of the Government's policy to not only supply cheap power to the people of the Province of Ontario, but that the water powers of the province should be presented to the people.

"We hope to be able to-morrow to convince these people that our estimates are absolutely correct," continued Mr. Beck. He stated that details were being carefully worked out.

"We have $9 power instead of $12 power; we have 14-cent copper instead of 28-cent copper. Fortune is with us, the gods are with us and the blessing is with the men who are working on earnestly and honestly. The people of this province believe in this undertaking."

Mr. Beck stated that the estimates which would not be submitted would be final until tenders were received which would convince the Government that the policy could be carried out. The tenders would have to be endorsed by approved guarantee companies and the Government and municipalities secured against all liability.

Hon. Frank Cochrane pointed out that the proposition with reference to Dog Lake was to have a dam of much larger proportions than was formerly intended so that all interests would be served and a more valuable water-power below Dog Lake protected.

The evening sitting was devoted to a further discussion of Hon. Mr. Hanna's prison reform resolution.

"NATIONAL LIFE AT STAKE."

Hindu Journal In Vancouver to Preach Political Freedom.

Vancouver, April 3.—The initial number of a free Hindustan publication, under the auspices of the local Hindus, has appeared. Its avowed object is to preach the doctrine of political, social and religious freedom. The first number deals largely with immigration bars to the Dominion.

The leading editorial, "Our National Life at Stake," begins in the following manner:

"To-day our national life is at stake; British Government in India has already adopted all possible repressive measures to crush our national aspirations, and a new measure is going to be adopted which will lead our national life to stagnation. We are slaves in our country and have no voice in the government of our country. Far from having any representation of our own, we are treated worse than the cats and dogs of Englishmen in British colonies."

The editorial closes as follows:

"We ask authorities of British Government to use discretion about our interests. Really the foundation of the British Empire is undermined on the very day when a legislative body unjustly supports measures owing to which natives of Hindustan cannot go freely to other parts of the Empire. We fear another act of injustice may bring news of an upheaval which will rend the Indian empire.

JURY HAD THEIR MINDS MADE UP

Condemned Man Gives Way to Emotion--What Foreman Says

Brampton, April 3.—Commutation of the sentence of death passed on John Tearse at Brampton will be applied for at once by his counsel. It is understood the crown authorities will support the application.

Tearse wept a good deal yesterday and complained that "them chaps had their minds made up before they went into the jury room."

While Tearse is the fifth person convicted in Peel County, none have been hanged.

R. B. Ashley, foreman of the jury, makes the following statement:

"We approached the consideration of the question with perfectly open minds anxious to do our sworn duty to the prisoner and to society. Every particle of evidence was weighed as carefully as we were able, without prejudice to the prisoner. From the moment the jury was called until a verdict was rendered no disparaging remarks were made about the prisoner. In fact, there was a strong feeling of sympathy for him, but we failed to be convinced that he was insane in the meaning of the law at the time the murder was committed."

Fire at Smith's Falls.

Smith's Falls, April 3—Steele's planing mill was badly damaged by fire Wednesday night, although saved from destruction by the good work of the firemen.

The fire was discovered soon after it started a few minutes before midnight, but before the firemen could answer the call the flames had spread with rapidity over the whole upper part of the mill. It was literally drowned out, but not until the upper flat had been badly wrecked and a good deal of expensive machinery damaged.

The loss on the building, which is owned by Capt. Foster, is covered by insurance, but Steele & Co.'s loss will considerably exceed their insurance. The cause of the fire is a complete mystery.

FRIDAY, APRIL 3, 1908.

THE GRAFTER

Every crisis raises up its heroes. There is something good always—"the saving remnant"—left when all appears lost, to rescue humanity and the world from its impending downfall. The account of Mr. Steffens's visit to Montreal is full of warning to Canadians. The American Republic is in a Johnstown flood of corruption. Mr. Steffens is one of the ablest of those who have gone to the rescue. He sees Canada in the danger-track and has given us here a timely warning. The most conspicuous feature of Mr. Steffens's action is not the mere protest against the system of legalized blackmail and highway robbery prevalent generally but his explanation of that system. He gives as his conclusion the decided opinion that it is not the bad men who are the real grafters but men usually considered by themselves and others as 'good men.' But first of all he has made clear that the whole cast of human business thought has become 'sicklied o'er' with the hue of corruption. It is so general that where all look alike who shall decide. The business world has learned that the cheapest way to get what it wants is to pay for it—the 'advertised' amount with a further amount added for being awarded the 'contract.' This proceeding is a plain business one, open to all—who can afford it. But it saps the foundations of all honour. It sets aside justice and the awards of justice. It robs the average man who represents the great bulk of men. It strangles legitimate and honorable enterprise. It deprives the widows and the fatherless of their earnings and of their inheritance and at last robs even the grave of its ghastly cerements. The picture is that of a tragedy of real life. Its foreground is fair. The young, the beautiful, the good, the great, the old, the eminent, all appear in their natural order. But the background is death. The clouds reflect the horrors of the hell below. The spirits of those that have departed flit about in the agony of pursuit and escape. The stench of corruption present and past is horrible. The very entrails of the world are exposed to view. 'God!' exclaimed Wavertes, 'This is death! What! Life!—It is impossible!' And yet it is so. The insidious villain smiling as of old—he always smiles—has systematized his demand of tribute. It is general and unwavering. It is death to oppose it. It is the real Black Hand itself.

The British parliament brought in and passed, a few years ago, a bill known as the Commissions Bill. It was really and wholly a bill to prevent and punish graft but they 'do things differently over there.' There is "such a lot" in a name after all. Every man connected with a contract had had to have his toll. Every maid from the attic to the under-cellar moved quickly, only when 'well greased.' The fine or favor or as it was sometimes called 'the tip,' was of course merely a gratuity. But the meaning of that word had changed. How much more subtle the French are! The "douceur" (the sweetener) they call it. So that in the end all England was in the grasp of the octopus. The men of parliament had not yet succumbed. They rescued the kingdom. The striving poor, the wage-earner, the workingman—in a word the 'regular' industrious men and women were saved. But how is it in the U.S.? All is still chaos there. The robbery is not yet complete. It soon will be. And Canada—"O, Canada! Mon pays, mes amours,' as the poet sings—where is our beloved country? She is in the throes of moral death.

Wealth is still wealth no matter whose hands it is in. It is like grass to the ox—food to the hungry and no more. But as a nation we are committing moral suicide. And when the tide runs who shall escape? Resolutions are at best, weak. Our natural tendency is down grade. But as Mr. Steffens says "It is the good who have offended.' Let us inquire.

Clergymen are largely dependent upon their salaries, salaries upon congregations and congregations must therefore be had at all cost. Can a family be kept on faith? Apparently not. Unless people are pleased they will not pay. Here then we have the church dependent, in the last analysis, upon the world. We all know what that involves. Congregations are best represented by those who pay not by those who pray. Profession is worse than nothing without practice,' it would seem. But there is the difficulty. Is 'practice' a substitute for faith? This we make bold to say is the offence to which Mr. Steffens alludes. 'Faith without works is dead" because works are the evidence of faith—apparently—as action is of life. But action is not life nor are works faith. Is not this the mistake we are making? This confusing of works and faith of practice and principle, this raising of the one to the position which the other can alone occupy? In daily life what do we find? The same thing: 'Give us money and all we wish is ours,'—or soon will be. We have lost the sense of proportion and perspective. Our ideals have changed. But why?

No man can be too poor to have an ideal. No man can be too poor to love and be loved. No man can be too poor to be respected. But is this true? It should be true. What is [illegible] matter? "Poverty is a disgrace.' Times have changed and we have changed with them. Our standard has fallen. The beatitudes are jokes to us. So it would seem.

THE TOLL OF THE G.T.P.

Our despatches say that in one twelvemonth ending with March 31st, 1908, the lives of nearly one hundred men have been sacrificed in the building of the one hundred mile stretch of the G.T.P. between Canyon Lake and the Manitoba boundary. Many more have lost limbs and will be relegated to the human waste heap. Criminal negligence and the use of low grade explosives are the cause. Human life like the beatitudes would seem to be a joke. If life itself is so regarded what else will be held sacred? Instead of rigid governmental supervision there is quite evidently none at all or what there is is paid by "graft." New graft well represents the present value put on human life.

It is terrible, but it is true. How long is it to be supposed that human beings will stand for this without reprisal. There is the danger. It is useless to regard an outbreak of any sort of disease or war with the elevated eyebrows of puzzled surprise. Common sense discloses the remedy for them, at least to prevent their extending. The National Transcontinental Railway will yet appear in all its ghastliness of debt, death and failure.

BEAUTIFUL STONEY LAKE

"Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier,—for Minister of Railways and Canals. The government have not constructed any docks on any island in Stony Lake. In 1906 it was found, during the summer months, that there was not sufficient water in Stony lake for navigation purposes, in consequence of which, it was decided to hold the water at Young's Point dam, the outlet of Stony lake, from eighteen to twenty-four inches higher than formerly; it being estimated that the advantage to navigation, in this respect would be equivalent to $50,000 expended in dredging. In the raising the water level of Stony lake certain damage was done to a number of small docks at the various islands used for summer resorts on this lake. It was, therefore, considered a fair proposition that the level of the docks should be raised proportionately. In all, twenty-two docks were raised, among others those of Dr. S P Ford, Mr. H LeBrun, ex-Alderman Shortly, of Peterborough, J S Knapman, J. D. Collins, Hon. J. R. Stratton and a number of others."—Hansard, March [illegible], 1907.

It has been charged that some of 'damages' paid for raising the water in this lake were excessive. We confess to being surprised at the Premier's statement that the government has not constructed docks on any island in Stony Lake. The difference between 'raising' and 'constructing' is evidently the gist of the misunderstanding.

South Wentworth Conservatives at Hamilton nominated J. T. H. Regan for the Legislature.

Sport teaches men and women the amenities of life in a practical way. It tones up the physical system and gives a clear-eyed view of life. The free hair of the hills and the sweet grass of the valleys are reflected in the daily conduct of life.

W. T. Stead, in discussing the British Licensing bill says that 'temperance men who applaud at a meeting are not worth a row of pins when the time for hard fighting comes.'—Exchange.

Mr. W. T. Stead has never been known to modify his opinions.

It is understood that Ald. Gillespie is the Liberal choice for the Legislature in opposition to Mr. Bradburn. Ald. Gillespie bears an excellent reputation and is said to be a man of character and firmness. Even if defeated, as it is quite likely that he will be, the electors of the riding are nevertheless under an obligation to such a man for his public spirit in accepting nomination on their behalf.

"If you people in British Columbia don't want the Orientals, why do you employ them?" asks the Easterner. That question is full justification for the City Council firmly excluding all Asiatics from civic employment or upon contracts let by the city. We don't want the Asiatics in British Columbia and Vancouver has shown its sincerity and consistency by pointedly refusing to employ them. The adoption of such a policy by all cities, large employers and the Government would help to quickly solve the immigration problem. Even Asiatic coolies would in time learn to keep away from a country where they could not get employment.—Vancouver, B.C., Sunset.

Easterners do not appreciate the touchwood condition of B.C. over this immigration problem.

The Patronage List, as it has developed in Canadian politics, is inconsistent with any sound principle of business administration. The system goes far beyond the purchase of supplies for public institutions for Government railways, for the Government steamers and for various departmental services. There is a patronage list which covers repairs to public buildings. There is a patronage list even for public contracts. Millions of dollars are expended annually under the system, and tens of thousands go in excessive charges and illegitimate profits. — Toronto News.

Those who were inclined to think that Mr. Borden's Civil Service Reform plank was merely to fill up now realize what an important and necessary feature of his policy it really is. Although there are items of the very greatest moment in the list of 'corrections' of public policy necessary none appeals more directly to the elector than that of Civil Service Reform. Waste within in addition to that without is likely to produce a condition of affairs of the most immediately impoverishing character.

A RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY

Passed to Widow of Late Jas. Louden by Union Iron Moulders of City

The following resolution of sympathy for the widow of the late John Louden was passed at a meeting of the Iron Moulders Union on Wednesday night. The deceased was a much respected member of the union. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, reference to it being made in another column of the Review.

The resolution was as follows:

Moved by Brother John Robertson, seconded by Brother D. Gleason:

Whereas—The Angel of Death, in a short space of time has been again busy in our midst and we are called upon to mourn the loss of our late esteemed Bro James Louden therefore be it

Resolved—That we, the members of the Iron Moulders' Union, No. 191, I.M.U. of North America, desire to place on record and to express to the afflicted wife, and relatives of our deceased brother our sincere and heartfelt sympathies in the great loss they have sustained by this dispensation of Divine Providence by which they have been bereft of a loving husband and a kind friend. And we pray that our Heavenly Father will comfort and sustain them in this dark and trying hour with His divine love and grace.

Resolved—That we, the members of Union No. 191, deeply regret and record with sorrow the death of Bro. Louden, which is a distinct loss to the Union. During a period of over twenty-five years he gave his faithful allegiance to its best interests.

We've Young Men's Ideal Suits—Suits that are dashing and distinctive.

These Suits have a swinging grace of form with "Young Men" written all over their fashioning.

The long, soft rolling lapels, the graceful form-fitting cut of the coat, the sleeves with cuff effect, the lower cut of the vest, with pocket flaps, and the ease and grace of the trousers, with or without cuffs, are a few of the principal features of the new Spring cut. There are many other style kinks worked into these Suits by excellent and skillful tailoring.

The Fabrics are entirely new and rather striking in effect. Our prices are moderate. They are always so.

WHEN VOLUNTEERS WENT TO THE WEST

Exciting Days in the History of Peterborough in 1885 When Riel Was Causing Turmoil and Bloodshed in the North-West—Company of Redcoats Went From Peterborough County—The Leaving of the Troops as Recorded in Review Fyles.

In yesterday's Review there appeared an item stating that yesterday was the twenty-third anniversary of the leaving of the troops from Peterborough for the Northwest to assist in putting down the rebellion. A reference to the fyles of the Daily Review of that date shows that Wednesday, April 1st, was the anniversary of the leaving of the Peterborough volunteers. It was on April 1st, 1885, that the local redcoats left for Kingston, where they joined the regiment that went from there to Ottawa and then on to the West.

Great excitement prevailed at the time as the reports from the Northwest were of the most alarming nature. There were rumors that Fort Carleton had been burned by the rebels, that sixty mounted police had been killed, and other reports of an equally disconcerting nature.

It was on Saturday night, March 28th, 1885, that word was received in Peterborough from Ottawa that volunteers were wanted to join the regiment that was to proceed to the scene of the trouble. The news was received by Col. J. Z. Rogers, of the 57th Battalion, Peterborough Rangers, and the required number of men were quickly secured. There were more volunteers than were needed. The Peterborough company consisted of seven men from each of the six companies of the regiment. At that time there were companies of the regiment at Keene, Norwood and Hastings.

The Review fyles of the dates mentioned above make interesting reading. Many names are mention that are familiar to all citizens, while all of them will be recognized by the older residents. Many of those who volunteered for the defence of their country have answered the last roll call, but their memories are still revered.

The Review of Wednesday, April 1st, 1885, contains the following account of the departure of the troops from Peterborough:—

A six o'clock this morning the bugle call for muster rang out sharp and clear on the crisp, bracing air.

A few minutes afterward the men began to appear in uniform and wended their way toward the drill shed.

Shortly before seven o'clock all was activity. The men were busily engaged in buckling on their knapsacks and adjusting their accoutrements. Old soldiers, who had doubtless done good service in the Crimea and other places were to be seen giving the new recruits "points" as to easy methods in carrying their accoutrements. At seven o'clock an order for was given, which was immediately responded to. Sergeant Myles called the roll, and as the men answered the "here," it seemed as if all the circumstances were in deed in earnest. The following is a list of the men comprising the company as taken from the roll;—

The 57th Battalion band marched up George street in full uniform and entered the drill shed, playing a military air. After all arrangements had been completed, the order for

FALL IN

was given, and headed by the band, and led by Drum Major Graham, the company marched out amid crowds of people.

At the corner of George and McDonnel streets the band struck up the "British Grenadiers," which they played until the depot was reached.

As the company marched down George street the crowd gathered strength at each foot. The sidewalks were thronged and the people overflowed to the street. While the march was being made down the street, the boom of an

was heard over the trample of the throng and the martial music of the band. Five shots were fired. The company marched toward the Grand Trunk station and turned in between McBain's storehouse and the freight sheds, then marching north to the station. The order "halt!" was given and after the band had finished playing and a hearing obtained, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, Mayor of Peterborough, briefly

ADDRESSED THE MEN.

Mr. Cox said that he desired to thank the volunteers on behalf of the corporation for the prompt manner in which they had responded to the call of duty. The present was a time when every man should be prepared to do his duty, as with the war in the Sudan, the Irish troubles and the danger in Afghanistan, as well as the trobule that had arisen in our Northwest, this was a trying time for our country. He was therefore glad to see how promptly they had responded to the call. He heartily wished the men God speed, and hoped that they would return in safety when the trouble was ended. When they were facing the dangers they would meet in the West, they could feel assured that many persons in Peterborough were praying for their safety and welfare. He concluded by again wishing them God-speed.

Three rousing cheers were then given for the Queen, and the company gave three cheers for the Mayor. Three cheers were also given for the volunteers. Hats and handkerchiefs waved and all was loylaty and enthusiasm. The conductor shouted after which the men pressed forward and passed up into the coaches, the band playing in the meantime, "The Girl I Left Behind Me." Many friends and relatives struggled through the dense crowd to the step of the coaches to shake a farewell hand, say and mutter a sob-choking "God-speed." The whistle sounded and the train gradually drew out amid prolonged cheers, waving of handkerchiefs, hats canes, umbrellas, etc., etc., and the sweet strains of played by the Battalion band. As the train proceeded up Bethune street, it was met at each street corner by a little knot gathered to wish a parting good-bye. The windows of each house were filled with juvenile faces, and at the doors stood matrons waving a dish cloth or duster, as the case may be, and though the light hearted fellows in the coaches did not hear the good wishes, yet their, to the volunteers, mute blessing were given as much credit as if sounded in the most sonorous tones. Several of the battalion officers accompanied the company to Ashburnham, including Col. Rogers, Lieut. Hammond, Capt. Rogers, of No. 3 company, Capt. Langford of No. 2 company, and Capt. Birdsall of No. 3 company. At the Ashburnham station a brief stay was made, where another gathering met the train.

ALL ABOARD,

GOOD-BYE

Here many affecting parting scenes took place. One brave fellow after bidding one of his relatives farewell, mayhap his sister, was forced to turn again to the coach to choke down his rising sobs and to brush away his tears. Mementoes of different kinds were exchanged by friends and again the train moved out to whirl the soldierly forces to their destiny.

THE COMMAND CHANGED.

On Tuesday night the question of the command of the company was reconsidered. Capt. Langford, No. 2 company, had first been offered the command of the company, but on the advice of his physician he deemed it not advisable to go. Capt. Howard, of No. 5 company, was then given the command, with Capt. Burke, of No. 4 company as lieutenant, but as this would leave the Hastings company without an officer to command the remainder of the company if occasion required, a change was again made. Capt. Burke of Norwood, was given the senior position, with Lieut. F. H. Brennan, of No. 4 company (Norwood), as lieutenant. Lieut. Brennan was instructed by telegraph to meet the company at Hastings. This would leave Major Grover in Norwood, who, Capt. Howard remarked, could attend to that company if necessary.

NOTES.

The men comprising the company seemed to be cheerful and in good spirits. Some of them appeared to be actuated in volunteering by a sense of duty, while others partook more of military ardor.

The bearing of the men while marching down the street, was soldierly and they will make a good appearance in the provisional regiment.

The company was ordered to Kingston, from which place they will go via the Kingston & Pembroke railway to the Canadian Pacific.

Mr. J. L. Weller, a graduate of the Military College, Kingston, was ordered to Kingston, and will be most probably attached to the staff of this regiment.

Among the company here are a returned Nile voyageur, and a former member of the Mounted Police force. The latter is acquainted with the country through which they are expected to pass from Winnipeg to the scene of the trouble. Several other returned voyageurs were among the large number who volunteered.

Among the number also is Mr. Geo. K. Mark, who formerly taught school in the country, and who has been studying medicine and surgery for over a year.

Several officers in Peterborough are somewhat disappointed that they were not given positions with the company or on the staff.

The volunteers from the county were soldierly-looking young men. Capt. Birdsall's men (Keene), were athletic looking, and all passed the medical examination well. Among them were two or three excellent shots.

The men were all examined on Tuesday, by Dr. Kincaid, the battalion surgeon, and as the number of volunteers was largely in excess of the number required, a selection of hardy young men was made. Dr. Kincaid said that several of them measured forty-two inches around the chest, and he considered them a very fine lot of men.

AN ACCIDENT.

The Review of the same date also contains an account of an accident to Sergeant Snyder, who is now so well known resident of the city. The accident is described as follows;

"When the picked company was departing from the drill shed this morning, Capt. Sanderson ordered the artillery men who were present belonging to the Durham Field Battery to take out the nine-pounder and fire an artillery salute.

"The men obeyed and the gun was placed outside the shed and faced westward; Sergt.-Major Matheral took the first position, Sergt. Snyder, second, and Quarter-Master Sergt. Ferguson, third.

Four rounds were fired and the fourth and last cartridge was being put in. The third placed it in the bore and Sergt. Snyder, as second, prepared to ram it in, when a piece of flannel which is used in the manufacturer of the cartridge, and which was burning at the time, ignited the powder and a premature explosion occurred.

Sergt. Snyder had both hands on the rod and the force of the concussion threw the rod out and turned him half way around. He staggered and fell to the ground. His comrades ran to him and when picked up his face was found to be blackened and his left hand rent and bleeding. He recovered from the shock, however, and walked into the drill shed. Dr. Kincaid, surgeon of the 57th Battalion, was called and had the sufferer conveyed into the house of the armourer, Mr. Scollie. Doctors Fife and Halliday were also summoned, and an examination of the injuries was made.

It was found that the bones in the little finger and that portion up to the wrist of the left hand were completely shattered, and that amputation was necessary. A large splinter was taken from his throat, most likely a portion of the shattered ram rod, and also one from his left eye. His right hand was also injured by flesh wounds. No internal injuries were received, and his eyesight is uninjured.

"The patient was placed under the influence of chloroform by Dr. Fife and the necessary surgical operations were performed by Doctors Kincaid and Halliday.

"The accident was one which occurs at times on the field, and is not, at all the result of carelessness.

"The sufferer now lies at Mr. Scollie's house anxiously attended by several of his comrades. The medical men in attendance consider his recovery certain."

BACK ACHE IS THE FIRST SIGN

Mixture Said to Relieve Lame Back and Prevents Kidney Disease

Take care of backache. A great many cases of kidney complaint are reported about here, also bladder trouble and rheumatism.

An authority once stated that pain in the back, loins or region of the kidneys is the danger signal nature hangs out to notify the sufferer that there is something wrong with the kidneys which should receive immediate attention. Only vegetable treatment should be administered and absolutely no strongly alcoholic patent medicines, which are harmful to the kidneys and bladder.

The following prescription, while simple, harmless and inexpensive, is known and recognized as a sovereign remedy for kidney complaint. The ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and any one can mix them: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bed-time.

This preparation is said to restore the natural function of the kidneys so they will sift and strain the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, purifying it and relieving rheumatism. Backache will be relieved, the urine will be neutralised and cleared, and no longer a cause of irritation, thereby overcoming such symptoms as weak bladder, painful, frequent and other urinary difficulties.

This is worth trying and may prove just what many people here need.

THIRTY MEN MEET DEATH

Torpedo Boat Destroyer Cut in Two by Cruiser off Isle of Wight —Twenty-two Were Rescued

Special to the Review.

Portsmouth, Eng., April 3—Thirty men including Middleton commander of the torpedo boat destroyer Tiger, lost their lives in a collision off the Isle of Wight last night, between the vessel and the British cruiser Berwick.

The vessel belongs to the Portsmouth division of the British Home fleet, and were engaged in the night manovres in the channel. While on their way to Portland, the night was dark and when the destroyer attempted to cross the big cruiser's bow she was caught amidship and cut in half with knife-like precision sinking immediately.

The crew deck who were dressed in heavy oil skins and boots went down with the vessel. Most of the 22 men who were rescued were engineers and stokers, who, having light clothing were able to keep themselves afloat until picked up.

In Brampton, Ont., yesterday, John Terrace, an Englishman of twenty years who came to this country last fall, was found guilty of murdering his aged employer, William Curry, a farmer, and sentenced to be hanged on the 11th of June next.

No More Flat Rates for Householders of Peterboro' Light and Power Co.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company are sending out notifications to the effect that all householders having more than nine (9) lamps will at the expiration of the present contracts have to pay for their light by metre. The majority of lamps are paid for on this basis although a great many get flat rates.

The adoption of the metre system is said to be due to the heavy demand for power which is proving a great tax on the company's power.

IS HOME FROM TRIP TO WEST

Mr. R. McGill Hood Saw Many Peterborough People, Including Whitcroft and Crowley

Mr. R. McGill Hood, of this city, travelling representative of Pouller Bros., Toronto, has returned home after a business trip to the Canadian west, of several weeks' duration. Mr Hood went as far as Vancouver and reports business as fairly active throughout the western provinces. He stopped off at Edmonton on his way east and spent sometime there. He saw many Peterborough people, including Fred Whitcroft and "Bill" Crowley, both of whom have made names for themselves in western hockey circles. They are both highly pleased with the west and will likely remain there. Mr. Hood states that Fred Whitcroft may be home on a visit this summer.

Mr. Hood also saw many former Peterborough people in Vancouver and in other cities and towns in the west and without exception found them to be getting along well.

WHY SO MUCH PESSIMISM?

Real Estate Business in Peterboro' Promises to be Good This Year ---Brisk House Renting

There has been some talk of depression in the real estate business this summer, but the basis of such a rumor is apparently without solid foundation. The Review interviewed some prominent real estate men concerning the local situation and they are of the opinion that there will be a brisk demand for houses during the coming summer. Although is is somewhat early there have been quite a number of house movings this spring and moderate priced dwelling are in considerable demand. When the warmer weather sets in there will be a large number asked for.

Not so many sales of property are being made however as there are houses being rented. A large number were sold last year and the year before and when the big building boom was on, and to this the fact that not a particularly large number sales are being made may be attributed. The real estate business taken altogether promises to be a profitable one this season.

WYANDOTTES AND BARRED ROGKS

Were Studied at Poultry Meeting Last Evening---Address by Mr. J. H. Callendar

The Poultry Association held its fortnightly meeting last evening in the Labor hall, Simcoe street, when a large number were present. Mr. Geo. Paxman the vice-president, was in the chair. After the business of the evening had been transacted, chief of which was the admission of five new members, the study of the white wyandotte was taken up and interesting addresses were given on this subject by Messrs. Harry Lush and J. H. Callendar. Questions were also asked by the other members, which were answered by these men. The barred rock species was studied and those gentlemen taking part in the discussion were Messrs. Harry Lush, J. H. Callendar, S. Bickell and Geo. Paxman.

An interesting feature of the evening was the address by Mr. J. H. Callendar on "Poultry Associations in Western Ontario." This proved to be very profitable and instructive.

The association has now a membership of about 60.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD-BOY DROWNED IN THREE FEET OF WATER

Sad Fatality in Otonabee Yesterday—Russell, Little Son of Mr. George Newbury, the Victim—Was Playing on Ice and Went Out to Open Water.

Particularly distressing was the sad drowning of six-year-old Russell Newbury, the son of Mr. Geo. Newbury, the electrician for the Otonabee Power Company at No 5 dam. The little fellow met his death in the Otonabee yesterday afternoon and in only three feet of water.

PLAYING WITH PIKEPOLE

He was playing on the ice with a pike-pole, as was his wwont, about fifteen or twentyfeet above the dam. The water just above the dam is very shallow and is only from two to three feet deep out to where the river is open. For most of the distance out to the open water the ice is frozen to the bottom of the river and it was quite safe for the littl efellow to play on it. He had been cautioned not to go near the water, but when his father did not happen to be looking he slipped into the water over the edge of the ice and was drowned

CAP SEEN FLOATING.

The last seen of the boy was about one o'clock in the afternoon and it was two o'clock before alarm was felt for his disappearance, his cap being seen floating in the water. Mr. Newbury and his brother, who is also employed at the power house, noticed the cap in the water.

STOP-LOGS REMOVED.

Stop-logs were immediately removed from the damto let the water out When it had been lowered about a foot the body was discovered in the water. The child was quite dead and the body was removed to the residence of the father, which is right near the dam. Coroner Gray was notified and issued a certificate of accidental death. It is presumed that the body was in the water for about an hour and a half.

The deceased child is survived by his parents and a little brother, who is only two years of age. Owing to his tender years he had not been going to school

One man was killed and several hurt in a collision on the Intercolonial Railway near Newcastle, N.B., yesterday.

Over a hundred photographers were in attendance from all parts of the province. A number of demonstrations in new processes were given and proved exceedingly interesting. Demonstrations were given on three days, March 31st and April 1st and 2nd.

"CANADIAN NIGHT" PROVED MOST SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION

Young Conservative Club Rooms Were Packed Last Night—A Programme of Much Merit—Two Interesting Addresses.

The Young Conservative Club had another banner time last night at the club rooms. It was "Canadian Night," and the attendance was the largest in months. The programme was of a patriotic nature and was greatly enjoyed. Great credit is due thos ein charge of the arrangements for the splendid manner in which everything was carried out. Mr. F. H. Bartlett made a capable chairman.

Mr. Dickensen opened the evening with a well rendered piano solo. This was followed by a comic Irish monologue entitled "Bridget O'Houlihan's Letter," by Mr. C. N. Brown. Little Miss Palmer then favored those present with a piano solo, which demonstrated that the child possesses a rare musical ability. She was accorded hearty applause and rendered an encore. Mr. Kennedy, of Cobalt, followed this little artist with a vocal solo in good voice entitled, "Mary of Argyle." An encore was insisted on when Mr. Kenndy sang "Genevieve, Sweet Geneveive," Mr. Frank Clarke gave a solo in a way that stamped him as an artist. A storm of applause recalled Mr. Clarke, who gave a vocal negro melody, accompanied by his banjo. Mr. Grantfield pleased his audience with a vocal solo that was loudly applauded. Mr. L. Patterson followed the last singer with a song that drew forth a hearty encore.

MR. MOORE'S ADDRESS.

The chairman then called upon Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C. Mr. Moore said that this being Canadian Night at the club he would speak on Canadian matters only. He began with political history of the country when it was Upper and Lower Canada. Ontario's population grew to exceed that of Quebec, still Ontario had no more political representation. Hon. Geo. Brown, of the Globe, insisted that Ontario should have a larger representation. Representation by population or "Rep by Pop," was made a live issue. The late Colonel Haultain was brought out in Peterborough by the Reform party. The Colonel, however, could not swallow the whole Reform platform, so that party dropped him after four years. The great meeting held in Quebec, at which Confederation was born, was referred to by the speaker.

The growth of Canada since Confederation was dwelt upon by Mr. Moore, who spoke interestingly of many points in Canadian life and character.

Mr. H. Cluxton next gave a short address on Canada. He agreed with Mr Moore that the country's future prospects and greatness must depend on the people of the country. We see a large number of immigrants coming here who have not the high standard of excellence of the native Canadian. He then recited a French patoio poem that caught the audience.

The handsome prizes won in the euchre tournament were then presented, the first going to Mr. Londerville, who had 40 points to his credit, the highest made. Mr. Londerville replied briefly. The winner of the second prize, Mr. Ed. Jobe, with 39 points, was handed a very handsome smoking tray and set. Great fun was caused by the presentation of the "Booby" prize. Messrs. Sheehan and Hicks tied for this prize; and they played off; Mr Hicks won out.

Mr. Dan Sheehan won a handsome necktie as a consolation prize. It was presented to him amidst great applause.

Mr Kennedy then gave two vocal numbers for which he was enthusiastically applauded.

Mr. Thos. Wilson was chief push of the entertainment.

Mr. W. Buller moved a vote of thanks to those who assisted at this the banner night the club has had. Mr Layfield seconded the motion in a patriotic speech.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Maple Leaf and God Save the King.

WHITE BEAR IN ASHBURNHAM

Attracted a Large Crowd To-day at Noon

A white bear out in front of the Maple Leaf hotel in East City attracted attention at noon. Two French men owned the animal. The bear amused the crowd by doing several stunts such as standing erect on its hind legs and dancing and waltzing around.

MUCH TALK BUT LITTLE WORK

Contractor Does a Lot of Figuring But There Aren't Many Jobs

"I have done a lot of figuring but I haven't got five cents worth of work yet," said a local contractor to a Review representative this morning. "Last year at this time," he continued, "I had enough work ahead of me to keep me busy all season, but it's a different tale this spring. The building trades are very slack although we are hoping that there may be an improvement in the near future. There is a lot of talk about different buildings going up but it's the same old story of there being much difference between words and deeds.

Traffic Delayed Several Hours—Belleville Train Was Very Late This Morning

A double header freight train going east delayed traffic several hours this morning on the GTR. At Anson four miles from Sterling, one of the engines jumped the track, thus causing the delay. The accident occurred between six and seven o'clock and the Belleville train was bocked and did not arrive in the city until nearly noon. The auxiliary from Lindsay passed through the city about nine o'clock en route for Anson. It was impossible to replace the engine on the track without the assistance of the auxiliary.

No damage occurred, save the delay caused to the trains.

WEIGHT STOLEN A SECOND TIME

From the Door Leading up to the City Council Chamber

Some one seems to be determined that there shall be no weight on the door leading up to the City Council Chamber on Simcoe street. The weight attached to the rope used in keeping the door closed was stolen one day last week and Mr. Wilson, the caretaker, replaced it with another one. The weight was just an ordinary piece of iron but the second one was stolen the first night it was up. The rope was cut and the door is again without a fastener. Apparently someone thinks he is perpetrating a joke by stealing the weight but it is learned that the authorities have a good idea as to the identity of the culprit and intend making it hot for him if he repeats his Smart Alex caper.

SPORTING NEWS

TO ESTABLISH BOWLING ALLEYS FIVE AND TEN CENTS A GAME

Local Man Would Like to Get Vacant Store on George Street for That Purpose—Thinks it Would be Paying Proposition

A local gentleman in conversation with the Review this morning said he was thinking of starting bowling alleys in the south half of the double store on George street, the north half of which is occupied by Mr. R. A Dutton, providing he is able to secure the premises for that purpose. In yesterday's Review it was noted that Mr. George Scott, who conducted Scott's Coleseum here for some time was desirous of securing the premises to open a moving picture show there.

The gentleman who spoke of his intention of establishing blowling alleys in the building if he could get the place for that purpose does not wish his name mentioned as nothing of a definite nature has been decided regarding the proposition. He is, however, one of the most successful business men of the city.

5c OR 10c A GAME.

If the alleys are opened they will be available to bowlers at a much lower rate than is usually charged for bowling.

"My idea if I carry the scheme through," said the Review's informant "is to allow the alleys to be used at 5c or 10c a game and by giving this rate I think should be able to get a large patronage."

"Do you consider you would be able to secure a select patronage at such a low rate?"

"Yes, I would make sure of having only perfectly respectable persons as frequenters of the alleys and would conduct the place in a strictly first class way. I would not tolerate any of the undesirable element. If I carry the measure through and it's purely prospective yet, I will also establish a cigar counter in the front of the premises."

Y.M.C.A. FOOTBALL TEAM TO PLAY INDEPENDENT BALL

There were about fifteen in attendance at the football meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last night and it was decided to form a Y.M.C.A. team to play independent ball. After a thorough deliberation on the matter it was decided not place a team in the Midland League as was the original intention. The prospects for a good team are very favorable.

The election of officers resulted as follows;

Hon.-Pres.—J. J. Howden.
Hon. Vice-pres.—V. Eastwood.
Sec.-Treas.—E. Best.
Manager—Dick Baker.
Executive Committee—Messrs. W. J. Coleman, Ray Best and Dick Baker.

LARGE NUMBER EXPECTED AT THE LACROSSE MEETING

Will be Held at the Hotel National To-night at 8 O'clock—Fine Prospects for Team—Four New Players in City

Everybody interested in lacrosse is asked to be present at the meeting of the lacrosse club to be held at the Hotel National to-night. A discussion of the season's prospects will be held and any incidental arrangements that can be made will be effected. Something may be done in the important matter of selecting a local candidate for the C.L.A. Council.

FINE PROSPECTS.

"The prospects for a team are fine," said a player to the Review to-day, "and provided the boys get into the game early enough there is no reason why Peterborough shouldn't be represented on the lacrosse field by a first-class twelve. In the interests of the game there should be a big representation of enthusiasts at to-night's meeting.

NEW MEN.

Four new men have arrived in the city this season and should prove welcome acquisitions to the team. "Dinny" Dobbin the invulnerable net man and McGuire, a home player from Orangeville, have located here and are both on the Review newsroom staff. "Bob" Stewart, who played inside home for Oshawa, and another good man, have come to Peterborough from Chatham, and are employed at the C.G.E. With these and last year's local men to pick from, an excellent team should be formed.

WANT TO ENTER THE LEAGUE

Picton and Wellington Desire to Play in Midland League—Would be Very Welcome

Picton and Wellington have applied for admission to the Midland Baseball League, and it is understood that they have been practically assured of admission. Both the above towns have first-class nines and should make it quite interesting for the other teams in the league.

The news of their application for admission will be received with joy by the fans. They would certainly be a big addition to the league.

BASKETBALL

Tonight at 9.30 the final game in the March basketball league will be played off. The game is open to the public and no admission fee will be charged. Here is a chance for lovers of good basketball to see a good game.

The Toronto Y.M.C.A. (Central) Senior Basketball team will be here on Wednesday night next, April 8th. They are a strong aggregation of players but they will have to go some when they meet the Peterborough team. A large number of spectators and lovers of basketball are expected so it will be advisable to procure your tickets early. The first row of seats will be reserved. The line-up of the Peterborough team will be given out on Monday.

LOCAL BOWLERS WERE WINNERS

T. Boyd and W. Waram Defeated J. Hawley and M. Cusick of Liederkrauntz club, Toronto

Peterborough has certainly some pretty fast bowlers. Last night Messrs. Hawley and Cusick, two fast men from Liederkrauntz Club, Toronto, went down to defeat before Tommy Boyd and "Bill" Waram, two representative local bowlers last night at the P.B.C. Boyd and Waram took three straight games from the visitors and did not even bowl their usual form. The games were very interesting.

The scores;—

Peterborough—
Boyd	155	185	154—494
Waram	183	182	162—527
Liederkrauntz—
Hawley	123	180	151—454

Majority for Peterborough, 154 pins.

BOWLING

BELL WON AGAIN.

The Bell Telephone team again defeated the Northern Electric Company five at the Majestic alleys last night. The Bell men gave their opponents a handicap of 100 pins, but still managed to win out.

The Bell had a total of 1610 pins while their opponents had 1453. The teams were as follows;

Bell—Cross, Deacon, Mossom, D. Leach and H. Leach.

Northern Electric—Gray, Myles, Anderson, Skibo, Cote.

Another match will be played in the near future.

WILL BUILD RESIDENCE

Mr. James Kendrey, who has been a lessee of Mr. George A. Smith's handsome residence on Water street for some years, has been notified by Mr. Smith that the latter will remove to Peterborough at the end of early next summer. Mr. Kendrey proposed to build near by and the Review understands is making preparations to that end.

QUESTION NIGHT WAS INTERESTING

Royal Astronomical Society Met Last Evening

"Question night" at the Royal Astronomical Society meeting last evening proved to be very interesting. Rev. Dr. Marsh presided after the usual business of the evening had been transacted, a number of questions were answered by Dr. Marsh and Messrs. H. P. Collier and O. Fiske. To the question, "Why do the stars in the northern part of the sky not rise and set as those overhead?" it was explained that the north sky was visible the full 24 hours and the stars in the north never go below the horizon. Another question was "what causes northern lights?" Astronomers believe that northern lights are wholly due to magnetic or electric disturbances generated by the sun. North lights cause disturbances to telephones and telegraph wires.

Comets are bodies of matter thrown off from the sun. These as they fly through space become tenuated and their tails stretch out millions of miles. They invariably keep their head towards the sun. Meteors are broken parts of a comet's tail and shooting stars are meteors. Meteors do not fall in the day time.

Mr. Collier referred to a number of meteors he saw in New York, brought by Commander Perry from Greenland. One of them weighed thirty tons and another ten and a half tons. 91 per cent. of them is iron.

Some difference of opinion arose as to the correct time Spring commenced. Mr. B. Lowery stated that the sun crossed the meridian at seven o'clock on March 20th but last evening Dr. Marsh proved that the sun did not cross until 27 minutes past seven on March 20th.

The meeting then adjourned.

GUNS IN LONDON CAN SHELL PARIS

Expert Describes Invention of Wonderful Cannon--Is Worked by Electricity

London, March 31.—Col. F. W. Maude, in the April Contemporary Review, describes a gun which "is in existence and can impart, by the application of electricity, an initial velocity of 60,000 feet a second to projectiles of all dimensions, and which can be practically handled under war conditions and on ship board or in permanent defence. Projectiles of 2,000 pounds weight lie fairly within these limits."

In a succeeding passage he declares that if the rules with velocity up to 3,50 0feet a second, viz., that resistance increases as the square of velocity holds good at the higher rates, then there is practically nothing to prevent these weapons from throwing shells from London to Paris, or viceversa, at the rate of a few thousands a day. The inventor is W. B. Simpson, a Scotsman.

A reporter of the Chronicle, who interviewed Col. Maude, assures critics that the greatest experts in the country have seen, ewxamined and witnessed the working of the model and expressed their entire satisfaction with its practicability. He adds that Col. Maude does not hesitate to say that the results claimed are certain to be realized. The fact that with this weapon it will be possible to give a projecticle a velocity, of 30,000 feet a second and upwards, without smoke, flash or recoil will ultimately compel all navies to abandon armor and devote their energies to the attainment of speed as the prime factor of success.

HOTELMEN OF HAVELOCK HAVE ALL APPLIED FOR LICENSES

Are Willing to Pay the $750 License Fee, Which is $500 Higher Than Last Year—Other Havelock News.

Special to the Review

Havelock, April 3—The hotelkeepers have all applied for a license for the ensuing year at the rate of $750 per year, an increase of $500 over last year when they only had to pay $250 per year. It was rumored that the bylaw which was passed on Feb. 24th would be quashed by the liquor party because the deputy returning officers did not use standard time. That however, was dropped and the local hotelkeepers decided to pay the high license and keep open. It is very likely that the hotels will charge 15c per glass for sealed whisky. The high license will come in force on May 1st, but application for license had to be made before April 1st.

Mr. Edward Kelsey, formerly of town but lately employed on the Sudbury division of the CPR. met with a severe accident some time ago by having his foot crushed between two cars and as a result he had to have two toes amputated. He is at present residing in town and is not able to get around but the injured member is steadily healing.

The local town hall will be the scene of the usual Easter dance on Monday night, April 20th, under the auspices of the 'Big 5' the five railroad organizations in town.

Mr. Jesse Campney has purchased the blacksmithing business of Mr. Ed. McMullen and is now doing business in his old stand.

Mr. Wm. Dineen was the victim of a very painful accident last week. He was carrying two pails of boiling water when he fell and spilled the contents of the pails over his left arm.

Auction sales are the order of the day around Havelock. On Monday next Mr. W. Munro will sell his farm stock; on April 8th Mr. Wilson Vance will sell his farm stock and machinery and on April 13th Wm. Beatty will sell his farm stock.

Miss Stella Armstrong has returned home after visiting friends in Peterborough, Toronto and other points.

It will be good news to his many friends in town to hear that Mr. Jas. Bryans is recovering.

The Havelock School Board held their monthly meeting on Monday night last with all members present. The following accounts were ordered to be paid;

John Cockrane, for cood,	7.50
Thos. McQuaig, wood	5.00
Wm. Cockrane, for wood,	4.50
Lonergan and Ryan, carting	.50
Wm. Robson,	.50
W. Parcels	.50

Miss Warren's resignation to take effect at Easter, was read and accepted by the board and on motion of Kindred and Falkner, Mrs. Priddle was engaged to fill the vacancy until the summer holidays, and Miss Kelly was engaged to teach French until the same date.

Joyce moved an amendment to advertise for a teacher as usual to fill the vacancy caused by Miss Warren's resignation but there was no seconder to the motion.

The chairman and secretary were instructed to give Miss Warren the usual recommendation.

The secretary was ordered to see the council at their March meeting and request them to provide the necessary money for the erection of the new addition to the school.

The matter of fire escapes also came up and was discussed.

MR. FINCH MILLER GIVES STATEMENT OF THE FUND

Account of Special City Relief Fund—Fifty to Eighty Families Given Aid Each Saturday Night—Relief Officer Deserves Much Credit.

The report of the special city relief fund established to meet the wants of the poor in the city has been prepared by Mr. Finch Miller, city relief officer, who had charge of the distributions. An outline of the report was given in yesterday's Review and is herewith published in full.

Mr. Miller has had no easy task in connection with looking after the fund and has had to use much judgment in making discrimination in the distributions. However he has done his work in his usual careful and efficient manner and kept accurate copy account of all contributions and disbursements and receipts and expenditures in connection with the fund.

He has had many peculiar cases to deal with and has had to be very careful in giving assistance, having to make sure in all instances that those applying were worthy of aid. There have been innumerable difficult and wearisome matters he has had to settle, the responsibilities of which cannot be appreciated by those not familiar with the exacting demands of his office.

The report is given below;

During the year the relief officer has distributed 4,311 lbs., of beef and 435 bags of potatoes and 65 worth of groceries, besides wood and coal. There have been eleven wekly distributions, which began on Saturday, January 18th, and ended last Saturday.

From fifty to eighty persons were supplied each Saturday. Each was a married man with a family to support and in need of charity. The funds of the work were deposited in the Dominion Bank.

The citizens have contributed generously to the cause and are to be heartily commended.

DEPORTING OFFICER HAD TO RETURN EMPTY HANDED

Mr. P. Devlin, Government Official, in the City Last Evening—Young Immigrant He was After, Had Left For England.

Mr. P. Devlin, the government deporting officer, arrived in the city last evening on the 4.48 CPR. train from Ottawa in search for Reuben Mayo who was to have been deported back to the Old Country. However, his visit to Peterborough was a fruitless one. About two months ago Mayo came to the police station and gave himself up stating that he was unable to procure work, and wanted to go to gaol. Next morning he appeared before the Magistrate and was given a term in the County Gaol on the understanding that he was to be deported just as soon as the officer arrived. He was released the latter part of February and with the financial assistance which he procured from his sister he left for his home in England. The deporting officer was not aware of this and consequently came to the city yesterday.

In speaking with Mr. Devlin, the Review learned that there were a large number of immigrants being sent back to the Old Country by the government, and he remarked that Canada would be well rid of a good many more that make undesirable citizens and are a burden to the communities in which they live. This week Mr. Devlin brought an Englishman, his wife and child, from Woodstock to St. John's, Nfl., for deportation. About three weeks ago he had in charge a party of thirty-two immigrants collected from Oshawa and vicinity which he conducted to St. John's. Those who were shipped back had proved to be worthless citizens.

MISS ROBERTS' LECTURE ON THE EASTERN QUESTION

The lecture by Miss Roberts of Boston last evening in St. John's school house under the auspices of the Women's Art Association of Peterborough, was both entertaining and instructive. The subject was nominally "Westward the course of Empire takes its way," but really the lecture was a subtle detailed and comprehensive analysis of the new and greater "Eastern Question," shall the East have free access to the West? The conclusion arrived at was that racially and mentally the yellow and brown men are and will remain distinct from the white men for whom they can never be allowed to legislate. The speaker impressed upon her hearers the very great and imminent importance of the subject which was at the present moment engrossing the attention of the Empire. Miss Roberts who is a lady of very charming presence and personality spoke fluently and well. The close attention of the audience was held by her to the end.

Miss Pearl Lundy and Mr. McIlroy gave two vocal numbers which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Mr. D. Hughes Charles made a most acceptable chairman. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the lecturer at the conclusion.

It is to be hoped that Miss Roberts will be heard here again. A woman's view of national affairs is a pleasant variety. Women are entering the business arena and since they can fully succeed only when they understand the full meaning of the world's inter-relationships it is a sign of the times that they are taking up these questions. The question of the 20th century however, will be, apparently, "Shall women share with men the burden of Empire?" The answer will be probably that they can have it all if they wish.

THE REAL FOREIGN PERIL

Dr. C. K. Clarke, superintendent of the Toronto, Asylum says:

"Of the 362 admissions to that institution last year, 136 were foreign-born. The majority were recent arrivals. Most of them were deported, but those that the province will never get rid of amount to about 40.

"Each patient that is retained will cost the province $6,000.

"The Provincial Secretary's Department has deported 30 since Jan. 1st.

"Sixty-five per cent. of these weak-minded foreigners were afflicted with dementia praecox, the same form of insanity accredited to Harry K. Thaw.

"These are the most undesirable class of lunatics and are likely to live a great many years.

"In other words, they were the failures sent from the Old Country by immigration companies to try and make good in Canada, if possible."—The World.

EXPIRED WHILE SITTING CROCHETING IN HER CHAIR

While sitting crocheting in her chair yesterday evening at five o'clock, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. A. R. Nicholls, 203 Dalhousie street, Mrs. Richard McConkey suddenly expired. Having made no complaint whatever of feeling unwell, her death came as a great shock. She had been talking with her daughter, Mrs. Nicholls, who was sitting beside her. Without a moment's notice the end came. When Mrs. Nicholls looked up her mother was lying back in her chair and life was extinct. Dr. Gray was called and attributed the cause of death to heart failure.

The deceased was 76 years of age and was born in Smith. Her maiden name was Harriet Pearson. She was the wife of the late Richard McConkey, who predeceased her two years ago. Until the death of her husband she resided in Smith, where she was widely known and highly respected. For the past two years she had resided with her daughters. She was a member of the Methodist church.

Four sons and seven daughters are left to mourn her loss. The sons are Messrs. Silas and Herbert McConkey, of Peterborough; J. C. McConkey, of Rochester, N.Y. The daughters are Mrs. G. Nicholls, of Bobcaygeon; Mrs. Thos. Nicholls, Harvey; Mrs. Portsmouth, Mrs. A. R. Nicholls, Mrs. J. E. McIlmoyle and Mrs. W. Galbraith, of this city, and Mrs. Thomas Bell, of Smith. One brother, Chas. Pearson, of Buckhorn, also survives her.

The funeral will take place on Saturday at 1.30 o'clock, from 203 Dalhousie street, to the Lakefield cemetery.

A CITY RELIEF DISTRIBUTION

Dr. Halliday Makes Generous Donation Toward the Fund

There will be another distribution for the poor from the office of the city relief officer, Water street, tomorrow night.

As will be seen by the report of the relief fund in tonight's Review there was only a balance of $10.03 but this amounted has been augmented by the very generous contribution of $25 from Dr. Halliday.

REDISTRIBUTION TO GIVE MORE MEMBERS

Bill Comes Before Ontario Legislature—Premier Whitney Justifies the New Division—Opposition Leader Moves Amendment

Toronto, April 4.—The curtain raiser to the debate upon the redistribution bill occurred in the Legislature yesterday when Hon. Mr. MacKay brought in an amendment suggesting that all changes be left over until the census of 1910.

Hon. Mr. Whitney moved the House into committee on the redistribution bill. The original intention had been, he said, for a general redistribution, but on going into the matter in detail it was found that the census was so old and inaccurate now as to be an unsafe guide. Referring to the work of the committee, the Prime Minister said that no suggestions had been forthcoming from the Opposition members on the committee. The only objections taken had been in relation to Middlesex, Huron and Toronto, and these he was prepared to justify. The division of Huron, as could be seen by reference to the map, was a geographical and proper one. In the absence of the member for West Middlesex (Mr. Duncan C. Ross) he would not discuss Middlesex. In reference to Toronto, its population was considerably over 300,000 and it was not fair to ask Toronto to be represented by Cabinet Ministers who were not elected by the people of Toronto and forego, on that account, the increased representation to which the city was entitled.

In the committee the member for Ottawa (Mr. May) challenged the increase for Toronto and the division of Ottawa. Ottawa, Mr. Whitney put in, would soon be entitled to increased representation.

Some years ago, Mr. Whitney continued, a voting arrangement was made by the then Government with a view to securing a successful candidate from their own party.

Mr. Whitney then explained the system for Toronto. Each of the four present ridings would elect two members. Each riding will have two separate and distinct seats for which members will be chosen on separate ballots. In each riding there will be a member A and a member B. There will be two separate nominations for each riding and separate ballots. A dozen men may be nominated for seat "A" in, say South Toronto, and a dozen men for seat "B." There will be two nominations in each riding and two separate ballots. "We may call the seats A and B," said Mr. Whitney.

"Or X and Z," put in Mr. May (Ottawa).

"The member for X might be an unknown quantity," retorted Mr. Whitney, smiling.

Hon. Mr. MacKay moved the adjournment of the debate, submitting the following amendment:

"That the Speaker do not now leave the chair, but it be resolved that in the opinion of this House, in view of the fact that another redistribution of seats will naturally follow the decennial census of 1910, it is not desirable at present to make any change in the basis of representation except as to New Ontario which should have additional representation."

The House went into committee on Hon. Mr. Matheson's resolution to raise $4,000,000 on the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

In response to Hon. Mr. Harcourt's enquiry the Treasurer said that $12,000,000 had been expended on the T. & N. O. Railway, which was $3,000,000 more than had been borrowed. It would take over $1,000,000 of the proposed loan to finish the construction of the railway. "The remaining $3,000,000," observed the Minister, "will be available for other purposes." He proposed to get the money in England.

"I do not propose to ear-mark the money any further than the wording of the bill," declared the Treasurer when pressed as to its disposition. "It will be utilized for such purposes as may be required."

Mr. C. N. Smith (Sault) advocated the spending of the sum in the construction of the Manitoba and North Shore Railway and a line from Sudbury to Cobalt.

Hon. Mr. Monteith introduced an "act to prevent fraud in the manufacture of cheese and butter." Its objects are to give power to inspectors appointed by the Government to go on to the farms of persons supplying milk to cheese and butter factories and take and test samples so that by comparison with the milk delivered at the cheese or butter factory it may be more definitely determined whether the milk has been skimmed or watered. It is further designed to extend the provisions of the act to the supply of milk for cities, towns and villages. It will permit the appointment by the Government of qualified inspectors who shall investigate city and town milk, take samples of milk on the producers' farms, in transit to the city or town dealer, on the premises of the city dealer, or while being delivered to customers. The intention is to see that the milk as produced by the cow shall reach the consumer without watering or skimming. The Minister made a practical application. The city of Toronto would desire to have an inspector of city milk appointed under this act. The Minister of Agriculture would by order-in-council make the appointment, and the inspector would have the power conferred by the act. The city would pay for the services of the inspector whose business it would be to enforce the act, which has been found to work well in the case of creameries and cheese factories. The use of preservatives in milk is forbidden unless the milk so treated is publicly advertised to that effect.

THE PROTEST OF LABOR INTERESTS

Calls on Government to Stop Bonuses for Immigration

Kingston, April 4.—There was a large attendance at Labor Hall Thursday night when the following resolution in respect to immigration was passed by a unanimous vote:

"That this Trades and Labor Council condemn the system now in operation inducing wholesale immigration through the Salvation Army and other agencies to this country.

"That the secretary of the council write to the Premiers of the Federal and Provincial Governments protesting against any further grant being made to agents as bonuses. That we have no objection to the religious work carried on by the Salvation Army, but when they engage in the work of inducing immigrants to come to Canada, as a business enterprise, we enter an emphatic protest against this phrase of their work, especially as the money of the people of this country is being used for this purpose.

"A system of immigration is a hardship to toilers of Canada in forcing keener competition among our mechancis and laborers, in an already overcrowded market. In many instances an inferior and criminal class are brought to our shores and are a burden and a menace to our country."

Want Postcards Destroyed.

Hamilton, April 4.—The Canadian Club officers are up in arms because some of the stationery stores are selling picture postcards showing the Hamilton City Hall with the stars and stripes floating from the flagpole. They have called on Mayor Stewart to order the cards destroyed. They say this was done when cards showing old glory floating over the Toronto Armories were circulated.

Talk of Church Union.

London, April 4.—(C. A. P.)—Important proposals with a view to the union of the Presbyterian and English churches of Australia will be submitted to the Lambeth conference, and subsequently further considered in Australia. The Archbishop of Melbourne hopes the movement may result in very startling consequences.

Struck by a Train.

Cobourg, April 4.—Benjamin Emmerson of Belleville, a G.T.R. sectionman, was accidentally struck here by train No. 7, and died of his injuries.

BIG FIRE DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Three Thousand Cattle in Wild Stampede---Loss About $1,000,000

Peoria, Ill., April 4.—Fire which started at the mill of Corning & Co.'s distillery early yesterday morning was still raging at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning, and indications were that the entire plant, including two immense bonded warehouses, elevator, cattle yards, and storehouses, would be entirely wiped out. The damage so far is placed at between $750,000 and $1,000,000.

The firemen appeared unable to control the blaze, and devoted their efforts chiefly to saving property in the immediate vicinity.

Several explosions occurred, endangering the lives of the firemen. Soon after the fire started 50,000 gallons of spirits in the still plant were consumed, the result of an explosion in the warehouse.

Shortly after the first explosion 3,000 head of cattle stampeded and ran at large in the railroad yards.

Denies the Charge.

Chatham, April 4.—Charged with wilfully setting the Joy Club at Mitchell's Bay on fire and thus causing it to be destroyed, Cephore Cedar of Dover Township was yesterday afternoon arraigned in the County Criminal Court, where he denied the charge. He was remanded.

Since the recent fire detectives and constables have worked hard. Cedar is a French youth of about 20 years, and requires an interpreter.

Guilty, But Didn't Do It.

Guelph, April 4.—The notorious Cudney made a most peculiar statement when being tried for two additional charges of stealing a bag of barley and 175 feet of rope yesterday. After the evidence had been taken he said that he pleaded guilty to everything, but that he was pleading guilty for someone else's doings. He would not, he said, tell who the guilty party was.

Cashier Arrested.

New York, April 4.—Daniel R. Delaney of Brooklyn, cashier of the banking firm of Henry E. Coe & Co., of Wall street, this city, was arrested at Mountaindale, this state, yesterday. He is charged with taking $28,000 of the firm's funds.

IT MAY HAVE GRAVE RESULTS

Russia Awaiting Decision of the U. S. Regarding Fisher Incident Other Powers Interested

St. Petersburg, April 4.—Russia and several other powers are awaiting with extreme interest the announcement of the attitude of the State Department at Washington regarding the Fisher incident, as this issue affects not only the administration of Harbin and Chailar, by Russia, but the entire question of the sovereignty of north China and south Manchuria.

Fred D. Fisher, the American consul at Harbin, has consistently refused to recognize, or admit that he should have anything to do with the Russian administration of this territory and he has been firm in his assumption that he was accredited solely to China, furthermore he has supported the protests of China against the establishment by Russia of municipalities in the railroad zone at Harbin and Chailar independent of the Chinese Government and his attitude in this matter prompted Russia to seek an explanation of this course at Washington.

It was learned here yesterday that the German consul at Harbin had sided with Mr. Fisher against the demands of the Russian authorities and that the French consul there acquiesced in the Russian demands. It is believed here that the real reasons behind the protest of China and the support given this protest by the American and German consuls is to be found less in objections to a change in the form of Russian administration of Harbin than in the apprehension aroused by the aggressive and far-reaching policy of Japan in southern Manchuria. This fear resulted in a determination to challenge the anomolous Russo-Japanese position in a province nominally Chinese at every opportunity.

The Russian measures are regarded as relatively of local importance, where as the pretensions of Japan to the right to use the Chinese railroads for mail carrying purposes, without reference to the Chinese postal system, as put forward in the postal convention that was proposed to China early in January, involve a direct infringement of Chinese sovereignty.

ALIVE WHEN THOUGHT DEAD

Remarkable Defence of Bowin on Trial for His Life

Detroit, Mich., April 4.—Mrs. Cornelia Welch was alive on Saturday, Jan. 4, the day after Percy Bowin confessed to having murdered her.

That is Bowin's defence to the charge of murder upon which he is now being tried. In support of the theory, four witnesses swore positively yesterday afternoon that they saw Mrs. Welch on Saturday, when, according to the theory of the prosecution, she was dead at that time.

Martin V. Brown, who conducts an engraving and stationery establishment at 82 East Congress street, two doors from Mrs. Welch's place, declared unequivocally that he saw Mrs. Welch walking past shortly after 11 o'clock on the forenoon of Saturday, Jan. 4. His wife and daughter, Mattie, also testified that they saw Mrs. Welch in the afternoon of that day. John L. Elliott, driver of a beer wagon, said that he talked to Mrs. Welch at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, fifteen hours after Percy Bowin confessed to having killed her. His daughter Mattie said that between 1 and 2 o'clock of the same afternoon she saw Mrs. Welch walk past going east with her two dogs following her.

Must Give Up Formula.

London, April 4.—The magistrate of the Bow street Police Court yesterday issued an order to the bank in this city which holds the envelope alleged to contain Henry Lemoynes' formula for the manufacture of diamonds, to surrender this document to the French authorities demanding it.

Lemoyne is under arrest in Paris charged with obtaining money under false pretences from Sir Julius Charles Wernher of the De Beer Mining Co. The original demand for the envelope in question was made March 23, since which time the Bow street magistrate has consulted with the Home Office and as a result issued the order of yesterday.

Counsel for the bank brusquely declined to obey the order. The magistrate admitted that he had not the power to compel obedience, but he intimated that the matter would be taken before a higher authority.

BRITISH TARS DROWNED IN NAVAL ACCIDENT YESTERDAY

Torpedo Destroyer Cut in Two by Cruiser "Berwick"—Cut Through Smaller Boat Like a Knife—Fleet Were Engaged in Night Manoeuvers

Portsmouth, Eng., April 4.—Thirty-six men, including Lieut. Middleton, the commander of the torpedo boat destroyer Tiger, lost their lives in the collision off the Isle of Wight Thursday night between that vessel and the British cruiser Berwick.

The vessels belong to the Portsmouth division of the British home fleet and were engaged in night manoeuvres in the Channel while on their way to Portland.

The night was dark and the Berwick was steaming slowly. When the destroyer attempted to cross the big cruiser's bow she was caught amidships and cut in half with knife-like precision, sinking almost immediately.

The deck crew, who were dressed in heavy oilskins and boots, went down with the vessel, not having time to free themselves from the heavy encumbrances. Most of the twenty-two men rescued were engineers and stokers who, having light clothing, were able to keep themselves afloat until boats from other ships picked them up.

The collision occurred at 8.15 o'clock at night. The ships were manoeuvering without lights. It is believed that several of the men were killed by the impact. Tugs were despatched to the scene of the disaster at daylight, and divers will make an attempt to recover the bodies of the drowned men.

The smaller naval vessels were in the midst of an attack on their bigger consorts when the disaster occurred. The entire fleet was under masked lights and in the absolute darkness the Tiger was suddenly struck square amidships by the Berwick. The sharp stem of this vessel cut the destroyer in two as if she had been made of paper. The forward half sank instantaneously, and the sea became dotted with struggling men. Most of them. however, sank before help could reach them.

The warships in the immediate vicinity quickly had their boats overboard and the scene of the tragedy was brilliantly illuminated by a concentration of searchlights. The after portion of the Tiger floated long enough to enable those on board to seize lifeboats. They threw themselves into the water and were able to keep afloat until picked up.

Lieut. William E. Middleton was on the bridge at the time of the disaster and went down with the forepart of the ship. The Tiger had a complement of 59 men and was of 400 tons.

A stoker rescued from the Tiger gave a vivid account of the accident. "The Berwick flew up out of the blackness and seemed to fall on us," said this man. "The noise of the impact was not great, but in a few seconds we were ripped in halves. The forward half of the Tiger reared up like a frightened horse and then sank beneath the waves. The engineer lieutenant, who was in the engine room in the afterpart, shouted, "All hands on deck!' but owing to the hissing of the steam and the noise of the engines, many could not hear him. When we did realize what had happened we made frantic efforts to get on deck. The water was pouring down into the hold in great torrents and it was all we could do to make our way against it. Everything happened with startling suddenness. A minute or two after the collision we were drifting past the Berwick in the full glare of the searchlights. The next thing I remember is being dragged into one of the rescuing boats, in a semi-conscious condition."

The Berwick was one of the four cruisers that visited Quebec with the Prince of Battenburg's squadron two years ago.

[illegible] Jewelry Store.

Hagersville, April 4.—Some time early yesterday morning B. K. Griffith's jewelry store was entered and about $1,500 worth of valuable watches, rings, pins, etc., stolen.

On entering the shop yesterday morning, Mr. Griffith found everything strewn about the cases, and a large hole broken in one of his plate-glass front windows.

More Room for Buffaloes.

London, April 4.—(C. A. P.)—Mr. Trotter told Glasgow Trades Council there was more room in Canada for buffaloes than bricklayers. Work is available for experienced agriculturists, but artisans only swell the surplus population.

Tobacco Factories Destroyed.

Lynchburg, Va., April 4.—Fire here early yesterday destroyed three tobacco factories operated by T. P. Dunnington. The estimated loss is $200,000.

Slashed Throat and Died.

Carman, Man., April 4.—A. E. Pike, an Englishman, who attempted to commit suicide by slashing his throat with a razor, died in the hospital yesterday. Pike had become demented and while in the custody of a constable committed the rash act.

Why Obed Smith Protested.

London, April 4.—(C. A. P.)—The correspondence between the Church Army and Obed Smith is published, wherein the former protests against Smith refusing to pass immigrants sent to Toronto as a distributing centre for Ontario, rejecting forty-five to fifty immigrants submitted.

Replying, Smith upholds his action, pointing out that there are now one hundred employment agents in Ontario for the purpose of obviating the influx to large cities of people who claim they are going on the land.

Stamps Were Insured.

New York, April 4.—The first news of the finding by wreckers of a quantity of Newfoundland postage stamps lost from the wreck of the steamer Sylvia, on Cuttyhunk Island, on the Massachusetts coast, was received by the American Bank Note Co., which printed the stamps, in news despatches published yesterday.

At the office of the company it was said that the value of the stamps, which were fully insured, would not reach $100,000.

More Hindoos have been refused a landing in Vancouver.

INVESTIGATION TO BE MORE THOROUGH

Mr. Borden Says Scope of Civil-Service Commission Should be Extended--Laurier Makes Statement in House

Ottawa, April 4.—R. L. Borden precipitated a discussion yesterday afternoon on the appointment of a new commission to continue the probe into the Marine Department. He advanced three main arguments, namely:

That the Civil Service Commission should be asked to continue its work.

That the scope of the new commission should not be restricted to the charges specified in the order-in-council against the Marine Department.

That the Government must accept the doctrine of Ministerial responsibility individually and collectively for the delinquencies of its officials.

The Prime Minister, in reply, met these contentions thus: The Civil Service Commission considers it has exhausted its powers when it made its report, and has not come back for authority to go on; and that, while admitting the principle of Ministerial responsibility, such responsibility ended when the conditions claimed of were remedied.

Also, the First Minister indicated the conditions upon which Justice Cassels will accept the commission. Judge Cassels, it seems, will accept no remuneration beyond his salary as judge, and he insists that a temporary Exchequer Court judge must be appointed while he is away on other duties.

On orders of the day being called, R. L. Borden asked the Prime Minister if he had had any opportunity of reading the letter of Justice Cassels.

The Prime Minister replied that he had received a letter declaring in substance that he would only assume the duties for which he was appointed on two conditions:

First, that there should be no extra remuneration, and that the work should not interfere with his duties as judge. Sir Wilfrid would bring the correspondence down on Monday.

Then Mr. Borden moved an adjournment to discuss a matter of urgent public import. He complained first of the delay in laying the printed report of the Civil Service Commission before the House, since the document could not possibly be half as voluminous as Hansard, which was delivered to members next day.

It had been assumed by gentlemen opposite that the report of the commission concerned only one of the Departments. Mr. Borden did not accede to that principle. It seemed that a serious attempt was being made to dissociate the Government and the Minister in charge of one of the Departments from any responsibility for the condition of things disclosed by the civil service report.

When any Department of the Government was concerned in any charges it was the political head of the Department that was concerned.

That was an axiom so plain that it was surprising that it had escaped the notice of the Government.

So far as the appointment of Justice Cassels was concerned, Mr. Borden would say that if the Government had to go outside the gentlemen who had already made the investigation there was not one but would conclude that the Government had made a wise selection. Admitting that, what was the reason that the Government should go beyond the gentlemen appointed by themselves to appoint another gentleman?

Mr. Borden further asked why the limits of the investigation should be restricted to so very narrow a compass.

In this matter they were taking the same course as two years ago when the Prime Minister moved for an enquiry as to whether the capacity of the Arctic was sufficient to enable a cargo to be placed on board.

Mr. Borden said he moved an amendment to widen the scope so as to conduct an investigation into the affairs of the Department of Marine. This suggestion was characterized by the Prime Minister as "froth and wild talk." He did not know whether the report of the Civil Service Commission would be considered froth and wild talk.

Mr. Borden concluded by enquiring why the Government had selected for investigation one Department out of several involved in the report of the commission.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier complained that the leader of the Opposition had not seen fit to give him notice of his intention to discuss the question. Had he known that the matter was to be brought up he would have fortified himself with authorities to controvert Mr. Borden's arguments. There were two questions before the House. The first was as to the extent of responsibility of the administration for conditions said to exist in one of the Departments according to the report of the Civil Service Commission.

In conclusion Sir Wilfrid said:

"It does not matter to us upon whom the blow may fall, but in the discharge of the duty which we owe the people of this country, we want the whole truth. We will have the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

Mr. Haggart pointed out that when some years ago an officer in his Department was found to have conspired with an outsider to defraud the Treasury, he at once suspended every officer suspected in connection with the affair. He said the principals were sent for trial at the Criminal Courts. But here was the Government appointing a royal commission. For what purpose? To find out the offenders. And why was the Marine and Fisheries singled out, as if it were the only Department assailed by the Civil Service Commission report?

R. L. Borden, closing the debate, observed when in a tight place Sir Wilfrid always resorted to the complaint of discourtesy. At a previous sitting Sir Wilfrid himself, in laying the order-in-council upon the table, spoke upon it as no one else could, and he must have anticipated a discussion when the members should be seized of its contents.

Hamilton Radial Bill Passed.

Ottawa, April 4.—Beginning on Monday Government orders will have precedence after questions on every day.

The Commoners were summoned yesterday afternoon to the Senate side, where the administrator, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, assented to a number of bills.

The Hamilton Radial bill was given its third reading in the Senate.

Two thousand copies of the civil Service Commission report will be printed, Senator Ellis announced yesterday afternoon.

THIS MAN FELL FIFTY-TWO FEET

And Escaped With a Few Bruises and a Broken Arm

Parry Sound, April 4.—George Hillman, an employe of the Canada Foundry Co., engaged in the bridge erection work across the Pickerel River, fell off the bridge and dropped a distance of 52 feet.

His companions expected that he would be killed instantly, but, strange to say, he escaped without any very serious injury. The wrist of one arm was broken and dislocated, the other wrist being sprained and one finger broken, two ribs were badly broken and the back considerably bruised.

The injured man was brought to town was met by Dr. Biehn and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where his injuries were attended to. He is doing very well.

Again the Deadly Bomb.

New York, April 4.—By the explosion of a bomb in a hallway of a five-storey tenement house in East 12th street, three men were injured, though not fatally, 15 Italian families were thrown into a panic and the walls, ceilings and flooring of the house were wrecked.

Sentenced to Death.

Little Valley, N.Y., April 4.—Salvator Randazzo, convicted of the murder of Petro Randazzo at West Salamanca, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Emery to be executed at Auburn in the week beginning May 11. He will be taken to Auburn on Saturday. Silvia Berrato, indicted for the same crime, was yesterday found not guilty.

Anarchist Discharged.

New York, April 4.—Alexander Berkman, the Anarchist who was taken into custody the day following the Union Square bomb-throwing, was discharged yesterday. When he was arraigned in the Police Court the police said they had been unable to get any evidence against him, to connect Berkman with the affair.

SLAMMED DOOR OF THE VAULT

Plucky Accountant Foiled Daring Burglars Though Fired at

Winnipeg, April 4.—Leo Callaghan, accountant for Nicholson & Bain, manufacturers' agents, was shot on Thursday night by burglars who were attempting to rob the premises of the company.

Two men entered the warehouse and attempted to gain access to the vault. By the exercise of the greatest bravery, Callaghan closed and locked the vault doors, although he was fired at while doing so.

A second shot struck him in the foot. The burglars got away with only a few cents, which they took from the pocket of Callaghan's coat.

Long Dog Sledge Trip.

New York, April 4.—When seven Alaskan dogs, drawing an Alaskan sledge on wheels trotted into City Hall park late Thursday, their driver, Eli A. Smith, completed probably the longest dog sledge trip on record and won a wager, said to be for $10,000 of nearly three years' standing.

Smith is a minister and formerly Government mail driver in Alaska. When he stepped in to visit Mayor McClellan he had completed, he said, a trip entirely by land, from Nome, finishing it in a month less than two years and a half.

Smiths' regularity in making his mail trips through the wilds and snows of Alaska with dogs as a motive power resulted finally in a wager being made that he could make a trip with his outfit to New York from Nome in two and one-half years.

Frost Injures Grain.

Orangeville, April 4.—The thaw of a few days ago has left the hills in the adjoining townships of Mono and Caledon bare, and the sudden hard freeze up after the thaw will have a damaging effect on the wheat and rye crops, which are largely grown in those townships, as well as the new clover crop. Considerable of the latter is either nipped off or [illegible] at the [illegible]

DON'T BLAME HER

For she cannot help it. Women are often cross, irritable, hysteric, and declare they are driven to distraction at the slightest provocation.

Men cannot understand why this should be so. To them it is a mystery because in nine times out of ten this condition is caused by a serious feminine derangement.

A remedy is necessary which acts directly upon the organs afflicted, restoring a healthy normal condition to the feminine system, which will quickly dispel all hysterical, nervous and irritable conditions. Such is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Henry Clark, Glandford Station, Ont., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years, and never found any medicine to compare with it for sick women.

"I had ulcers and a displacement of the female organs, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has cured me."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The Daily Review

SATURDAY, APRIL 4, 1908.

LEADER OF THE OPPOSITION

The leader of the Ontario Opposition was placed in an extraordinary position by those who devised the present unhappy method of giving him a salary. A child would know that those who contribute thereto will necessarily have a "pull" with him.

Mr. Borden as leader of the Opposition at Ottawa receives his salary from Parliament. Mr. McKay should have been paid in the same way. As it is he is simply in the pay of a number of unknowns who may be honorable—but is it a proper position for a man to be in who may if he lives long enough be prime minister?

It discloses a very strange idea of the proprieties. No man in such a position of vassalage will even command the confidence of the people whatever place he may attain to.

MILITARY EXPENDITURE

No one will care to grumble at a wise judicious and economical spending of public money for the defence of Canada. But mistakes are expensive and unnecessarily so. To these most people will strongly object. The fifth regiment of Victoria, B.C., has been so shamelessly neglected that its officers resigned in a body as a final protest against the persistent and expensive blundering of the Militia Department at Ottawa. The regiment up to late years was in every way efficient and a credit to the island. It had grown, however, to look so like a regiment of Mulligan guards, a thing of shreds and patches that the officers declined to continue longer in the service. A great loss has thus been sustained, not only in money but in men. Canada cannot afford such losses — especially in [illegible] west. The celebration at Quebec [illegible] piece of extravagance in view of the present and probable hard times. It will cost the government more than $300,000 and under the circumstances is an unnecessary and wanton waste of money, that might well be used to pay interest on loans which the government has recklessly incurred for "spending purposes." So far from "efficiency and economy" being the watchword of Sir Wilfrid's administration it is just the reverse. Inefficiency and waste are the two words that best describe the work of a cabinet of failures. The money to be spent in celebrating might better be spent on regiments like the fifth. In any event the selecting of parts of requirements for a holiday at Quebec cannot possibly have a good effect on those regiments chosen to remain at home.

WHAT THE PREFERENCE HAS DONE

The British Board of Trade returns show that British houses doing a Canadian trade met with very good business last year. There was a very striking increase in the amount of cotton piece goods imported into this country amounting to something like five million yards more than was the case in 1906. Other textiles showed a great increase, notably linens, carpets, woollens and worsted goods.—The Witness.

There is an idea abroad that the tariff is no longer a question of politics that the Liberal party has endorsed the tariff policy of the Conservatives and that no change will be made by the latter in this respect when they come into power. There never was a greater mistake. The Preference Policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a partial surrender of the N.P. to the spirit of Cobden and others of that ilk which brought Canada to the verge of ruin once and is now doing it again. There are two tariffs in the tariff-list, one representing the tax which we are supposed to put on foreign goods coming into Canada, and the other, lower by from twenty-five to thirty per cent. than the former, which we do put on goods coming in from Great Britain from all the other countries with which we have treaties and from all those countries with which these other nations have "favoured nation" treaties. Practically the N.P. upon which our new national life was founded has been twisted out of shape and consigned to the scrap heap. The immediate results are detected in the bankruptcy as a direct consequence, of no less than 110 woollen factories driving out of employment no less than 15,000 men, upon whom are dependent at least 75,000 women and children. The woollen factories still in existence are in extremis. Their stock sells much below par and it is highly probable that they too, will in due time, be added to the wreck. Had it not been for the exceptional ability and ingenuity of Mr. Kendrey, the Auburn Mills would have been compelled to close some time ago. As it is Mr. Kendrey goes from one point to another in quick succession acting both as his own manager and travelling salesman, in an endeavor to save his business from ruin. His mills are amongst the last yet standing as a monument of what it means to give a preference to other nations than our own to people who do not need a preference and to those who should not get it. The reply has been the cattle embargo.

The preference must be done away with. It serves no good purpose in Canada. It is useless to the farmer who must depend on the home market for his livelihood and upon his ability and care in making and packing butter, cheese, apples, etc. for his success abroad. The old tariff worked him no ill but on the contrary provided him with high prices at his own door. If factories are allowed to languish, the farmer will languish, industrials will feel the reaction and prosperity will vanish. Without our cities and towns Central Ontario would be as a western prairie or a howling wilderness, dependent upon railways and elevator companies for permission to exist. As it is no such dependence prevails. But we are retrograding rapidly.

The bounty system at present in vogue is likewise cumbrous and unfair. There is not one feature of the public service from the tariff to Tokio that does not need recasting. The condition of the country confirms the statement. No effect exists without a corresponding cause. Business is at a standstill. Commercial travellers find no demand for goods. It will be well if we can wait till the general elections arrive. The recrudescence of time-worn theories must cease. The idea that the medicine is right but that the patient is wrong is inconsistent with common sense.

PECULIAR STATEMENT

It was a very peculiar not to say suspicious statement that was made the other day at Chatham by Mr. MacKay the Opposition leader. He said that he feared that Mr. Whitney's increased taxation of railways would mean higher freights. One would have thought that there was no great danger even in an experiment to find out. However, Mr. MacKay was so upset over the prospect that he expressed himself very strongly on the subject. Now in the State of Michigan, U.S. railway taxation is four times what it is in Ontario and freight rates are 15 per cent. less! And in addition to that passenger rates are generally two cents a mile. The tendency in all the States is to equalize farm and railway assessment. Mr. MacKay is flying in the face of all these fair and favorable conditions elsewhere when he makes such a rash and unwarranted statements as he made at Chatham. The farmer is not treated any too well. Gradually he is getting out from under the conditions of life and property which masquerading under the names of bonuses, special rates, rebates, drawbacks, etc., have favored everybody else even the tourist at the farmer's expense.

Mr. MacKay's attitude on this very important question may do him "good" with the railways, but it [illegible] not raise him in the estimation of the agriculturist.

AN ECHO OF THE REPORT

"The Globe was pretending that nothing in the way of jobbery and corruption at least nothing to speak of had been unearthed this session, when down came the report of the Civil Service Commission, which in plain and unequivocal language, declares the Militia Department to be an outrageous scandal, and the Marine Department nothing short of a sink of iniquity."—Farmers' Sun (Indep.)

This scathing condemnation of these departments of the Laurier Administration is written by the Ottawa correspondent of the Farmer's Sun, who has evidently gone carefully and impartially, as the correspondent of a thoroughly independent and non-partizan journal into all the details, merits and demerits of a palpable wrong-doing and of the system which perpetuated it. At no time in the history of civil government in Canada has there been such general and severe criticism of the conduct and policies of a representative administration. Our exchanges include nearly all the leading independent journals of Canada, and these, without exception, speak very strongly of the utter failure of Sir Wilfrid to form a capable cabinet or to manage it when formed. In every department there is chaos and of "chaos and deepest midnight" are born crookedness and every form of evil. To the country, expenditure is a matter of the first and most immediate importance and concern. The great area to be covered by the revenue of next year and the certain fact that the revenue will fall, nay, has begun to fall already are two things to cause much general misgiving [illegible]

EDITORIAL NOTES

The minutes of the Board of Works Committee apparently disclose the astonishing fact that last year seven streets were provided with sewers although not a foot of water main had been laid in those streets. Some member of last year's council might very well explain this possibly explainable action of last year's council.

CHANGE OF POLICY FOR THE BOARD

More Attention Will be Paid to Roads and Less to Sidewalks and Sewers This Season

"More attention to the roads and less to sidewalks and sewers" will be the policy of the Board of Works for 1908. This announcement was made by Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board, at the meeting last night, and met with general favor from the members of the committee. The members of the Board feel that the sewers and sidewalks have been receiving too much attention in the past, so much, in fact, that the roads have been neglected. It is generally conceded that the roads in Peterborough are about as bad as can be found in any municipality of any pretensions, and the reason assigned for this is that all the money, or nearly all at any rate, has been spent on the sidewalks and sewers. It will be pleasing news to the citizens to learn that there is to be a change of policy. Better roads can be looked for at the close of the coming summer.

The Board of Works will also make it a rule not to lay a sewer on any street until the waterworks are there first. There is no use having a sewer on a street until there is water there too. Last year sewers were put in on seven streets where there was no water system.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF RHEUMATISM

THE CAUSE An excess of uric acid and ureates are deposited in the tissues of the body and joints, causing aches and pains which are called rheumatic.

All the various causes of rheumatism, such as the acute, articular, muscular and gout, have the same common cause—Uric Acid.

To effect a satisfactory cure the uric acid must be removed. This can only be done by introducing into the circulation a remedy which will dissolve the uric acid and stimulate the action of the excretory organs.

No Case That Ferrozone Can't Cure

The remarkable success of Ferrozone is due to the fact that it attacks the disease in the blood. It goes right to the root and cause of the trouble.

Ferrozone is a perfect solvent for uric acid and quickly destroys its evil effect. It stimulates and quickens the sluggish circulation and drives every trace of rheumatic poison out of the system.

Rheumatism Can't Last if FERROZONE is Used.

We have conclusive proof of this. The strongest possible endorsements from people who have been cured after all else failed. If you suffer from rheumatism yourself, or in case you have a friend or relative subject to this disease, read the following—they tell their own tale.

LIFE-LONG CRIPPLE CURED

Mr. Louis Noll, 15 Fulton street, New York, N. Y., writes: "Ever since boyhood I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. My joints were twisted and swollen, and the pain at times was really intense. I used gallons of liniments, vapor baths, and other treatments, but was first noticeably relieved by Ferrozone. It cured me perfectly after taking twelve boxes."

Mr. Henry Heer, Pharmacist, 23 Eldridge Ave., New York, vouches for Mr. Noll's absolute cure. He says: "Mr. Noll has been freed from chronic rheumatism by Ferrozone. For years he has not been so well, and to-day shows no signs of rheumatic trouble. It is a pleasure to recommend Ferrozone."

The BEST remedy for rheumatism that science has produced is Ferrozone—it is unquestionably the only sure and lasting cure. Sold everywhere by druggists. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50—by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

FERROZONE, THE ONE SURE CURE.

A GROWTH EXTRAORDINARY; GREEN PEAS THIS MONTH

Mr. Jesse Harper, whose farm is composed of lot 17 in the 14th concession of Otonabee, presented to the Review today two stalks of field peas in flower, one 15 inches in height and the other six inches, which had been discovered by him in one of his fields growing up through the snow and flowering in spite of the wintry nature of their surroundings. Mr. Harper says that there is no frost in the ground and no damage has yet been done in Otonabee at least. The field which produced the peas was sown in peas last year, but this year with fall wheat. A few peas had germinated of those left in the field.

The ice in Stoney Lake has not yet broken up, although it is getting very thin.

The following is from the "Moon" of Melfort, Sask.:

At a special meeting of the Melfort Board of Trade held on Monday night, the 23rd inst. Mr. Jarvis, manager of the Bank of Commerce, who has been transferred to the branch at Humbolt, and leaves shortly, was presented, with a testimonial and a gold locket from the Board of Trade and citizens of Melfort, as a token of their esteem. The testimonial was read by Mr. Rutledge, president of the board, and was as follows;—

To E. R. Jarvis, Esq.,
Melfort, Sask.

Dear Sir,—This being probably one of the last occasions on which we will meet you in a public way we take the opportunity of stating how very much your services as a citizen of the town of Melfort have been appreciated. As manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce since its commencement here, you have made hosts of friends, not only for yourself, but for the great banking institution which you represent, while your services as president of the Board of Trade last year were of great benefit to the town and district. In all the offices you have filled, your work has been so well done that it will be extremely hard to find a successor. While we regret exceedingly your loss from amongst us we congratulate you on a well deserved promotion and trust that it will be only the first of many.

We have much pleasure in presenting you with a small testimonial in token of our esteem and hope that an occasional glance at it will in the future revive memories of the many friends you have left behind you in Melfort.

JAMES RUTLEDGE,
President Melfort Board of Trade.
March 23rd, 1908.

Mr. Jarvis, in a very fitting reply, thanked the board for their gift and testimonial, and stated that he would always have pleasant memories of our town and the people he had met here. On sitting down he was given an ovation and "He's a jolly good fellow," was heartily sung by all present. After this speeches were made by several members, Mayor Johnston leading off, among the speakers being Mr. Whitehouse, the new manager of the Bank of Commerce.

The proceedings were brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," all the members joining hands.

There was a large attendance.

Mr. Jarvis will be remembered as the popular accountant of the Bank of Commerce here a few years ago. Mrs. Jarvis was formerly Miss Edith Dick of Toronto, and was at one time on the nursing staff of the Nicholls hospital.

PRICES HIGH FOR THE BEST HORSES

Which Has Special Interest in Connection With Coming Horse Show

In spite of the commercial and financial depression, the prices of the best class of horses have never been so high in Canada as at present. The show ring horses are held at higher prices than animals of the same class in the United States. This fact has a special interest in relation to the fourteenth Canadian Horse Show which is to be held at the St. Lawrence Arena on April 29th, 30th, May 1st and 2nd. The entries promise to be larger than at any previous show. All the leading exhibitors will be largely represented. Hon. Adam Beck of London, has added no less than ten new hunters to the fine stable possessed by Mrs. Beck and himself. One of the new ones is said to be a better horse than Kabeka, which won the premier honors at the International Horse Show in London last year. Mr. John J. Dixon, a leading amateur of Toronto, is buying prize winners in New York so as to compete for the King Edward Hotel Challenge Cup. Among other exhibitors who will be prominent are A. Yeagher of Simcoe; Langden Wilks, Galt; Dr. R. E. Webster, Ottawa; Gordon J. Henderson, Hamilton; Dr. McCoy, St. Catharines; Aemilius Jarvis, Dr. W. A. Young, H. C. Cox, George Pepper, Crow & Murray, Toronto.

Reduced rates can be obtained on all railways. It is expected that His Excellency the Governor-General will be present.

BIG SPOTS ON THE SUN'S FACE

Disturbances Attracting the Attention of Local Astronomers

Sun spots are again in evidence today. The disturbances are greater than any that have appeared for months and have excited much interest among local people interested in astronomy. If it is clear tonight there may be a display of northern lights as there is little doubt but that the aurora borealis is the result of disturbances on the solar body.

REVIVALIST COMING HERE

Mr. Douglass Russell the widely known revivalist and hymn writer will be here on April 11th and hold a week's revival meeting. It is thirty five years since Mr. Russell was here and on his last visit he made many converts.

NEW CANADIAN BARONET.

How Founder of the Family First Won His Honors.

The accession of Sir Gordon Johnson, as fifth baronet, to the family title recalls two incidents; the signal services to the crown of the founder of the family, and of his son's unselfish devotion to that crown at the loss of an immense fortune.

William Johnson, of Johnson Hall, near the Mohawk, in the then colony, and now state of New York, an Irish gentleman, was, like Clive, a natural leader of men and of soldiers. He also possessed in a marked degree that secret to which British supremacy has been most indebted for its success with races of all shades of color—his word was his bond—that which Johnson promised to do, he performed, and Britain was respected and obeyed by the red men.

There were but two baronets created in America up to the declaration of independence, and, for that matter, for long afterwards. Both were conferred in a large measure for similar services: one went to William Pepperrell of New Hampshire; the other to William Johnson. The former was a recognition of his happy capture of Louisbourg in 1745. That scourge of the Eastern Atlantic was restored to Old France a very few years afterwards, and, when 1755 opened, La Nouvelle France was stronger than ever, and increasingly aggressive. The war whoop of the Indian allies of Louis XV. resounded from Maine to Kentucky, a zone of blood and fire surrounded the English settlers. Hundreds of scalps, many the long, light-colored tresses of matrons and girls, waved before the home of the Canadian red men—so many francs a scalp. The colonies were disunited and vacillating, and confined within the narrow strip between the present Pittsburg and the sea. England was appealed to, and Gen. Braddock, with a force of regulars, came out. His destination was the important outpost we have just named. The axe had to clear a road through the forest. There was a brave display of scarlet and of brave men. The colonists, for whose safety they were to fight, who knew the woods, should also have known better the skill of the French officers and their Indian allies. Though only a few yards off they were as invisible as are to-day the long-range marksmen, and the forest glades were strewn with scarlet coats, and vain was English valor against an unseen foe. Hearts sunk in the colonies. At the Chateau of St. Louis, at Quebec, and in Jacques Cartier Square, at Montreal, many toasts were drunk to the success of arms.

Gen. Dieskau, a soldier of Marshal Saxe, commanded in Canada, and with him were some splendid regular French regiments.

Johnson, of Johnson Hall, was made a major-general. The Indians, listening and thinking, stood between the advancing fleur-de-lis and the Red Cross. They began to see the end in store for them.

But they were strong. They were numerous. They looked across the whole land, and could see the cavalry squadrons of their people extending to the Rocky Mountains. About half a century before the massacre of Lachine had almost exterminated the pale faces of Canada. A Dollard had died, the tide of extermination was arrested. We can see afar off, through the forest, a Pontiac and more scarlet coats and vain valor. "If I kill a bear," said a Sachem, "I cannot even take his carcass; some white man claims the land on which I slay him."

Johnson alone could control the red man of the colonies, and induce him not to join his kinsmen of Canada.

Dieskau, flushed with the victory over Braddock, descended Lake Champlain, and met Johnson at the head of the Lac du Saint Sacrament. This time it was the white uniforms that strewed the forest. Dieskau was a prisoner, dangerously wounded, in Johnson's tent, and the first victory gained of the series which ended, five years later, in the surrender of Canada.

The joy-bells rang. A baronetcy and five thousand pounds came to Johnson, and with his victory came the new name of Lake George, after the King. Four years later—when the pibroch of the 78th Highlanders was borne on the Quebec breezes to the anxious ear of the gallant Montcalm—Johnson was in the trenches before Niagara, defended by as accomplished and as brave a regular of the Bearn regiment as ever drew a sword. When its strong breastworks went down, and the surrender was made to the baronet, with them crumbled the whole carefully planned lines of empire from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

Thus two of the great victories of the war were battle honors for the Lord of the Manor of Johnson Hall.

Sir William died at the dawn of the Revolution of these same colonies to which he had been of such value. His eldest son, Sir John, inherited his position and estates. Like some other old titles, the son of a Johnson baronet is a knight at his birth, but further honors had been conferred on Sir John by a special knighthood at St. James in 1765.

Had he chosen even to remain neutral, he could have saved his estates, but he was not of that metal. He preferred the British flag to a fortune purchased at the cost of dissimulation and came to Canada heading the noble roll of Loyalists, with property confiscated which an Astor or a Vanderbilt might envy.

In the same honored list is found the other Colonial Baronet Pepperrell, the founder of which family had also, by skill and industry, secured a great estate, and two of whose descendants were rescued from a poorhouse by the kindness of strangers.

Five of Sir John's sons were British officers. One fell at Badajos; a son-in-law, a general officer, is recorded both among the slain at Salamanca and in St. Paul's Ctahedral.

The late baronet was also an officer beloved and esteemed by all. He married a charming English lady, but failing issue, in the order of Providence, the title has now passed to his nephew, Sir Gordon.

Hon. R. Lemieux addressed the Ottawa Canadian Club on Saturday on the Japanese treaty.

THE BELL IN THE SEA

How Ocean Liners Hear Their Way In Thick Weather.

FOG SIGNALS UNDER WATER.

Method by Which the Submerged Gong is Operated and the Apparatus by Which the Sound is Picked Up Miles Away—Port and Starboard Lights.

To those who go down to the sea in ships probably no discovery in recent times has been of more importance or tends more to save life than that of the possibility of signaling from ship to ship and from ship to shore by sound, writes Sidney F. Walker in the London Mail. It literally, when fully developed, will enable steamers to "hear" their way under all conditions of weather and particularly in fog just as well as they now see their way on clear nights by the aid of the lights that each ship carries and those distributed round the coast of every civilized country.

The whole apparatus hinges upon the fact that water is a good conductor of sound. The readiest example of this of which the writer is aware is to be found usually at mineral baths. There is nearly always pumping going on in connection with the baths, but under ordinary conditions the pump is not heard. When undressing, for instance, to enter the bath one can very rarely hear the pump, but immediately one is in the bath if one places one's head under water the pump is almost painfully evident, and an engineer could easily count the strokes had he a watch at hand.

For signaling purposes a bell is employed, immersed some distance under the water and inclosed in a chamber, the hammer being worked by compressed air operated from the surface. The sound of the strokes on the bell is transmitted to a distance of several miles and can be heard by suitable apparatus. The hearing apparatus consists of a microphone, a modification of that we use every time we speak to the telephone, inclosed in a chamber inside the ship and connected with the bridge by wires in the usual way. The microphone chamber is filled with a special liquid which the inventors have found to answer the purpose best, and there are, as at present arranged, one chamber and one microphone on each bow below the water line. In the chart house on the bridge are a pair of telephone receivers, similar to those we put to our ears when we talk through the telephone on shore, and a switch, enabling the receivers to be connected to either of the two microphones.

Several of the lighthouses on the coast of America and some, the writer believes, on that of the United Kingdom are fitted with bells as described above, which are rung at certain intervals, each lighthouse having a different number of beats, so that any particular lighthouse is distinguished by its bell, just as in clear weather it is distinguished by the arrangement of its lights. An approaching ship can tell, within a very close approximation, as mathematicians would say, how it lies with regard to the lighthouse, because the bell will be heard loudest in that microphone on the side of the ship on which the lighthouse is, and the officer of the watch can steer accordingly.

All ships carry a red light at night on the left hand, or port, side and a green light on the right hand, or starboard side, while all steamers carry in addition a white light showing on both sides. Neither of the lights can be seen astern or for some distance toward the bows, the limit being what sailors call two points abaft the beam, a little astern of her middle point, so that when approaching a ship from astern no lights are visible to the approaching ship, but her full lights are visible from the ship approached.

When two ships are approaching each other from opposite directions end on, each ship will see the other's two or three lights and can easily steer to keep out of each other's way. There is a simple rule for this, and incidentally it may be mentioned that the danger is least in this case, provided that both ships are properly handled. The danger of collision arises principally from ships crossing each other, and for this also there are simple rules governed by what is called the rule of the road. Leaving out the question of sailing ships for the moment, the ship which has the other, the crossing ship, on her own right hand (starboard) side has to keep out of the way, and it does so by turning slightly to the right, or to starboard, presenting her left side to the other ship.

Whenever a ship has to give way to another the color of the light of the other ship is on the same side as that to which the helm must be moved. Thus when a red light is seen on the right hand (starboard) side the helm is put to port, the side of the light seen. Similarly when a sailing ship is crossing from port to starboard, showing her green light, that carried on her starboard side, the steamer puts her helm to starboard to clear. This rule could be followed quite as easily with sound signals.

Recommendation.

"It seems to me that I have heard most of the ideas advanced in your speech before."

"That," said Senator Sorghum, "merely goes to show that they are good ideas which will stand wear and tear."—Washington Star.

A Rival to Radium.

Scientists in Germany say that a substance has been prepared which shows the same radio activity as that of radium bromide. It is said that the substance is uranyl molybdate. The molybdate is formed by adding ammonia molybdate to uranyl nitrate, when a white amorphous powder separates. This is dried in the dark and apparently must be kept there, as it is unstable. Report says that it gives radio active effects which are practically as intense as those given by radium. Though costly—namely, about $110 an ounce—the price is not so enormous as that of radium, which has reached many thousand dollars for the same quantity.

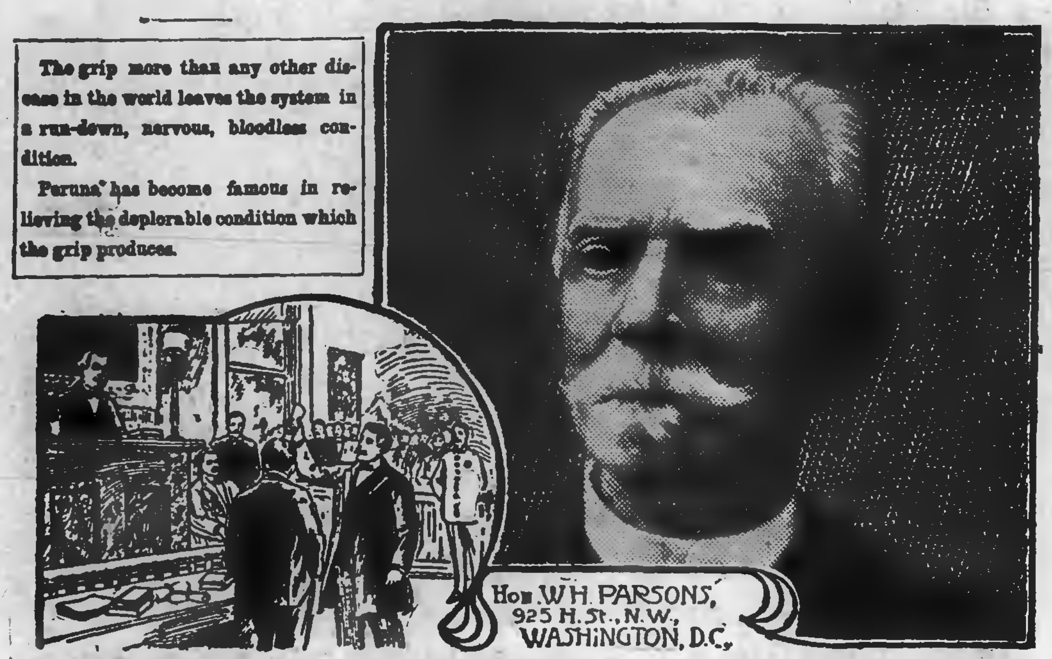
JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT

Suffered Four Months From the After-Effects of the Grip--Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

The grip more than any other disease in the world leaves the system in a run-down, nervous, bloodless condition.

Peruna has become famous in relieving the deplorable condition which the grip produces.



W. H. Parsons is Ex-State Senator and Ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, and was also Brigadier-General in Confederate Army. In a letter from 925 H street, N. W., Washington, D. C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials as to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment with this justly celebrated formula. I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week.

"It is especially good in toning up the stomach and has a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry in a four years' war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merits of Peruna as a sense of obligation on my part for its wonderful efficacy."—W. H. Parsons.

Catarrh Victims Susceptible.

People who have had catarrh of the head, throat, nose or lungs are much more liable to catch the grip than other people.

The reason for this is that the mucous membranes of the head, nose, throat or lungs are injured by the catarrh and the germs which cause the grip find easy entrance into the system.

It is a well established fact that perfectly sound mucous membranes constitute a barrier to the entrance of disease germs.

The best precaution any one can have against the grip is to be perfectly free from catarrh.

Peruna a Preventive.

As a preventive of grip, Peruna has done a great deal of good in the world by its beneficial effect upon the mucous membranes.

Catarrh has another untoward influence to be noticed in connection with the grip.

Victims of catarrh who have had the grip find themselves after the acute stages have passed, in very weakened and deplorable conditions.

After-Effects of Grip.

The whole nervous system is impaired; the digestive organs deranged; the circulation of the blood feeble and irregular. All these symptoms are produced, more or less, by the grip, and especially in people who have had catarrh previous to the grip.

It is no longer merely a theory or an assertion that Peruna is applicable to such cases.

Prompt Relief.

In all of the after-effects of the grip, Peruna gives prompt relief. This has been the experience of such a great multitude of people that Peruna has come to be a standard remedy for these cases.

If a person has not used Peruna to prevent the grip, the next best thing is to use Peruna to remove the after-effects of the grip.

A Safe, Reliable Remedy.

Even during the acute stages of the grip, Peruna taken in small, oft-repeated doses, is so efficient that many people use nothing else.

It has been noticed that those who take Peruna during the first stages of the grip generally make a more rapid and complete recovery.

A Most Effective Medicine For La Grippe.

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education. He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says: "I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe. It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh."

A RECITAL OF VIOLIN PUPILS

Many Enjoyed Fine Programme at Conservatory of Music

The recital held last evening in the hall of the Conservatory of Music by Miss Drechsler Adamson and her pupils, assisted by Mrs. S. Dickson Hall, was in every way a pronounced success. The hall was filled with an audience composed chiefly of the relatives and friends of the performers. Mrs. Hall was in excellent voice. Her selections "Beloved it is Morn," (Aylward) "I Know a Lovely Garden," (D'Hardelot) and "Because She Kissed It," (Gaynor) were beautifully rendered and elicitd loud demands for an encore. Of the instrumntal numbers the quartetts were perhaps the best, although too much praise cannot be given the various soloists for their good work. A violin recital is perhaps the most dangerous of undertakings but in this case Peterborough has shown that there are those amongst her ladies who possess the requisite musical ability for so serious a performance. Miss Adamson is to be heartily congratulated.

MANY ATTENDED THE RECEPTION

Enjoyable Time Spent at the Y.M.C.A.---A Good Programme

Over 135 attended the reception at the Y.M.C.A. last night, given by the B.Y.P.U., of Murray street Baptist church to the members of the association. A splendid programme, dainty refreshments and a good social time made the evening a great success and those in charge are to be congratulated on the complete arrangements made. This is the third reception held at the Y.M.C.A., and each one has been more successful than the one preceding it. Rev. J. R. Webb occupied the chair last evening and opened the programme with a few appropriate remarks. The progamme was one of unusual excellence, every number being as follows:

Instrumental duet—Misses Quinn and Walker.

Vocal solo—"Driving a Bargain,"—Miss Nellie Pilling.

Reading—"Tennyson's Revenge"—Geo. Martin.

Instrumental duet—Bruce Quinn and Miss Hope Migger.

Recitation—Miss Annie Hardoll.

Reading—W. Garbutt.

Vocal solo—"Song of Sunshine"—Miss Clara Kidd.

Reading—Miss Browett.

Instrumental duet—Misses Eloome.

God Save the King.

During the evening a basketball match was played between teams captained by Fred Cressman and Geo. Martin. The contest was well fought and aroused much excitement.

The programme committee consisted of Misses Hardwick and Martin and Messrs Hooper and Garbutt. The committee in charge of the refreshments consisted of Misses Webber, Hardwick, Stabler, Perrin, Barnack, and Garbutt. Messrs. Lang, Ellis, Garbitt, Harwick and Shiner assisted the ladies in serving the refreshmnets.

PLAYING WITH GOOD COMPANY

Mr. Joe Guerin Receives Letter From Mr. Joe Lyons---Latter and His Wife Well Known Here

Mr. Joe Guerin, of the Oriental, has received a letter from Joe Lyons, of Rowland and Clifford's production, "Old Clothes Man," in which the writer states that he and his wife are having much success with the company. His wife is the soubrette with the show and he is appearing in light comedy and as character man. The letter is written from Plattsmouth, Nebraska, where the company was at the time it was sent. "Old Clothes Man" is playing good time and to good business.

Mr. Guerin was in Joe Marks' company with Mr. Lyons and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Lyons have many friends in this city who will be pleased to hear of their successful engagement with the production they are identified with.

MAPLE SYRUP WAS 40 CENTS A QUART

At To-day's Market--Butter 32 Cents a Pound

Prices were exceedingly high at today's market and the attendance of farmers was rather small, although the citizens were out in large numbers. The first maple syrup this season was offered for sale and was in great demand. Forty cents per quart was the figure asked for this luxury. Butter took a jump in price this morning and sold at 32 and 33 cents cents. Eggs were 18 and 19 cents per dozen.

On the outside market potatoes sold at 90 cents per bag, and pork brought 9 and 10 cents per pound.

The roads in the country are still bad in some parts and the farmers have difficulty in getting into the city.

Bulk tea may leave the dealer a larger profit, but "Salada" tea, packed in sealed lead packages, leaves a lasting and favorable impression upon the palates of all giving it a trial. Hence its enormous sale.

Undisputed Facts About

Zutoo

Zutoo tablets are now recognized as being without doubt or question, the best and only safe remedy on the market for headaches and colds.

They have practically displaced all other cures, and are now the only one used to any extent.

The reason is doubtless found in this further fact.

Zutoo tablets not only cure headache and colds but, unlike many other remedies, do not affect the heart, nerves or stomach.

SUSPENDED FROM SCHOOL

No school endeavoring to attain the best results and seeking to keep their standard high, will countenance smoking during school hours. And we have learned that several students of the L.C.I. were temporarily suspended yesterday for that offence. We commend the staff for the stand they have taken in this matter and hope that in future the students will have regard for the welfare of their institution and take pride in keeping its moral tone of the best, let alone their own personal debasement. We feel that most of the students have taken great pride in their school and this should not be sacrificed for a few unworthies. —Lindsay Post.

ROMAINE ST. SEWER AGAIN

Board of Works of the Opinion That it Will Never be Satisfactory

The Romaine street sewer is to the front again. It appears that there is grave doubt as to whether it will ever be satisfactory and the Board of Works is considering the question again.

Ald. Phelan brought up the matter at the meeting of the Board last night after Mr. Laplante had touched on the question in addressing the Board in reference to his property in the south end of the city. Ald. Phelan was afraid that the sewer would would never be satisfactory and the other members of the Board shared in this view. He stated that if bad been necessary to open up the sewer already this spring and several pails of sand had been removed. This gave an idea of the condition of the sewer. It was far from satisfactory and a mistake had been made in putting it in. The matter was discussed at some length but no action was taken.

FIRST COTTAGER AT CHEMONG PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Wolfe of Hamilton Arrived This Week

The first cottager has arrived at Chemong Park in the person of Mr. Felix Walfe, of Hamilton. He, accompanied by his wife, came this week and now are settled in their cosy and comfortable cottage until next fall. This the earliest that anyone has taken up their residence at the Park. When Mr. Walfe left Hamilton the dust was flying in that city, but when he got here he found things different. On driving out to Chemong he experienced considerable difficulty on account of the almost impassable condition of the roads.

CAMPBELLFORD OPERA HOUSE

New Scale Williams Piano Being Put in--Other Improvements

The following is from a Campbellford correspondent;

The new proprietor of the opera house here, Mr. R. H. Cole, is giving evidence that he intends to bring the establishment up-to-date, and do his best to cater for the pleasure of the public.

We understand that he has placed an order with the J. M. Greene Music Co., the enterprising Peterborough firm for one of their new Scale Williams pianos. The management and the people of Campbellford are to be congratulated on the selection. It is a new Scale Williams piano that has been in the Grand Opera House, Peterborough, since the present management Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons took the place over from Mr. R. Bradburn, and no better testimonial can be given or needed than the fact that since its instalation, Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., has purchased one of these instruments for his home besides a second one purchased by the management for the stage.

The talented pianist of the Grand Opera House orchestra, Mr. Nicola, has also shown his appreciation of their merits by placing one in his own home. With such improved service the opera house at Campbellford ought to be well patronized.

BRANTFORD'S BIG POLICE FORCE

Department Will be Twelve Men Strong After May 1st.

Brantford with a population of 20,000, will have twelve police constables after May 1st. The Brantford Expositor of recent date has the following item:—

The police commissioners held a meeting yesterday noon at the court house when the principal feature was the decision reached by the Board to take on an extra constable for police duty, beginning with May 1st. The extra service was deemed a necessity for the protection of the outlying districts of the city, which are at present none too well covered. It is the intention of the chief of the force to have a man stationed permanently in the Grand Trunk and North Ward district. C. A. Hobbs yesterday duly received his appointment to the force, having done special duty for a few weeks. He takes the place vacated by Chief Felker, of Paris, whose resignation from the local force was accepted, the members expressing regret at his departure. With the addition of the new man on May 1st, the police department will be twelve men strong.

SPORTING NEWS

EVERYTHING READY FOR THE BIG EVENT

Officers Elected and Conditions of Walk Decided Upon at Meeting Last Night—Preliminary Arrangements Made For 6 Days Pedestrian Tournament for Championship of Canada.

A meeting was held at the Oriental last night for the purpose of electing the officers for the big six days' championship walking tournament to be held at the Brock street rink from April 20th to 25th inclusive and to make other arrangements in connection with the event. Mr. E. S. Clarry occupied the chair. From every indication the tournament will be an unqualified success. From the list of entries published on the bills it will be seen that some of the best walkers in the country will compete and there promises to be more enthusiasm aroused over the event than there has been over any athletic event in Peterborough fo years.

Arrangements for the tournament have been fully made and there is no doubt that it will be a brilliant success in every way.

An event of a similar nature has never been held in Peterborough but since "Dave" Hartley got the citizens of Peterborough to take such a sudden and deep interest in walking pedestrianism has been the subject of much discussion in this city and the surrounding community and when the champion heel and toe men get going there the Brock street rink should be patronized by record breaking crowds.

THE OFFICERS.

The following were the officers elected at last night's meeting:

Hon.-Pres.—Mayor Rush.
President—R. J. Munro.
1st Vice-Pres.—Fred. A. Clarke.
2nd Vice-Pres.—W. E. Wasson.
Secretary—A. C. Yokome
Treasurer—C. G. Graham.
Executive Committee —W. E. Hillhouse, W. S. Davidson, H. Snow, W. H. Robertson, Archie Moore, E. Best, R. M. Glover, J R Hay
Referee in Chief—E. S. Clarry.
1st Assistant—F. C. Dobbin.
2nd Assistant—A. Regan.
Judges—R. J. Munro and R. H. Fortye.
Official Timer—Frank Clarke.
Official Announcer—Archie Moore.

THE CONDITIONS

The walk is to be straight heel and toe. Any of the competitors running will be set back a lap for each offence.

Half of the total gate receipts will be divided among the first five men in the following percentages; First 50 per cent.; second 25 per cent; third 15 per cent; fourth, 6 per cent; fifth 4 per cent.

No starter will be awarded any of the prize money unless he covers 162 miles during the tournament.

The above conditions will be drawn up to be signed by each walker, as an expression of his willingness to comply with them, before he starts in the tournament.

BAND WILL BE PRESENT

The 57th Regimental Band will be in attendance on each night of the walk and will play during the whole four hours. The band will render bright selections and should make the occasion enjoyable for the spectators. On the first night of the tournament the band will play in front of the rink for half an hour before the commencement of the walk 7 o'clock.

TIME TABLE OF WALK.

Below is given the time table of the walk:

Monday—7 p. to 11 pm.
Tuesday—7 pm. to 11 pm.
Wednesday—1 pm. to 11 pm.
Thursday—7 pm. to 11 pm.
Friday—7 pm. to 11 pm.
Saturday—1 pm. to 11 pm.

The $1 ticket entitles the holder to the privilege of going in to see the walk at any time while the tournament is being held and the person who has one of these tickets may come in and go out as often as he or she pleases. The general admission ticket for each day of the walk will be 25c.

FOR BENEFIT OF LADIES

A large number of ladies will undoubtedly want to see the tournament and for their benefit it has been decided to reserve one side of the rink for ladies and their escorts.

The adoption of this plan will be much appreciated by the ladies who will witness the tournament. The wide publicity it has received and the fact of such a good athletic entertainment being provided has caused a great many of the fair sex in the city to become much interested in the event and a large representation is expected to be on hand to see the local hero, Hartley and the other Canadian stars and the American and English cracks struggle for the walking championship of Canada.

FOUR HOUR BOWLING GRIND AT PETERBORO BOWLING CLUB

A most novel and interesting bowling entertainment is planned for the very near future to take place at the Peterborough Bowling Club, and already the success of the project seems assured. The proposal is to run a four-hour grind for teams of two men and at least a dozen members of the P.B.C. have signified their intention of competing for the valuable prizes that will be offered.

It was the original intention to have only six teams enter and run the competition off in one night, but a number of the younger bowlers have expressed a desire to take part and have asked that it be made a handicap event and the competition extended over two nights.

The winners will be decided by the total number of pins knocked down in the two hours of play and if it is made a handicap event the number of pins given the various entrants will not be made known until after the competition is over. A committee of bowlers will be appointed to arrange the handicapping.

Present plans are to have the competition within a few days and the intention is to start it sharp at 7 o'clock in the evening, and stop on the stroke of 11. Each team will have an alley allotted them and a new draw will be made for alleys every half hour, the teams being changed around on each occasion according to the numbers they draw.

A twelve-hour grind on somewhat similar lines was pulled off in Toronto a year ago, and it was an immense success.

WHAT ABOUT THE RURAL WALKERS?

They Should be Represented in Big Pedestrian Tournament at Brock St.---No Entrance Fee Charged

There are many good walkers in the surrounding rural community who have yet to be heard from in the matter of sending in their entries for the big six day pedestrian tournament to be held at the Brock street rink, commencing April 20th.

There is no reason why some first-class representatives to the walk from the surrounding rural community could not take part in the event. Many young men and older men from the country are splendid walkers and should be able to make a good showing. There is no entry fee whatever charged and there are good chances of winning big money.

Any persons desiring to enter may address their entries to the Review, and their names will be promptly placed upon the list of starters. It is up to those from the agricultural districts to be represented in the tournament.

FOOTBALL

The annual meeting of the Midland Football League was held at the Y.M.C.A. this afternoon. Warkworth, Omemee, Norwood, and the Quakers were represented and Campbellford and Hastings by proxy.

The election of officers took place and Dr. Devitt, of Bowmanville, was chosen as representative to the annual O.A.F.L. meeting on Easter Monday.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR BALL TEAM

Manager Johnston Has Landed Some Good Ones--Meeting on Tuesday Night

Baseball should boom in Peterborough this season. A reorganization meeting of the Peterborough Baseball Club will be held in the parlors of the Windsor Hotel on Tuesday night at eight o'clock, and all interested are earnestly requested to attend. Any players wishing to join the club are invited to be on hand.

The business to be transacted will be of an important nature, chief among which will be the election of officers for the coming season. The prospects for a good team are most encouraging and several good players have already informed Manager Johnston of their intention of playing with the team this summer.

It was the final game in the League in which eight teams have competed and many hard fought and interesting games have been played. The game last night reflects great credit on Captain G. Martin, who managed his team with great skill. At half time the score stood 5 points to 3 in favor of No. 4, but during the second half No. 6 pulled together and scored 4 baskets. The teams were as follows:

SHOULD BE A GREAT GAME

When Central Y.M.C.A. and Last Year's First Team Meet Next Wednesday

Word was received from Toronto yesterday that the Central YMCA. would bring down their senior basketball team to play here on Wednesday night, April 8th. They are a strong team and should make a most interesting game with the Peterborough YMCA 1st team. The local team have been practicing faithfully and are showing excellent form.

It is to be hoped that all lovers of the game will turn out and support the local team.

The Peterborough line-up will be as follows; Sutherland, Best, Cressman, R Best and L. Dobson.

BASEBALL

The West End Baseball team are holding their first practice of the season at Boswell field this afternoon. A large number of players turned out.

HOCKEY CLUB AND CHARITY

Victorias of Montreal Institute a New Procedure in the History of Amatuer Sport

Montreal, April 4— The Victoria Hockey Club has broken new ground in the history of amateur sport. At a meeting of the club last evening it was resolved to bestow a large portion of the club's surplus earnings upon deserving charities in the city and the sum of $1,700 was therefore voted to the Children's Memorial Hospital. $500 to the General Hospital and $500 to the Western Hospital. In addition to these sums the club is giving a Challenge Cup to be competed for by the Amateur Hockey League of the Montreal schools.

IS LEAVING FOR THE WEST

Mr. Bert Lang Leaves on Monday for MacLeod, Alta.

Mr. Bert Lang, who played goal for the Peterborough senior O.H.A. team in 1907, leaves on Monday for MacLeod, Alta., where he intends residing for some time. Mr. Lang has many friends in the city who, while regretting his departure, will wish him every success in the West.

THEY WANT MORE MONEY

Those Who Have Snow Ploughing Contracts Send Request to Board of Works

The men who had the snow ploughing contracts for the past winter have made application to the Board of Works for more money. They have forwarded a petition to the Board, and it was read at the meeting last night. They state that they have lost money on account of the winter being so severe. They want something extra over their contract prices.

It is not likely that the request will be granted as the Board feels that the contractors should have made their tenders large enough to provide for a severe winter.

"The snowplough men didn't offer to refund the city anything when there was no snow last winter," was the way one of the aldermen put it last night.

Guelph police raided Alex. Cudney's house near Morden and recovered $200 worth of goods stolen from city houses.

REV. MR. MUNT AT ST. ANDREW'S

W. C. T. U. Missionary to Ontario Lumber Camps Gave an Interesting Address

A fairly large number were present last evening at St. Andrew's church, when an interesting meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held. The chief feature was the address by Rev. Mr. Munt, W.C.T.U. missionary to the Ontario lumber camps. Rev. J. G. Potter occupied the chair and conducted the opening devotional exercises after which he introduced the speaker of the evening. Mr. Potter referred to the good work being carried on by the W.C.T.U., and hoped that as a result of Mr. Munt's address new interest would be awakened in the mission the union was endeavoring to fulfil.

Rev. Mr. Munt is an Englishman that has given his life to mission work among men. For several years he worked among the British soldiers. Mr. Munt kept his audience deeply interested by his vivid pictures of the life of the lumbermen. The work of the W.C.T.U. lies in the railway construction camps and the mining and lumber camps. There are one hundred thousand men, scattered in groups of hundreds in the vast northland. He said that in many of these shanties the men were deprived of all the comforts of civilization, and their life is very monotonous. Mr. Munt's work is in Haliburton and Peterborough county, Parry Sound and Sudbury, covering altogether a territory of 8,000 square miles. He referred to the temptations of the lumbermen. People living in all the luxuries of the city little knew of the evils to which the men engaged in the woods were tempted. The railway construction work is chiefly done by Italians. This class of foreigners keep by themselves and it is hard to come in contact with them.

The reverend gentleman related many of his experiences with young men in the camps and told of how many had been brought to conversion. He stated that the W.C.T.U. was doing noble work, and urged the members present to keep it up and never to be ashamed of the white badge, the sign of the union.

At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Mr. Munt. The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of a hymn and prayer.

THROW AWAY LINIMENTS

Here's the Prescription to Cure Rheumatism.

Liniments only reach the skin and the muscles directly under the skin. Now, liniments can't cure Rheumatism. They simply deaden the nerves for a time. When the effect wears away, the pain returns worse than ever.

If the bowels do not move regularly—if the kidneys are strained or weak—if the skin is dry or harsh—the blood is sure to be filled with impurities or urea. This urea is changed into uric acid which is the poison that causes rheumatism.

Now, the only possible way to cure Rheumatism is to prevent uric acid from being formed. Logically, the only way to do this is to keep kidneys, bowels and skin in good working order, and prevent the stomach from being too acid. And the only way to do this is to take "Fruit-a-tives."

These marvelous tablets of fruit juices and tonics act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin—and put them in perfect condition. That is the only secret of their great success in curing rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago.

50c a box—6 for $2.50. "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

THREE LOCAL POEMS

A local gentleman recently offered a prize to be competed for by a number of relatives, the premium to be awarded to the one writing the best poem on "The greatest thing in the world." Three poems were submitted and they have been handed to the Review for publication.

The first is by a little girl ten years of age and is as follows:

MOTHER AND HOME.

The best thing in life, we all know well,
Is a happy home wherein to dwell,
A mother good and kind to love,
A faith and hope in the Home above

For mother gives me clothes and food,
And tells me always to be good,
The trees are beautiful to see,
It's nice to watch the humming bee.

The little bird that sings it's song,
Is merry all the bright day long.
The bee is beautiful and gay,
And busy all the summer day.

This butterfly is fair and bright,
As it passes in the morning light,
The flowers are pretty by the rill,
The lambs upon the grassy hill.

They are all so nice, I love them well
Which is the best 'twere hard to tell,
But mother's the best of all to me,
For she's always nice as she can be.

I like my home and mother best,
For they are better than all the rest,
Now by these verses, you will see,
What is the best in life for me.

LILY CALDER.

The second is entitled—

WISDOM.

Of all the good gifts that descend from the skies,
Which one should we mortals most cherish or prize?
Ye Muses, who first came from realms of light,
Now bear up my soul on your pinions so bright.

Far, far above the earth, in an atmosphere pure,
Where no mists born of Time, may my vision obscure,
The while I with knowledge but finite would scan,
What infinite goodness has given to man.

On life's tide wafted in there are blessings untold,
And the first is the love that our life doth enfold.
From infancy's dawn until age and decay
That love is the one thing that fades not away.

Though the world smile or frown, it still changes not,
Through grief or through guile, in palace or cot,
And sweet to the soul is the joy of the home,
Our "pole star" and magnet wherever we roam.

Whatever the lot be that Fate may have given,
Sweet home in our thoughts is enwoven with Heaven.
Of never be forgotten the friendship whose ray
Will lighten the shade of the gloomiest day.

And grant us kind Heaven, whatever thou send,
There we lack not while here, at least one faithful friend.
To the eye is most pleasant the sun in his might,
The stars and the moon in the glory of night.

The harvest fields fruitful, yield oil corn and wine,
Man's heart to make glad and his face to make shine,
Around us are blooming the beautiful flowers,
Which first shed their fragrance in Eden's fair bowers.

But wisdom he says, is the principle thing,
Which will last when the gold and the silver take wing,
For honor and riches her footsteps attend,
While she crowns all with life that is never to end,
So, while thankful for all things so richly possessed,
We deem wisdom excels and outshines all the rest.

Smith, April 2nd. 1908.

PURE GOLD.

Is the title of another one that is as follows:

The thing that I wish for most is gold,
To me 'tis the best of life,
But I do not mean the glittering pile
The source of miser's strife.
The golden love of a young heart true,
That will last through life's long day,
Is the coinage true of a realm base
Wher'er through the world we stray.

A golden love is a source of joy,
When worldly pleasures fail,
The alchemist's wand which shall
At last o'er all prevail.
The golden dawn of a summer's day
Inspires the heart anew,
And as the sunset glory fades,
The west is golden too.

I love the gold of the daffodil,
The gowan's heart so fair,
The golden glow of the buttercup,
And King Solomon's seal so rare.
I love the golden stars at night,
The golden sun by day,
The golden hue in the rainbow spread
Across the heavenly way.

The golden flush on the autumn leaves,
Methinks I see it yet,
And the gleam of the sun on the dark blue waves,
I never shall forget.
I saw the sun glance o'er curls of brown,
Then it filled my heart with job,
For each little tendril was swiftly turned,
To gold without alloy.

I love to think of the golden deeds
Of heroic men of old;
The golden example of bygone saints
Of which I have oft been told,
And I hope to find in the future days
Deep down on the hearts of men,
The golden love that will cheer my heart,
With the rays of gold again.

I hope that all through my days of life,
This gleam of gold will shine,
Till the Saviour at last shall say to me,
This crown of gold is thine.
In the City above, where the streets of gold
Stretch out 'mid pastures fair,
I shall find at last that thee gleam of gold,
Will greet me everywhere.

So surely the best thing here must be
Some thing so sweet and pure,
That lasting all through life, it shall
E'en after death endure.
So give me the golden love of youth
Which age shall not turn cold,
Which shall be transferred through the Gates of Death,
To the Beautiful City of Gold.

L. E. MORAY.

The poems have been submitted to a competent critic who will award the prize.

"CHARACTER BUILDING" WAS THE SUBJECT OF AN ESSAY

Another Successful Evening Under the Auspices of St. Peter's T.A.S. Ladies Literary Society—Miss Mahoney Was the Essayist—Excellent Programme

Last evening the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S. added another to its long list of successful literary entertainments when an unusually interesting programme, consisting of a very instructive essay on "Character Building," by Miss Mahoney, and a bright musical programme by some of the society's local artists, was presented to the enthusiastic assembly present.

The subject of last evening's essay was of a particularly interesting nature and held the interested attention of the large audience present.

Character building was first defined as the fostering and developing of noble qualities and the suppressing and eliminating of evil tendencies. It is the training which makes us prompt at duty's call, and which makes us love the true, the beautiful and the good. It shows us that the highest virtue of all is victory over ourselves and that everything good costs self-denial.

The qualities of the successful character builder were then very ably dealt with. The material which the character builder works in is not brick or stone but the God-given faculties of his creatures. The influence of the individual on those with whom he is constantly in contact is boundless. We are always making character both our own and others by the emotions we cherish, by the desires we indulge in and by the actions to which we respond. A good character says the sage is a precious thing and the work of making it is the noblest labor on earth. Among the traits which go to make up a beautiful disposition may be mentioned, unselfishness, kindness and happiness.

The manner of the building up of character was then shown to be most important. Perhaps there is no duty which we so underrate as the duty of being happy and consequently of making others happy. As a plant surrounded by pure air, beautiful sunlight and congenial soil, is able to defy the very weeds which at first threatened its existance, so human beings supplied with congenial surroundings develop into beautiful characters. Little every day acts of kindness are powerful incentives to happiness. The encouraging word to a friend, the smile that gladdens the cheerful word at home are seemingly little things but they make our lives broader, our sympathies deeper and our minds better. The reason why so few of us do much good is because we see too small value on these little things. Do a kindness to some one every day should be our motto, and then we will be perfectly happy.

The value of adversities as a strong means of building character was shown to have no equal. Failure often leads a person to success by arousing his latent energy, by awakening powers which were sleeping. The adverse breath of criticism should be to us only what the blast of the storm wind is to the eagle—a force to lift him higher. Strong character like the palm tree seems to thrive best when abused. People who have stood up bravely under great misfortune for years are often unable to bear prosperity. Difficulties call out great qualities and make greatness possible. Few knew Lincoln until the great weight of war showed his character. A century of peace would never have produced a Bismarck. How often one sees a young person develop astounding ability and build up a noble character after the death of a parent or some other calamity. Even the prison has roused the slumbering fire in many a noble mind. Sir Walter Raleigh wrote the history of the world during his imprisonment of thirteen years. For twenty-five years Dante worked in exile and even under sentence of death. "Adversity is a severe instructor," says Edmund Burke, set over us by one who knows us better than we do ourselves. Our antagonist is our helper. Our conflict with difficulty makes us acquainted with our object and compels us to consider it in all its relations.

Nature is a great character builder continued the essayist. She will chip and pound us remorselessly to bring out our possibilities. She will humiliate our ambition, let us down strip us of wealth, humble our pride, humiliate our ambition, let us down from the ladder of fame, discipline us in a thousand ways if she can develop a little character. Everything must give way to that. Wealth is nothing. Position is nothing. Fame is nothing. Manhood and womanhood is everything.

Many examples of beautiful characters who have transformed wordly minded people into a people of gentleness and piety were then cited. Among those mentioned was St. Margaret, Queen of Scotland, who by her noble character made her kingdom a paradise. All hearts yielded to the influence of her goodness and her own life was like a reservoir of living waters in a thirsty land for many generations after her day. One lesson above all others she was trained to practice from childhood—to be forgetful of self and mindful of making every one around her happy—this was the secret of her success.

In concluding, the speaker showed how patriotism, music, poetry and history were powerful incentives in the formation of character.

This excellent essay was intensely interesting throughout, and reflected much credit upon the young lady who prepared it.

As a pleasing preliminary to this very able essay a musical programme of rare merit was introduced by Miss Daisy D. Heron, who occupied the chair for the evening.

The following was the musical programme presented;

Instrumental Duet — Misses Leahy and Pierce.

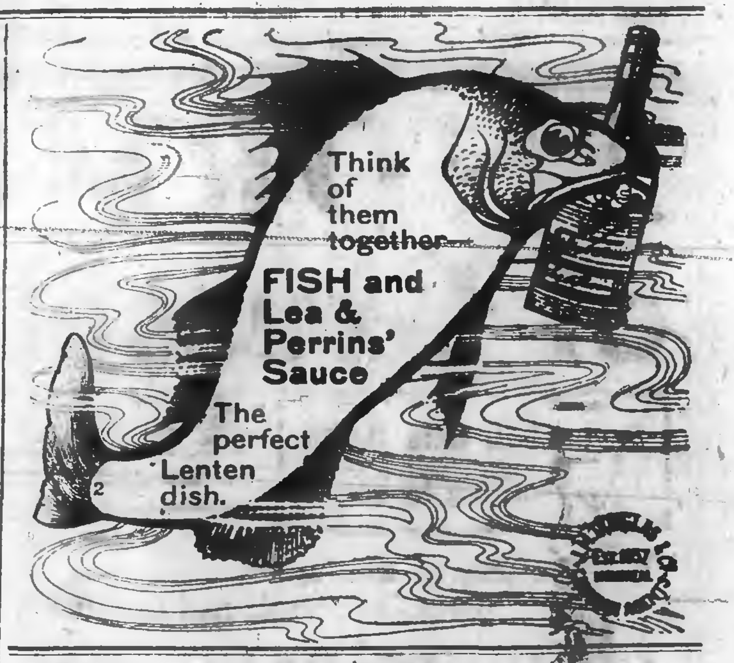
Vocal Solo—Mr. J. Mercier.

Instrumental Solo — Miss Irene Clancy.

The accompanist of the evening was Mr. H. Theobald.

This interesting meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The last meeting of the society for this season will be held on Thursday evening, April 9th, when brief essays will be given by Misses C. Holland, E. Connor and A. Coughlin.



A MEDICINE FOR SPRING

Do Not Dose With Purgatives—A Tonic is All People Need

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That's the way most people feel in spring. Easily tired, appetite variable, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Perhaps pimples or eruptions appear, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order; that the in-door life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble. Don't dose yourself as many people foolishly do with purgatives in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. What you need in spring is a tonic medicine that will make new, rich blood, build up the weakened nerves and thus give you new health and strength. Dr. William's Pink Pills is the one medicine that can do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine makes new, rich, red blood, strengthens the appetite, clears the skin and makes tired depressed men and women, bright, active and strong. Mr. Harry Huggins, Oshawa, Ont., says:—I don't think is anything equal to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure for nervousness, indigestion and a run-down condition of the blood. For some time I was a great sufferer from these troubles. I tried several remedies but nothing helped me until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking them I felt like an old man, but by the time I had taken four boxes my strength had returned, my appetite improved, my nerves were steady and I was feeling a renewed man"

If you need a medicine this spring—and most people do—try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see how speedily they will make you feel like a new person. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dr. Lacombe's bill to change the date of moving day from May to September was carried in committee of the whole in the Quebec Legislature yesterday.

STABLE AND CONTENTS DESTROYED

Blaze at Residence of Mr. J. Gibbs McDonnel St. Last Night

Shrotly after nine o'clock last evening the fire brigade were called to McDonnel street, near Aylmer, where the stable at the rear of Mr. Jack Gibb's residence had taken fire. The alarm was sent in from box number 38, and the brigade quickly responded. However, the conflagration had gained considerable headway before it was noticed, as all the family were out of the house. The blaze, it is thought, originated from a defective electric wire. The roof fell in and nothing but the burned and charred walls were left standing. Fortunately, Mr. Giggs' horse was out at the time, but about half a ton of hay was destroyed.

The loss will amount to between three and four hundred dollars.

HORSE STRUCK BY STREET CAR

Narrow Escape of Equine on Charlotte St. Yesterday Afternoon

A horse belonging to Fred Drake, a city carter, apparently has a charmed life. The animal had a miraculous escape into the shadowy realms yesterday afternoon, in fact those who saw the accident, cannot understand how the horse was not killed.

Attached to a waggon the horse was standing in front of the Peterborough laundry on Charlotte street, about a quarter to six o'clock yesterday, while Mr. Blake was inside looking after some business. Before the driver came out, the horse walked across the street and stopped right on the car tracks. A car was coming from the west at the time and before the motorman could get it stopped it struck the horse with considerable force. The animal fell on the fender and was carried several feet before the car could be brought to a standstill. The horse was pulled off the fender by some bystanders and it was found it had not been seriously injured. Mr. Drake was able to drive him home.

SUN CROSSING THE EQUATOR

Statement Recently Made by Rev. Dr. Marsh Found to be Correct

At a meeting of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society at the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday night among the questions answered was one relating to the sun crossing the equator. The president, Dr. Marsh, who answered this question, showed that his statement that the sun crossed the equator at 7 hours 27 minutes after noon on March 20th, 75th meredian time, was correct. The Review is in possession of a letter from the government astronomer at Toronto showing the correctness of Dr. Marsh's figures.

THE FRIENDLY BIBLE CLASS

Holds a Banquet at Close of Interesting Contest to Extend the Organization---An Enjoyable Time

Last night at George street Sunday school, was a field night for the boys who were celebrating the closing up of a contest to extend the membership of one of the several Bible classes, that conducted by Mr. Geo. Robertson, one of the most earnest, popular and successful teachers. A very elaborate and beautifully served banquet had been provided by the young ladies of the school, which was in care of and served by the young ladies of Mr. McCann's Bible class, including Misses Jean Eyres, Edna Ackerman, Ida Shera, Ruth Carlyle, Hazel Chowen, M. Wood, Maud Breeze, L. VanZant, Maggie Speers, Teenie Hart, M. Biggs, Mabel Sperry, M. Cowie, L. Smith, Ida Kirk, E. Kirk, I. Douglas, Zadi Bell, Estello Ivey.

A formal programme had been arranged, the details of carrying out of which were attended to by the boys of the class, who occupied the positions of honor. Master W. Pratt as chairman. The toast of the King was honored.

"Our Country," proposed by Mr. H. McGill, was replied to by Mr. D. W. Dumble and Mr. B. F. Ackerman, both of whom gave interesting facts in connection with the subject.

"Our Church," was proposed by Wallace Armstrong, and responded to by Rev. E. A. Pearson and Mr. A. W. Cressman.

"Our Sunday School," was given by George Ingham, and responded to by Mr. J. J. Hartley and Dr. J. F. Middleton.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin gave a short address on a familar topic, and the toast of "The Friendly Bible Class" found exponents and several members, being proposed by Harry Cressman, and replied to by W. Metheral and E. Daly. Not to depart from prescribed usage, the toast of "The Ladies," was honored, being proposed by Max Dobbin and responded to by Mr. W. E. McCann.

Though the duties of the evening were novel to the youths, who proposed the several sentiments, all acquitted themselves very well indeed, and were complimented on the readiness and clearness with which they addressed themselves.

During the programme songs were given by Mr. Mallory and Mr. H. C. Wright, an instrumental selection by Mr. Chas. Ackerman, and a vocal quintette by Messrs. Rickard, Mallory, Gray and Miles. These selections fitted in very well and made a pleasing variation in the programme.

In the contest just closed the "Red" section won, by securing the additional memberships for the class, principally among the older boys and youths. This is an excellent feature of the work going on in the school, adding to the interest and drawing to the school and its objects the young, especially at an age when other, and less desireable associations are likely to be formed. Under the earnest and energetic work of the superintendent of the school, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, loyally aided and supported by the pastor and teachers the school is gaining a very large membership and the interest developed must make for good work and in the end better citizenship. Markedly so is the interest developing in the senior Bible classes among the men of the church, bringing back with renewed interest those who, years ago, grew out of the school, and other interests intervening ceased to attend.

MANY CITIZENS WAITED UPON BOARD OF WORKS LAST NIGHT

Flooding of Cellars Cause of Most of the Complaints—Mr. Laplante Wants More Money for His Property—Plank Sidewalk to the King Edward School

A visitor at the City Hall last night would think that the Board of Works was holding a reception. It was the first meeting in several weeks and there was a large amount of business on the order paper. Several gentlemen waited on the Board regarding various matters, nearly an hour being taken up in hearing delegations. The majority of those who appeared before the Board had complaints regarding the flooding of their premises. The members of the committee present were, Ald. Phelan, chairman; Mayor Rush, Ald. Elliott, Bradburn, Tovey and Morgan. Street Commissioner Evans was also in attendance. Another meeting will be held in the near future to take up some matters which time did not permit considering last night.

Mr. Campbell who lives on Rubidge street, waited on the Board and complained that his cellar was flooded on account of a lack of proper drainage.

Street Commissioner Evans explained the situation, pointing out the cause of the flooding.

It was decided to have the chairman and Mr. Evans look into the matter with a view to eliminating the trouble complained of.

Mr. N. Laplante waited on the Board in connection with the expropriation of his property in connection with the extension of George street in the south end of the city. He claimed that he was not being paid enough for his land in comparison with what his neighbors were getting. He pointed out that the property in the neighborhood of his lot had been sold to the city at an average of 20c per square foot. He was willing to sell the portion of his land required by the city at 10c per square foot, or $1,500 for the land needed. He would be willing, in fact, to accept $12,000. He thought his proposition was a fair one.

Ald Phelan promised Mr. Laplante that the Board would take up the master at once.

Mr. Main was next in line and registered a complaint in connection with the Downey street sewer. His cellar had formerly been connected with the old drain, but the old drain had been filled when the sewer was put in last summer, and the cellar had not been connected with it. The result was that his cellar had been filled with water all winter, and damage had been done.

Ald. Phelan promised that the matter would receive careful consideration.

Mr. W. S. Robinson, of the Board of Education, next addressed the Board and requested that a plank sidewalk be laid on the west side of Aylmer street, leading to the King Edward school in order that the teachers and pupils would not have to tramp through the mud.

Ald. Tovey moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott that the city engineer be instructed to look into the matter and afford temporary relief.

A plank sidewalk will be put down as requested.

Mr. Hickey appeared before the Board and asked that the drainage be improved near his property.

It was pointed out that the street where the drain was required had not yet been taken over by the city and that it would be difficult to do anything. However, Mr. Hickey was promised that his case would be given consideration.

Mr. Jas. Rose asked the Board to have a sewer laid on Harvey street. A petition making this request had been put in last year but there had been a counter petition and as the majority of the residents of the street had signed the latter petition no action had been taken, at least Mr. Rose had heard nothing of the matter.

The city clerk pointed out that the city could do nothing at present. Mr. Rose was advised to go to the Board of Health, and place his case before that body.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall asked for a sewer on Hunter street, between Water street and his office, Mr. Jackson of the Crown Hotel, was also anxious for the sewer.

The matter will be taken up by the Board.

On motion of Ald. Elliott, seconded by Ald. Morgan, Mr. Matchett, one of the corporation teamsters, was granted two weeks holidays. A request for a raise of salary from the same gentleman will be considered. Mr. Matchett is not in the best of health at the present time.

A petition was received for a sewer on Bethune street between Dublin and Edinburgh streets.

W. J. Nelson wrote asking for the position of inspector of sewer construction. Mr. Martin Neary, who was a foreman last year, also applied for the same position. The applications will be considered at a later date.

NEW SPRINKLING CART.

On motion of Ald. Tovey and Bradburn, it was decided to purchase a new sprinkling cart.

Offers had been received from several firms and it was decided to purchase a cart with a wooden tank as this type is more satisfactory for Peterborough than the steel tank carts.

It was moved by Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the city engineer be instructed to make a report on the proposed sewer for the Normal school.—Carried.

It was moved by Ald. Elliott, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that a telephone be placed in Street Commissioner Evans' house.—Carried.

Ald. Morgan moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that tenders for 3,500 to 4,000 barrels of cement for the use of the city during 1908 be asked for.

STREET SPRINKLING.

It was moved by Ald. Tovey, seconded by Ald. Morgan, that the city engineer be instructed to advertise for tenders for street sprinkling for the same districts as last year, and that the committee have power to award the contracts.—Carried.

The city engineer's draft of the sidewalks and sewers to be constructed during the coming summer was also considered, and will be given further consideration at a later date.

COMMISSION RECOMMENDS A FLAGMAN FOR ONE CROSSING

Would Have Watchman on Duty at Reid Street Crossing Betwee 6 a.m. and 7 p.m.—City to Pay on Third and Grand Trunk Two Thirds of Cost.

The City Solicitor, Mr. E. H. D. Hall, has received the recommendation of the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada regarding two matters of local interest. They are the request of the city to extend Aylmer street across the Grand Trunk track at Romaine street and for protection at the G.T.R. crossing at Reid street. The Commission recommends that the city have the right to cross the G.T.R. track with Aylmer street, and that the crossing be maintained jointly by the corporation and the railway company. The maintenance of the crossing is a very small matter, meaning merely repairs, etc.

The Commission draws attention to the dangerous condition of the crossing on Reid street, and recommends that a flagman be placed there from six o'clock a.m. until seven o'clock p.m. and that two-thirds of cost of paying the flagman be borne by the Grand Trunk and one-third by the city.

Both these matters were discussed at the meeting of the Board of Works last night. The recommendation regarding the extension of Aylmer street was considered satisfactory, but objection was raised to the proposition regarding the crossing on Reid street. Several of the aldermen thought that the Grand Trunk should pay the whole cost of keeping a flagman, and it was decided to notify the Commission to this effect. A strong protest will be entered. It was also considered that the hours mentioned in the recommendation of the Commission were not satisfactory. Two express trains come in after seven o'clock in the evening, and it would be necessary to have the flagman there when these trains come through. The matter was discussed at some length, but no definite decision was arrived at regarding the hours the flagman should be on hand.

The decision of the Commission regarding the other questions in which the city is interested have not yet been received.

RECTOR FIGHTS FOR THE PLATE

Had Battle in Vestry With Former Accounting Warden

Philadelphia, Pa., April 3—Hostilities were resumed on Sunday between Rev. E. G. Knight, rector of Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal church and George Shegog, an ex-accounting warden.

Shegog, it is alleged, attempted to confiscate the contents of one of the collection plates and was prevented by the minister, who, clad in his vestments, engaged in a rough and tumble scrap with the ex-warden.

During the excitement the floor was strewn with money and many notes were torn and mutilated. When the smoke of battle cleared away Shegog was in a patrol wagon on the way to the police station He was released under bail charged with larceny.

Trouble between the rector and Shegog is of nearly a year's standing. There dispute is over who should take charge of the collection Both the rector and warden claimed the right.

Sunday's set-to occurred in the vestry as the congregation was leaving the church after morning service. The pastor was standing in the doorway shaking hands with his congregation when Shegog entered the vestry by another door and seized the money.

The choir boys gave the alarm and the fight was on. Policemen were at the night service for fear of further trouble but they were not needed.

MEETING DIDN'T TAKE PLACE

Lacrosse Fans Didn't Show up at the One Called for Last Night

The meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club called for last night at eight o'clock at the Hotel National was not largely enough attended to be really called a meeting, and therefore, nothing would be done in the matter of talking up the formation of a team.

It is unfortunate that a big gathering of enthusiasts was not on hand, as it was understood there would be a large number present. The meeting was sufficiently announced in the columns of the local press, but somehow or other there was no interest shown.

Another meeting may be called for later.

BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON, Author of "Graustark." Copyright 1904, by Dodd, Mead and Company.

Gartz hung his head. "We thought the man was crazy, your highness. He had been telling us such monstrous lies," he mumbled.

"Are you sure they were lies?"

"Oh, quite sure, your highness. They were laughable. He said, for one thing, that it was he who drove your highness' coach into Ganlook last evening, when everybody knows that I had full charge of the coach and horses."

"You are very much mistaken, Gartz," she said distinctly. He blinked his eyes.

"Your highness," he gasped, "you surely remember"—

"Enough, sir. Franz drove the princess into Ganlook last night. He says so himself, does he not?"

"Yes, your highness," murmured poor Gartz.

"What more did he say to you?"

"He said he had come from his master, who is in the hospital, to inquire after your health and to bear his thanks for the kindnesses you have secured for him. He says his master is faring well and is satisfied to remain where he is. Also, he said that his master was sending him back into the mountains to assure his friends that he is safe and to bear a certain message of cheer to them, sent forth by the princess. It was all so foolish and crazy, your highness, that we could but gibe and laugh at the poor creature."

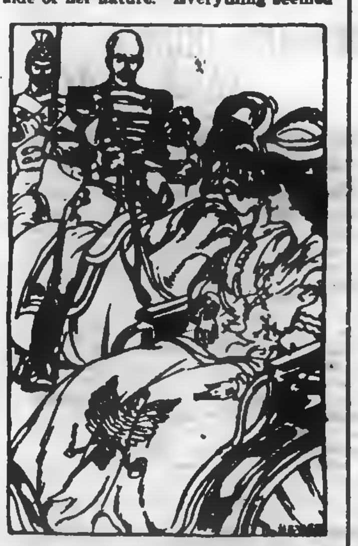
"It is you who have been foolish, sir. Send the old man to me."

"He has gone, your highness," in frightened tones.

"So much the better," said the princess, dismissing him with a wave of the hand. Gartz went away in a daze, and for days he took every opportunity to look for other signs of mental disorder in the conduct of his mistress, at the same time indulging in speculation as to his own soundness of mind.

Ganlook's population lined the chief thoroughfare, awaiting the departure of the princess, although the hour was early. Beverly peered forth curiously as the coach moved off. The quaint, half oriental costumes of the townspeople, the odd little children, the bright colors, the perfect love and reverence that shone in the faces of the multitude impressed her deeply. She was never to forget that picturesque morning.

Baron Dangloss rode beside the coach until it passed through the southern gates and into the countryside. A company of cavalrymen acted as escort. The bright red trousers and top boots, with the deep blue jackets, reminded Beverly more than ever of the operatic figures she had seen so often at home. There was a fierce, dark cast to the faces of these soldiers, however, that removed any suggestion of play. The girl was in ecstasies. Everything about her appealed to the romantic side of her nature. Everything seemed so unreal and so like the story book. The princess smiled lovingly upon the throngs that lined the street. There was no man among them who would not have laid down his life for the gracious ruler.



Two men rode up to the carriage.

"Oh, I love your soldiers," cried Beverly warmly.

"Poor fellows, who knows how soon they may be called upon to face death in the Dawsbergen hills?" said Yetive, a shadow crossing her face.

Dangloss was to remain in Ganlook for several days, on guard against manifestations by the Axphainians. A corps of spies and scouts was working with him, and couriers were ready to ride at a moment's notice to the castle in Edelweiss. Before they parted Beverly extracted a renewal of his promise to take good care of Baldos. She sent a message to the injured man, deploring the fact that she was compelled to leave Ganlook without seeing him as she had promised. It was her intention to have him come to Edelweiss as soon as he was in condition to be removed. Baron Dangloss smiled mysteriously, but he had no comment to make. He had received his orders and was obeying them to the letter.

"I wonder if Grenfall has heard of my harum-scarum trip to St. Petersburg," reflected Yetive, making herself comfortable in the coach after the gates and the multitudes were far behind.

"I'll go you a box of chocolate creams that we meet him before we get to Edelweiss," ventured Beverly.

"Agreed," said the princess.

"Don't say 'agreed,' dear. 'Done' is the word," corrected the American girl airily.

Beverly won. Grenfall Lorry and a small company of horsemen rode up in furious haste long before the sun was in mid-sky. An attempt to depict the scene between him and his venturesome wife would be a hopeless task. The way in which his face cleared itself of distress and worry was a joy in itself. To use his own words, he breathed freely for the first time in hours. The American took the place of the officer who rode beside the coach, and the trio kept up an eager, interesting conversation during the next two hours.

It was a warm, sleepy day, but all signs of drowsiness disappeared with the advent of Lorry. He had reached Edelweiss late the night before, after a three days' ride from the conference in Dawsbergen. At first he encountered trouble in trying to discover what had become of the princess. Those at the castle were aware of the fact that she had reached Ganlook safely and sought to put him off with subterfuges. He stormed to such a degree, however, that their object failed. The result was that he was off for Ganlook with the earliest light of day.

Regarding the conference with Prince Gabriel's representatives, he had but little to say. The escaped murderer naturally refused to surrender and was to all appearances quite firmly established in power once more. Lorry's only hope was that the reversal of feeling in Dawsbergen might work ruin for the prince. He was carrying affairs with a high hand, dealing vengeful blows to the friends of his half brother and encouraging a lawlessness that, sooner or later, must prove his undoing. His representatives at the conference were an arrogant, law defying set of men who laughed scornfully at every proposal made by the Graustarkians.

"We told them that if he were not surrendered to our authorities inside of sixty days we would declare war and go down and take him," concluded the American.

"Two months!" cried Yetive. "I don't understand."

"There was method in that ultimatum. Axphain, of course, will set up a howl, but we can forestall any action the Princess Volga may undertake. Naturally one might suspect that we should declare war at once, inasmuch as he must be taken sooner or later, but here is the point: Before two months have elapsed the better element of Dawsbergen will be so disgusted with the new dose of Gabriel that it will do anything to avert a war on his account. We have led them to believe that Axphain will lend moral if not physical support to our cause. Give them two months in which to get over this tremendous hysteria and they'll find their senses. Gabriel isn't worth it, you see, and down in their hearts they know it. They really loved young Dantan, who seems to be a devil of a good fellow. I'll wager my head that in six weeks they'll be wishing he were back on the throne again. And just to think of it, Yetive, dear, you were off there in the very heart of Axphain risking everything!" he cried, wiping the moisture from his brow.

"It is just eleven days since I left Edelweiss, and I have had a lovely journey," she said, with one of her rare smiles. He shook his head gravely, and she resolved in her heart never to give him another such cause for alarm.

"And in the meantime, Mr. Grenfall Lorry, you are blaming me and hating me and all that for being the real cause of your wife's escapade," said Beverly Calhoun plaintively. "I'm awfully sorry. But you must remember one thing, sir—I did not put her up to this ridiculous trip. She did it of her own free will and accord. Besides, I am the one who met the lion and almost got devoured, not Yetive, if you please."

"I'll punish you by turning you over to old Count Marlanx, the commander of the army in Graustark," said Lorry laughingly. "He's a terrible ogre, worse than any lion."

"Heaven pity you, Beverly, if you fall into his clutches!" cried Yetive. "He has had five wives and survives to look for a sixth. You see how terrible it would be."

"I'm not afraid of him," boasted Beverly, but there came a time when she thought of those words with a shudder.

"By the way, Yetive, I have had word from Harry Anguish. He and the countess will leave Paris this week, if the baby's willing, and will be in Edelweiss soon. You don't know how it relieves me to know that Harry will be with us at this time."

Yetive's eyes answered his enthusiasm. Both had a warm and grateful memory of the loyal service which the young American had rendered his friend when they had first come to Graustark in quest of the princess, and both had a great regard for his wife, the Countess Dagmar, who as Yetive's lady in waiting had been through all the perils of those exciting days with them.

As they drew near the gates of Edelweiss a large body of horsemen rode forth to meet them. The afternoon was well on the way to night, and the air of the valley was cool and refreshing despite the rays of the June sun.

"Edelweiss at last," murmured Beverly, her face aglow. "The heart of Graustark. Do you know that I have been brushing up on my grammar? I have learned the meaning of the word 'Graustark,' and it seems so appropriate. 'Grau' is gray, hoary, old; 'stark' is strong. Old and strong, isn't it, dear?"

"And here rides the oldest and strongest man in all Graustark—the Iron Count of Marlanx," said Yetive, looking down the road. "See; the strange gray man in front there is our greatest general, our craftiest fighter, our most heartless warrior. Does he not look like the eagle or the hawk?"

A moment later the parties met, and the newcomers swung into line with the escort. Two men rode up to the carriage and saluted. One was Count Marlanx, the other Colonel Quinnox of the royal guard. The count, lean and gray as a wolf, revealed rows of huge white teeth in his perfunctory smile of welcome, while young Quinnox's face fairly beamed with honest joy. In the post that he held he was but following in the footsteps of his forefathers. Since history began in Graustark a Quinnox had been in charge of the castle guard.

The "Iron Count," as he sometimes was called, was past his sixtieth year. For twenty years he had been in command of the army. One had but to look at his strong, sardonic face to know that he was a fearless leader, a savage fighter. His eyes were black, piercing and never quiet; his hair and close cropped beard were almost snow white; his voice was heavy and without a vestige of warmth. Since her babyhood Yetive had stood in awe of this grim old warrior. It was no uncommon thing for mothers to subdue disobedient children with the threat to give them over to the Iron Count. "Old Marlanx will get you if you're not good," was a household phrase in Edelweiss. He had been married five times, and as many times had he been left a widower. If he were disconsolate in any instance, no one had been able to discover the fact. Enormously rich, as riches go in Graustark, he had found young women for his wives who thought only of his gold and his lands in the trade they made with Cupid. It was said that without exception they died happy. Death was a joy. The fortress overlooking the valley to the south was no more rugged and unyielding than the man who made his home within its walls. He lived there from choice, and it was with his own money that he fitted up the commandant's quarters in truly regal style. Power was more to him than wealth, though he enjoyed both.

Colonel Quinnox brought news from the castle. Yetive's uncle and aunt, the Count and Countess Halfont, were eagerly expecting her return, and the city was preparing to manifest its joy in the most exuberant fashion. As they drew up to the gates the shouts of the people came to the ears of the travelers. Then the boom of cannon and the blare of bands broke upon the air, thrilling Beverly to the heart. She wondered how Yetive could be so calm and unmoved in the face of all this homage.

Past the great Hotel Regengets and the tower moved the gay procession into the broad stretch of boulevard that led to the gates of the palace grounds. The gates stood wide open and inviting. Inside was Jacob Fraasch, the chief steward of the grounds, with his men drawn up in line; upon the walls the sentries came to parade rest; on the plaza the royal band was playing as though by inspiration. Then the gates closed behind the coach and escort, and Beverly Calhoun was safe inside the castle walls. The Iron Count handed her from the carriage at the portals of the palace, and she stood as one in a dream.

CHAPTER XI.

THE two weeks following Beverly Calhoun's advent into the royal household were filled with joy and wonder for her. Daily she sent glowing letters to her father, mother and brothers in Washington, elaborating vastly upon the paradise into which she had fallen. To her highly emotional mind the praises of Graustark had been but poorly sung. The huge old castle, relic of the feudal days, with its turrets and bastions and portcullises, impressed her with a never ending sense of wonder. Its great halls and stairways, its chapel, the throne room and the armor closet; its underground passages and dungeons all united to fill her imaginative soul with the richest, rarest joys of romance. Simple American girl that she was, unused to the rigorous etiquette of royalty, she found embarrassment in the first confusion of events, but she was not long in recovering her poise.

Her apartments were near those of the Princess Yetive. In the private intercourse enjoyed by these young women all manner of restraint was abandoned by the visitor and every vestige of royalty slipped from the princess. Count Halfont and his adorable wife, the Countess Yvonne, both of whom had grown old in the court, found the girl and her strange servant a source of wonder and delight.

Some days after Beverly's arrival there came to the castle Harry Anguish and his wife, the vivacious Dagmar. With them came the year-old cooing babe who was to overthrow the heart and head of every being in the household, from princess down. The tiny Dagmar became queen at once, and no one disputed her rule.

Anguish the painter became Anguish the strategist and soldier. He planned with Lorry and the ministry, advancing some of the most harebrained projects that ever encouraged discussion in a solemn conclave. The staid, cautious ministers looked upon him with wonder, but so plausible did he make his proposals appear that they were forced to consider them seriously. The old Count of Marlanx held him in great disdain and did not hesitate to expose his contempt. This did not disturb Anguish in the least, for he was as optimistic as the sunshine. His plan for the recapture of Gabriel was ridiculously improbable, but it was afterward seen that had it been attempted much distress and delay might actually have been avoided.

Yetive and Beverly, with Dagmar and the baby, made merry while the men were in council. Their mornings were spent in the shady park surrounding the castle, their afternoons in driving, riding and walking. Oftentimes the princess was barred from these simple pleasures by the exigencies of her position. She was obliged to grant audiences, observe certain customs of state, attend to the charities that came directly under her supervision and confer with the nobles on affairs of weight and importance. Beverly delighted in the throne room and the underground passages. They signified more to her than all the rest. She was shown the room in which Lorry had foiled the Viennese who once tried to abduct Yetive. The dungeon where Gabriel spent his first days of confinement, the tower in which Lorry had been held a prisoner and the monastery in the clouds were all places of unusual interest to her.

Some of the people of the city began to recognise the fair American girl who was a guest in the castle, and a certain amount of homage was paid to her. When she rode or drove in the streets, with her attendant soldiers, the people bowed as deeply, and as respectfully as they did to the princess herself, and Beverly was just as grand and gracious as if she had been born with a scepter in her hand.

The soft moonlight nights charmed her with a sense of rapture never known before. With the castle brilliantly illuminated, the halls and drawing rooms filled with gay courtiers, the harpists at their posts, the military band playing in the parade ground, the balconies and porches offering their most inviting allurements, it is no wonder that Beverly was entranced. War had no terrors for her. If she thought of it at all it was with the fear that it might disturb the dream into which she had fallen. True, there was little or nothing to distress the most timid in these first days. The controversy between the principalities was at a standstill, although there was not an hour in which preparations for the worst were neglected. To Beverly Calhoun it meant little when sentiment was laid aside. To Yetive and her people this probable war with Dawsbergen meant everything.

Dangloss, going back and forth between Edelweiss and the frontier north of Ganlook, where the best of the police and secret service watched with the sleepless eyes of the lynx, brought unsettling news to the ministry. Axphain troops were engaged in the annual maneuvers just across the border in their own territory. Usually these were held in the plains near the capital, and there was a sinister significance in the fact that this year they were being carried on in the rough southern extremity of the principality, within a day's march of the Graustark line, fully two months earlier than usual. The doughty baron reported that foot, horse and artillery were engaged in the drills, and that fully 8,000 men were massed in the south of Axphain. The fortifications of Ganlook, Labbot and other towns in northern Graustark were strengthened with almost the same care as those in the south, where conflict with Dawsbergen might first be expected. General Marlanx and his staff rested neither day nor night. The army of Graustark was ready. Underneath the castle's gay exterior there smoldered the fire of battle, the tremor of defiance.

Late one afternoon Beverly Calhoun and Mrs. Anguish drove up in state to the Tower, wherein sat Dangloss and his watchdogs. The scowl left his face as far as nature would permit, and he welcomed the ladies warmly.

"I came to ask about my friend, the goat hunter," said Beverly, her cheeks a trifle rosier than usual.

"He is far from an amiable person, your highness," said the officer. When discussing Baldos he never failed to address Beverly as "your highness." "The fever is gone, and he is able to walk without much pain, but he is as restless as a witch. Following instructions, I have not questioned him concerning his plans, but I fancy he is eager to return to the hills."

"What did he say when you gave him my message?" asked Beverly.

"Which one, your highness?" asked he, with tantalizing density.

"Why, the suggestion that he should come to Edelweiss for better treatment," retorted Beverly severely.

"He said he was extremely grateful for your kind offices, but he did not deem it advisable to come to this city. He requested me to thank you in his behalf and to tell you that he will never forget what you have done for him."

"And he refuses to come to Edelweiss?" irritably demanded Beverly.

"Yes, your highness. You see, he still regards himself with disfavor, being a fugitive. It is hardly fair to blame him for respecting the security of the hills."

"I hoped that I might induce him to give up his old life and engage in something perfectly honest, although, mind you, Baron Dangloss, I do not question his integrity in the least. He should have a chance to prove himself worthy, that's all. This morning I petitioned Count Marlanx to give him a place in the castle guard."

"My dear Miss Calhoun, the princess has"— began the captain.

"Her highness has sanctioned the request," interrupted she.

"And the count has promised to discover a vacancy," said Dagmar, with a smile that the baron understood perfectly well.

"This is the first time on record that old Marlanx has ever done anything to oblige a soul save himself. It is wonderful, Miss Calhoun. What spell do you Americans cast over rock and metal that they become as sand in your fingers?" said the baron, admiration and wonder in his eyes.

"You dear old flatterer!" cried Beverly so warmly that he caught his breath.

"I believe that you can conquer even that stubborn fellow in Ganlook," he said, fumbling with his glasses. "He is the most obstinate being I know, and yet in ten minutes you could bring him to terms, I am sure. He could not resist you."

"He still thinks I am the princess?"

"He does and swears by you."

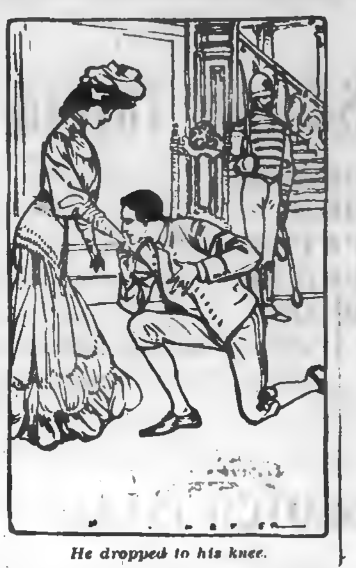
"Then my mind is made up. I'll go to Ganlook and bring him back with me, willy nilly. He is too good a man to be lost in the hills. Goodby, Baron Dangloss! Thank you ever and ever so much. Oh, yes; will you write an order delivering him over to me? The hospital people may be—er—disobliging, you know."

"It shall be in your highness' hands this evening."

The next morning, with Colonel Quinnox and a small escort, Beverly Calhoun set off in one of the royal coaches for Ganlook, accompanied by faithful Aunt Fanny. She carried the order from Baron Dangloss and a letter from Yetive to the Countess Rallowitz insuring hospitality overnight in the northern town. Lorry and the royal household entered merrily into her project, and she went away with the godspeeds of all. The Iron Count himself rode beside her coach to the city gates, an unheard of condescension.

"Now, you'll be sure to find a nice place for him in the castle guard, won't you, Count Marlanx?" she said at the parting, her hopes as fresh as the daisy in the dew, her confidence supreme. The count promised faithfully, even eagerly. Colonel Quinnox, trained as was in the diplomacy of silence, could scarcely conceal his astonishment at the conquest of the hard old warrior.

Although the afternoon was well spent before Beverly reached Ganlook she was resolved to visit the obdurate patient at once, relying upon her resourcefulness to secure his promise to start with her for Edelweiss on the following morning. The coach delivered her at the hospital door in grand style. When the visitor was ushered into the snug little anteroom of the governor's office her heart was throbbing and her composure was undergoing a most unusual strain. It annoyed her to discover that the approaching contact with a humble goat hunter was giving her such unmistakable symptoms of perturbation.



He dropped to his knee.

From an upstairs window in the hospital the convalescent but unhappy patient witnessed her approach and arrival. His sore, lonely heart gave a bound of joy, for the days had seemed long since her departure.

He had had time to think during these days too. Turning over in his mind all of the details in connection with their meeting and their subsequent intercourse, it began to dawn upon him that she might not be what she assumed to be. Doubts assailed him, suspicious grew into amazing forms of certainty. There were times when he laughed sardonically at himself for being taken in by this strange but charming young woman, but through it all his heart and mind were being drawn more and more fervently toward her. More than once he called himself a fool and more than once he dreamed foolish dreams of her, princess or not. Of one thing he was sure—he had come to love the adventure for the sake of what it promised, and there was no bitterness beneath his suspicions.

At the trial of the Grande Anse murder in Three Rivers yesterday, one of the witnesses testified that he had heard McCraw say that he would kill Sclater and then marry his wife.

THE WONDERS OF HYPNOTISM

Now Recognized as a Valuable Therapeutic Agent.

Dr Andre first explained that hypnotism was really the scientific outcome of mesmerism. Just as astrology contained the kernel of truth out of which astronomy had been evolved so mesmerism, with all its quackery had contained a basis of truth upon which the science of hypnotism had been built. Hypnotism was now recognized as a valuable therapeutic agent, and the fact that the British Medical Association had for the past ten years been recommending all medical men to study hypnotism because of its great value as a curative agent, showed that hypnotism now had a definite place among the recognized sciences. Hypnotism, he said, was simply the power of being able to put people into the same kind o f put people into the same kind of state as a somnambulist was in when he started sleep walking, and of exercising the power of the will over the subject while in that state. It was impossible to hypnotize any subject against his will, while the old idea that it was weak-willed people who were most easily influenced was wrong, for weak-willed people were unable sufficiently to concentrate their minds to be hypnotized. While a person was in the hypnotic sleep it was possible to extract teeth, or to amputate a limb, or to perform any operation and the subject would not only not feel any pain at the times but would feel none afterwards. To test the truth of this he invited any doctor or dentist to seek his services during the week. It was also possible to influence a man's tastes under hypnotism so that the influence would last for a considerable time after the patient was awake. In this way cravings for tobacco or alcohol could be cured, as well as various forms of nervous diseases. Relief could also be given from neuralgia, rheumatism, or indeed from pain of any kind.

In response to an invitation for subjects nine young men stepped on to the platform. Each was given a chair and a bright disc to look at, and in a few minutes, after the doctor had made a few passes over their heads, with his hands, seven out of the nine passed into what looked like a comfortable sleep. While in this state, Dr. Andre by the power of suggestion, made them undergo various experiences. First they were induced to believe it was hot and started taking off their coats and fanning themselves; then that it was cold, when they started to wrap themselves up and even to hold their ears. One was induced to think that he had a violent toothache, anotherr that a coin which the doctor gave him was red hot, another that a rat was chasing him, and so on. One was induced to make a speech on the subject of Craig street, which he declared was sixteen feet under water, and a disgrace to the city. Another gave a comic song. Finally after numerous amusing experiments, the doctor told them all that they were being chased by ghosts. This stampeded the whole seven, one running right through the scenery at the back of the platform, and another even hiding under the carpet. Dr. Andre asked all who cared, in the audience, to close their eyes for three minutes. A number did so. Then he suggested that they could not open them. Fifteen people in the audience remained with their eyes closed, and declared that try as they would, they could not open them.

These fifteen, the doctor said, would make good subjects.

DRUGGING CHILDREN A SOURCE OF DANGER

When you give your child a so-called "soothing" medicine you are not curing its sickness. You are merely drugging it into temporary insensibility. Soothing medicines contain opiates and an overdose may kill the child. When you give your little one Baby's Own Tablets you have the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine is safe. And you have the word of thousands of grateful mothers that this medicine will promptly cure all the minor ailments of childhood. Mrs. L. W. Smith, St. Giles, Que., says;—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my little girl for constipation and other troubles and have found them the best medicine I have ever used." FROM HANSARD

Jan. 15, 1908.

INDUSTRIAL DECLINE.

Mr. Cockshutt; The resolution which I have placed on the Order Paper sets out with what I think will be acknowledged by all to be a self evident fact, that is, that congestion exists in this country in the industrial centres. The same 'Free Press' from which I read a few moments ago, contained an editorial in the month of January, in which it attacked the hon. member for North Toronto and myself, and had on its front page glaring articles in regard to the congestion of labor in the city of Toronto. One of them was headed, 'The Black Flag May Fly;' another was that food was being distributed; another was that there were many unemployed. And in the city of Tornoto today, and to a less extent in every other city and town of an industrial character in Canada, there is and has been for many months a condition of congestion. I think I was justified in placing this resolution on the order paper in the early days of the session, because from what we find in the speech from the Throne, it is evident that the Government was not taking notice of what was going on in the country. Here is what they say in the speech from the Throne in a tone of rejoicing;

'The stream of immigrants coming to Canada continues to increase in volume, the year now drawing to a close showing a larger number than any preceding year, and it is gratifying to observe the many coming from the British Isles.'

In the face of that statement the hon. gentleman knew or should have known that in every town and city of Ontario there was congestion in the labor market. It was known to myself away back in the last summer, and I wrote to a booking agent in the old country who was sending people to my district warning him that he had sent all that it was possible to send. But this Government made no attempt to prevent the congestion. They are now beginning to put in motion the law which requires that a man coming to Canada should have $50 in his pocket. Why did they not exact that condition long ago? I understand that the law originally provided that an immigrant should have $25, but even that was not enforced. Men landed in our town last summer who had not enough money on them when they arrived to pay for the first meal. That was no uncommon occurrence. I believe it occurred in many towns and cities in Canada. In some cases these men had wives and families, and were thrown upon charity even in good times. The proper precaution for the minister to have taken was to have enforced the regulation which called for the immigrant having in his possession a certain amount of money. I hve copies of all the literature sent out by the Immigration Department, and I think the hon. member for Montmagny (Mr. Lavergne) was quite correct the other day when he said that it was like advertising patent medicines. While the Government have threatened prosecution for misrepresentation with regard to the conditions in this country, the Government is itself an offender in this respect, because it sends out documents with glowing pictures and descriptions of what has been done in this country, but which cannot be realized once in a thousand times. I do not mean to say that a case cannot be found equal to the one suggested, but I do say that the department should only cite the fairly average case, and not attempt to deceive British or European people with the idea that money can be picked up in the streets of Canada, and that all a man has to do to get rich is to come here. The man who gets ahead in Canada, even in fairly good times, has to put his hand and brain to work, and do his daily work in a thrifty, methodical and persevering way. Our climate does not lend itself to getting on with too little work. We have a hardy climate, and many immigrants cannot labor at their calling throughout our winter. But the Government have so extended their immigration policy that it now embraces not only those classes that I have referred to in my resolution, domestic servants and farm laborers, but also gardeners, stablemen, carters, railway surface men, navvies and miners. I wonder who cannot qualify under that regulation. Some of those who are brought into this country by the hon. gentleman as agriculturists are like the one I heard of recently out west, who was sent out to hitch a horse to a cart, and he put him in the shafts with his head towards the cart, so that when he went forward he backed up, and when he backed up he went forward. Many of the so-called farm laborers brought to Canada have scarcely any knowledge of agriculture, and come to this country totally unqualified for the work for which they were sent out. They have no knowledge of how to drive a plough or a mowing-machine or a reaper. For this reason there is much discontent on the part of our farmers with the help they have on the farm. Many of these so-called agriculturists who are brought from Europe never saw a large farm in their live. They perhaps workde a garden on a small scale, but they are perfectly unable to handle the ordinary agricultural implements used in this country. But almost any man can qualify under the extended list which I have read; and the minister pays for these people at the rate of $5 per head, and I believe a similar amount is allowed to the booking agent, so that about $10 a head is paid for every man, woman and child brought into Canada, and I m informed that $2 a head is paid to every man who locates in this country. We learn from the Minister of the Interior, in answer to a question put to him today, that nearly $700,000 of the money of the people of this country has been paid out in bonuses alone for bringing in immigrants. Now, this policy is not a new one, but is one that has caused and is going to cause this country a great deal of anxiety. The hon. minister charged me the other day with endeavoring to flood this country with skilled and unskilled mechanics. I want to call his attention to the fact that over two years ago, when I pointed out to him that he paid too much attention to numbers to too litte to quality, he retorted that I stood for a small Canada, and like a great many men on our side of the House, for an undeveloped and ungrowing country. I do not now and never did stand for a small Canada; but I say that Canada can grow fast enough iwthout growing at the expense of all that is true and best in citizenship, in religion, in morality, and in commercial enterprise and success. And this government, with the same recklessness which has characterized their financial policy, has entered upon an immigration policy that will hand down a legacy to posterity, the harmful effects of which three generations will not be sufficient to overcome. I do not hold the hon. gentleman (Mr. Oliver) himself wholly responsible for that. He entered upon a department after a gentleman even more unscrupulous than himself in this respect, one guided—

Some hon. members. Oh, oh.

Mr. Speaker. I think the hon. gentleman (Mr. Cockshutt) should not use the word "unscrupulous" with reference to any member of this House.

Mr. Cockshutt. I did not use the word in a disrespectful sense, or with any intention of offending; but, as the word itself is regarded as objectionable, I take it back. I wish to point out that the hon. gentleman (Mr. Oliver) is the successor of the hon. member for Brandon (Mr. Sifton) who had established in this country what had become known as the Siftonian policy. That policy had two guiding principles. The first was: grow rapidly; and the other was, "Have regard to political results." The hon. gentleman (Mr. Sifton) keeping in mind these two principles, proceeded to plant in our Northwest—and I have studied this question at close quarters in the Northwest—colonies in every constituency where they could do the most good. And when I say "good" I mean the most political good for the government. The hon. gentleman placed these colonies throughout the Northwest, and they are there today doing good work for the government. The more uneducated, and the lower in the scale of civilization in some instances, the more they were appreciated and desired. But this country has its eye upon those who have been carrying out that policy, and they have called a halt, and called it in tones which cannot be disregared. The effects of that policy have been seen within the last six or eight years in the Northwest, but they are now spreading rapidly throughout Canada. There is not a town or city throughout the Dominion that is not feeling the effect of this policy of bringing in immigrants regardless of their quality and fitness to become citizens of this country. When we speak about this, hon. gentlemen opposite tell us that they stand for a growing Canada; that 300,000 immigrants have been brought to our shores. Mr. Speaker, it is not a good policy to bring to this land, men, women and children who cannot be placed in suitable conditions and will not become fused and assimilate in one Canaddian citizenship. But such considerations as these have been thrown to the winds by this government. Today, in the Northwest, the British and Foreign Bible Society are selling the old book in forty-five languages, and still the field is not covered. And this policy has been pursued until within the last week or two; but now the Minister of the Interior (Mr. Oliver) has called a sudden halt and has provided that immigrants shall come only from the countries that have direct communication by steamship with Canada. He sees the evil of the policy that has been pursued. What is the cry in every church meeting in Canada today? Money for missions. For what missions? For home missions. We do not need to send money abroad to carry on our foreign mission work, for the foreign missions are at our door. Under the policy of this government there is work for the foreign missionary in every town and city in Canada. The cry in every Christian church, regardless of denomination, is for money to keep up the work that this government has loaded upon us. The cry is Money! Money! to send in men to keep pace with this foreign mission work within our own boundaries. And if this country succeeds in fusing and assimiiating the people that the hon. gentleman has been instrumental in bringing here into one great and sound citizenship, it will be owing to the devotion, energy and perseverance of the Christian church, and not to the widom of this Government's policy.

This is not merely a question of capital and labour, as hon. gentlemen opposite would have us believe. It is not merely a question of whether the labour market is fully supplied or not; it goes a great deal further than that. It is a question that goes to the very fountain of our citizenship, of our social and moral and religious life as a people. The Government embarked upon a policy involving the very gravest danger, and now we are free to face with the perils which might have been forseen from the first. The hon. member for West Huron (Mr. Lewis) brought a certaiin evil to the attention of this House this afternoon. But this is only one phase of this great question, the practice of many of these brought in by the government of unlawfully carrying concealed weapons. The hon. minister may dispute my statement that there are undesirables in every community. But let him ask the people of any townor city in Canada. If there are not undesirables amongst them who have lately come in. There is not one of these places but can name these undesirables that have appeared only within the last year or two. Many of these undesirables are carrying concealed weapons, as the hon. member for West Huron (Mr. Lewis) he sais. Attacks with the long knife are matters of daily occurrence in Canada today—an offence that was almost unknown here ten years ago. The way to deal with these people is on their entering the country, and not after they have come here. These weapons should be taken from them before they are allowed to come within our borders and partake of the privileges of residence in this Canadian community. And none should be allowed that privilege unless they are such as can become good citizens of Canada. Have any such precautionsb een taken? None. Consider, for instance, the "farm labourers" whom the minister brings in. The history of many of these men is that they go on a farm for a month or two, prove themselves unsatisfactory, are discharged and drift into the towns and cities. And there you can see them by the hundred, yea, by the thousand, today. They can not They are not qualified for the work of the farm, and instead of driving the plough, mower or reaper, or even using the pitchfork and smaller implements of the farm, they are wholly unfit for any part of the work, and so drfit into the cities to become a burden upon our people. In many cases they are displacing our good old-time workmen. Men who have held positions for twenty years have been supplanted by the people introduced by the hon. gentleman. And why? Simply because they will work cheaper than our own workmen will. Should the standard of life in this country be lowered, or should it be maintained? I say we are entitled to keep it at the highest notch. Therefore, I sympathize with our friends from British Columbia, when they stand for holding that as a white man's country.

We had a law which called for the possession by each immigrant of at least $25, and that requirement, I understand, has been raised to $50. It is stated in the press, however, that many of the Japanese coming into British Columbia were furnished, just before arriving, with $25 in crisp Canadian bills in order that they might pass the inspection at the port, but as soon as they landed they returned it to the man who had lent it to them. Whether that statement is true or not I do not know, but it has beenmade in the press, and I have reason to believe from what I have seen that that part of the law has not been satisfactorily carried out. I further believe that the requirements of the law respecting the moral character of the immigrants to this country have not been enforced. Crimes of violence are increasing in Canada. We have for years been noted as a law-abiding, God-fearing country, where crimes of great cruelty, of great violence, were very rare, but if you look at almost any paper now you ewill find that crimes of a serious nature are being committed by newcomers. What does that mean? That many men are entering our gates who are not morally fit to enter. They have not the outcasts of the communities from which they came and have reverted to crime almost the moment of their arrivalh ere. We have that case at Brantford the other day when a man who had not been in the employment of a farmer a month, committed one of the most serious crimes it is possible to commit. Thus it goes on throughout the country, especially in some of the larger cities; crime is multiplying at a tremendous rate. Men are being held up in the streets of cities where such a thing was formerly unheard of, and the long knife comes out on small provocation. Our courts are filled with many serious cases. This is a very regrettable condition and it has been caused in large measure by the laxity of this department in allowing to come into this country those who were morally unfit to enter.

There is the further case of physical unfitness to enter, men who never could do a day's work, who are nots trongly enough built, who have been accustomed to the slum and dark places of the earth and have not had a fair chance in life. We are sorry for them, but can we afford to open our gates to every one of this kind and admit them, to the danger of a citizenship that it has taken a hundred years to build up? There is something more than numerical increases to be considered. We want to go in the right direction and I wish to emphasize as my policy today, and it is the same policy that I have advocated since I came into this House: Grow slower and grow better, lay a foundation that we will have no cause to regret; bring in such citizens aas can be assimilated into one common general people and will make now and hereafter the very best class that can be brought into any free country. We have 160 acres of land to give to every settler. Is that not enough to induce them to come in? Is that not enough to justify us in asking that they be qualified to take up that land, occupy it and cultivate it in a skilful and proper way? But this Government has not done that; they have gone beyond all that was reasonable and their whole course has shown that they desire to grow, regardless of the results; they wish to count heads, so that at the end of the year they can make a great showing on paper. Just in the same way in their trade policy they have recklessly sought to make a showing regardless of the disasters they have caused and of the foundation on which their policy stands. I do not wish to hold this Government responsible for anything but what they have done, but I would quote a line from a great English authority, Lord Bolingbroke, who once said:

'No man suffers by bad fortune but he who has been deceived by good.'

So I say to this Government, you do not suffer by the bad fortune which has come upon you now, in reference to your immigration or trade policy, except in so far as you have been deceived by the good luck you have had in the past; you have had good luck; you have prospered nominally and on paper; but your fortune has been not nearly so good as you supposed.

The Government have become kind enough to say now that they will divide with the Opposition the honors of the present financial stringency, and the Minister of the Interior showing a like regard when he said that they were willing to divide with the Opposition the honor of bringing in more skilled and unskilled mechanics than are required. Up to the present time all immigration has been due to the policy of the Government, but now, when there is a cry that the wrong kind of immigrants are coming in, that there are too many of them and that they are living on public charity, when many serious phases have presented themselves, the Minister generously says: You are responsible; you helped to bring them in and we are ready to hand over part of the honor to you. That is very kind and generous, but we accept only part of it for which we are responsible, and so far as I am concerned from the time I entered the House I have endeavored to enjoin upon the Minister the necessity of bringing in only the kind of immigrant who will become a moral, law-abiding, God-fearing citizen of this country. When I say that do not take it that I stand for a small country, or wish to keep out any nationality who will become proper citizens. I trust I have enough Christian charity in my heart to wish to have the doors of this country open to all those who are worthy of their past life and records to come in—and when I say worthy I mean that they have implanted in their hearts those instincts that will make a man of any nationality, color or creed, a true man in the true sense, a man ready to do an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. Such men will succeed in Canada. But this Government have thrown all this policy to the winds; they have shown a disposition to sacrifice everything that is best in our citizenship in order that the end of each year they may have a glowing showing on paper—and this they have been able to do.

I therefore think it is high time that the Minister of the Interior should inaugurate a policy of entrenchment, in so far as immigration into this country is concerned. It is too late to remedy a very great evil that has taken place in Canada and it will take us years to overcome, but it is not too late to see to it that in future only those who will make desirable citizens and will be finally fused into one great common people should be admitted to the citizenship of this country. I therefore have much pleasure in moving:—

That in consideration of the great congestion that at present prevails in the labor market, in many of the industrial centres throughout the country, it is highly expedient that assisted immigration, excepting only agricultural and domestic servant classes, should immediately cease, and that no further bonuses shall be paid to individual agents or companies for sending or bringing in such immigrants. Further, that the time has come for the strict enforcement of the law that requires that only the financially, morally and physically fit shall be allowed to enter this Dominion as settlers.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

WRIT ISSUED AGAINST THE HAVELOCK ELECTRIC CO'Y.

Plaintiffs Move to Set Aside 200 Shares of Stock—Peterborough Lawyers Handling he Case.

Havelock, April 3.—A writ was issued in the High Court of Justice on Monday against Aleck Rose, Dr Holdcroft and the Havelock Electric Light & Power Co., Limited, by Messrs Thomas Bennett and Richard P. Nolan, who claim on behalf of themselves and other stockholderrs of the defendant company, other than the individual defendants, that 200 shares claimed by the individual defendants to have been issued to them or their assigns in or about the year 1904, and now held by the said individual defendants or their appointees, were were so issued to them or their assigns when Directors of the Company without value and without the proper sanction and approval of other shareholders of the Company, and that the issue thereof should be annulled and that the defendants be restrained from transferring or permitting the transfer by the individual defendants of any such shares.

A defence to the above writ was entered on Tuesday by Messrs. Rose and Holdcroft and W. Y. Fairman, as president of the Company, and the case will probably come up for hearing a tthe spring assizes in Peterborough.

Messrs. Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr, of Peterborough, solicitors for the plaintiff and Hall, Medd & Davidson, of Peterborough, for the defendants.

The case arises from the dissatisfaction of a number of shareholders in the local Company, who claim that the 200 shares alloted by the original five Provincial Directors of the Company, Messrs. Rose, Holdcroft, Mathison, Bryans and Curtis, to themselves, in payment for the site of the Company's power plant at Burnt Dam, which they valued at $5,000, should be annulled and set aside as being far in excess of the proper amount of stock that should have been issued for such purpose.

Since the Company was formed, Dr. Holdcroft has purchased Messrs Bryans' and Curtis' allotment of the 200 share issue, and Rose has purchased Mr. Mathison's share.

The case, if it comes to an issue, will be intensely interesting to the large number of shareholders in town and to the friends of both plaintiffs and defendants, as a large amount of the stock in question has been sold to other parties during the year.

CLICK FROM A HANDBAG

Startles Harlem Sleuths and Puts Supposed Bomb-Thrower in Jail

New York, April 3. — Detectives McMullin, Murphy, and Hand of the Harlem Detective Bureau were out looking for anything in the Anarchist line that might come along in Harlem last night, when, in front of 1,645 Second avenue, Murphy, who was in the middle, laid a cautious and detaining hand upon the arms of his associate sleuths.

"Did yez hear it?" asked Murphy.

Hand stopped and listened. McMullin cocked his ears.

Clicketty-clicketty-click.

"Do yez hear it?" again asked Murphy.

"Yis," said McMullin.

"I do," said Hand.

It was the pianissimo but certain sound of muffled clockwork. The Harlem sleuths formed a hollow triangle and scanned the neighborhood. Murphy saw a man standing not far away, a leather bag in his hand. He gave the signal, and with his comrades, swooped down upon him.

With all possible speed they rushed the protesting citizen to a Subway train and lugged him to Headquarters. The leather bag was examined. In it was found some cheap alarm clocks.

The man gave his name, when he got his breath, as William Bolte. Asked where he had acquired so many noisy timepieces, he said;

"A friend give 'em to me."

The man was searched, but no Anarchist literature was found on him. Inside his coat was the name of a Newark clothier. The Newark police were informed last night that the clocks were awaiting identification at Police Headquarters and Mr. Bolte was cast into a cell.

In Brampton, Ont., yesterday, John Terrace, an Englishman of twenty years who came to this country last fall, was found guilty of murdering his aged employer, William Curry, a farmer, and sentenced to be hanged on the 11th of June next.

Thirty-three cremations took place in the Montreal Crematorium during the past year, as many as have taken place in the previous six years of its existence.

SECESSION MOVEMENT A POLITICAL DODGE

A Trick to Overturn an Honest Administration—Spoils to be the Result of Change—An Echo of the "Late Unpleasantness."

Advocates of secession for New Ontario appear to have met disaster at the mass meeting held in Lennon's Hall, Sudbury, on Thursday evening. As indicated by a special despatch to the News, which appeared on Friday, a resolution favoring secession was defeated, about eighty per cent of those present voting against it. Lieut.-Col. Gordon, who was chairman, wrote to the News stating that this report was incorrect, and that "a resolution in favor of separation was carried by a majority of two to one, on a standing vote."

A copy of the Sudbury Mining News of Friday's date is now to hand, in which a column account of the meeting is given, and which confirms the News' report. Following is a portion of it;—

"The chairman proposed a resolution in condemnation of the Whitney Government's attitude, and asking for Separation from Old Ontario, and the formation of a new Province."

"Before the resolution was put Dr. Howey took the platform and in a slashing speech knocked the bottom out o fthe arguments of the secessionists. He showed clearly that there was no patriotism behind the motives of the leaders, but that i was purely of a personal character. . . . He pointed out that the people were not clamoring for separation, but that the movement was fathered by a coterie of soreheads who were prepared to trump up anything, whether it had any merit or not. They were agitators and destructionists, not patriots and nation builders."

A SCHEME WITHOUT MERIT.

Mayor McLeod then took a hand in the debate, and pronounced himself as unalterably against the movement, which he described as without the least trace of merit, and was simply and solely a petty attack on the Government. He was sure the people of Sudbury and vicinity were quite competent to decide this question properly if the matter ever came up, and in the meantime he hoped that the resolution would be voted down.

After a few more remarks from Mr. McKee, which were most unfavorably received, Mr. Gordon put the resolution; about 25 voted for secession and over 100 against, and amidst great enthusiasm Mr. Gordon declared the motion lost.

The chairman had intimated that certain working committees would be selected and when the motion was lost and nobody remained, presumably this matter was lost also. The result of the meeting is to thoroughly discredit the scheme, and it is very probalbe that the last is heard of the movement.

LECTURE ON THE ART OF THE GREAT MICH. ANGELO

Rev. Prof. A. H. Young, of Trinity University, Toronto, Speaks on the Great Italian—A Fine Lecture and a Most Interesting Study.

Prof. Young said in part; Without any prelude to my lecture, which is in itself a difficult one, we will have a picture thrown on the canvas of the great St. Peter's in Rome. Here you will readily see that its great dome is its chief beauty and the most prominent feature from the exterior, and, by the way, this dome is closely associated with the early features of the Christian faith, for Peter's pense and other such taxes were levied to meet the expense incurred in its erection. Rome has only its one St. Peter's, just as London has its St. Paul's. St. Peter's will be interesting to us tonight because with it is linked very closely the name of Michael Angelo, whom we must come to regard not only as a great sculptor but as a painter and as an architect as well as other things. This dome stands as the most striking monument of his skill, and St. Paul's in London is largely remodelled after it.

As we view this great cathedral (St. Peter's) from the square in front of it, we are not given nearly so good a view of the dome as in the other picture. This can be accounted for by the fact that the building really seems out of proportion, in a sense, to the dome. We can see in the picture the palace of the Vatican, and the great obelisk in the centre of the square and other prominent buildings. The cathedral is capable of seating 25,000 people. Coming to the Sistine Chapel, which was erected by Pope Sixtus IV. as a monument after his death, we arrive at the scene of our subject tonight. We notice that the chapel, which we will merely glance at at present, is very long and comparatively narrow, and when one first enters the chapel one is disappointed. This is always true, for who of us when we viewed the might Niagara did not feel on our first impressions that it was not as grand as we would believe? So it is with the Sistine Chapel, which is so stupendous that on first thought it is a disappointment. It looks like a big long bare room, the walls all smoky and the ceiling blurred with spots of blue, grey and brown. But this is only the first impression, for on a closer inspection we find that, in truth, the walls and ceiling are adorned with paintings, the like of which could never be found again.

In this picture we see the great sculptor and artist, Michael Angelo, himself. It is not a beautiful face, for we can trace on it the lines of sorrow and grief. I suppose when you first look at this picture, your thoughts turn back to the Italians in general, who are not thought very highly of, but do not judge all the inhabitants of Italy by the representatives we see in America from there, But I think after all that we do not know these Italians as well as we ought to. We would find them, as a rule, honest and industrious, and very much more thrifty than even we Canadians ourselves. Returning to the picture of Michael Angelo himself, we must not put him in the class of Italians we find in Canada. He boasted a noble ancestry and was born in the Florentine country in 1474. We must not only think of him as a great sculptor and artist, but he was also, besides many other things, a soldier, and once he fought to protect his native city. He is regarded as the greatest man of the renaissance, but many question this statement and point to Shakespeare and Milton and say that Michael Angelo was not the greatest figure in the renaissance. Some judge the real time of the renaissance as about one hundred years, and Angelo lived to be ninety years old. But the better way is to pleace the date of the renaissance from about 1300 to 1670, or till about the death of Milton. But Michael Angelo, if he be not the greatest man of this great renaissance he is the greatest sculptor and painter.

Studying the protrait of the man himself, we find his face an uninteresting one to study, for it is a careworn face and expressive of much sorrow and hard work. His hands attract us, the long fingers expressive of sensitiveness, and the large veins sticking out, proof of his hard work.

Pope Julius was Michael Angelo's patron and it was he who induced Angelo to undertake to paint the Sistine Chapel. Michael Angelo had a dificult task in doing this. The chapel had to first be plastered, and while it was still wet had to lay on his colors, which he had largely to mix himself. This work was started in 1508 and completed in 1512.

We will not study the Sistine Chapel now, but instead will turn to some of his paintings which have been termed as only sculptors in colors, as indeed they are. Our artist believed that beauty and goodness were closely allied in nature and the best thing he knew was man, and so we must not be surprised when he reveals the human form in all its beauty. Many have seen his paintings of human forms, and without taking into consideration what lies behind, pass judgment.

In this peiture we have a picture of the Virgin Mary and her Son, Jesus, here a representative picture of the God of Baccus, and in both pictures we see the artist's skill in all its splendor. The anatomy and grace of outline is perfect in his human forms. "The Madonna of the Fever," as it is familiarly called, is, in my estimation, the most beautiful man ever painted. The light and shade intensifies the feeling of sorrow.

Other pictures of grief as portrayed by other notable artists were then shown and comparisons made.

Ruskin attacks Angelo, and says that he was ridiculous, and he bases his conclusions on such peitures as "Moses," which we here see. The great law-maker with his Ten Commandments on the tablet of stone, is truly a large sized man, but how else could the idea of strength and greatness be thought of? This bigness of body, which Ruskin speaks harshly of, is here seen, for if according to this picture Moses were to stand up he would be 14 feet high, and it is this feature which Ruskin condemns.

The Three Fates, and Joseph Mary and the Christ, are pictures in which we again see the great artist's skill, as indeed all his pictures show. We notice further that Michael Angelo did not fill up the backgrounds of his pictures with landscapes, but instead with pictures of human figures, again demonstrating the fact of his love in the beauty of man.

Coming to the Chapel itself, which we will now proceed to deal with in detail, we find the ceiling divided into panels, six of them showing pictures of creation and three of them the life of Noah. Many have objeated to these pictures of the creation, condemning them because God the Father is pictured, and many object add lecture on the art to seeing the Great Almigthy painted, but whatever the objections may be, we will look at these six pictures of the creation. In the first we have God the Father in all His strength, separating light from darkness, then the creation of the sun and moon, the creation of plant life, and here we see the creation of man, where God the Father is represented as leaning down from Heaven and touching the fingertip of man, thereby breathing into him the breath of life. The creation of woman and temptation and fall and expulsion of man from the Garden of Eden concluding these six wonderful pictures of the creation.

The three pictures of Noah, of the sacrifice, before entering the ark, of the story of the great flood, and of Noah's fall through drink.

On the left side of the Chapel we find paintings of the prophets Jeremiah, Job, Ezekiel, Isaiah, Daniel, Zacharias and Jonah completing the group.

The remainder of the lecture was taken up with a detailed account of the different pictures which could not be described here. The Last Judgment was taken up in detail and the lecture was concluded with a full description of Michael Angelo's views of the Last Judgment.

Lord Rosebery has been elected Chancellor of Glasgow University to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Lord Kelvin who was Chancellor since 1904.

MONARCHISTS HOPE TO WIN IN THE PORTUGAL ELECTIONS

Which are Taking Place To-day—Rioting in City of Lisbon Troops Were Called Out in Several Districts—Several Killed and Wounded.

Lisbon, April 6.—The Monarchists are confident that the influence of the Government machinery on the governors and prefects throughout the country will insure a strong Monarchist majority in the elections of members of the new Chamber of Deputies to-day. They have determined to limit the Republican deputies to 12. A total of 146 deputies are to be chosen. The Republicans, however, claim victory also.

The efforts of the secret police in investigating the tragedy of Feb. 1, when King Carlos and the crown prince were shot down, have developed apparently conclusive evidence that the death of former Premier Franco was decreed by a secret Republican society, in spite of the protests of the Republican leaders. The editors of the newspapers who insist that the accomplices of Buiss, the man who killed the king, be brought to justice, are receiving letters threatening them with death.

King Manuel has left the Necessidades Palace only once since the assassination of his father and brother; this was when he drove in a closed carriage to the Ajuda Palace to visit his grandmother, Queen Maria Pia.

The elections which were conducted peaceably with the exception of minor disorders in some of the disaffected districts, were followed by serious rioting, which was only put down by most vigorous action on the part of the police and the troops.

The rioting broke out in different parts of the city, as though by a pre-concerted plan. Troops, which had been patrolling, and others that had been held in reserve, were immediately ordered into action and they repeatedly charged the mobs that in places filled the streets, but without effect. The rioters used clubs, stones and whatever other weapons was at hand, and finally the troops were obliged to fire upon them, killing and wounding a number of them.

At a late hour most of the Republican voters had gone to their homes, but bands of youths continued to demonstrate before the churches. They confined their disorders, however, to shouting.

With the exception of minor disorders at Anjos and Alcantare, the elections passed off quietly throughout the country, so far as present advices indicate. In this city slight disturbances occurred during the day in certain sections, owing to the numbers of electors who suspected that unfair methods were being adopted.

Up to midnight counting had not commenced in many of the districts. Strong police guards were assigned to watch the urns throughout the night. No ontoward incident is reported from Oporto.

The ballot boxes, according to the traditional custom, were installed in the churches.

USE "CAT" TO SUPPRESS CRIME

English Judges Sentencing Highway Robbers to the Lash.

London, April 6.—For some time past there has been quite an epidemic of crime over almost the whole United Kingdom. The judges of assize would seem to be becoming alive none too soon to the seriousness of the situation and as to how much rests upon them to suppress, if possible, a reappearance of the robber who lies in ambush for an unsuspecting victim and have begun to blend stern sentences of imprisonment with the administration of the cat o' ninetails.

The largest cases this week were at the Glamorgan assizes, where Justice Lawrence has been ordering the cat more than has been done for years. He has sentenced a footpad to seven years' penal servitude with twelve lashes, two to five years' penal servitude, each with twelve lashes, twelve months' hard labor with twelve lashes, nine months' hard labor with twelve lashes.

The Humanitarian League is up in arms. It denies that the cat has done more than anything else to suppress robbery with violence. In London, however, there are judges and others who say that garrotting was stamped out in London and the corner man annihilated in Liverpool by the lash.

Long Journey's Abrupt Ending.

Munich, April 6.—An abrupt ending was the fate of an adventurous automobile tour which was planned from Frankfort to India. The start was made Saturday, the machine carrying Rudolph H. Zabel, an author, of Berlin, and his wife and chauffeur. Not far along in the journey the automobile collided with a tree and was totally wrecked. Frau Zabel had her jaw broken, and the chauffeur's arm was broken. Zabel sustained a severe shock.

Socialists at Central Park.

New York, April 6.—Without semblance of disorder and under the surveillance of scores of police and detectives, 1,500 persons took part in a meeting of the Socialist party in Grand Central Palace Saturday to discuss the attitude of the authorities and to let it be known that the Socialists were not in sympathy with the act of the bomb-throwers.

The police had warned the speakers against violent utterances and the speeches were mild.

Resolutions were passed denouncing the city officials for failing to give work to the unemployed and for withholding permission for the meeting in Union Square.

Find Stolen Bust.

Rome, April 6.—After a diligent search the police have succeeded in finding the bronze bust of Pope Clement VIII., which was stolen from the Villa Aldobrandini on March 20. The thieves gained access to the villa by breaking a window. The bust, which weighs fully 500 pounds, was found by the police, buried about half a mile from the villa. It was the evident intention of the thieves to keep it in concealment until an opportunity should be afforded to ship abroad.

HOT TIME OVER LOCAL OPTION

One Man Challenged Another to a Duel in American Town.

Uniontown, Pa., April 6.—William M. Likins, proprietor of The People's Tribune, the prohibition organ of this county, lodged information yesterday before Justice John Boyle, charging George Titlow, proprietor of the Hotel Titlow of this place, with challenging him to fight a duel. Titlow is one of the prominent citizens of Uniontown; so is Likins. This episode is a development of the hot campaign now being waged in this county for the nomination of candidates for the Legislature who, when elected, will vote on a local option law. It also has a sharper personal aspect.

At a recent banquet to some friends in his hotel Mr. Titlow made a speech in which he said he wished to be regarded as a business man more than as a hotel or saloonkeeper.

In last week's issue of The People's Tribune Likins made Titlow's remarks the text of an editorial article in which he declared that what Titlow had said amounted to an expression of shame over being engaged in the business of selling liquor. Some other scarifying things were printed about Titlow in connection with his accumulation of money through selling whisky that was rather calculated to rasp his feelings.

That this rasping was done is proved by Titlow visiting Likins Saturday night in his office and personally challenging him to a duel with rifles at 25 paces. Likins was given until Thursday of next week to decide whether to fight or flunk. In case of the latter, Titlow engaged to post him as a coward. Likins says Titlow named the weapons and distance and appeared to wish to arrange for all details except the funeral.

Titlow weighs 260 pounds and is a crack shot. Likin weighs about 130 and says his only experience with a rifle was acquired by occasional hunting trips when he lived in Kentucky.

ENGLAND'S PRIME MINISTER QUITS

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman Sends Resignation to King—Asquith Sent For by His Majesty—Continued Illness Only Reason for Resignation.

London, April 6.—It was officially announced last night that the King has accepted the resignation of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the British Premier.

Sir Henry's condition remains unchanged, according to the physicians' bulletin posted yesterday. The King, in telegraphing his acceptance of the Premier's resignation, conveyed an expression of his regret and esteem with best wishes for Sir Henry's recovery.

No further official announcement with regard to Cabinet changes has been made, but the King has summoned Herbert H. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the latter will start for Biarritz, where the King is sojourning, probably this afternoon.

The Chancellor, who has been acting Premier in place of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, called a meeting of the Cabinet yesterday morning to submit the Premier's resignation and discuss the course of business.

The resignation of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the first Liberal Prime Minister of England, since Lord Rosebery gave up office in 1895.

SIR H. CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN.

has its dramatic phase, for as he passes from the stage the mixed forces which he held together as a party appear also to be approaching the end of political power.

The Bannerman Government, it has been stated, combined too many factions, and too many fads, all the elements of opposition to Conservatism and of discontent united to make common cause against the old Government, and when joined together in an administration, a working team of Home Rulers, Laborites, Socialists, Liberals, Imperialists and Little Englanders was found nigh impossible.

But it speaks much for Bannerman's leadership that this disintegration of his party has gone on so much more swiftly since the attack of heart trouble, which occurred last fall in Bristol, where he had gone to make a political speech, removed him from the possibility of active leadership.

Sir Henry was not only the leader of the House of Commons, but also its father, for he represented Stirling without interruption ever since he entered the House in 1868 at the age of 32. Throughout his political life he has been a consistent and staunch advocate of radicalism, and his political faith has never wavered. He did not derive his politics from his family, however, for his father, Sir James Campbell, a prosperous glass merchant, was one of the most devoted adherents of the "Tory party in Scotland," while his brother sat for years in the House of Commons on the Conservative side. When he first stood as a Liberal candidate for Stirling, young Campbell was twitted with his allegiance to the other side, but he retorted that loyalty to their political faith ran in the family, and that as his father was consistent in his Toryism, he would be consistent in his Liberalism.

He had a varied experience in Government, holding the positions of Financial Secretary to the War Office twice, Secretary to the Admiralty, twice Secretary of State for War and for a brief time, in 1884-5, Chief Secretary for Ireland. At that trying period the Irish members were devoting all their effrots to making that office almost untenable, but Mr. Bannerman (he assumed the name of his maternal uncle Bannerman under a will and acquired his title in 1895), met all their attacks with unfailing good will and ready wit.

He came more prominently before the public eye when he took office as Secretary for War in Gladstone's last Government. His great administrative feat was to persuade the Duke of Cambridge to resign the position of commander-in-chief of the army. The duke was extremely reluctant to retire, but he yielded to the War Minister's tactful pressure and resigned. Four hours after the formalities had been completed and the necessary documents signed, the Liberal Government was defeated on the cordite vote and resigned. The duke then wished to retract his decision, but it was too late.

A long period of depression for the Liberals followed, and when Sir William Vernon Harcourt resigned the leadership of the party by a unanimous vote of the party, Bannerman was chosen, in February, 1899, to be its leader.

Although so long anticipated, the actual announcement of the Premier's resignation had not been looked for some days yet, and comes somewhat as a surprise to the country. Sir Henry's condition had shown some improvement recently and his resignation was not due to any sudden impairment of his physical condition. On the contrary, among his friends, his resignation is regarded rather as a good sign that the doctors are now more hopeful of his recovery when relieved from the anxieties of office.

To-day had been fixed for Mr. Asquith to move in the House of Commons the second reading of the licensing bill, the measure that is regarded as the most dangerous of all the Government bills to the Ministry's tenure of office. Under the changed conditions, this debate will be postponed until after Easter, and an adjournment of Parliament moved to enable the Chancellor to proceed to Biarritz to kiss hands on his appointment as Premier and submit his proposals for the reconstruction of the Cabinet.

It may be inferred that no more contentious business will come before the House of Commons until the new Ministers are appointed.

Killed by Express Train.

Locust Hill, April 6.—Stanley E. Hoover, eldest son of Alpheus Hoover of Green River, was struck and instantly killed by the C.P.R. express from the east in the freight yards here yesterday. Young Hoover, who was a student at the Markham High School, was greatly interested in the study of telegraphy, and spent much of his spare time around the station. On Saturday evening he left the station presumably for home, and finding that the other members of the family had retired, returned to the station to spend the night. About 6 o'clock he left the office for home, boarding an eastbound freight, on which he rode some distance down the track.

For some reason he jumped off the freight just as the westbound express dashed past. He was thrown under the wheels. He was 15 years of age.

Fell Off High Bridge.

St. Thomas, April 6.—Walter Dawson White, aged 26, formerly a fireman on the Michigan Central Railway, was instantly killed at 5.30 on Saturday afternoon by falling from the Wabash bridge over Kettle Creek here. White had been to the Wabash yards looking for work, and in order to take a short cut to his boarding-house had occasion to cross the bridge. Before he could do so a train came along, and he stepped to one side, and either fell or was knocked off the structure, falling about fifty feet and breaking his neck. White was married, his wife being in Broughton, England, from which place he came last year. His wife was to have joined him here next month.

Theatre Under Ban.

Quebec, April 6.—A circular letter issued by Archbishop Begin was read in every Catholic Church in the city yesterday, placing the Auditorium Theatre under the ban of the church, and forbidding Catholics from attending that place of amusement.

The cause of the ban was the performance given Friday and Saturday of "La Tosca" by the Paul Cazeneuve French Dramatic Co. of the Theatre Nationale of Montreal.

A Revolver Accident.

Vancouver, April 6.—On Saturday night E. Dyson Currier, a guest at the Badminton Hotel, was examining a Colt automatic revolver and accidentally shot himself, being wounded painfully but not dangerously. The bullet passed through the side of the mouth, emerging near the right ear. Currier came from Ottawa and had been in Vancouver two years.

Bomb In Sultan's Harem.

Paris, April 6.—A despatch from Constantinople to The Matin says that a bomb was found in the harem quarters of the palace on Saturday.

The Sultan and his entourage became panic-stricken.

Many of the women and eunuchs have disappeared.

Cambridge Wins.

Putney, April 6.—For the third year in succession Cambridge won the varsity boat race on Saturday, defeating Oxford by 2 1-2 lengths. The light blues fully justified the confidence reposed in them by the riverside experts and led the procession from start to finish.

Bernard Shaw For Parliament.

London, April 6.—There is a new candidate for Parliamentary honors whose political fortunes will command world-wide interest. Somebody in the audience at a big Queen's Hall meeting the other day asked George Bernard Shaw if he would stand for Parliament. Barkis modestly intimated that he was willing if they would give him support enough. Now his friends are looking for a favorable constituency.

Stole Key From Czar's Tomb.

St. Petersburg, April 6.—Robbers entered the cathedral of the Petropavlovsk fortress, which contains the tombs of the Russian Emperors, and stole the enormous key of the Gueorguieosk fortress in Poland, which was placed as a trophy on the tomb of Constantine, the son of Paul the first.

JAP TROOPS DESERT FROM THE BARRACKS AT TOKIO

Returned Next Day During Shower of Rain and Sleet—Alleged Brutality on the Part of Officers—Young Soldier Tied up and Flogged to Death.

Tokio, April 6.—A somewhat remarkable incident, probably unprecedented in this country, occurred recently, when thirty-two soldiers belonging to the First Infantry Regiment of the First Tokio Division, deserted in a body.

At 9.30 at night the men, in company formation, left the barracks by the rear gate. The sentry made no attempt to prevent them, because he thought that they were going out for night manoeuvres. In due course the regimental authorities instituted a search for the missing men, but without effect.

At 6 o'clock the following evening the men returned to their quarters during a heavy downpour of rain and sleet. Soon after leaving the barracks, the deserters sent a letter to Major Fukuda, commander of the second battalion, requesting an interview, which was accorded. The major very gently reprimanded them for their misconduct, and led them back to their barracks, the deserters following him quite meekly. They were there placed under arrest and an enquiry was instituted.

It is understood the men were dissatisfied with their treatment at the hands of a lieutenant, who had lately been subjecting them to an unusually severe course of physical training, on the ground that they were the poorest men in the regiment.

During the past six months the native papers have from time to time given publicity to instances of brutality, for the most part in the army, the offenders usually being petty officers and the victims junior privates. One of the worst cases was at Yokosuka, where a young private was suspended from the ceiling, a towel stuffed down his throat to stifle his cries, and a terrible flogging administered with wire rope.

The man died from his injuries. The petty officers were sentenced to a few years' imprisonment.

BOWIN,S CHANCES APPEAR GOOD

Alleged Murderer of Mrs. Welch Makes Good Impression.

Detroit, April 6.—Unless something unforeseen turns up, Percy Bowin, who is on trial on the charge of murdering Catherine Welch last January, will know his fate by Tuesday night.

Bowin was on the witness-stand in his own defence all day, and until late Saturday night. He told practically the same story on the stand that he told in his alleged confession to Chief of Detectives McDonnell and other police officers, except that he now declares that he did not kill Mother Welch. He says she wanted him to go out of the city with her and gave him $14 in cash and her diamond earrings to purchase a suit of clothes and pay his expenses to another town.

Assistant Prosecutor Grose will cross-examine Bowin to-day, and if he does not break down but sticks to his present story he stands a good chance to escape punishment. Grose will go after Bowin hammer and tongs and make every effort to break down his story.

The defence has produced several witnesses that have testified that they saw Mother Welch alive and talked to her 18 hours after the police say Bowin confessed that he had killed her.

Yankee Consul Woke 'Em Up.

Pekin, April 6.—There has come a sudden realization of, and awakening to, the possibilities of the political position of the United States in the matter of Russia and Japan, and the sovereignty of Manchuria.

Russia and Japan, it is declared here, are of the opinion that China never would have been aware of the strength of her diplomatic position in Manchuria, and especially at Harbin, where Japan supports Russia, had it not been for the interference of the consular representative of the United States.

Bound For Devil's Island.

Montreal, April 6.—Kid McManus, wanted in France to answer to a charge of having been implicated in the robbing of $12,000 in cash and checks from a vault in the office of the American Express Co., in Paris, in 1901, will have to fight against extradition. This was decided Saturday.

It will probably mean a life sentence on Devil's Island. Both his accomplices in the express robbery were sent there, though one of them, Eddie Guerin, an Englishman, escaped.

Traveled In Male Attire.

Reading, Pa., April 6.—Jennie Van Vliek of Kingston, N.Y., and Edward Major were arrested by the police here yesterday, the woman disguised in male attire. Major is wanted by the authorities of Saugerites, N.Y., on the charge of horse stealing. Not until the pair fell into the hands of the police was the woman's sex revealed. She said she had been traveling in disguise for several weeks, saying she and her companion found this a more convenient and cheaper manner to travel.

An Alderman Fined.

Victoria, April 6.—Judge Irving, in the Supreme Court awarded $1,000 against Ald. Meston, for having sat at the aldermanic board during 1907 when he was not properly qualified.

Ald. Meston was the head of the local "Reformers" in the council, and was re-elected this year, when suit was brought against him, asking damages.

Dead Letter Record.

Washington, April 6.—Of 1,053,692 pieces of mail matter received in the dead letter office during March, more than 600,000 were returned to the senders — breaking all records for this division.

Wastes of Human Life.

There are four wastes of human life preventable and largely unnecessary. These wastes are preventable death, preventable sickness, preventable conditions of low physical and mental efficiency and preventable ignorance. The last named, ignorance, is responsible in large part for the others.—Woman's Medical Journal.

COMMUTATION IS ASKED FOR

Evidence and Other Information Sent to Minister of Justice.

Ottawa, April 6.—Application was made Saturday by T. C. Robinette, K.C., to the Minister of Justice for a commutation of the death sentence pronounced upon John D. Tearse to a life imprisonment.

A copy of the evidence taken at the trial accompanied the application, and it is said that Hon. Mr. Aylesworth always weighs very carefully every word of the evidence before making his report to the Governor-General. The Minister of Justice will ask for a report from Chief Justice Meredith, and also an opinion from Crown Counsel Blackstock.

Accompanying the solicitation is a complete history of the convicted man, procured from England by Drs. Bruce Smith, C. K. Clarke and Chief Coroner Arthur Jukes Johnson.

Considering the fact that the whole trend of evidence pointed to Tearse's insanity, little doubt is felt by the defence counsel as to a commutation of sentence being secured.

Policemen In a Battle.

New York, April 6.—Police Sergeant James C. Nerney, attached to the seventh inspection district and temporarily detailed to the staff of Deputy Commissioner Bugher, shot and probably fatally wounded Policeman John Bresnahan of the West Forty-Seventh street station, Saturday afternoon at Ninth avenue and Fiftieth street.

Both policemen were in civilian's clothes, but off duty, and neither knew the other was an officer. Bresnahan had a black-jack in his hand at the time and was in pursuit of another man. Nerney started to arrest him, when he was struck by the black-jack. He then fired the shot that took effect in Bresnahan's abdomen.

Three Cars Left Tracks.

St. Catharines, April 6.—Traffic on the westbound track of the Grand Trunk Railway was blocked for a couple of hours yesterday afternoon by a slight smashup. About half-past two o'clock two engines attached to some empty coal cars whizzed past the local station. Half-way between here and Jordan three cars left the track and piled up. Word was sent to Niagara Falls and the auxiliary was quickly on the scene and replaced the cars on the rails. No one was hurt.

Fell Sixty Feet.

Belleville, April 6.—Cephais Johnson, 35 years of age, an employe of the Lehigh Cement Co.'s works, fell off a scaffold 60 feet high to the ground. His injuries consist of a fractured thigh, smashed knee-cap, injured arm and shoulder, scalp wounds and internal injuries.

Joseph Webb of Trenton was knocked down and run over by a car near the coal chutes while shunting and was killed.

Evelyn Charges Libel.

New York, April 6.—Charging that James B. Regan, proprietor of the Hotel Knickerbocker, damaged her reputation by saying he had requested her and E. R. Thomas, with whom she was at supper in the grill room in that hotel early on Tuesday morning, to leave the place, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Saturday brought suit for libel against Mr. Regan, asking damages of $50,000.

Believes He Was Murdered.

Detroit, April 6.—The family of Samuel Weir, the Detroit man whose body was found in False Creek, near Vancouver, and whose death was supposed to be due to suicide, believe that he was murdered.

Two Lynchings.

Mobile, Ala., April 6.—Walter Clay, a negro who was serving time at the stockade of the Hand Lumber Co. for manslaughter, late Saturday afternoon criminally assaulted Mrs. John White, aged 20 years, and was lynched by a mob of twenty-five men outside the limits of Bay Minette Saturday night.

Wesson, Miss., April 6.—John Burr, a negro, was lynched yesterday near here by about 500 men for the murder of a 13-year-old white boy.

NEW ONTARIO

Before going to the scaffold in 1905 the late Liberal Administration at Toronto gave away thirty square miles of the finest timber land in the world. It was in relation to the famous Hunter claim that for many years was presented regularly to the notice of Sir Oliver Mowat and other Liberal premiers and was by him and them as regularly turned down. But in the last years of the Ross riot Mr. E. F. B. Johnston took up the Hunter claim and succeeded in pushing it through. The Ross Government was in the utmost terror of the fate which ultimately overtook it. It was prepared to do anything and everything requested of it. The Hunter claim was allowed. The province was robbed of this magnificent property. Such lands will go to the settler now timber, minerals and all. There will be no necessity of presenting claims fictitious or otherwise. Some of the Ross favorites got rights to cut timber in perpetuity. Could anything have been worse? These obnoxious rights are always tradeable for better things. The mess that was made of it all hampered the Whitney Government very greatly but where there's a will there's a way and it will all be brought out right in the end or as nearly so as the nature of the case will permit. Government officials were allowed to hold or sell mining rights and privileges in the most shameless way imaginable. There is no longer the great shadow of a crooked hand upon a beautiful but blighted land. "Everybody gets a square deal now," is a phrase heard everywhere and apart from the growls of the unscrupulous and disappointed, there is not a hint of suspicion and barely a word of complaint as the utter defeat of that political dodge called "Secession," at the public meeting held at Sudbury recently, abundantly and finally proved.

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS

The following represents accurately the conduct and feelings of the men who want a great deal at a small prise. It is such as these that have brought Sir Wilfrid Laurier to his present pass—that and his own supineness when difficulties arose. A man must be judged by the company he keeps and the work he does. By either standard Sir Wilfrid does not come out well. What happened at Ottawa would not happen at Toronto. The spoils would not have been forthcoming; Ontario has been saved by the fidelity and firmness of her own government;

Ottawa (Special)—By 19 to 15 the Senate Railway Committee threw out Mr. Conmee's bill to incorporate the Ontario and Michigan Power Company. A big fight was made on the proposition, but the protest of the Ontario legislature against this new invasion of provincial rights had its effect.

The bill sought to give the company very wide powers, namely, the purpose of developing power and distributing it to any place in Canada or in Isle Royale, or in any place in the United States. The company should be permitted to acquire lands and water rights on Pigeon, Nepigon and Sturgeon rivers in Thunder Bay district, to construct dams and reservoir and otherwise control water in any lake whose waters flow into any of these rivers or in any streams conveying such discharge to bore for natural gas, manufacturing gas and sundry like works.

EX-PREMIER LED ATTACK.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell led the attack on the bill and was well supported by Senators Edwards, Lougheed and others.

Senator Kerr violently attacked the theory that it was the business of the provincial government to control the rivers of the provinces.

Mr. Whitney was not an authority on any matter involving the question of rights.

All through the discussion political feeling cropped out. Mr. Conmee characterized the Beck policy as a fad, asking the Senate not to do the bidding of a political party which had humbugged the people of Ontario for four years, and had done nothing. —Toronto World.

FARMERS' RIGHTS

The fight that has been looming up for some time is now on between the automobilist, the motor industry and the farmer. The idea seems to prevail amongst automobilists, etc., that they have as good a right to country roads as the farmer. This is a mistake. The roads were built largely by and altogether for the farmer. While travel along them is of course not denied to the tourist or the business man the roads do not exist primarily for their convenience and accommodation. Such being the case the farmer has a distinct right to resist the attempt to drive him off his own highways. It is useless to quibble about the rights of vehicles, travellers, etc. The automobile sweeps the roads clear of all competitors. That the auto will always be machina non grata is neither possible nor probable. Like the bicycle it will in time cease to frighten which we observe to be the case in cities, but unlike the bicycle its use is very great and it is very necessary. In fact it is an instrument of the first importance. A compromise therefore is advisable if possible but such a compromise manifestly as will be quite satisfactory to the farmer. The automobilist can afford to wait.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Globe publishes a direct accusation of improper conduct on the part of the Whitney Government with regard to Cobalt Lake. No details are specified, but the charge is so direct that Mr. Whitney will be put to the trouble of showing its falsity. It may be a ruse to delay the elections but in any event it must be dealt with.

DIDN'T KNOW THE BALANCE

Some Confusion in the Finances of a Rural Debating Society

The story comes of a rural debating club in the vicinity of Peterborough winding up a successful season from a literary standpoint, but from a financial standpoint the club's affairs were somewhat jumbled.

They had decided to devote their funds to a good purpose but when the time came for calculating the amount on hand the treasurer was unable to even make a close guess at how much was on the books to the credit of the society.

President Gladstone is very much put out that the affairs of the club were not conducted in a way which left less opening for debate.

CANDY GOES UP IN PRICE

Manufacturers Throughout the Province Have Decided on Slight Advance

Toronto, April 4.Candy manufacturers throughout the province have decided to raise the price of candy half a cent a pound to the retailer.

This move is taken because of the advance in sugar and prospects of a sugar crop shortage to the extent of some five or six hundred thousand tons in the British West India and Cuban crops.

A local confectioner stated that the price would not be increased to the public for the present at any rate. He said he could quite understand the manufacturers putting their prices up owing to the increase in the materials for candy making, but he did not intend to raise the price of candy himself, and doubted if other candy merchants would do [illegible]

AN ESCAPING STOWAWAY GOT STUCK

Italian's Yearnings for Liberty, So Near Realization, Rudely Nipped

New York, April 3.—Giuseppe Cappello is going back to his old home among the lemon groves of Palermo. He arrived only yesterday and now must return without ever having trod the soil of this free country, without having proclaimed in the streets a single banana for sale, and without once having ground out "The Merry Widow Waltz" on a long-suffering hand organ. Giuseppe made his great mistake early in the day when he attempted to enter the glorious land of the free through a port-hole.

Giuseppe is 22, and strong. Ambitious for more fruit stands to conquer, he boarded the Italian liner Brasile at Palermo and concealed himself in the cargo. His tendency to roam, however, betrayed him, and he was put in irons. Near the end of the voyage he complained of being ill, and was removed to the ship's hospital, where his fetters were removed—all by order of kind Capt. Olivari.

When the ship warped up to the dock yesterday morning the longing for liberty waxed strong in Giuseppe's breast, and there was freedom visible through the porthole. The temptation was too much.

First Giuseppe stuck his arms through the port hole. That was easy. Then he stuck his head out. Next he wriggled his shoulders through, so far undiscovered.

Just half way out he got, and just to his waist which was swollen by his money belt. There he stuck hard and fast. Not an inch could he budge forward or back.

There he was discovered. But what he had been unable to do for himself the sailors who came to his rescue were equally unable to accomplish. Six of them seized his legs within and pulled with no result. Then with a "Heave, ho!" they shoved him, but with no better effect. Giuseppe stuck like a cork in a bottle, compressed at the middle and bulging at at both ends.

"Curses!" groaned Giuseppe. Then he prayed, but prayers and curses were alike of no avail.

The sailors pounded and spanked, and Giuseppe yelled, till a big crowd gathered to watch the fun. The police were called to keep order.

Finally the sailors began to undress Giuseppe, but still he stuck.

At last came Capt. Olivari, and bade the sailors bring the grease bucket and a paint brush.

In a twinkling thereafter Giuseppe greased like a pig at a country fair, popped back into the arms of the pulling sailors, and they all fell in a heap.

Giuseppe though, was minus clothes, freedom and portions of cuticle. He was taken to Ellis Island, and soon will be going back home.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. STORY OF HACKENSCHMIDT'S DEFEAT BY FRANK GOTCH

Over Two Hours Wrestling and Then the Russian Lion Quit - A Detailed Account of the Bout.

Dexter Pavilion, Chicago, April 4 — George Hackenschmidt quit in his match with Frank Gotch for the catch as-catch-can wrestling championship of the world last night, giving the title to the American by default. After more than two hours of unavailing tugging and desperate scrambling, the Russian said to Gotch: 'I'll give you the match." Referee Smith at once declared Gotch the winner.

The end came so unexpectedly that the great crowd of 8000 which witnessed the contest could scarcely comprehend what had happened. Not until the referee had announced that Hackenschmidt had surrendered the championship of the world to Gotch did the full significance of the event home. Then the excited men swarmed into the ring, surging about Gotch until the police came to his rescue, and drove the crowd back through the ropes. The match served mainly to show that Gotch has a defensive system which is hard to break down. For an hour and forty-five minutes he eluded every attempt of the Russian to fasten a grip on him. Gotch side-stepped, roughed his man's features with his knuckles, butted him under the chin and generally worsted Hackenschmidt, until the foreigner was at a loss how to proceed. But when in the clinch that finally came Gotch slammed his opponent to the mat and came within an acct of securing a toe-hold following this up by lifting Hackenschmidt clear of the mat and slamming him on his shoulders with terrific force, the European was broken. The lines deepened on his face, the boots of the crowd hurt his feelings, and after considering the matter for a few seconds he decided it was time to quit. Few of the spectators but were willing to give Gotch the palm. The Iowa farmer was in the better condition, was quicker and trickier and showed a better knowledge of the game.

In the preliminaries young Billy downed Ernest Lindberg in 14.32. These men weighed 133 pounds. Tommy Rooney won from young Jenkins in 8.45 at 118 pounds. Ted Tonneman and Dick Torrenson met in the third bout at 145 pounds. Torrenson won in 12.41. Americus, a Baltimore wrestler, downed Harry Laudenback, of Chicago, in 1.59. William Demetral won a hard bout from Mort Henderson in 8.10.

Emil Stegemuller, Hackenschmidt's wrestling partner, agreed to throw Henry Ortmann, of Minneapolis, in ten minutes. To the delight of the crowd, Ortmann took the offensive. He slammered the burly German to the mat, and for seven minutes gave Stegemuller no chance to get a hold. During the last three minutes Ortmann was on the defensive, but managed to wriggle out of all holds and easily stayed the limit.

Seldom has a sporting event of similar character aroused so much interest in Chicago and the surrounding cities as the wrestling match between Hackenschmidt and Gotch. Many persons came from outside points to see the bouts in the great Dexter Pavilion at the stock yards.

By the time the first preliminary bout was begun the building was nearly half full and streams of spectators still poured in. The building was admirably adapted for the event. Seats had been provided for 10,000 spectators, and in addition there was general admission room for 2000 more Hackenschmidt refused to explain his action to W. W. Wittig, the promoter of the bout, simply shaking his head and refusing to reply, when asked why he had not surrendered merely the first fall and taken another chance with Gotch. His handlers were at a loss to account for Hackenschmidt's action.

Hackenschmidt entered the ring at 10.14. Gotch followed three minutes later. Two handlers accompanied the Russian and half a dozen helped Gotch into the ring. W. W. Wittig, was introduced and applauded. The principals and the referee Edward F. Smith, were photographed in a half dozen poses. Then the men were called for final instructions. Time was called at 10.28.

First bout; Hackenschmidt crouched and they sparred with Gotch circling around for three minute Then Hackenschmidt clinched but they broke. Gotch seemed nervous, but the champion was cool. After ten minutes of tugging Gotch started roughing and Hackenschmidt kept his temper with difficulty. Hackenschmidt finally tried for body grip but could not reach Gotch. The Russian complained to the referee about Gotch's butting. He missed a leg hold next. A half hour of hauling and sparring failed to satisfy the crowd. Fifty minutes after the bout had started Hackenschmidt slapped Gotch to the mat. The latter bounded to his feet and the pulling and hauling continued. An old cut under Hackenschmidt's eye was opened and it bled profusely. Both missed leg and body holds. Gotch taking the offensive for the first time. One hour after the start nothing approaching a hold had been gained by either men. Fifteen minutes more of the tiresome work followed. Then Hackenschmidt suddenly attacked with fury. But Gotch wriggled away and the shoulder to shoulder tactics began again. After an hour and three quarters of fruitless attempt to get a hold, he straightened up and looked at his opponent with disgust written in every feature. "Come on, wrestle," said Gotch. The crowd cheered.

At 12.15 Hackenschmidt asked the referee to call it a draw, but Smith told them to continue.

They wrestled all over the ring then went down, Gotch on top, Hackenschmidt slipped from a toe hold but Gotch slammed him down again. Hackenschmidt then threw up the sponge.

DUCKED AND RUN OUT OF THE COLLEGE

Henry Block Thrown Into Fountain of N. Y. University and Told Never to Return

New York, April 3rd—Out from a group of students gathered around the fountain of New York University just after chapel time yesterday morning, leaped a dripping, chattering screaming figure. It darted at top speed across the campus, traversed the Hall of Fame at two bounds, and disappeared down the wooded slopes of University Heights toward the railroad station on the Putnam Division of the New York Central. It was Henry Bock, College, '11, leaving New York University, and behind him rang the cheers of his classmates.

There was not a student in New York University last night who would say that he hoped Block would return. The members of Block's own class, as well as the members of the three older classes, were unanimous in declaring Block to be unpopular. But they were all a little nervous over the action taken by the Faculty as a result of their actions. There was a meeting of the Faculty yesterday afternoon, but the result was not made public.

Block was driven out of college by his classmates. He was leaving chapel yesterday morning when seventy or more grabbed him, rushed him to the fountain, and flung him, that clothes and shoes, into the cold water Then they yanked him out, sputtering and shivering, and started him on the run, off the campus, ordering him never to return.

Block had failed intentionally to comply with every freshman custom since he entered college last September. He drove up in an automobile, and several sophomores, solicitous for the comfort of the freshmen, made a mental note of the fact.

A day or two later a half dozen sophs escorted Block toward the fountain.

"There wasn't any good explaining to Block that it was a time-honored custom" said one of the six last night. "He drew a revolver and pointed it at us. We let him go then, but we caught him without the gun a day or two later and started him again for the fountain. That time he broke away and ran into Chancellor MacCracken's office. The next day 'Chance' gave us a rousing old talk in the chapel. Told us what a manly fellow Block was and how brave he was not to fight under such great provocation. Poor Block. that was the only time I ever felt sorry for him. while I was listening to 'Chance.'

The freshman class brought Block up to trial after this and voted to give him chance to redeem himself. Instead Block hired a detective to follow him about, said his classmates last night.

On Friday two weeks ago the tip was passed around that Block was to attend a gymnasium meet, and a score of college men hired an automobile, intending to kidnap the freshman and persuade him to leave college. Block was guarded by the detective, however, so the plan failed.

Then the student body of which Arthur L. Sherin is president, took a hand in the matter and wrote a letter to Block's parents, requesting them to withdraw him from college. On the advice of the faculty the letter was not sent and Block continued to attend classes.

The hotter heads among the students, however, determined to take the matter in their own hands without waiting for action by the faculty and the ducking resulted. Sherin and Arthur Young, President of the junior class, were called before the faculty immediately. Neither had had a hand in the ducking, however, and could give the faculty little help Neither were they able, on leaving the meeting, to tell their anxious comrades, what action would be taken

The students are firm, however, in the intention not to allow any single man to be punished, declaring that the action of the few represented the sentiments of all.

Block lives in Ninety-seventh street near Madison Avenue. It is said that he already has a suit for $10,000 against a fellow student who compelled him to rub down the gym team after an hour in the gymnasium one day, and it is expected that he will bring more suits.

According to several students, Block's trouble might have been avoided, had he been able to enter Columbia, as he tried to do in January. Illness prevented, however, and Block returned to University Heights.

About two weeks ago he came into the city to spend a few days with his daughter, when hew was taken ill and was unable to return home. About eight years ago he paid a visit to his old home in Ireland.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, four daughters and one son.

She was a most highly esteemed lady and her death will bee learned with deep regret by a wide circle of friends.

Her father, three sisters and one brother are left to mourn her loss. The sisters are Mrs. Cadigan, Mrs. Eamo, Miss Jane of this city, and Miss Kate of Toronto.

PASSED AWAY IN ALBERTA

Death of Jos. Elmhirst, of Otonabee--Interred at Westwood

The death occurred at Bowden, Alberta, on Saturday, March 28th, of Joseph Elmhirst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elmhirst of the 3rd line of Otonabee township. He was thirty years of age, and had been ill with consumption for the past two years. He went to Alberta last fall in an endeavor to secure better health. He was residing with his sister, Mrs. George Lancaster of Bowden, and became seriously ill about two weeks ago. He gradually sank until death came on the date mentioned above.

The late Mr. Elmhirst was thirty years of age and was born and lived practically all his life in the township of Otonabee. He was a man of sterling integrity, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a member of St. Michael's Anglican church at Westwood, and a valued member of the choir. He is survived by his father and mother, three sisters, Miss Jennie and Miss Nettie, and Mrs. Lancaster, of Alberta, and one brother, Gilbert.

The remains arrived from the West on Friday at noon, and were interred at Westwood. The funeral was largely attended.

SAD DEMISE OF J. T. MULLHOLLAND

Death of Prominent Conservative --Funeral Took Place at Port Hope

The news of the very sad and rather sudden death of John T. Mulholland at Port Hope on Tuesday last saddened and startled our citizens and his host of friends in Northumberland county. Mr. Mulholland was born in the Township of Haldimand 55 years ago, and was the son of the pioneer settlers of the county. Deceased was a progressive and active farmer until a few years ago, and was the soul of honor, and most highly respected by all who knew him. He was a Conservative from choice, and one whom all that know him, believed firmly in his integrity. In the Provincial election of 1898 he very closely ran Mr. Sam Clarke for the Ontario, House, and so firmly and so truly did the Conservative party believe in him, that he was offered, but refused the candidature in the following election. He was a man amongst men, one of nature's noblemen, and all who knew him respected him as a worthy opponent, but a good true man and friend. For the last two years he has been in failing health and a short time ago he sold his farm in Haldimand and removed to Port Hope to reside. He had hardly settled in his new home on Hope St. in that town before he succumbed to the stern reaper death. He leaves one brother, Robert Mulholland, ex-M.P.P., of Toronto, and two sisters, a devoted wife and two sons to mourn his loss. We most sorrowfully part with the deceased, who was a whole-souled, kindly and most honorable gentleman, who in his life represented his principals, and his death leaves an aching void to his intimate friends, the world can never fill. We most sincerely tender our sympathy and kindly feelings to his widow and sons and daughters in their affliction and trust that the Great Healer will give them consolation in the thought that he was a man, and one that was respected for his virtues, and true, manly ways. The funeral took place yesterday to the Port Hope Union cemetery.—From Friday's Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

THE STORE THAT NEVER DISAPPOINTS

New Swiss Muslins--New Designs

Those Sheer Fabrics So Much Admired

EVERY WOMAN has a choice of fabrics for her summer gowns—some like one kind and some another, but where is the woman who does not go in raptures over the dainty exquisite patterns of the Swiss Muslins. This year especially has seen innovations never thought of before in the Swiss woven patterns. Such exclusive designs that you cannot draw on your imagination to conceive. The patterns are many and varied, included in which are the following:—All sizes of spots, from the dainty hail stone to the very large coin spot, Coin spots in a square, giving a very conventional but pretty effect. Then the large plaid effect, formed by small conventional floral designs, is most striking, and the allover embroidery idea is carried out to a marked degree in beautiful spray, scroll and conventional leaf designs. You will find the shadow ring, the moulded diamond and nail head effects in these goods very striking and odd. Also the bow knot and fern combination have been admired by many, and perhaps the most uncommon pattern of the lot is the wreath fern. All these new effects are exclusive to us, as well as being our own import, bought direct from the largest Swiss manufacturer on the continent. For the summer gown not another make of goods is so well adapted as these airy, white Muslins—fine texture, sheer finish, exclusive neat patterns and extraordinary washing qualities are the chief features that claim the attention of the summer buyer. These Swiss Muslins have been known for generations, and every year makes them more popular than ever. There is no Muslin that gives the wear and general satisfaction that they do. Our range is the finest we have ever shown, and comprises different goods from 25c to 85c yard in widths from 30 inches to 33 inches. See our display in the centre window to-night, and be convinced of the truth of the above statements.

FRACTURED HIS SKULL BY FALL

The Colborne Enterprise says;

A gloom was cast over the entire village on Wednesday, when it became known that Mr. Geo. Lafleur, one of the best known citizens of this place had lost his life through an accident.

Mr. Lafleur was descending the stairway in his home about four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, when he slipped and in falling sustained a fracture of the skull. Medical aid was at once summoned but he did not recover consciousness and passed away a few hours later. The deceased was in the 48th year of his age, had conducted a barber shop in this place for more than twenty-six years, was widely known, and with his estimable family enjoyed the good-will and respect of the entire community. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved widow and three sons who survive him. The remains were interred in St. Mary's church cemetery at Grafton.

THE STRUGGLE OF A FARMER

A gigantic struggle is now on between the farmers of Manitoba and Western Canada and the railways. These grain growers are appealing to the Government, as represented by Sir Richard Cartwright, for some kind of law or regulation of the railways, the grain buyers and the elevator men, so that they may get the best possible price for their wheat.

The farmers affirm, and so far it looks as if their claim is correct, that the railways, the banks, the grain buyers, the grain brokers, the companies and persons owning the terminal elevators and those who own the track elevators are combined against them. These latter even admit the combination, but claim that any combination that exists really in the interests of the farmer. Certainly the farmer does not see it in that light, and so one of them put it to the Minister of Trade and Commerce, it is for them a struggle of life and death.

The propositions of the farmers, in brief, is that the Government should own the terminal elevators, that is, the big elevators at the lake ports, or that they should at least be owned by people who are in no way identified with the purchase of grain, or, the transportation of it. The World does not quite see why the banks should appear officially in this great struggle.

We know of no issue before the country of more vital importance than that involved in the struggle now going on in the Minister's office at Ottawa, and Sir Richard Cartwright and the Government are bound to give the very best consideration to the claims of these western men.

A few hard-headed farmers are fighting the battle of a nation against an enormous concentration of energy and resources.—Toronto World.

CAMBRIDGE WON FROM OXFORD

Putney, April 4.—For the third year in succession Cambridge won the varsity boat race today, defeating Oxford by 2 1-2 lengths. The Light Blues fully justified the confidence reposed in them by the riverside experts, and led the procession from start to finish.

The crews got off to a splendid start, but the quicker stroke of D. C. R. Stuart, of the Cambridge crew, who set the rate at forty for the first minute against Oxford's thirty-eight soon put the supporters of the Light Blue at ease.

SURVEY FINISHED.

The ninth survey for the Trent Canal route through the town has been completed. This route leaves the river at the north end of the town on the west bank following for a short distance along the route of the old railroad track and thence in a southerly direction to Trout Creek and then entering the river. This is said to be the most feasible of the nine surveyed routes, but a definite decision has not as yet been arrived at.—Campbellford Herald.

NAPOLEON'S VIOLETS.

How the Imperialistic Emblem Came to Be Adopted.

An old French pamphlet published in 1815 tells how the violet came to be the emblem of the Imperialist, or Napoleonic, party in France.

Three days before going into exile on the island of Elba Napoleon was walking up and down a garden at Fontainebleu, discussing his future with the Duc de Bassano and General Bertrand. He was still uncertain whether he should go to Elba quietly at the bidding of his enemies or whether he should try to offer some resistance. The Duc de Bassano was urging him to strike a blow for his liberty—bad advice surely.

As the trio walked back and forth they came upon a child three or four years old who was picking violets. Napoleon called the baby to him and asked for his flowers, and the little thing gave the emperor all he had. A silence in the political talk followed until Napoleon, who always had a vein of superstition in his reasonings, said:

"Well, gentlemen, I am thinking of that child. That chance meeting seems to me like a piece of secret advice, warning me for the future to imitate the modesty of this flower. Yes, the violet shall henceforward be the emblem of my desires."

"Sire," said Bertrand boldly, "for your majesty's glory I like to think that feeling will last no longer in you than the flowers that inspired it."

But the emperor, silent and unheeding now, withdrew and went to his private rooms. The next day he was seen walking in the garden with a bunch of violets in his buttonhole and stooping now and again to pluck more. A man named Choudieu, a grenadier of the guard, was on sentry duty, and, taking advantage of the laxity of discipline that prevailed in this hour of ruin, he ventured to speak to the fallen sovereign.

"In another year, sire, the violets will be growing thicker here. You can gather them with less trouble."

"What!" was the answer. "Do you suppose I will be here next year?"

"Perhaps sooner. We soldiers hope so."

"But do you know that I leave for Elba day after tomorrow?"

"Your majesty will suffer the storm to pass."

"Are your comrades talking and feeling as you do?"

"Almost all of them."

"Ah, well, tell them to feel, but not to talk. When your sentry duty is over, go to General Bertrand. He will give you twenty napoleons. But keep the secret."

Choudieu did not keep entirely secret the story of his conference with his majesty, but he threw a veil over his allusions and taught the other soldiers to do so by calling their great and worshiped leader Father Violet. Little by little talk about Father Violet reached the public, and to wear a bunch of violets by the time the next season came around was a recognized sign of imperialistic sympathies. To this day violets are not worn in the same general way in France that they are here and in England, because they are felt to be a political badge. A legitimist would not be seen with a bunch in his buttonhole any more than he would wear a republican tricolor cockade.

Force of Habit.

A Boston psychologist was recently reminded of the story of the Russian jailer who, changing his occupation, found the chief interest of his leisure moments in catching birds, putting them in cages and selling them to the highest bidder.

The scientist, having to attend a series of lectures in a large public hall, struck up acquaintance with the janitor of the building and soon noted in him a suggestive bent of mind. The man seemed fond of counting the people and would occasionally report the exact number present. "We have 115 here tonight," he would say, or "Just 201 all told," or, when the hall was crowded, "I make it 370." There was a problem in all this, but it took some time for the psychologist to solve it.

A bit of friendly, familiar talk, continually renewed, did the business, for it brought out the fact that the janitor had spent many of the previous years of his life as warden in an eastern prison. With rifle on shoulder from some inclosing wall the man had counted his convicts until the habit became ingrained. In the recesses of his brain the lecture hall took the shape of a jail yard, and the audience were his prisoners. He counted because he wished to know if all were there.

The City of the Three Rivers.

The city is generally considered to be very fortunate that possesses a river, but Khartum croons and watches over three of the greatest rivers of the world. From the troublesome magic of the Bar-el-Gazel and its sudd grass, from the hot confines of the equator, the White Nile fetches its milky waters; from the azure mountains of Abyssinia and through the heat of that savage country the Nile flows to Sudan. Created in this fashion and seeming to have rushed down south rather than it does run northward, the Egyptian Nile is formed and in return touches the city only to take its course again to the sea. Khartum is built above this concourse of waters, but the windy currents have less interest for her than has the melancholy waste whose historic miles make the Sudan famous for both defeat and victory. The desert has already fetched famine and destruction, and, if not quite so practically swarming now, the wilderness is nevertheless always sinister, and it is over this savage country that Khartum must keep vigilant guard.—Marie Van Vorst in Harper's.

British Columbia has imported eight prairie chickens from Reginia and expects to soon have birds to shoot at.

Any woman who wants a becoming, smart and exclusive hat at a very small price, will be delighted with our new and beautiful styles at from $5.00 to $10.00.

These are fresh from our own workroom, and our talented milliners have exerted themselves to see just how much of beauty and worth they could crowd into hats for selling at these popular prices.

Some of them are splendid copies of high-priced Parisian and New York Models—others are original designs by our own milliners, and there's not one of them which is not a very remarkable value.

The variety includes, the "College Girl" Sailor, "Il Trovator" Turban, "Ethel Barrymore" Sailor and dozens of other styles in all the favored shapes, sizes and colors, variously trimmed with Spring-like flowers and foliage, feathers, ribbons, etc, in smart, new effects.

We cheerfully invite you to compare them with hats which others consider good value at from $3 00 to $5.00 more, knowing that such a comparison will impress you with the extraordinary nature of the value.

In justice to yourself, don't buy a hat until you have seen our assortment, in which you will find (along with the many stylish creations for ladies) an assortment of smart hats for the young girls, that our millinery artists have every reason to be proud of and you will think so too, when you see the hats.

LACROSSE AT PACIFIC COAST

Fred Lynch is Elected Secretary Treasurer of the B. C. Amateur Association

Victoria, B.C., April 4—Nothing but strict amateurism of the "simon-pure" variety will go in the British Columbia Lacrosse Association this year. The professional question was very much in evidence at the annual meeting of the association held at the Empress Hotel last Saturday afternoon and evening, but the delegates declared in unmistakable terms for amateur sport and as a result the player who is looking for a monetary handout this season will be forced to retire from the game altogether unless he cares to play for the sport of the thing.

"How is it to be done?" you will ask. "How is the association going to prevent the clubs from running affairs in the same old style with the players being handed out this little bit after every game or at the end of the season?"

Simple enough. The representatives of the clubs at the annual meeting signed an agreement pledging their pledge to sustain the clauses of the constitution, particularly that pertaining to amateur status of the players. Each of the clubs at the end of the season will be compelled to produce a financial statement showing how all money received by the club is expended. This will, it is thought, put a stop to items appearing in financial statements of the clubs such as this as at the present:

"By sundries, $1500."

WHAT HAPPENED AT MEETING.

Victoria was admitted to the senior series and a four-club schedule was drawn.

Strict amateurism will be adhered to; the representatives pledging their clubs in this respect. The financial statement of each club must be presented to the league at the end of the season.

The width of the goals was reduced from six feet to five feet. The size of the goal crease was left as formerly.

An amendment to permit amateurs and professionals to play together without the former losing their amateur status was defeated.

The system of numbering the players on the field was abolished.

It was decided to continue the double referee system and a board of referees was appointed.

Players transferring from one club to another during the season must first receive the consent of the league executive.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The following delegates were present; New Westminster, C. A Welsh, F. J. Lynch and Wells Gray; Vancouver, B W Armstrong, M J Barr and Lionel Yorke; Maple Leafs, E. Carter, J. Martin and C W Murray; Victoria, Foster Macgurn, J. W. Lorimer and Stanley Peele.

The following officers were elected, all being chosen unanimously;

Honorary President— Hon. Richard McBride.

President—C W Murray.

First Vice-President —Foster Macgurn.

Third Vice-President —B. F. Armstrong.

Sec.-Treas.—F. J Lynch.

Council—F. J Lynch, C A Welsh, New Westminster; N W Carter, E J Martin, Maple Leafs; Stanley Peele, J W Lorimer, Victoria; M J Barr, Lionel Yorke, Vancouver.

Auditor—Lionel Yorke.

SPORTING NEWS

SHOULD BE FINE SEASON FOR MIDLAND FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Annual Meeting Held at Y.M.C.A. on Saturday Afternoon —W. McIlroy Elected President for Third Term The Other Officers.

The annual meeting of the Midland Football League was held at the Y.M.CA. on Saturday afternoon with President McIlroy in the chair. Secretary J. E. Sullivan was also present and read the minutes of the last meeting.

The coming season promises to be a most successful one and some interesting games should be seen in the league. There will be a junior and intermediates and senior series.

MR. McILROY RE-ELECTED

After some preliminary matters had been dealt with the most important business of the meeting, the election of officers took place.

Mr. W. McIlroy stated he had held the office of president for two years and thought it was time somebody else was given it. However, his sentiments in this regard did not meet with the support of those in attendance and he was unanimously re-elected to the office he has so capably filled for the past two years. Mr. J. E. Sullivan was again nominated for secretary but declined the position, at the same time expressing his sincere thanks for the confidence his nominees had placed in him in proposing him for re-election.

THE OFFICERS

The officers for the coming year, are as follows;

Hon.-Pres.—Hon. J R Stratton
Hon. Vice-Pres.—Dr. Burnham,
President—W. McIlroy.
1st Vice-Pres. —J. H. Mowatt, Warkworth
2nd Vice-Pres.—Fred Doberty.
Sec.-Treas.—F. D Craig.
Executive Committee —President, Secretary; J. E. Sullivan, Quakers; Dr. McWilliams, Keene.

Dr. Devitt, Bowmanville, was appointed representative of the league at annual meeting of the Ontario Association Football League at Toronto. A letter was read from Dr. Devitt in which he expressed himself in favor of the league remaining in affiliation with the Ontario body.

NEXT MEETING APRIL 25TH

The following representatives were present; Messrs. Fred Doherty and A. McKenty, Norwood; Ray Best, Quakers; M. Sherin, Omemee; J. L. Mowat and C. E. Brooke, Warkworth. The latter was also representative for Hastings and Campbellford which places will have teams in the league.

Mr. Mowat of Warkworth said he would like to see the Midland League purely amateur. It should be either amateur or outright professional. He didn't think the committee should have the power to change the rules at any time and thought the rules should not be subject to change but any time only at the annual meeting. He also believed that a fixed date should be set for the annual meeting in order to give various clubs plenty of notice. He suggested that a Board of Referees be appointed but after discussion it was decided that the best time for this step would be at the meeting to draw up the schedule.

MR .WM. McILROY
Re-elected President of the Midland Football League.

April 25th was the date chosen for drawing up the schedule and for receiving the entries of the club.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Sullivan, the retiring secretary and to the president, Mr. McIlroy, for their services to the League.

THERE SHOULD BE SOME GOOD SUMMER RACING SEEN HERE

Meeting of Turf Club at Grand Hotel To-morrow Afternoon —To Make Arrangement for Matinee—Geo. Powell Will Bring His String to Driving Park.

There promises to be some splendid sport in the racing line in Peterborough this summer and a meeting of the Peterborough Turf Club is being held at the parlors of the Grand Hotel tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock for the purpose of discussing the outlook and making preliminary arrangements for the holding of a matinee in the near future. The Turf Club intends to hold a big race meet this season together with several matinees.

Good racing in Peterborough should prove a strong line of attraction, and the Turf Club will do everything in its power to get some fast steppers here and provide interesting bills for the local patrons of the turf.

TRACK GETTING IN SHAPE.

The track at the Driving Park is already getting into shape, and will soon be in good condition for working out the horses. This fine weather is causing the horsemen to think of their favorite sport and they are preparing to get their horses ready for the summer race events.

POWELL WILL LOCATE HERE.

Mr. George Powell, the veteran reinsman of Orillia, and the well-known campaigner of Orillia Belle, is coming to Peterborough with a string of fast ones to train here, and will have his quarters at the driving park. Mr. C. R. Nixon, secretary of the Turf Club, received a letter from him Saturday in which he stated he would be here. Mr. Wm. Leith the Millbrook horseman who was located at the Exhibition grounds is also expected to come to Peterborough again this summer.

THEY STILL KEEP COMING; SOLDIER FOR TOURNAMENT

Mr. Charles Stenner, a former corporal in the British Army, is the latest entry for the walking tournament at Brock street rink. Mr. Stenner was in the 7th Hussars at Derbyshire for seven years, serving in the South African war for two years and also in India. Mr. Stenner is a Londoner by birth and has been in this country three years.

WALKING UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Mr. Stenner while under Kitchener in Africa, walked 52 and 53 miles each day, carrying his rifle kit and leading his horse. The soldiers were forced to do this on account of their horses tiring in the long travels over the veldt.

"I was forced to do this on biscuit rations," he said, "there were no beefsteaks given us out there."

HIS DAILY WORKOUT.

Mr. Stenner is employed on the farm of Mr. Wm. Telford, Dummer, and walks to Peterborough every morning returning in the afternoon, after getting his dinner at the Munro House. The return trip is a distance of 26 miles and this morning he walked 13 miles to the city in two and a half hours. He is training hard for the tournament and his friends expect to see him well in the running at the finish of the contest. This afternoon he took a trial spin around the rink.

AN ITALIAN PEDESTRIAN

Tony O. Gamelin, an Italian residing in Erie, Pa., and who claims the long-distance walking championship of the world, has written to Mr. George Stevens for particulars of the walking tournament. He is very anxious to enter and requests an immediate answer to his letter.

He refers to Hartley in the communication, and says he would like to know what terms are being offered to those entering. Needless to say the man from Sunny Italy will be tendered a hearty invitation.

The shaft on the Centre Star at Rossland is to be sunk to a depth of 2400 feet.

"Y" BALL CLUB TO ORGANIZE

Meeting to be Held for That Purpose at Y. M. C. A. To-morrow Night

An organization meeting will be held in the Y.M.C.A. parlors to-morrow evening at seven o'clock sharp of the Y. Base Ball Club. Officers will be elected and everything pertaining to the club will be discussed. All members interested in baseball are asked to be present. The committee in charge are Chris Graham. E. A. Browde and Ernie Best.

Every man in the Senior Gym. Class is urged to turn out every class night from now until exhibition, which takes place on April 23rd.

"Friz" O'Brien Has Been Signed by the Local Managent

"Friz" O'Brien, who has been signed by the local baseball management to play left field for the coming season, will arrive in the city this evening. He has secured a situation in town and will reside here for the baseball season. "Friz" is a good fielder, a hard hitter and has speed to burn in going the circuit. Other players who have been signed will arrive shortly.

TOMMY BOYD IS HIGH AGAIN

Made Score of 237 at P. B. C. on Saturday Night in Competition for Cigars

Mr. Tommy Boyd, who last week set a bowling mark of 254 at the Peterborough Bowling Club, and who by doing so won the box of cigars hung up as the high score prize, rolled 237 at the alleys on Saturday night. This is the record for the week commencing April 2nd.

HARTLEY THINKS HE WILL WIN

Intends to Walk the Race of His Life--Thinks World's Record Should be Established

"I expect to win in the coming walking tournament and whoever beats me will do so on his merits."

This is what Dave Hartley, the local walking wonder, said to the sporting editor of the Review when asked what he thought his chances would be in the big pedestrian event at the Brock street rink which commences on the 20th. Hartley says whoever beats him will do so on his merits.

"I place honor above everything else he said, "and if I lose I will lose honorably."

There is no doubt in the minds of the citizens that "Davy" will do his level best and a large number of his admirers have every confidence in his ability to land first money in spite of the big and fast field opposing him.

There is likely to be some substantial wagers made on the local pedestrian. He will be in great condition for the grind and looking for the lion's share of the prize money.

He says he thinks the tournament should be a great success and would not be surprised if a world's record were made.

PORT HOPE HAS ORGANIZED

Will Have Exceptionally Strong Team---The Officers

The Port Hope Guide says;

The prospects for last year's champions are very bright this season and an exceptionally strong nine will represent Port Hope. The finances at present are by no means burdensome and a deputation will wait upon the citizens in the course of a few days. We hope that they will be kindly received and that donations will be liberal.

The organization meeting of the Port Hope Baseball Club was held on Saturday evening and through an unfortunate circumstance we were unable to give the list of officers before today. They are as follows;

Hon. Pres.—H. T. Bush, E. M. Thurber, Dr. Powers, Dr. Forest, G. H. Ralston, H. A. Ward, Mayor Giddy, J. C. Oland.
Pres.—Wm. Greenshield.
Vice-Pres.—Chas. Perry.
Sec.-Treas.—G. O. Cameron.
Executive Committee—I. Walters, William Howard, Geo. McArthur, Thomas O'Neill, A. Orton, J. R. Heard and Blake Crawford.
Delegates to annual meeting—F. L. Curtis, G. O. Cameron.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

The Banks Bicycle Co. report the sale of fifteen bicycles last week.

BASEBALL CLUB TO HAVE MEETING

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Baseball Club will be held at the Windsor Hotel tomorrow night at eight o'clock. Officers will be elected and arrangements made for the coming season. All interested are requested to be present. The meeting is open to everyone.

BASEBALL

COBOURG'S HOMEBREWS

The annual meeting of the Cobourg Baseball Club will be held at the British hotel on Monday evening next at 8 p.m. All who are interested in having a team in Cobourg this summer are requested to attend. There is lots of material for a good team here, and that Cobourg can corral the Midland League championship —with homebrews —again looks likely. The annual meeting of the Midland League will be held at Port Hope on Good Friday, so it is necessary to be organized by that time—Sentinel-Star.

BASKETBALL

The first and second teams of the Y.M.C.A. will practice to-night at 9.30 o'clock, and all the men are requested to be on hand. This will be the last practice before the great game with Toronto on Wednesday.

The plan of the gym. is now on sale. The first 112 seats are reserved at 25 cents. General admission 15 cts. Secure your seats early. Plan can be seen at any time at the secretary's office.

Commencing April 20th, special meetings will be held for children at Charlotte street Methodist church, each day for a week at 3.30 o'clock. They will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Manning, and as the children will have their holidays it is expectd that there will be a large crowd in attendance each afternoon during the week.

FIFTY-SEVEN NEW MEMBERS

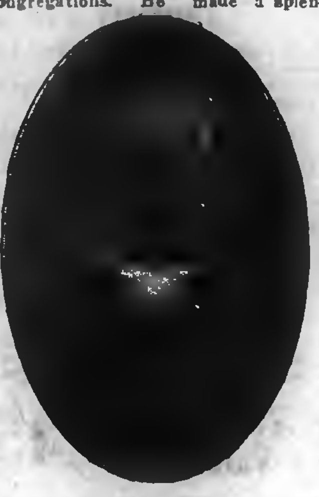
Took Communion Yesterday at St. Paul's Church

Yesterday morning communion service was held at St. Paul's church, when an exceptionally large number partook of the Lord's Supper. Fifty-seven new members took their communion for the first time. Such a large increase in membership is an evidence of the good work being carried on by the new pastor, Rev. Robert A. Pogue.

GIVEN CALL TO COBOURG

Rev. A. H. Brace Asked to Become Pastor of Church There

Rev. A. H. Brace, who recently resigned from the pastorate of Park street Baptist church, has been invited to become pastor of the Baptist church at Cobourg, and it is understood he will accept the call. Rev. Mr. Brace preached at Cobourg yesterday and was listened to by large congregations. He made a splendid impression and was strongly urged to locate in the town by the lake.



REV. A. H. BRACE

REV. MR. POGUE ON SUBJECT OF VITAL IMPORT

Addressed Young Men's Meeting at Y. M. C. A. Yesterday Afternoon on "Confessing Christ"

Rev. Mr. Pogue spoke at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon to men on "Confessing Christ." There was a very large attendance and the deepest interest taken. The speaker showed faith and confession went hand in hand and it should be the instinct of every true Christian to confess Christ, who had done so much for them, yet he said there were some real objections. one of them was fear of ostaration. Many a Christian felt he was trying to make a show of himself by confessing Christ. This was clearly shown to be a mistake. It is not ourselves we should think and talk about, but Christ. Another objection was fear of dishonoring the name of Christ and the speaker said many a so-called Christian was a shameful representative of Christ, but that we were speaking of Christ and not ourselves.

He also spoke of where to confess Christ, viz., before men. It was a manly thing to do, and the result was his faith would grow and he would get great joy in confessing. Mr. Pogue than made an appeal for those who had never confessed Christ to do so then, and four young men made the decision and confessed Christ as their Saviour.

Next Sunday, Mr. Douglas Russell, an evangelist, who will be conducting services in the city the following week, will speak.

HELD MEETING AT "CRYSTAL"

Address Given by Mr. Taylor Statten, of Toronto--A Gratifying Feature

Yesterday afternoon the Boys' Club of the YMCA. held a meeting for boys over 14, in the "Crystal." The speakers were Mr. Taylor Statten, Secretary of the Boys' Club of Toronto Central YMCA., with two of his co-workers, Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Lawson.

Mr. Statten strongly urged each boy to be four square —physically, mentally, socially and spiritually —referring them to Jesus Christ as the ideal type. After his address, Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Lawson each spoke briefly, giving some of their experiences in dealing with problems they had encountered.

Before closing several boys expressed a desire to take an advance step by adopting higher ideals or in more active service for Christ.

The force on the Stemwinder at Fairview has been reduced to a dozen men.

INTERESTING ADDRESSES BY BOWMANVILLE DIVINE

Sunday School Anniversary Services at Charlotte Street Church Yesterday Drew Large Congregations—Rev. J. Garbutt the Speaker—Choir of Children Rendered Special Music.

Extremely interesting and instructive were the Sunday school anniversary services at Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday. Rev. J. Garbutt, of Bowmanville, was present and gave addresses at three services. The scholars took the leading part in the singing of the praises and the choir yesterday was composed of young boys and girls. They had prepared special music and rendered several sacred choruses in a faultless manner.

At the morning service the church was crowded and some were unable to obtain seats. The scholars occupied the centre rows of seats and walked into the church in a body.

Rev. Mr. Garbutt seems to possess the happy faculty of keeping children interested, and yesterday morning told a simple gospel story that certainly must have appealed to every scholar and also to the adult persons that were present. He did not choose a text, but by means of a compass he illustrated a voyage of a sip and gave to his hearers many lessons. Just as the sailor is guided by the needle in a compass, so is our lives guided by our consciency. If the needle does not point in the right direction the ship will experience difficulty. It will likely encounter rocks and probably be shipwrecked. The sailor is entirely dependent on the correct working of the compass. A vessel has many hardships before it finally reaches its harbor.

The speaker said the same difficulties have to be contended with by every boy and girl. How often it is that a young fellow starts out with his conscience guiding him aright and then influences come into his life and he is dragged down deep in sin. His conscience becomes hardened and the wrongs he commits do not bother him. He falls easily a victim to temptation. He is not true to himself, and Mr. Garbutt urged the boys and girls, above all things, to be true to themselves and their Saviour Jesus Christ.

A compass is set to the north star, and, said the speaker, the life of every Christian should be set to the Star of Bethlehem. He is the true Saviour who is always the same He never changes. He is always ready to receive and hear everyone.

In conclusion the reverend gentleman said that there had been so many shipwrecks in the lives of young people because they had not kept their conscience true. If we are guided by our consciences we will all meet in God's great harbor.

At the morning service Master John Richards, who possesses a sweet soprano voice, rendered a gospel solo in a faultless manner.

In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Garbutt addressed a mass meeting in the Sunday school, and again preached in the evening, especially to young people.

Has Been Appointed by the Bishop of Moosonee to Represent That Diocese at Conference in London in June.

The Bishop of Moosonee has appointed Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's church, to represent his diocese at the Pan-Anglican conference which will be held in London, England, in June of this year. The Diocese of Moosonee is located in the Province of Ontario, west of Hudson Bay. The bishop will be unable to attend the conference and has selected Canon Davidson to represent him. This is a signal honor for the rector of St. John's, and his many friends in the city and elsewhere will extend hearty congratulations.

THE RELIGION OF THE YOUNG MAN

Subject of Interesting Sermon by Rev. E. A. Pearson Last Evening

"Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity." I. Timothy, 4;12.

"The religion of the young man" was the subject of Rev. E. A. Pearson's sermon at the George street Methodist church last night and was a fitting close to the meetings which were held last week. The choir was composed entirely of men and the service pertained particularly to the welfare of the young men.

The young men of today will to-morrow be the fathers of the country. They will have the making of the laws, they will conduct all business transactions and the affairs of the country will fall into their hands. The religion of the young men is, therefore, Mr. Pearson said, one of the most important questions of the day. The future of our homes, of our business of our national life depends upon their thoughts and religion. Men do not apparently think as seriously of religion as they do of their other every day affairs seeming to have the opinion that religion is purely optional.

This is absolutely wrong Rev. Mr. Pearson stated for religion is necessary. Man is a religious being and must have some form of religion. The characteristics which the average young man looks for in his religion are that it be real, practical and noble. The speaker pointed out how the religion of Christ appeals to young men in these three respects, emphasizing its reality, its practicability and its nobility of which Christ Himself was the perfection. The Christian is not merely an idea but an ideal person. God should be worshipped as our Lord and Master and be a part of our every day life.

FEW KNOW THIS

Should Drink Plenty Water and Avoid Stimulating Liquors.

Recent insurance reports show a tremendous increase in the number of deaths resulting from some form of Kidney disease. While there are many cases here, yet few have resulted seriously thus far, states a wellknown local authority. Kidney troubles are the most dangerous because the disease is generally far fore anything wrong is suspected by the sufferer.

Pain in the back, sides and above the groins; foul, discolored urine which shows brickdust sediment after settling; frequent desire to pass it, irritation and weakness of bladder are but symptoms the cause of which can generally be traced to feeble inactive kidneys, which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, causing such symptoms as rheumatism, blood disorders and general debility and weakness.

Such person should drink plenty of good, pure water and refrain from the use of all stimulating or spiritous liquors.

Patent medicines containing large portions of alcohol should be avoided.

A good safe and almost certain regulator and healing and cleansing tonic to the entire kidney and irinary tract is made up of the following;—

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime. Any druggist here can supply the ingredients, which are entirely harmless and inexpensive.

It would be well to save the prescription and at the first sign of these dangerous troubles mix some and give it a trial, as there is no better remedy known, nor anything more simple and easily prepared.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM IS TROUBLING THE OFFICIALS

Transport of Militia and Supplies to Quebec Will be Huge Undertaking—Large Quantities of Food Required.

In connection with the coming Quebec tercenary, it has been brought to light that the transportation facilities are so limited that the massing of 20,000 people at a single point causes perplexity to the railway and militia authorities — 40,000 or even 50,000 troops might be gathered there so far as the existence of the troops —are concerned Not so, however, by the railways For these, it is said, are unable to handle more in the time than 20,000 militia men, and the same number of civilians, who are expected to visit Quebec on the occasion.

The troops and the visitors do not, however, constitute the whole difficulty in connection with transportation to the Tercentenary. For many horses and much food must be carried too. For it is the estimated amount of supplies for the proposed army of 20,000 men and 5,000 horses of the Canadian militia that will be preset at the tercentenary celebration. The estimates call for 70 tons of bread, 87 1-2 tons of meat, 70 tons of potatoes, 87 1-2 tons of beans, 10 1-2 tons of preserved fruits, 8 1-4 tons of butter or cheese, 8 1-4 tons of sugar, 2 tons of salt, 1 1-2 tons of coffee, 1 ton of tea, 40,000 blankets, and 40,000 bell tents for the men, and 105 tons of oats and 158 tons of hay and straw for the horses. This is based on the assumption that the camp will last four days, and that an average of a day and a half will be spent in going and coming.

If the A.S.C. of each military district, equalling a division, provides all the supplies, of course, they will be taken along with each corps, and there lies a big problem for transport officers.

A military man referring to the new difficulty presented in the matter of transportation, said:—"This brings us face to face with a serious fact in connection with our transportation facilities. Supposing we were at war with some nation and we found it necessary to transport 100,000 men, with all they would need in time of active service, to the distant shores of the Pacific, what would we do? Why the railroads of Canada could not send a force of 5,000 men with all they would need on the way and then put them down on the afr western coast in shape to deal with an enemy. Then how would we keep them supplied with food and fighting material?"

MANY PETERBORO PEOPLE TO CROSS POND THIS SUMMER

It is understood that many Peterborough people will visit the Old Country this summer. The excellent service provided by the steamship companies and the low trans-Atlantic rates are putting a holiday trip across the Atlantic within the reach of many.

Many local people visited the British Isles and the continent last summer but apparently the number is going to be greater in 1908. A local agent of several steamship companies stated today that there had been many enquiries regarding trans-Atlantic rates, more so than in any past year. The Olympic games, which are to be held at London during the summer are attracting a great deal of interest and are one of the main attractions for those intending to visit the Old Country.

It is learned that Rev. E. A. Pearson, pastor of George street church, will cross the Atlantic this summer. He intends going with a party from Toronto that is now being organized There will be about 100 in the party and they will stay together during parctically the whole trip, travelling in their own trains when they reach the Old Counttry, etc.

STATUES ARE RECUT

The work of remodelling the many pieces of statuary already set in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, on Morningside Heights, will be completed today. Gutzon Borglum has the commission for all the figures to be put in the niches, both inside and outside of the cathedral. He has done much of the recutting himself.. Mr. Borglum was not satisfied with the original of the stonecutters on the statues and protested against the figures being set.

After a long controversy between the Cathedral Committee, the contractors and the sculptor. Mr. Borglum won his point, and it was decided to recut the statuary. Expert cutters of Mr. Borglum's own selection were hired and entered upon the task with the famous sculptor working side by side with them every day. The smaller pieces were finished several days ago.

Directly under the arch of The Belmont Chapel facing Morningside Avenue, is a figure of "The Couid." Underneath it are archangels and lower down, Simeon and the Virgin Zacharias. All these were among the pieces that had to be recut. Mr. Borglum finished Zacharias yesterday and will complete the Virgin today.

There remain to be completed the Twelve Apostles, nine feet tall, and other figures, Simeon, Matthew, Thomas, Jude, James, Andrew, Peter, Bartholomew, Philip, John, James the Less, and Paul are to stand in niches along the outside of the choir. Many of them are nearly finished, although Mr. Borglum has yet to mold the clay model of Paul. The unfinished figures stand in a row in along shed back of the cathedral, with the model for each at its shoulder. Everybody is working in harmony now, it was said yesterday.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

(Special to the Review.)

New York, April 6.—The market was quite active at the opening, and most stocks were higher. The main influence was the Erie development, and there was a much stronger tone to the market for Erie notes, and bonds though considerable weakness attended the trading in the common, and first preferred stock, due to selling on the theory that the good news was out.

There was considerable reaction in the market generally in the early trading, but traders who put out short stock found little offering when they attempted to cover later in the day, with the result that in the afternoon the whole market grew firm, and some of the leaders were a point or so above Saturday's close.

The fact that the market grew dull when quotations were on the uptrend was taken as a bearish indication and prices worked off rather easily in the last hour, particularly influenced by a very weak tone in American Smelting.

The London market was strong, but not particularly active, and foreign houses bought about 20,000 shares. We rather expect to see the market continue to exhibit a reactionary tendency, but would buy good stocks on any quick drives and accept moderate profits.

A meeting of the Quakers will be held at the Y.M.C.A., between seven and eight o'clock on Wednesday night to discuss the proposition and several other matters in connection with the club. All are requested to be present.

BASEBALL

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE.

President Lang of the Intermediate Baseball League, has called a meeting for eight o'clock on Thursday evening at the Y.M.C.A. The league, of which the Review cup is emblematic of the championship, will be organized for the season of 1908. Representatives of all clubs are requested to be present in order that everything may be got in shape. Prospects are bright for a splendid league, and its up to every club to appoint its representatives for Thursday night's meeting.

IN THE TRENT VALLEY.

Roseneath, April 4.—At a meeting of Roseneath Baseball Club the following were elected officers for the ensuing season;—President, Dr. Hayden; Treasurer, C. Roberts; Secretary, J. Murphy; Captain R. Macklin. Mr. Chas. Downs occupied the chair. Mr. Downs when in Hastings some time ago was given to understand that Hastings, Campbellford, Norwood, Havelock and Keene were anxious to enter a league. This is favorable for the early starting of the Trent Valley League.

LACROSSE DONTS

Don't start the season by doing too much strenuous work. Get into shape gradually.

Don't practice the game on practice nights with the sole object of improving your own play, but do all you can to assist other members of your team to improve their's.

Don't practice one style of play. Remember there are different methods that can be introduced, and it's variety of play that counts.

Don't get into the habit of passing slow; put speed to the ball.

Don't wait too long to make a pass. A moment late has lost many goals.

Don't pass the ball to a player if he is clearly covered by his check, unless it is passed that he is sure to get.

Don't be slow in getting to free territory when you are looking for a pass.

When you are closely checked and have possession of the ball, don't make a pass if you think you will fumble it, better to hold it as long as you can, even till it's knocked out of your stick, than to give your opponents a chance to intercept. Keep it till some one relieves you.

Don't expect another player to run after the ball when it's out of play, if he is farther away from it than you are. The player who is nearest to the ball should chase it. Circumstances to govern this rule; save each other's strength and wind as much as possible.

Don't forget that it pays sometimes to return the ball back to the player who passes it to you, before passing to someone else. Many local players neglect to do this

Don't think when you are up on the home and trying to score that it's absolutely wrong to pass back in the direction of your own goal. Better to do this sometimes and bring your players into play, than to try and pass the odd defence man.

Don't take too many chance shots on goal. Better to pass the ball and work it in by combination play and be sure of your work than to waste play by erratic shots at the net. Some players like to stand away out from goal and blaze away into a network of lacrosse sticks, but this is poor judgment.

Don't leave it to one or two players to do all the coaching or leave it all to them to tell where a player should pass the ball. Every player should act as a field captain, in respect, if you are near the player who is about to make a pass, and you can see where the ball could be placed to better advantage, give him some signal. The Montreal Shamrocks point their stick towards the player who should receive the ball. By practicing this rule it will help to develop your judgment.

Don't, if you are a home player, stand idle when the ball is out of your territory You should take up some arranged position and be ready to change this position instantly when the ball comes your way.

Don't think, if you are a defence player, you should always run back to your position after you have run up on the home field and delivered the ball to the home player. It counts sometimes to stay with the home players and assist them to score, especially if you make an odd man. And to do this successfully at times, you must be a player with all round capabilities

Don't go on the field with any intention of getting even with an opponent over some personal grudge. Remember dirty work makes a bad impression in the grandstand.

Don't be opposed to any new methods that are suggested that will improve the game. Co-operate with the team you are playing with and assist those who are trying to make it a success. See that the best men are picked to play your games and encourage in every way any promising player.

CONTROLLING NATURE

Everybody knows that of late years natural forces have been wonderfully subjected to man's need. We are dazzled by the spectacular achievements in steam and electricity, but are likely to forget the less noisy but no less ble fruits and vegetables was far less marvelous conquest of animal and plant life.

Horses are swifter, cattle heavier, cows give more milk and sheep have finer fleeces than in days gone by. In plants the transformation is even more marked. People now living can remember when the number of edithan at present, and even those that could be grown were vastly inferior to what we now have. For example, our parents knew nothing of the tomato except as a curious ornament in the garden.. Sweet Corn was hardly better than the commonest field sorts. All oranges had seeds. Celery was little known and poor in quality. In the flower bed the magnificent Pansy has replaced the insignificant Heart's Ease, from which it was developed, and the Sweet Pea in all its dainty splendor traces its origin to the common garden vegetable.

This progress has been made in spite of the great tendency manifested in all plants and animals to go back to the original type. It is indeed a battle to keep strains pure and up to the standard they have already attained let alone any improvement. The practical results are accomplished by man operating largely for love of the work, like Luther Burbank in California and Eckford in England, as well as by the great seed merchants D. M. Ferry & Co, of Windsor, Ont., who are not only eternally vigilant to hold what ground has been gained, but have a corps of trained specialists backed by ample means to conduct new experiments. The results of their experiences can be found in their 1908 Seed Annual, which they will send free to all applicants.

ONTARIO MAKES A HANDSOME GRANT

$100,000 Included in Estimates for Quebec Battlefields—Debate on Redistribution Bill—Opposition Leader Says Liberals Not Treated Fairly.

Toronto, April 7.—Practically all day was given to the redistribution debate in the Legislature yesterday. The debate was adjourned by A. Hislop, and the House will meet at 11 this morning. The supplementary estimates were brought down, and a number of bills advanced a stage at the early session.

At the 3 o'clock sitting Hon. A. G. MacKay took up the debate on his amendment to the redistribution bill motion to go into committee. He began by combating the argument advanced by Premier Whitney that he was only putting things right after the redistribution of 25 years ago. Whatever may have been done then at the last election a Conservative majority of 40 or 45 had been returned on the Liberal arrangement of constituencies. That, he believed, effectively disposed of this argument. In England the redistribution had been carried out by the joint action of both parties, and the delimitation had been arranged by an independent commission.

Mr. MacKay had expected after the Conservative declarations in the last election that there would in future elections be one man one vote and one man in one constituency. The Toronto proposal quite upset the Conservative promises.

In 1886 the Conservatives had considered 60 members sufficient for the province. The redistribution was then intended to be immediately after a census, when the figures were fresh and represented actual conditions. The principles of the proposals then made were that redistribution was not to be made by the Government, not by the dominant party, and the delimitation was to be carried out by three high court judges. Premier Whitney had been false to British precedent and false to his own proposals.

W. K. McNaught considered it self-evident that whatever was proposed would be objected to by the Opposition. He showed that Toronto by its population, having one-eighth of the whole province, was entitled to 12 members, and even with two votes for eight members, each elector was only having a fraction of a vote as compared with the rural constituencies.

Sam Clarke (Northumberland) considered that the personal weight of the Toronto members was sufficient without adding to the number of representatives. Toronto was not so large as his own riding. Not a single gain for Liberals had resulted from all the changes, but eight or ten Conservatives would be benefited.

E. W. Rathbun said that generally speaking he did not think there was any objection in the province to the increased membership in Northern Ontario, but with regard to the doubling up in Toronto he believed the county members would object. He used his discretion as he had been permitted and supported the Government when he could, but this was one occasion on which, politics apart, he must oppose them.

W. H. Hoyle examined the Opposition arguments in detail, and pointed out the inconsistencies of the plans advanced with the practice of the Liberal party when in office. He was frequently interrupted by Sam Clarke (Northumberland), who frequently mistakes rudeness for humor, and who was finally called to order by the Speaker.

The Opposition intend to move another amendment before going into committee on the redistribution bill. Several amendments will be moved in committee, and again on the third reading.

The supplementary estimates were brought down in the Legislature yesterday evening just before the six o'clock recess. The total amount is $407,330.64. This, with the $7,501,875.67 of the main estimates, constitutes an expenditure for the year of $7,909,206.31, or very little short of $8,000,000.

The item that will probably attract most attention is the patriotic grant of $100,000 to the preservation of the Plains of Abraham, which is put down as a "Grant to National Battlefields Park and Monuments at Quebec." The Dominion has given $350,000, and the sum from Ontario is that suggested by the national committee.

The expenses of elections are put down at $90,000, and while this makes surety sure of the fact it throws no further light on the date.

The other miscellaneous items are $5,000 to the Provincial Museum for the purchase of antiquities, and $500 for the South African Monument, London.

The Provincial Board of Health gets $3,000 for the tuberculosis campaign. For the annual meeting of the International Association of Factories Inspectors, $50 is allowed. This is included in civil government, which totals $7,894. Legislation is responsible for $2,342.

Administration of justice requires an additional $5,500; education claims $19,605 extra. Of this $1,200 goes to the Macdonald Consolidated School, Guelph; $1,000 to the principal of Ontario Normal College for special services; $3,600 to departmental masters in normal schools; $2,400 educational to agricultural training in high schools; $2,000 for the technical education plans at Hamilton, and $5,000 for technical education at Sault Ste. Marie.

Agriculture gets $40,752. Of this $20,900 goes for the Ontario Veterinary College, $10,000 for the museum and goodwill, and $10,000 for the staff, rental and contingencies. A special grant of $5,000 for forestry work is made.

Under public buildings $10,000 appears for an assembly hall at Brockville, $20,000 for the purchase of lands for a new central prison, $7,000 or $8,000 for the Ontario Agricultural College—in all $43,968.

Public works account for $13,500 and colonization roads for $31,432.

Fire ranging, forest ranging and other forest and survey charges require $46,758 extra.

FOUR POLICEMEN AS BURGLARS

Quartette of Philadelphia's Finest Arrested---In Conspiracy to Loot

Philadelphia, Pa., April 7.—A sensation was caused here by the arrest of four policemen charged with being in a conspiracy to rob properties on the beats which they patrolled, was followed by the surrender of William A. Frost, said to be one of the principals in the conspiracy.

Frost is a plumber in the wholesale district, where the accused policemen were on duty at night, and says that the policemen and Harry Rothenberger, through whose arrest the conspiracy was discovered, used his place as a rendezvous. It was there the stolen goods were taken and divided.

Among the articles recovered are rolls of carpet, mattings, gas stoves, bolts of cloth, tinware, hardware, ice cream freezers, a collection of panama hats, laces, gloves, fancy groceries and even patent medicines to the value of $15,000.

Had Heart Stitched Up.

New York, April 7.—With a knife wound in his heart that was every minute bringing him nearer death Robert Inglis, a young athlete of Yonkers, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in that city and within 15 minutes was on the operating table, where the surgeons opened his breast, lifted out the heart, put three stitches in it, and replaced the organ. A few hours later the patient was able to talk and recovery is possible.

Inglis received his wound, following a wordy altercation with three strangers on the street.

Young Fireman Rescues Family.

New York, April 7.—One woman lost her life, nearly a score of men and women were injured, and as many more were rescued yesterday during a fire which destroyed the four-storey tenement house at 470 Pearl street.

Michael Conway, a young fireman only recently appointed, carried his mother down from her flat on the top floor to the street. In several more trips the young fireman brought his sisters to safety and then the father and brothers followed.

Snatched Thousand and Ran.

St. Louis, April 7.—While Michael Hogan was standing in the public banking-room of the Mercantile Trust Co. yesterday, Frank Sellick of New York, a bookmaker's sheet writer, suddenly seized a roll of $1,000 from Hogan's overcoat pocket and ran, pushing aside men and women who stood in his path.

He was captured on the steps of the bank while attempting to pass the money to a confederate. Sellick was fashionably attired and was wearing a number of diamonds. He had plenty of money in his pockets.

The Bomb Throwers of Gotham.

New York, April 7.—Efforts to destroy the pier and equipment used by the McClintic-Marshall Construction Co. in constructing a new pier for the White Star line at West 17th street were made Sunday night. Two bombs were exploded with little effect.

Arson Is the Charge.

St. Catharines, April 7.—Alexander Wills of Thorold is in jail, charged with arson. It is charged that on Sunday he set fire to a fine house owned by his father on Chappell street, Thorold. He will appear before the magistrate this morning.

Files Suit For Divorce.

New York, April 7.—Counsel for Evelyn Nesbit Thaw yesterday filed in the Supreme Court the suit for annulment of her marriage with Harry Kendall Thaw on the ground that Thaw was insane at the time of the marriage.

Was Nearly a Panic.

Montreal, April 7.—The electrical apparatus of a moving picture plant of the Casino Theatre on St. Catherine street took fire during the progress of the show, and a panic was narrowly averted. The operator stuck to his job, using a Babcock, and was soon assisted by the firemen.

Invade U.S. Consulate.

Mukden, April 7.—Four Japanese entered the United States consulate yesterday and brutally attacked the native staff in revenge for a private spite.

It is probable that the matter will be made a subject of diplomatic action.

DISPUTE OVER FALLS POWER

Anglo-American Treaties Involved in Deadlock.

London, April 7.—The Foreign Office recently received drafts of treaties having as their object the settlement of questions pending between the United States and Canada.

These treaties were considered satisfactory, with the exception of a few minor points, which were referred back to Ottawa, and it was fully expected that a complete agreement was about to result.

The news cabled from the United States, however, of which the Foreign Office has unofficial advices, that a deadlock exists over the disposition of power from Niagara Falls, came as a surprise to the officials.

Negotiations for the submission of the Atlantic fisheries disputes to arbitration have not advanced to any great extent. Newfoundland has been slow in replying to the points which have been referred to that Government, and in addition, Great Britain does not find it easy to reconcile the views of the Newfoundland and the Dominion of Canada in preparing the case. Already there is talk of the necessity of renewing the modus vivendi.

PIANO AGENT IS ARRESTED

Charged With Selling Instrument, Making no Return.

Orangeville, April 7.—Robert F. Dawson, a piano agent here, was arrested for obtaining two hundred and seventy-five dollars, and two organs by fraud and misrepresentation, from Mrs. Robert E. Welbourne and her daughter, Miss Bertha Duke.

It appears Dawson purchased an upright piano from W. H. Lyman, Synder & Co., manufacturers, Berlin, on March 13, 1906, giving a lien note therefore for $145. In September, 1906, he sold the instrument to the complainants, promising them a piano stool. The prisoner did not pay the piano company, who, on being requested to furnish the stool, sent bailiffs to repossess the instrument under the lien note.

Mrs. Welbourne, greatly annoyed, swore out a warrant against Dawson, who was arrested, appearing before Police Magistrate Pattullo yesterday. The lien note was produced, and evidence of the sale given and the piano fully identified.

The magistrate intimated that a strong case had been made out, and admitted the prisoner to bail in bonds of $1,000.

CONSTABLE WAS SHOT DOWN; MAN HELD POLICE AT BAY

Man Holds Police at Bay in House at Montreal—Two Others Badly Wounded—Book Agent Resists Arrest—Opens Fire From Barricaded Windows.

Montreal, April 7.—For five hours yesterday afternoon and evening, John Smith, a book agent, 60 years old, kept a large posse of the Montreal police force and a detachment of the fire department at bay, killing one constable, wounding another and Chief Detective Carpenter before he was finally shot during a fusilade which a large number of police poured in on the house.

All the while a crowd numbering several thousand surrounded the house and witnessed the most strenuous effort to make an arrest in the history of the Montreal force.

The trouble began late yesterday afternoon when Constables Focoult and Shea were sent to 3 Mance street with a warrant for the arrest of Smith obtained by his landlady, Mrs. Pritchard. Focoult attempted to enter the house first and was met by Smith armed with a rifle. Without a word of warning Smith fired at Focoult, the bullet striking his forehead and glancing off. Shea was immediately behind and when Focoult fell, he bravely rushed in. Once more Smith fired, the bullet piercing Shea's heart.

Assistance was summoned. By the time it arrived Smith had barricaded the windows of the house, appearing every now and then at one of them armed with the rifle. Orders were given to capture him alive and this the police at first attempted to do by smoking him out.

This means proving ineffectual, a couple of hose wagons were summoned from a nearby fire station. Streams were turned on from both front and rear and a volume of water poured into the place. When this was done Smith once more appeared at a window and leveled his rifle at those standing in front. Again he fired and this time Chief Detective Carpenter fell, shot through the hand and hip.

When Carpenter fell, the police, urged on by the demands of the crowd, disregarded the order to take Smith alive, and the revolvers of fifty men began blazing away. After a few moments the firing was stopped. Smith gave no sign of life, and the police finally decided to rush the place. This they did, meeting no opposition. Smith was found lying on his bed, and submitted to arrest without further resistance.

During the fusilade of the police he had been hit in three places, the chin, breast and arm. None of the wounds appear to be mortal. He was conscious and appeared sane. He was taken to the hospital and a guard placed over him.

Smith is a well-known figure around town, having been engaged in selling books for years. About himself he was reticent. It is believed that he comes from the Southern States and that Smith is not his right name. His habits were generally good, but recently he has been drinking heavily and it was a threat to kill his landlady that led to her taking out the warrant.

BOWIN ENDS LONG ORDEAL

Entangled in Mesh of Falsehoods Presents Pitiable Spectacle.

Detroit. April 7.—It was with the greatest alacrity that Percy Bowin stepped from the witness-stand last night when Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Grose finally signified that he had completed the defendant's cross-examination.

The day and a half ordeal to which he had been subject wrought a great change in the youth. The Percy Bowin who sauntered jauntily to the witness-stand Saturday afternoon and told the story so confidently was an altogether different person from the tired, nervous youth who hurried to his seat, as though afraid that the prosecutor might call him back.

Entangled in the mesh of falsehoods that he himself had woven, Bowin presented a pitiable spectable on the witness-stand. He admitted himself "perjurer, a thief, a blackmailer, a parasite upon the unfortunate women of the street, anything but a murderer. Compelled by the prosecutor to repeat the ingenious story that he told under the promptings of his own attorney Saturday afternoon, he varied in several important particulars. Upon several occasions he made statements, then hastily recalled them, remembering that they conflicted with some previous assertion.

There was just one moment during the afternoon when everyone in the court-room was firmly convinced that Percy was telling the truth. Driven into a corner by the remorseless questioning of the prosecutor, confronted with the fact that he had contradicted himself, Bowin exclaimed, despairingly, "Oh, I don't know; I've told so many stories that I can't remember them all."

All day long the boy was kept on the witness-stand under the rapid fire questioning of Assistant Prosecutor Grose, and it was after six o'clock when the ordeal was finished. Attorney Kennedy asked a few questions, but even under his guidance Bowin failed to regain his composure.

Attorney Kennedy will call three more witnesses this morning before resting his case. The prosecution will have several rebuttal witnesses. Assistant Prosecutor Grose said that he did not think the trial would end before Thursday.

PRIVATE MEMBERS DAY IN THE HOUSE

The House of Commons Gets Trough Deal of Business—Importation of Horses and Cattle From United—States Excessive Freight Charges.

Ottawa, April 7.—Yesterday was the last day for private members and a great many scraps of business standing over for months were cleared off the program. Many more that were not reached are now relegated to the repository of defunct and imperfectly incubated ideas, to come up again, perhaps, next session.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not in the House, being indisposed at his home. Mr. Fisher introduced a bill to amend the meat and canned foods act. He said the purpose was to make the act more workable. He also introduced bills to amend the inspection and sale act and to repeal the canned goods act, an obsolete statute. The changes are technical.

Dr. Roche asked when the bill for the extension of boundaries of Manitoba would be brought down.

Mr. Fielding said it was receiving consideration. In the absence of the Prime Minister, he would not like to make a definite statement.

The House went into committee on several bills. Mr. Haggart wanted to know why it was necessary to bring the Fort William Terminal Railway & Bridge Co. under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission and Mr. Macpherson, who was in charge of the measure, said it was because the railway crosses a navigable stream. That, said Mr. Foster, would only make it necessary to apply to the Dominion authorities to cross the stream. The bill received its third reading.

Mr. Graham informed Mr. Barker that no matters were in dispute between of the G.T.P. Co., the Government or National Transcontinental Railway Commission respecting route or right of way or works of construction or cost thereof upon the eastern division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Mr. Christie enquired about importations of registered cattle and horses from the United States and was given numbers by Mr. Paterson as follows:

Cattle.		Horses.
1904,	765	1904,	5,551
1905,	478	1905,	606
1906,	423	1906,	631
*1907,	151	*1907,	538

*Nine months.

Mr. Foster moved to expunge from the order paper his resolutions for reform of the system of making appointment to the civil service, and to eliminate party patronage from the administration of all Federal Departments, stating that he would bring questions up in another way.

Mr. Hughes (King's, P.E.I.) offered a resolution that names "Intercolonial" and "Prince Edward Island" Railways should be dropped and name "Interprovincial" substituted; that accounts be kept for whole system and not separated; also, that ferry service between Prince Edward Island and mainland should be managed by the Railway Department. He thought that perhaps the "Canadian Government Railway" would be a better designation. Another objection was that cars marked I.C.R. the same initials as the Illinois Central, frequently went astray.

Messrs. Martin and McLean (Queen's) complained of the excessive freight charges on Government railways, the latter stating that the Government was neglecting the east while devoting all its attention to the western provinces.

E. M. Macdonald said, while there were some anomalies in regard to freight charges, it was a favorite argument of the Opposition that rates were low.

A return tabled yesterday by the Minister of Agriculture in response to a motion by Mr. Armstrong, gives the reply of the British Board of Agriculture to observations made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the Colonial Conference last year as to removal of the British embargo upon Canadian cattle. The letter states among other things, that:

"Experience has shown that the existing statutory requirement, that all cattle imported into this country should be slaughtered in wharves provided for the purpose at the port of landing, is no obstacle to the development and maintenance of a large and valuable trade."

The growth of the trade with Argentina and the United States is cited in proof of this contention. It is also stated that "the existing law does not cast any stigma or discredit upon Canadian cattle, for it holds good, not only in the case of the United States and other foreign countries, but also every British colony, including Australia and New Zealand, whence live cattle have, in the past, been imported into Great Britain." The further statement is made in regard to the embargo, that "the enormous losses which British agriculturists have suffered during the last thirty years, mainly by reason of the increased pressure of colonial and foreign competition, makes it more than ever necessary that every possible precaution should be taken against the introduction of diseases, consistent with the reasonable requirement of colonial producers and the interests of consumers at home."

The conclusion is that "His Majesty's Government regrets that, after the fullest consideration and for the reasons above indicated, they are unable to propose to Parliament any amendment to the existing law on the subject."

Woollen Worker's Suicide.

Guelph, April 7.—Charles Hubner, a woollen worker, committed suicide by taking a dose of strychnine at Blair. Hubner was born at Preston and was 63 years of age.

HAPPENINGS IN BRITISH HOUSE

Mr. Asquith Makes Statement on the Political Crisis.

London, April 7.—The House of Commons was crowded yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Asquith rose to make his anticipated statement on the political crisis. The Premier-elect was greeted with hearty cheers as he began to speak.

"Since the House rose on Friday," said Mr. Asquith, "the King has been pleased to accept the resignation of the Prime Minister, and the Government now is without a head. This is not the occasion when it would be possible or appropriate to do justice to the great qualities of our revered and trusted chief, or to enlarge upon his long and splendid services to the state. For the moment I will not trust myself to do more than to say that in the annals of our history there is no man who, after long years spent in the thick of public contention, has ever laid down the highest offices under the crown more universally and deservedly beloved. There is not a single man in any quarter of this House who does not feel that this is a personal loss."

Mr. Asquith went on to state that it was clear public business could not proceed effectively at this time, and he proposed that the House adjourn until April 14, when, after the transaction of formal business, it would re-adjourn for the Easter recess. His proposal was adopted.

Mr. Asquith left for Biarritz last night to confer with King Edward.

Kingston Harbor Clear.

Kingston, April 7.—Navigation practically opened yesterday morning when the steamer Pierpont went through the harbor ice and made the trip to Cape Vincent.

The City Council last evening adopted the finance committee's recommendation to increase the rate of taxation by half a mill, making it 20 1-2 mills. The increase is owing to the increased outlay for education.

Dakota Divorce Impugned.

London, April 7.—(C.A.P.)—The court has reserved judgment in the action wherein $500,000 depended upon the question of the legitimacy of Richard Stirling, son of Walter Stirling, and the divorced wife of George Arbuthnot Smith, all Canadians. The legality of the Dakota divorce obtained by Smith is impugned.

Will Visit Quebec.

London, April 7.—Hon. A. C. Murray, representing the first governor of Canada, and Lord Lovat, representing Simon Fraser, have accepted invitations to Quebec tercentenary.

The Lord Lovat who, according to the above despatch, intends to represent the discoverer of the Fraser River, is Simon Joseph Fraser, sixteenth baron of the name, of Beaufort Castle, Beauley, North Britain. He is a lieutenant in the Life Guards and served in the South African War with mounted infantry (Lovat's Corps).

The first governor of Canada (1764-1768) was Gen. Murray, and the Hon. A. C. Murray referred to is presumably a descendant.

Bylaw Defeated.

Orillia, April 7.—Because the time was deemed inopportune in view of the stringency in the money market a bylaw to spend $155,000 on sewage schemes was defeated yesterday by 77. The voting was very heavy.

Witness Has Disappeared.

Guelph, April 7.—Mrs. Cudney, wife of Alexander Cudney, the man who is confined in Guelph jail for committing numerous burglaries in this city and vicinity, has left the city, and her whereabouts are unknown to the police, who are anxious to locate her. While Mrs. Cudney is not wanted for any of the crimes, she was to have been the chief witness against George Johnson, the man implicated with her husband in the pork stealing cases.

Escaped From Sing Sing.

Ossining, N.Y., April 7.—Joseph Lasalla, who was sentenced from New York to Sing Sing Prison last December to serve a term of 11 years for highway robbery, was missed from the prison yesterday when the prisoners were first called from their cells.

Prison and the Lash.

Brantford, April 7.—At Police Court yesterday morning Police Magistrate Livingstone sentenced William Dyer, a colored man, who was found guilty of criminal assault on Sadie Bedford, his ten-year-old niece, to 23 months in Central, with twenty lashes.

Killed by Dynamite.

Vermilion, Ont., April 7.—A station man named Peterson was killed at one of Parson's camps by dynamite. He was loading some block holes, and, it is said, had been smoking at work. Coroner Chapman of Kenora has gone to investigate.

NO MORE RHEUMATISM

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HIM

Christopher D. Graham is a well known citizen of Ottawa—formerly in the City Hall and largely instrumental in forming the Ottawa Hunt Club. Mr. Graham's voluntary testimonial as to the great benefit he received from taking "Fruit-a-tives" will carry conviction.

Ottawa, Ont. Nov. 26th, 1907.

Dear Sirs:—

I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for a long time — pains in my shoulder and joints practically all the time. I tried various treatments without benefit and then I was recommended by a friend to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes of the tablets and now, for a long time, I have been entirely free from all rheumatism and rheumatic pains.

I wish to state, also, that I suffered from haemorrhoids, or piles, for years, I used all kinds of ointments and treatment and nothing did me any good, but after taking "Fruit-a-tives" for my rheumatism I am entirely cured of these dreadful piles. (Sgd) C. D. GRAHAM.

The Daily Review

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Whitney will go to the country after four years of office without a single electoral or departmental scandal.

In so far as the redistribution goes the Opposition has good reason to be astonished at the Government's moderation.—Toronto News, Independent.

Vocal music per suam personam is now being used as a cure for disease. "Sing me to sleep," will be the remedy for insomnia. "Who dat knockin!" with variations will be considered "efficashus," in case of cramps. That this plan will be generally acceptable to others, we are not so sure.

The Hackenschmidt-Gotch match looks like a "throw" all right, but not a wrestling throw. It has more of a political than an athletic look to it. Gotch must be intending to qualify for political life. We prophesy that Hackenschmidt will, before leaving America, make Gotch look more like Botch than otherwise. The public still lives up to Barnum's description of it.

Nelson, B.C., April 5— The two daily newspapers here comment scathingly on the unfavorable statements made regarding the Kootenay district by Rev. H. S. Magee, associate secretary of Temperance and Moral Reform in the Methodist Church.

The News calls him an Ananias an unmitigated liar, a slanderer and a moral pervert, and claims that Nelson is as sober and well behaved as any town in Ontario.

The language of the Nelson newspapers proves their contention.

Toronto, April 4—At the inquest into the death of James Semple, fatally injured by jumping from a street car, it was shown that after being taken to the General Hospital, he lay for three quarters of an hour before receiving attention.

The reason given was the lack of accommodation, the beds being all occupied. The jury censured the hospital authorities.—Ottawa Journal.

There is a good deal of make-believe about the Toronto General Hospital. Favoritism and pull are said to be rampant there.

The citizens of Ottawa are far from being metropolitan in dress or appearance. They are generally polite as all communities where there are some French, are, but otherwise they do not look prosperous or happy. There's a faded look about them, and as for a tall hat it excites as much astonishment as a clean handkerchief or a new coat. The M.P.'s are almost without exception, wretchedly attired. It is "the shabby shadow of an evil time."

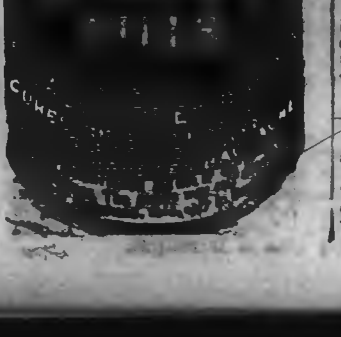
Street preaching will be adopted by the clergymen of the city as a direct means of conveying a direct message. It is a reasonable, and no doubt, will prove a helpful measure. The corruption of today exceeds that of any preceding era. It has been "reduced to a science." If the tone of the street could be raised to even that of the prize ring much good would be done. The latter is at least governed by decent rules. "Play the game" would do very well as a preparatory text. The proposed plan will surely do some good.

"No increased activity is as yet apparent in the general trade movement."—Dun's Bulletin, April 4.

Trade is dependent on the medium of exchange where there is a desire for trade already in existence. The medium of exchange is all "out" or locked up therefore there is no prospect of trade's reviving. Houses, lands, cereals, meats, wools, flax — all are wanted and would be exchanged or made the objects of trade but for the inflexibility of our system of exchange. The only legal medium is easily cornered and as the cockney said, "There you are!"

The Ottawa Senate does occasionally do something to justify its existence. In throwing out a Conmee bill granting the best water powers in New Ontario to a Company, the Senate have acted wisely, and well. —Bobcaygeon Independent.

This company was incorporated by Dominion charter on pretence of being "for the general benefit of Canada." Mr. Whitney fought the measure successfully. It was a most rascally attempt on the part of a few moneyed men to make Ontario pay toll for its own water-powers. It reflects no credit on the Liberal party.



LOOPING THE LOOP

These three extracts from one issue of the Examiner, do not read well together.

Our evening contemporary should call a halt in its crusade of detraction of Peterborough and Canada to note how other cities resent the role of the civic slanderer.—The Examiner, April 6th, 1908.

* * * * * * *

While there may be conditions in every community not as desirable as they might be, there is such a thing as discretion in the way of dealing with them. They should not be exaggerated, spread abroad and published, without any good results, and only for the purpose of promotion, personal or party profit.—The Examiner, April 6th, 1908.

Relief Restaurant to Close Owing to Scarcity of Funds

It is likely that the soup kitchen, which has been conducted by the Children's Aid Society in the south end of the city, will be closed this week, not from a lack of people requiring assistance, but rather from a paucity of funds. Since the first of the year the relief restaurant has been open daily dispensing from 68 to 75 meals per day. In addition to soup, meat and bread have been given out and a large number of people have been dependent upon this restaurant for sustenance. The funds available for the purpose, however, are gone, and the society is reluctantly compelled to close the place, although they realize in so doing a hardship will be conferred upon families, the heads of which have not yet been able to secure employment.—The Examiner, April 6th, 1908.

THE PROPOSED PRISON REFORM

Toronto, April 6.—Five propositions which may be received as the declaration of the policy of the Provincial Government in reference to the treatment of persons incarcerated in the Central Prison are included in the resolution which Hon. Mr. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, will lay before the Legislative Assembly for discussion. These embody to a great extent the sweeping reforms suggested by the special committee of which Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P., was chairman, in their report of their investigation of the prison systems of Canada and the United States. The House is asked to declare in favor of the abolition of the old-fashioned penal institution and the substitution of the modern plan of a prison farm. It outlines the policy of the Government in regard to the discontinuance of the contract system of labor in prisons, and proposes that convicts be employed in the work of the farm, in making supplies for public institutions and the improvement of public highways, etc.

The resolution reads as follows:

That in the opinion of this House, with a view to improving the conditions existing in respect to the custody and employment of prisoners in the Central Prison in the province, it is deemed expedient;

That a tract of land suitable for the transfer of the Central Prison thereto, and for the employment thereon as far as practicable of the inmates thereof, be purchased.

That steps be taken towards the erection thereon of a new prison.

That the property now known as the Central Prison be disposed of when proper accommodation for the transfer is provided.

That no further contracts on what is known as the contract or piece systems of employment be entered into, but that the inmates be employed in the improvement and cultivation of the land and the making, so practicable, of such supplies as are necessary for the various institutions of the province, and in such work as the making of highways.

That a branch prison or reformatory be located in Northern Ontario as soon as conditions warrant the establishment of such branch.

MORE MONEY FOR THE FAIR

Deputation Asks City Council for Larger Grant---Propose That City Should Buy Fair Grounds

The Peterborough Industrial Fair wants a larger grant from the City Council. Last year $500 was granted the Society by the City Council, but more is wanted this year and the proposition that the city purchase the exhibition grounds has also been put forth. A deputation from the Agricultural Association, composed of Messrs. R. H. Leary, J. J. Turner, sr., Wm. Collins, R. Vance, Millbrook; and Dr. Johnston, waited on the City Council at last night's meeting, and strongly urged the claims of the fair for greater support. Mr. Leary spoke first and asked that the city's grant to the Agricultural Society be enlarged as the fair was a valuable asset to Peterborough. He urged the Council to purchase the Exhibition grounds. It would be a splendid investment for the city and a move that no doubt would be approved by the ratepayers. Messrs. Turner, Collins, Johnston and Vance spoke along the same line and made a good impression.

Mayor Roah promised the deputation that the matter they had brought up would be given careful consideration by the Council.

INDIAN CASE AT LINDSAY

Jeremiah Shilling Got Whiskey and Was Badly Frozen---Who Gave Him the Firewater?

A Lindsay despatch says;—Daniel Grant, Mark Hicks, Albert McFee and Wm. Wymart, all of Mariposa, in the vicinity of Oakwood, were charged this morning before His Worship, Police Magistrate Jackson, with having on the 7th day of February last, unlawfully supplied liquor to Jeremiah Shilling, an Indian. Police Magistrate Jackson and the lawers had to adjourn to the hospital for the purpose of taking the evidence of Shilling. Shilling's evidence was that he came down here on the day of the funeral of the late Mrs. Thorndyke, of Oakwood, and while here, he met the accused at the Grand Trunk station. He further says that some one of the accused, which one he does not know for sure, gave him a drink of liquor out of a bottle. He swore further that on the train between Lindsay and Mariposa station that Grant gave him another drink of liquor.

Shilling is in a very bad shape by reason of the drinking bout. He on this occasion fell on a cold winter's night and froze his hands and one foot severely, necessitating the amputation of his fingers and part of his foot. The case is being continued this afternoon. Mr. A. M. Fulton is appearing for the Indian Department, Mr. Stewart for Grant and Hicks and Mr. Weldon for McFee and Wymart.

BOARD OF WORKS WILL DEAL WITH SEWER ACCOMMODATION

City Engineer Points Out the Necessity of Increased Outfall for Sewage—Overflow Pipes Are Recommended as a Temporary Relief

The Board of Works has been instructed to look into the matter of sewer accommodation for the city, and will take up the question at once. An increase in the outfall is necessary and it is likely that a change in this connection will be made at an early date.

At the meeting of the City Council last night, Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, read the following communication from City Engineer Hay;

I beg to draw your attention to the necessity for an increased outfall for the sewerage system. The present trunk sewer, which is egg-shaped in section, 3ftx2ft., and mostly on a very flat grade, discharges into the river at the foot of Lock street, where the outlet is contracted in size to a 20-inch steel pipe, which decreases the capacity very considerably. At Rink street a fifteen inch from Park street, enters the trunk sewer. Into this fifteen-inch pipe are connected 12-inch pipes on Park, Reid, Rubidge, Stewart and Aylmer streets.

When the water is high in the river as at present, the trunk sewer is below the level of the river as far far north as Lansdowne street against which head all the water and sewerage has to find an outlet, hence with the large amount of water flowing into the sewers at this season of the year, the trunk sewer becomes gorged and cannot discharge as quickly as it is entering.

Since the first outfall was constructed the system has grown from a very small affair to more than its capacity, and it is now imperative that some action should be taken to provide increased outlet, in doing which consideration should be given to providing for the next 20 or thirty years, and also to provide for storm water. In the meantime some measure of relief could be had by laying several overflow pipes into the river at the most favorable points, such as at the corner of King and Water, Dalhousie and George, Lake and Crescent. These overflows should be controlled by gate valves.

The most practicable route for a new trunk sewer outfall will be by Park street from Rink street to the river, providing for filtration beds, etc., and for which the soil in that vicinity, being sandy, is well suited.

Yours faithfully,
T. A. S. HAY,

After hearing the city engineer's report, on motion the Board to Works was instructed to go into the matter of increased sewer accommodation and to report to the council as sono as possible.

MISS PEARL O'NEIL DELIGHTED HER AUDIENCE LAST NIGHT

Her Selections at Charlotte St. Sunday School Concert Much Appreciated—An Excellent Entertainment.

Miss Pearl O'Neil, the Toronto elocutionist and entertainer, with the assistance of several other contributors of talent, gave a programme of great merit at the concert of the Sunday school of the Charlotte St. Methodist church that was held in the schoolroom last night. An audience that completely took up the seating capacity of the building was in attendance and thoroughly appreciated the excellent programme rendered. Encores were the order of the night and everyone was unanimous in agreeing that the affair was a delightful success. Those in charge of the entertainment are deserving of the highest praise for the splendid programme provided.

Miss O'Neil is clever and original and while all her numbers were most acceptable probably she was at her best in her Irish selections. She was recalled on her every appearance and was given a very flattering reception.

The opening number was a well rendered piano duet by Misses Clarry and Campbell. Mr. John Burns in Highland costume, sang several "heathery" songs in splendid voice and was greeted with much applause. "I am a Little Flower Girl," was given a splendid rendition by Miss Greta LaBar.

Miss Kathleen Wallis appeared to excellent advantage in her violin solo, and was enthusiastically received, and was enthusiastically recalled. The concluding number on the programme, was "A May Morning," sung in fine sympathy by the popular local soprano, Miss Clara Belleghem.

Piano duet, overture—"Poet and Peasant," Suppre—Misses Campbell and Clarry.

Solo—"The Star o' Robbie Burns," Mr. John Burns.

AN INDEFENSIBLE ATTACK UPON THE RIGHTS OF ELECTORS

No Justification of the Measure Attempted—A Proceeding Without Precedent—The Opposition Determined to Prevent it

The greatest struggle of the Parliamentary session at Ottawa has not yet commenced. But it will begin soon, and when entered upon it will not end until the liberties of the people which are threatened by the decaying ministry are duly protected. The circumstances are extraordinary, and in view of the former attitude of the Liberal party on the subject of provincial rights, entirely unlooked for. It appears that the Laurier Government has reason to suspect that it is unpopular in the West. The fact that it was unable to carry the new provinces for its party without such manoeuvres as the ballot-box frauds at Prince Albert, coupled with its defeat in both Manitoba and British Columbia, makes it clear to it that it can expect no quarter from the voters beyond the lakes.

So serious is the situation that drastic action is necessary. And action of this character is proposed in the election bill which Hon. A. B. Aylesworth has introduced. A careful examination of this measure shows that under the pretence of improving the law the government is endeavoring to take to itself the power to cheat the electors in British Columbia and Manitoba, and in the unorganized districts of Quebec and Ontario. The trick is revealed in a section of the bill which reads thus:—"Voters' lists for the portions of Ontario and Quebec which consist of "territory not municipally organized "and where there is no regular assessment or valuation roll upon "which voters' lists are based, and "for the several electoral districts in "the Provinces of Manitoba and British Columbia shall be prepared immediately after the issue of any "writ for an election, in any such "electoral district or in any electoral "district composed, or partly composed of such territory, or at any "time when the Governor-in-Council "so directs; and for the purpose of "preparing and giving effect to such "voters' lists the Governor-in-Council "may appoint all necessary officers "and confer upon them all necessary "powers." This means that in Manitoba, in British Columbia, and in the unorganized districts of Ontario and Quebec the voters' lists that are prepared by the provinces through the regular courts and that have been subject to appeal, shall not be used in the Dominion elections. It also means that the politicians at Ottawa shall have the right to appoint whomsoever they choose — their party workers, their political agents — to make others voters' lists. It means further that the men who are chosen to make these lists shall be guided by no law except such as the Government, or in other words the party leaders shall promulgate. It means, in addition to all this, that there shall be no appeal from the machine, which has made the lists to suit the party, and to disfranchise the electors. Briefly stated, the Ottawa politicians propose to assume the authority to override the provincial voters' lists, and to appoint politicians to make others from which there shall be no appeal by the people. This scheme is the most daring assault upon the rights of the electors that has ever been conceived. Under it disfranchisements can be effected by wholesale, and without danger of prosecution. Under it the citizen can be robbed of his vote with the utmost ease. Once excluded from the polling booth by the action of a partisan appointed to make up fradulent lists which may not be corrected, the elector has no voice in the government of his country.

The contemplated roguery is the first fruit of the transference to Ottawa of the Ontario machine which cheated the people through the ballot-box stuffing and the ballot manipulation for so many years. We are getting under the disguise of law, in the larger sphere, a taste of the cheating that was practiced for so long, and with such success in the smaller provincial arena. That Parliament will fight this brazen attempt to swindle the electors and to create by the process of disfranchisement a House of Commons that shall be the tool of the grafters there is every reason to hope. It is certainly the duty of the representatives of the people to stand out against such iniquity, not alone in the interests of the citizens at whose rights the blow is aimed, but in behalf of the great constitutional principle of free rule, which our fathers won, and without which there is no such thing as British liberty in the land.—The Mail and Empire.

EVOLUTION OF THE RAKE-OFF TRIUMPH OF THE GRAFTER

Why the Auditor-General Was Dismissed—Sir Wilfrid Laurier to Blame—Degradation of the Public Service

Ottawa; The action of the Government with reference to the scandals is not regarded as satisfactory; but it is a remarkable justification of the position taken by Mr. Borden on this subject two years ago. In the session of 1906 the results of the introduction of graft into the Marine Department were becoming obvious. Enquiries made before the Public accounts Committee showed that a regular system of rake-offs had been established, and that Government favorites were getting rich as a consequence.

It was found that in the provisioning of Government vessels there were overcharges and frauds. It was also learned that huge quantities of materials were being bought without tenders and at prices that were exorbitant. The fitting out of ships was also absurdly expensive. A vessel named the Montcalm, built to be used as an ice-breaker, was magnificently equipped. Among its furnishings were the following articles;

72 cups at $1.04 each.
2 coffee pots at $23.00 each.
2 teapots at $2.00 each.
4 milk jugs at $17.00 each.
4 cream jugs at $12.50 each.
2 sugar bowls at $27.00 each.
6 fruit stands at $24.75 each.
3 ice pitchers at $20.00 each.
3 trays at $11.00 each.
3 dozen fish knives at $2.50 each.
2 pair of fish covers at $13.50 each.
2 bread plates at $12.25 each.
2 cake baskets at $15.00 each.

These articles lent an air of luxury to the ice-breaker, and in the use of them the hardy mariners had comforts not usually experienced on board ship. This extravagance ran through the service, and was practised in the purchase of supplies as well as in the buying of furnishings.

PROVISIONING THE ARCTIC.

In the provisioning the most costly eatables were found to have been bought, and the quantities were so large as to be a standing joke. One vessel had charged to her far more groceries and the like than her crew could consume, or than her tonnage would allow her to carry. The fact seemed to be, as regards the costly articles bought for the Montcalm, and the extensive menu provided for the sailors on the Arctic, that politicians forced the department into making the unnecessary purchases on the spoils principle, and that the Minister yielded to the demands of party in this particular. In addition to the wastefulness and worse discovered in this branch of the business, there was found to be a regular system of rake-offs" under which the country was charged frequently twice as much for an article as it had cost. This operation was rendered possible through the abandonment of the plan of purchase by tender and contract. In one year the president of the Liberal clubs sold $428,000 worth of goods to the Government without tender. During the same period, $444,000 was paid for fog signals without tender and $192,000 for gas buoys.

CLEVERLY TRAPPED.

How the overcharges were discovered is quite an interesting matter. Dr. Reid saw in the Public Accounts a charge of $1550 for a Worthington pump that is made in the United States. He at once secured a description of the machine. Having done this he telegraphed the manufacturer as follows;

"Please wire lowest price for 1000-gallon underwriters' pump, 18x10x12, same kind and size as your No. 175, 530."

The answer came from John Macdougall, of Montreal, the agent for the Worthington people, as follows;

"Your enquiry, referred to us; $1,105."

So that the machine for which the country had been billed $1,550, was to be obtained for $1,105, duty paid.

Mr. George Taylor discovered another evidence of overcharging. In the Marine Department accounts he found two underfeed stokers charged $4,550, but to the Justice Department he saw that two similar machines were charged $1700. There was a rake-off of $850 on these purchases. The revelations were extended, and the system was found to be general.

DEMAND FOR ENQUIRY.

Then Mr. Borden moved in Parliament for a committee of seven members to enquire into the expenditures of the Marine Department, with a view to finding out how far the abuses had gone, and to proposing a remedy. Sir Wilfrid Laurier characterized the proposition and the circumstances upon which it war based "froth and wind," and called upon his supporters in the House to vote it down, which they did. The next thing the country hears of this matter is the report of the Falconer enquiry which alleges that the condition of the Marine Department is so bad as to need overhauling at a cost of $40,000 to the people. And following this revelation comes the report of the Civil Service Commission, which declares that the bureau is impaired by graft. Now comes the third enquiry by a special commissioner.

DEFENDING THE GUILTY.

The action of the Government in refusing investigation when it was demanded by Mr. Borden was dictated by a determination to protect the Minister who was responsible for the evil situation that had been discovered. It is now clear that the investigation of today, which has been forced by the discoveries made by the Civil Service Commission is so planned as to cast the blame for the policy of the Government upon the officials who carried out the orders of their superiors. For this reason the reference to the commission is considered unsatisfactory.—The Mail and Empire.

"MA'S NEW HUSBAND

"Ma's New Husband" spells mirth in the very title. Talk of love under difficulties; this three act musical farce furnishes more difficulties in half an hour for a pair of lovers than are ordinarily encountered in a courtship that lasts several years. All this, and more has been true of the appearance of "Ma's New Husband," in other cities, and theatre goers here will have an opportunity to judge for themselves, when the piece will be presented at the Grand next Saturday, matinee and evening. Among the many musical hits of the farce which have caught the popular ear are: "A Kiss," "A quiet little Game," "A Little Stick of Candy and a Jumping Jack," "Jokes," "Get Your Tip from Me," "The Great Professor," etc. Manager Harry Scott, who is in charge of this latest musical success, promises a merry time to playgoers.

Plan opens tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review Does Not Holditself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

ROMAINE ST. SEWER

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Who is responsible for making a hash of the Romaine street sewer? It seems to me that everything went wrong last year. I am a taxpayer and I want to know. When other people make mistakes, they have got to suffer, but here it's always the TAXPAYER.

MR. BAILEY'S TROUBLE

Editor of the Review,

Sir,- The correspondent who suggests that it is right to poison the dogs because they run after the chickens must be a cruel wretch. Personally I am suffering from the thieving propensities of some two legged creature—not any four legged faithful friend, Yours truly,

W. A. BAILEY.

A SCIENTIFIC QUERY

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Will your honorable paper tell the subscriber what part of the sky the meridicnalis ridiculus is situated in and whether it can be seen and what its office hours? Would the heat of the sun be increased if the speed of its circumlocution and frequent appearance were increased by ment. Who struck Billy Paterson, anyhow?

Yours, &c.,
ASTRONOMER.

TOO MUCH TALK

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I've bin redin' a whole bally lot about the sun crossin' the quator in your paper, an' I must say, I'm disgusted. In the first place I never see no sun on the equator, nor anything like it an' if Dr. Marsh says so I says he's ——— skiddoo. There's a site more astronomy out at Springville than in the skies themselves. Now, Mr. Editor, there's too much talkin' goin on, I'm in favor of givin' the stars and planicks a chance.

Yours, etc.,
ASTRONOMER ROYAL.

A BLUE SQUIRREL

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—There is a blue squirrel up in a big elm tree just opposite my place. First I thought it was black but it is too big for that, besides it ain't black anyway. My wife suggested that someone might have thrown blue on it, but its a blue squirrel all right. Whoever heard of one before? I didn't.

Yours, etc,
CARPENTER NO. 3.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

Peterborough, April 7, 1908.

The Editor of The Review:

Sir,—A letter signed "Enquirer," and appearing in the Examiner of April 3rd, accuses our worthy license inspector of giving expression to his grudge against a license holder by naming his hotel "The Gold Dollar" and advising the good inspector to discharge his duties without allowing personal likes or dislikes to creep into the execution of his governmental office. I am sure that Inspector Stewart is an honest, fearless and just officer; those who keep the law have nothing to fear from him; law-breakers of course are not very fond of the inspector because he generally knows how to catch them. At any rate this feature of his work makes his particularly acceptable as an officer to the law abiding citizens. With regard to the name of "The Gold Dollar" being attached to a certain hotel, "Enquirer" will find by looking at the machine telephone directory that the hotel in question is thus named. "Enquirer" must have a personal interest in the hotel, or he would not bother himself very much about its name. But why so touchy and sensitive about a name? What is in a name? This particular hotel is like any other business endeavoring to make dollars, and probably the more the better. But, could it be possible that the correspondent should have an uneasy conscience as to how the "dollars" are made? Probably the matter of dispute is not so much about the name of the hotel as it is a desire to say something against the license inspector. If any fault is to be found the machine telephone authorities should be taken to task for the misnaming of such a model hostelry. At any rate "Gold Dollar" has a ringing sound to it and is very expressive of the business.

System Will be in Working Order in About Two Months

In conversation with the foreman of the Machine Telephone Co. The Post reporter learned that the poles are not as yet all up, but will be in a few weeks. Work on stringing the wires will soon commence and when this gets in full swing not long will elapse before it is in working order. About two months hence, according to present indications, the company will be ready to do business. The foreman also said that the past winter was one of the hardest he had ever put in, as the cold and storms greatly impeded the work.—Lindsay Post.

FINED FOR GIVING MAN BLACK EYE

Local Livery Man Charged With Assault--Other Cases in Court

A local liveryman was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $8.05, to be paid within ten days, at the police court this morning, for assaulting Albert Crouter. The defendant did not appear in court this morning, but intimated before hand that he would plead guilty.

Crouter in the witness box this morning, stated that a few nights ago he hired a spring waggon and a horse from the defendant's livery. Next day when he went to pay for the hire of it he was struck in the left eye. This morning Crouter's optic was very black and badly swollen.

"If a man takes the law into his own hands he must pay the consequences," said His Worship and he imposed the above fine.

FOR THROWING STONES.

An Ashburnham youth was charged with throwing stones at a dog belonging to Mr. A. Yaro, Burnham street. The boy pleaded guilty, but said that the canine ran out at him and was continually carrying off things from his hen house. His Worship dismissed the case, but warned the young fellow not to throw any more stones.

DRUNK IN PUBLIC PLACE.

A well-known resident of this city was charged with being drunk in a public place yesterday. He was given some good advice and allowed to go.

GAVE ADDRESS ON MISSIONS

At Young People's Meeting at Knox Church Last Evening

An interesting missionary meeting of the Young People's Society of Knox church was held last evening when a large number were present. Miss K. Menzies was in the chair and conducted the devotional exercises. A profitable and instructive address on missions in the Northwest was delivered by Mrs. McPherson, of this city. Mrs. McPherson dealt with her subject in an intensely clear and interesting manner, at the conclusion of which a vote of thanks was passed to her.

The Ingredients of

Zutoo

One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda, that our grandmothers took to settle the stomach, and there is nothing better.

Among the other ingredients there is not one that did not come from old Mother Earth herself.

There is not one that is not approved by both the British and American Pharmacopoeias,—the highest medical authorities in the world.

There is not one that your family physician, even if a personal friend, would not approve of and prescribe.

If you are using some other headache remedy, why do you not change and use Zutoo instead?

It will cure your headaches and colds just as quickly and safeguard you against the bad after effects which may some day come from using the ordinary remedies. Zutoo tablets

Are Harmless as Soda.

THE ESKIMO KAYAK.

This Greenland Craft Is a Most Difficult One to Handle.

There is no craft so difficult to handle as the Eskimo kayak. The only boat familiar to us which in any way resembles it is the racing shell, but if a crack oarsman of one of our crack colleges were tied into a kayak and told to shift for himself even in smooth water he would have a hard time of it.

The kayak has been evolved through hundreds of years of necessity. Without it the Greenland Eskimos at least would not be able to provide their daily bread, or, more properly speaking, their daily blubber.

It is singular that all the materials used in the construction of the kayak come from the sea—driftwood for the frame, sealskin for the covering, thongs for the harpoon and dart, ivory and bone for bow, stern and keel and for the various implements. The women prepare the skin covering and stretch it over the frame till it is as tight and firm as the head of a drum. On such occasion there is great excitement in the community. A regular "kayak bee" is held; even refreshments are not lacking, for the owner of the kayak treats to coffee all around when the work is satisfactorily done.

The completed boat is a triumph of ingenuity and skill. It is about eighteen feet long, sharply pointed at each end. Its greatest depth is six inches and its width about eighteen. It is entirely covered save for the little round hole into which the owner slips, pushing his feet underneath the skin deck in front.

This hole is fitted to the person for whom the boat is designed, and his thighs completely fill it up. When he is seated in it and his waterproof jacket is tied securely round the edge he is able to defy the waves which wash over him or the rain which beats upon him. The six thong loops arranged on the deck in front and the three or four behind hold his implements—bird darts, lances, knives and, most important of all, his harpoon. A little stand is arranged directly in front of him, upon which is coiled the harpoon line, and behind him on the kayak is the harpoon bladder, which is attached, inflated ready for use, to the line.

The most expert are apt sometimes to be overturned. It may be by the attack of a walrus or even a seal, by a careless movement or an unexpectedly large wave. If he does not right himself at once, he is inevitably drowned unless a comrade comes to his assistance. The usual method of turning the kayak upright again is by using the paddle as a lever, holding it along the side of the boat, pointing it toward the bow, then sweeping it through the water, but those who are thoroughly proficient are able to do it by means of their throwing stick, their arm or even their hand.

The Earth and the Moon.

As the original earth nebula condensed the lighter materials were distributed quite uniformly over the entire surface, but these are now missing from one hemisphere, the reason seeming to be, as Professor G. H. Darwin demonstrated in 1879, that a portion of the earth's crust has been thrown off by tidal action, forming the moon. The surface density of the present continents is about 2.7, the mean density of the moon appearing to be 3.4, or not far from that of the missing continents to the depth reached. The moon, it is computed, equals a mass having the surface area of the terrestrial oceans and a depth of thirty-six miles, and it is concluded that the crust when thirty-six miles thick must have been torn away over three-fourths of the earth, the remainder breaking apart to form the eastern and western continents, with Australia and other islands. These continental and island fragments floated like great ice floes on liquid materials of a density of 3.7 or more. This great rupture gave the earth's surface its chief irregularities, with a mean difference of three miles between the levels of the continental plateaus and the ocean beds, and as the water condensed in the cooling depressions, with the Pacific where most of the moon had been, the dry land was formed that has made human life possible. We may consider that without this change the earth would be now in the condition of Venus, with water over its whole surface.

The Oldest Forename.

In ancient times people had one name only, as Adam or David, and in order to distinguish persons of the same name it was the custom to affix the description "son of" Isaac or Joseph, as the case might be. Thus we get Solomon ben David among the Hebrews and Evan ap Richard among the Welsh, to quote two examples. Although the argument that those names were not strictly "forenames" is not without weight, yet it is responsible to accept them as such, seeing that the application had to be supplemented by another for the sake of distinction. We are therefore entitled to include them within the scope of the question. Adam and other early Biblical names are regarded as the oldest for obvious reasons; but, excluding these, the choice falls upon Marmaduke, which is the modern rendering of the ancient Chaldean Meridug, also written Maruduk and Merodach, the god who interceded constantly between the angry Ea and the humble Damikna, his father and mother. The Romans used both forenames and family names, and of the former two that date back about 2,500 years are still with us—namely, Marcus and Lucius, represented in modern tongues by Mark and the feminine Lucy. The old form Marcus is still retained in some families.

STUNNING SPRING HATS AT FROM $5.00 TO $10.00

Any woman who wants a becoming, smart and exclusive hat at a very small price, will be delighted with our new and beautiful styles at from $5.00 to $10.00.

These are fresh from our own workroom, and our talented milliners have exerted themselves to see just how much of beauty and worth they could crowd into hats for selling at these popular prices.

Some of them are splendid copies of high-priced Parisian and New York Models—others are original designs by our own milliners, and there's not one of them which is not a very remarkable value.

The variety includes, the "College Girl" Sailor, "Il Trovator" Turban, "Ethel Barrymore" Sailor and dozens of other styles in all the favored shapes, sizes and colors, variously trimmed with Spring-like flowers and foliage, feathers, ribbons, etc, in smart, new effects

We cheerfully invite you to compare them with hats which others consider good value at from $3.00 to $5.00 more, knowing that such a comparison will impress you with the extraordinary nature of the value.

In justice to yourself, don't buy a hat until you have seen our assortment, in which you will find (along with the many stylish creations for ladies) an assortment of smart hats for the young girls, that our millinery artists have every reason to be proud of and you will think so too, when you see the hats.

Beresford Back to Politics.

There is reason to believe that Lord Charles Beresford will return to the political arena when his command of the Channel fleet expires. He does not agree with Sir John Fisher, and desires to fight the issue out in Parliament. Beresford has just received a nasty blow, under which he is smarting keenly. Lord Esher, who enjoys the King's fullest confidence, who was appointed by His Majesty to edit Queen Victoria's letters, and who is one of Edward's most valued advisers in military and naval matters, has written a letter to a new organisation entitled the Imperial Maritime League, in which he states most emphatically that there is no need for inquiry into the state of the navy.

"If I could believe the charges made against the Admiralty," says Lord Esher, "I should be glad to see Fisher and his colleagues meet the fate of Admiral Byng."

This is a direct threat at Beresford, who a few months ago, by polite implication, suggested that Fisher deserved to be shot like Byng. Fisher is a special favorite of the King, and Esher's reference to the Lord of the Admiralty is generally supposed to be at the instigation of His Majesty.

Up From the Depths.

Presiding at the annual meeting of the Liverpool Salvage Association, Mr. J. Sandeman Allen, the chairman, referred to a feat achieved during the year which, he said, made a new record in salvage work. It was the case of the steamer Veronese, which, with a very valuable cargo on board, sank in consequence of a hole in her bow. The question, he said, was whether the old method of discharging the cargo and patching the vessel from the inside would have to be adopted. It was decided, however, to utilize pneumatic tools and work from the outside. Divers took the measure of the damage below, and drew a sketch of what was required. A steel patch was made on board the Range (the salvage steamer), and holes drilled in it. Divers working on a platform 28 feet below water drilled the necessary holes in the ship. The plate was then sent down and fitted, and fixed at once by patent bolts invented by the Association's surveyor. The cargo was not disturbed, and the ship was raised and brought back to Liverpool through the Bay of Biscay in variable weather, without making any water.

Mr. Jack Flaherty has received a letter from his brother "Yebbie," in which the latter states that his arm is better having been fully restored through the skilful treatment of Dr. Reese, the Youngstown, O., bone-setter. He left for Youngstown to have his arm treated a short time ago, and is now prepared to report to Waterbury, Connecticut, where he has been signed for the season.

"Yebbie" says that Dr. Reese is an expert surgeon and gives several instances of his successful treatment of obstinate cases that have submitted to him. He is regarded with much pride by the people of Youngstown.

SPORTING COMMENT

There seems no reason why the big tournament at Brock street rink should not be a big success. Certainly some of the very best walkers in the business will take part in it and some great sport will be furnished the spectators. All arrangements in connection with the tournament have been thoroughly made and it would seem that the affair should merit the approval and support of the public.

HANS WAGNER THE GREAT SHORTSTOP QUITS GAME

Roasted by Fans He Gives His Reason for Retirement—Pittsburg Gamblers Expected Him to Make Triple Every Time He Went to Bat

"I have seen the phenomena come and go. They get a great hand, are exploded, then later sign with some other team and when they come back to Pittsburg the town goes daffy, hands them things and names streets for them. I have borne the heat and burden of the day, and the best I get if I make a blunder is a hiss."

This is the real reason that John H. Wagner, perhaps the greatest living exponent of baseball, the man who has led the league five times at bat, has decided to leave the game for at least one year, says a Pittsburg despatch. He has money and does not need to play. He has been roasted so fearfully by fans in his own town that he has not heart left to play. And to tell the truth the big fellow is afraid of himself—afraid that with his really warm temper, he might some day forget himself long enough to climb into the grandstand and give some one of the gamblers, who have been roasting him for years, just what is coming to them.

It has been principally the gambling element of Pittsburg that has been roasting him. For years a certain portion of the grandstand has been given over to a lot of gamblers who bet among themselves on almost any play of the game as it comes up. They have liked especially to bet on that Wagner would do on each play as it came to him, or what he would do at bat. There was, of course some losers among the gamblers on every play made by Wagner, and he was also roasted all the time by some one. If he hit the ball safe he was cursed loud and long by those who had bet against the home team. If he struck out or missed fire anyway he was derided and abused loudly by those who were betting on the home team, and who, of course, looked to him to pull the game out for them. For years it has been notorious at Exposition Park that anyone save Wagner could make an error and not be roasted, but let the Flying Dutchman but make a fumble or a bad play of any kind and there was no end to the insults he had to take.

The first roast, fearful, awful and wholly unmerited, ever given Wagner in Pittsburg was when he engineered a play in a game for the world's championship against Boston here some years ago. It was a wonderful bit of baseball headwork and had the play carried Wagner would have been crowned king, but he bulled his own play and the whole thing was turned into a farce. Wagner dropped an easy-thrown ball in the face of a double play that would have gone down into history had it gone through. Hundreds of the roasting fans who saw him drop the ball are still enlaled in trying to blame the loss of the world's championship on the most conscientious player who ever wore a Pittsburg uniform.

It was the fifth game of the championship series. Pittsburg had won two of the three in Boston and had taken the first in Pittsburg. This was the second game and Boston was winning, was at least in the lead. With one out, a Boston runner on third and another on second, with Collins at bat, Wagner called the play, and, with the swing of the pitcher's arm, he was away toward third, while Leach hopped in on the grass and Ritchey raced madly to cover second. It was as Wagner had thought, Collins was dumping the ball toward third.

Leach got the ball and turning clear around fired it to Wagner, who was on third, and who was set for the throw to second. It was the double play of years, well figured out—but Wagner dropped the ball, and instead of the side being retired on a lightning double play, every base was full and the next man hit safe and all was over. The kickers at Pittsburg never forgave Wagner for this drop. They could not understand the beauty of the play as it was framed. All they could see was the big fellow dropping a ball that was thrown right into his hands.

Since that time the life of Wagner has not been one long dream at Pittsburg. He has not been roasted for more undeard of things than any other man in the league, and, in fact, has been really the only man on the team who has been roasted. He has been twitted from the grandstand to closing games, when he could have won them only by making a home time every time he came to bat, while the best he did do, was perhaps a single each time. This and nothing else is the reason Hans Wagner has decided to lay off the baseball game for one whole year and allow the fans to see what someone else can do at short and at bat.

BALL FANS MAKE CRUSADES AGAINST "MERRY WIDOW" HATS

Whether the Merry Widow hat is to be allowed at Riverside Park is the question that just now is greatly agitating local feminine baseball fans. With the opening of the baseball season only a few weeks away, it can be seen that this is a matter of no small moment.

In several other cities, the stony-hearted magnates have put the fashionable lids under the ban, declaring that a baseball park is no place for the wholesale exhibition of millinery, and that the men who pay their money are entitled to see the game instead of spending the afternoon gazing on a collection of feathers, plumes and ribbons. Toledo, St. Louis and Chicago already have adopted the slogan, "Down with the Merry Widow hat," and the girls are threatening to boycott the ball yards in consequence.

Duty to the public almost compels a description, or at least a definition of a "Merry Widow" hat, but ignorance of millinery phraseology and of hat construction in general forbids. The man doesn't live who can describe even the simplest of a women's head coverings, and to attempt an analysis of the newest creation of the milliner's art would be madness.

Even had one the necessary vocabulary, a description on paper would be unsatisfactory, for when a woman comes to tell about her raiment she needs a collection of gestures that makes a schoolboy's motions when reciting the "Charge of the Light Brigade" seem like the pitiful efforts of a paralytic.

To the eyes of the male the Merry Widow top-piece looks like a cross between a horticultural exhibition and an ostrich farm, loaded on a flat car. Size is the main thing sought in the creation, and anyone who would wear one less than five feet in circumference is considered a mere selling plater in the social race. Big as the hat may be, however, the bill is bigger. One man who received his wife's little account with the milliner recently declares that he thought that the estimates for digging the Panama canal had been sent him by mistake.

WILL BE FINEST CURLING RINK IN THE PROVINCE

Peterborough curlers will erect one of the largest and most up-to-date curling rinks in Ontario. The plans for the same are nearly completed and tenders will be called for in a few days. The plans are being prepared by Mr. J. E. Belcher, C.E., and provide for three storey brick building, which will be located on Charlotte street on the same site as the old curling rink. On the ground floor will be the curling rink proper and two stores, which will face on Charlotte street. There is plenty of room behind the stores for the sheets of ice. On the second floor will be the rooms of the curling club. There will be several apartments, and they will be fitted in a manner in keeping with a first-class organization.

On the third floor will be located a large ball room, with dressing rooms, etc. It will be over eighty feet in length.

Tenders will be called for at an early date, as the rink must be finished in time for next season's curling.

"FRIZ" O'BRIEN HAS ARRIVED

New Left Fielder for Ball Team Reached City Last Night--Said to be Good One

"Friz" O'Brien, the new left fielder secured by Manager Johnston, of the Peterborough Ball Club, arrived in the city last night and is registered at the Windsor Hotel.

O'Brien is a likely looking man, and from all reports is a good one. Last year he played third base for Charlotte, and has played ball in Toronto for four years having been connected with the Alerts, the St. Mary's Royal Oaks and Easterns. He was with the Alerts when they won the junior city championship of Toronto. Although he has played several other positions, O'Brien is really a fielder and prefers playing in the outfield to any place on the diamond.

This morning he was over at Riverside ball grounds having a look around, and was also shown about the city by Manager Johnston of the ball team. He says Peterborough has impressed him as being a brisk and up-to-date little city, and thinks he will enjoy his stay here.

Come to the great Basketball Game to-morrow night in Y. M. C. A. Gym. Toronto Seniors vs. Peterborough Seniors Reserved seats 25c. General admission 15c.

ANNUAL MEETING THIS EVENING

Peterborough Ball Club Will Meet at the Windsor Hotel

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Baseball Club will be held at the Windsor Hotel this evening at eight o'clock. Officers will be elected for the coming season and other arrangements made. All baseball enthusiasts are requested to be present.

WALTER JAYES AT PORTSMOUTH

Nephew of Mr. Jack Jayes Played Against Toronto Yesterday

Toronto, Eastern League champions, defeated the Portsmouth team of the Virginia League, 4—5, at Portsmouth yesterday. Walter Jayes, of Buffalo, a nephew of Mr. Jack Jayes, of the Munro House, played third base for the Portsmouth nine and put up a strong game. He had one hit out of two times at bat and scored a run. Young Jayes is a promising player and will soon be in big league company.

Gerald Graham, in the employ of A. Elliott & Co, and John Harrison, of the C.G.E., are the two latest entries for the walking tournament. It looks as though there would be a particularly large field for the contest.

PRESENTATION TO DEPARTING PILL POUNDER

Mr. Gordon Fitzgerald Remembered Last Evening--Leaves Tomorrow for Port Arthur

The Pill Pounders and their friends to the number of about twenty-five gathered at the home of Miss Overend, Locke street, last evening to say good-bye to Mr. Gordon Fitzgerald, who leaves tomorrow morning for Port Arthur where he has accepted a lucrative position with a drug firm of that city. The feature of the evening was the presentation to Mr. Fitzgerald, of a beautiful scarf pin and an eulogistic address was read by Mr. Ralph Quinn and the presentation was made by Mr. W. Huston. Mr. Fitzgerald has been most popular among his fellow pill pounders and for several winters was one of the stalwarts in their hockey aggregation. His departure from Peterborough will be deeply regretted but his many friends join in wishing him every success in his new work.

The evening last night was spent most pleasantly, Miss Overend making an excellent hostess.

SUGAR SEASON AT HAND AGAIN

Public This Year Apparently Wants the "Pure Stuff" in Maple Syrup Line

The season of maple sugar making is at hand.

It is therefore not an uncommon sight in the country round about, and especially to the north of the Ottawa River, to see the farmer who can still boast of being the possessor of a maple bush betimes wending his way thither. It is a spot, too. which has an especial interest or attraction for more than the farmer. His family and his neighbors—for the farmer usually takes good care to see that all his friends shall share in the joys of the sugar camp—may be seen on an evening gathered together at that place of jollity, where all earthly cares are forgotten in the excitement of the "sugaring off" process.

Not so many of the old maples are still standing now—probably only a few thousand in the whole district served by Ottawa. But farther back in Quebec northeast and east from here the business of making maple syrup has been reduced, through the substitution of modern machinery and methods to a success commercially, but to something far different to what it was a quarter of a century ago. One thing which does not reflect much credit on the modern way of doing things in the many forms of adulteration practised. Producers of pure goods are, however, receiving more encouragement this year than formerly, the public seemingly having made up its mind to have only the the "pure stuff." What is being offered locally in stores and on By Ward market is claimed to be the real 100 per cent. pure goods.

NEW MEMBERS WERE RECEIVED

Many Joined George St. Epworth League Last Evening

Last night was consecration night at the George street church Epworth League. A large number were present and an interesting meeting was held. Twelve new members joined the League last night. The membership is rapidly increasing and new interest is being awakened in the work of this society. Mr. W. McCann occupied the chair and conducted the devotional exercises. A missionary collection was taken. It was decided to hold a pie social next Monday evening.

CONDITIONS OF FOREIGN CROPS

As Shown by Broomhall's Foreign Crop Summary

Special to J. R. Heintz & Co.

Liverpool, April 7.—Broomhall's foreign crop summary says:

United Kingdom.—A moderate improvement is noted in crop conditions as a result of better weather.

North Africa, Spain, Turkey and Austria-Hungary—There is no change in the outlook since our last report.

Germany.—The weather is very cold, but there are no complaints heard regarding the crop outlook, which is on the whole favorable.

France—The crop outlook continues generally favorable. Supplies are lighter than were reported last week.

Roumania—The weather is seasonably mild and crops are in need of moisture.

Russia—The crop outlook is about unchanged from our last report, which was then given as less favorable especially in the south-west. Offerings at Azoff ports are increasing.

Italy—The crop outlook continues favorable as a result of the recent rains. Supplies of native wheat are smaller, and the foreign demand shows some signs of reviving.

India—Slight rains are reported in the Punjaub district, but in spite of this fact, the crop in the unirrigated districts is a failure The crop in the irrigated districts will therefore be required to furnish the bulk of the export, the quality of which at present cannot be estimated. It is generally conceded that this wheat for export will not come out except at high prices.

THE FUNERAL OF THE LATE INSPECTOR STRICKLAND

To Fort Saskatchewan people the news that Inspector Strickland was dead came as sudden and unexpectedly as a meteor out of a clear sky. That the "Major," as his many friends familiarly wished to speak and think of him, had passed away seemed almost impossible. Apparently well and strong, healthy-looking and possessing every symptom of a man well constituted to fight life's battle for many years to come, nevertheless, he succumbed to an illness of but a few days.

He was a victim of that dread disease dropsy, and heart failure. How true the following quotation, clipped from the casket of gems by James Clarence Harvey:

> "To every man upon this earth death cometh sooner or later. Wealth cannot bribe him to remain away; rank and power cannot shield us from him; no strength or mortal arm can bar his onward march; no prayer can turn aside his stroke; he alone is no respector of persons."

The hoisting of the flags of the town at half mast, the magnificent array of flowers and the desire of many people throughout the community to gaze for the last time on the form of their departed friend, are ample manifestations of the deep respect and adoration by which the "Major" was held by the public, and a token of sympathy to those immediately bereft.

Deceased has always been an active and energetic man both mentally and physically. Besides his manifold duties in military life he showed a keen interest in sports and in other matters pertaining to the interests of the town and the community. He was Honorary President of the 24th May Committee of last year and also of the Curlers, the baseball and football teams of the town.

He was born at Lakefield, Peterborough, Ontario and early in life entered for a Cadet course at the Royal Military College, Kingston. But before finishing his course here he joined the North-west Mounted Police. He was first stationed at Regina in the early days of the force, and in 1895 was allied with Major Constantine in establishing stations in the Yukon. He came out in 1897 and in the fall of the year returned to conduct the second detachment into the Yukon over the Chilkoot pass. Mounted police posts were established by him at Chilkoot, White Passes and at Togish. On coming out of the Yukon he was transferred to the command of "F" division at Prince Albert. From here he was transferred to the command of "G" Division with his headquarters in Edmonton, and in 1905 he came to the Fort. He had charge of the building of the first 94 miles of the pack trail from Fort St. John on the Peace River to the Yukon and he was largely instrumental in effecting the arrest of Charles King, who killed his chum, Edward Hayward, at Lesser Slave Lake and buried the body.

The remains of the late Inspector Strickland were laid to rest in the Fort Saskatchewan cemetery on Sunday afternoon last, hundreds of citizens and friends from a distance paying their last tributes to the departed. The cortege was the largest ever seen in Fort Saskatchewan, which, with the numerous floral offerings, indicated the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

A special C.N.R. train was run down from Edmonton and contained over 200 people anxious to pay their last respects to the departed inspector. The services were conducted by Rev. Wilkinson, pastor of St. George's church here, and after a short service at the house the cortege proceeded to the cemetery.

Foremost in the parade were over a hundred of the members of Fort Saskatchewan and Edmonton Masonic lodges. Following the Masons were the firing party consisting of a corporal, twelve police and bugler in charge of Sergt.-Major emery; the gun carriage upon which rested the casket covered with the Union Jack; the Majors saddle horse or trooper led by two police, and covered with crepe, helmet reversed on the saddle and riding boots reversed in the stirrups; former members of the Mounted Police from Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan to the number of about twenty; the chief mourners and members of the Mounted Police Carriages; and a number of carriages of private citizens.

The pall bearers were Major Constantine, commanding the Lesser Slave Lake division of the Mounted Police Col. Belcher, C.M.G., commanding the 19th Alberta Mounted Rifles, and former major of the Mounted Police; Capt. Worsley, commanding the Edmonton detachment of the Mounted Police, Frank Walker, M.P.P., J. W. Shera, ex-M.L.A., and Denham McLean.

At the grave the last services were read by Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, while a brief Masonic service was conducted by Worthy Master W. F. Langworthy of the Fort Saskatchewan Lodge.

The firing party formed six on each side and fired three parting salutes over the grave of their dead commander, intervening the following which the bugler sounded "Last Post" and "Lights Out"

Among those in attendance from Edmonton were Col. Belcher, C.M.G.; Col. Edwards, K.C.; Major F. C. Jamieson, "B" Squadron, Alberta Rifles; Lieut. W. A. Griesbach, "A" Squadron, Alberta Rifles; Lieut G. W. Marriott, "B" Squadron, Alberta Rifles

Mayor McDougall, ex-Mayor William Short, K.C., City Solicitor Brown, City Commissioner Pace, Richard Secord, J. S. Pucard and D. S. Mackenzie.

PERMANENT FIRE BRIGADE FOR CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

Report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee Recommending Re-organization of the Brigade Adopted at Last Night's Meeting of the City Council—Change Will Take Place on July 1st, 1908

Peterborough will have a permanent fire brigade. The volunteer system, which has been in use since the brigade was first formed, is to be superceded by a more modern method, to meet the requirements of the city at the present day.

At the meeting of the City Council last night the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, recommending a permanent fire brigade, was passed. The only opposition came from Ald. Morgan and Elliott, but the debate was not of a prolonged variety. The new system, if no hitch occurs, will go into effect on July 1st next, and according to the report of the committee the brigade, when re-organized, will consist of a chief, assistant chief, engineer, two drivers, three permanent firemen and six call firemen.

The report of the committee was presented by the chairman, Ald. Johnston, and was as follows:—

Council of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows;

That the Peterborough Light and Power Company be instructed to place an incandescent lamp at the corner of Bethune and Hunter streets

2 That the Peterborough Light and Power Company be instructed to place an arc lamp on James street near the Grand Trunk Railway Company's right of way, and that the order for three incandescent lamps on this street be rescinded

3 That a fire brigade be organized, to consist of a permanent chief, assistant chief, engineer, two drivers, three permanent firemen and six call men to take effect on July 1st.

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that the report be adopted.

Ald. Morgan opposed the last clause of the report. He contended that there was no necessity for changing from the present system in connection with the fire brigade. The Peterborough Fire Brigade had time and again shown itself to be the equal, if not superior, of the brigades of any of the smaller Canadian cities It was more efficient now than ever before, and there was no necessity for making the change that was proposed.

Ald. Johnston supported the re-organization of the fire brigade. In doing so he wished to state that the fire brigade under the present system, was as good as it could be hoped to make it. The firemen of Peterborough had never failed in their duty and had always rendered excellent service However, there was no doubt that the efficiency of the brigade could be greatly increased by the re-organization recommended The difference in the cost of maintaining under the new system as compared with the present, would be very little. Last year the salaries of those connected with the fire brigade amounted to $6,540 Under the new system the cost would be $6,000. The following schedule of salaries was proposed for the first year:

Chief, $1,000
Assistant Chief, $800
Engineer, $600
Two drivers, $1,050
Three permanent firemen, $1,350
Six call firemen, $1,200
Total for one year, $6,000

"The matter rests with the Council," said Ald. Johnston in concluding

"I am not forcing the matter. If it meets your approval, well and good; if it doesn't, well and good"

Ald. Morgan moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that clause three be struck out of the report.

The amendment was defeated on the following division:

Yeas—Ald. Morgan, Ald. Elliott.

Nays—Ald. Johnston, Bradburn, Gillespie, Turner, McIntyre, Morrow, Butler and Phelan.

The motion adopting the report was declared carried.

Ald. Johnston wanted to know if the committee would go ahead and make further arrangements in connection with the re-organization of the brigade.

Ald. Bradburn moved that the matter of the re-organization of the Fire Department be left in the hands of the Fire, Water and Light Committee to report back to the Council.

Ald. Elliott seconded the motion.

Ald. Turner and Ald. Phelan spoke briefly in connection with the motion, approving of the steps that had been taken.

COUNTERFEIT BILL PASSED IN THE CITY

There is considerable counterfeit United States money being circulated in the city these days, and it would be well for merchants and citizens in general to carefully examine their money when they receive it. There seems to be an endless quantity of bogus American dollars going around. The counterfeit is such an excellent one that it is almost impossible to distinguish it from the genuine American silver dollar. People unconsciously are receiving them and giving them away again.

This morning one of these counterfeit pieces was passed on one of the local express offices. It was taken in by one of the clerks who thought it perfectly good but on close inspection was found to be bogus.

WHERE SHOULD THE CARS STOP?

City Council Discusses Matter With St. Railway Company

Whether the street cars shall stop at the beginning of a cross street, or run across to the far side is the question which is now being considered by the City Council and the Radial Railway Company. The matter was brought up at the meeting of the City Council last night. Ald. Morgan introduced a motion to request the Radial Railway Company to stop at the first side of the street instead of crossing it as at present. Mr. Larmonth, who was present, stated that the Ontario Railway Commission was likely to make an order prohibiting persons from boarding a car at the front. If this was done the people would have to walk 12 or 15 feet from the crossing, to reach the rear door of the car.

The matter was discussed at some length and while no decision was reached the matter will be gone into further.

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING TEA

Warm the teapot (crockery is best) Put in a teaspoonful of 'Salada' Tea for every two cups. Pour on freshly boiled water and allow it to steep (not boil) from five to eight minutes. Pour the liquor off the leaves into another teapot and serve. When made in this way, if kept warm, "Salada" Tea will retain its delicious flavor for hours. On account of its delicious strength a pound of "Salada" will go as far as a pound and a quarter of other teas.

TWO HANDSOME GROUP PHOTOS

Are Now on Exhibition at the Roy Studio

Two handsome group pictures are on exhibition at the Roy studio and are attracting a great deal of attention. One is a picture of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild hockey seven and it is another evidence of the excellent work turned out by this studio. The other one is of the Peterborough County Council and is very handsome. It is done in a dark oak frame and presents a very attractive appearance.

BURGLARS RAID A BANK IN VILLAGE

Blow Vault Open With Dynamite at St. David's—Villagers Held Off by Daring Men—Desperate Attack on Imperial Branch.

St. Catharines, April 8.—At St. David's, a village nine miles from here, a sensational bank robbery occurred early yesterday morning, when four desperate men dynamited the vaults of the Imperial Bank. The explosion failed to open the inner door and $3.000 cash inside was saved.

The noise of blowing open the vault awoke the town and the robbers held off the populace with revolvers while they worked at the vault.

It appears that a number of strange men arrived in St. David's Monday evening, apparently intending to spend the night there. They were seen walking the streets until midnight. Around that time they went to Doyle's residence and stole a couple of horses, which they hitched to two buggies and then drove over to the blacksmith shop. Here they procured tools with which they pried open the front door of the Imperial Bank, seemingly not caring whether they were seen or not. On gaining access to the place two of the robbers remained on guard with revolvers, while the other two blew open the vault.

The first explosion blew off the big iron door. The noise of the explosion was heard by Charles Hamilton, one of the bank clerks, who lives at Doyle's and he ran up the street to see what was happening. Unfortunately he had left his revolver in the bank, but with a pluck seldom displayed, the young man, when he saw the state of affairs, made his way to the rear of the bank building, where, under cover of the trees, he opened fire at the robbers on guard with stones and bricks. The robbers returned the fire with their guns and sent shot after shot at the dauntless clerk, who, as he shied his missiles, yelled lustily for help.

Presently the residents began to emerge from their houses, awakened by the firing.

They had come for the money and intended to get it, even if they had to stand the whole town off. The appearance of the robbers in the doorway of the bank was sufficient to make the boldest among the villagers wary and they kept pretty well under cover. Meanwhile the two robbers inside the bank worked feverishly at the vault, which contained about $3,000. It was ascertained afterwards that the inside steel door stubbornly withstood the attack of the explosives used.

The robbers lit another fuse while about half the village was held off by the two determined sentries, and tried to get the little door opened. About this time a young man of Homer, Arthur Goring, drove into town and was amazed at the wild west appearance of things around the bank. One of the robbers on guard walked up to the buggy and, using his revolver threateningly, ordered Goring to get out of town as fast as he could drive.

"I didn't wait for any money," said Goring. "I just simply went."

The increasing numbers of the populace finally frightened the robbers, and when the second explosion failed to break open the door they decided to quit. With drawn revolvers the robbers came out of the bank and jumped in the waiting buggies. While one drove the others covered the villagers with their guns and the horses were put to a gallop. The robbers disappeared in the direction of Niagara Falls. The wires were soon put in operation and the police were notified in every direction.

Chief of Police Parnell here had a talk over the telephone with St. David's very shortly after the robbery and immediately put his men on watch.

Examination of the vault in the bank afterwards revealed the fact that the second explosion had so loosened the inner door that it could hardly be pulled out without the aid of a tool.

The robbers are believed to be Buffalo crooks.

THE MONTREAL SHOOTING CASE

Verdict of Murder---Smith Leaves Note With Peculiar Message

Montreal, April 8.—A verdict of murder against James Smith was the finding of the coroner's jury yesterday in the case of Constable Shea, who was shot down and killed by the accused.

Chief Silas Carpenter is better and may be removed to his home in ten days' time, while Constable Foucault, who accompanied Shea to the murderer's room, has taken a turn for the worse, and although the result will not be fatal, his recovery will likely be slow.

The doctors say that Smith will also recover and people are somewhat divided as to the man's responsibility. While some say he is insane, others declare that it was simply a drunken spree, and that he knew what he was doing all right.

Written on an envelope, which the police found lying on a table in Jas. Smith's room after he had been removed to the hospital, was the following: "Mrs. Pritchard brought all this about by her vile conduct. Withal she was not in danger. The law is polite to a lady, and it might as well be polite to a gentleman. (Signed) James Smith."

This message was in Smith's handwriting and was addressed to the Virtue Publishing Co.

The mayor stated that it was his intention to make full enquiries into the circumstances attending the death of Policeman Shea, and if he found them as he had been led to believe they were, in his capacity of mayor, move that some substantial recognition be made by the city of the dead policeman's bravery, in the shape of a monetary grant to the widow.

Want Free Wood Pulp.

Washington, April 8.—Hermann Ridder of the New York Staats Zeitung, who represents the Newspaper Publishers' Association in their demand for free wood pulp, so as to reduce the price of white paper, said yesterday, after conferring with President Roosevelt, that he was sanguine Congress would not adjourn without passing such a measure.

Mr. Ridder made the statement that he had the written pledges of 68 Republican members of the House, which, added to the Democratic vote, makes a large majority of the membership of that body, favorable to it.

Mr. Ridder declared that the ways and means committee of the House was responsible for not reporting the bill. Mr. Ridder said there would be no trouble about getting a free wood pulp measure through the Senate.

Japan Is Watching.

Tokio, April 8.—Negotiations between the United States and Russia concerning the administration of affairs at Harbin are being closely watched by Japan. The alarmist newspapers suggest Japanese administration of South Manchuria as the real object of American action. The sensationalists connect the coming of the American fleet with possible future representations concerning South Manchuria.

A Washington special says the Government has decided to oppose the action of Russia and Japan in Manchuria.

THE TRIAL OF YOUNG BOWIN

The Case Will Likely go to the Jury To-morrow.

Detroit, April 8.—When Judge Phelan adjourned court last night the taking of evidence in the trial of Percy Bowin for the murder of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, was practically completed. Assistant Prosecutor Grose announced that he had two more witnesses to impeach the defendant's testimony, whom he could not secure until yesterday morning. Their testimony, however, will consume but a few minutes.

The remainder of the day was taken up with the arguments of the attorneys, Judge Phelan announcing that he would not charge the jury until Thursday morning.

The inability of the prosecution to secure the presence of Marie Hall, the woman who is believed to have furnished Bowin with the motive for having committed the crime, has proven a great disappointment to Assistant Prosecutor Grose. It is known that the much-wanted Marie was in Detroit a week ago, last Saturday night, and at that time a general order was issued commanding every police officer in the city to arrest the woman on sight. She managed to elude the officers, however, and it was reported yesterday that she was hiding in a little town in Ontario.

Yesterday's sessions were devoted to the efforts of the prosecution to impeach the witnesses for the defence. Mrs. Martin V. Brown and her daughter Mattie, who had testified that they saw Mrs. Welch alive on the Saturday after Percy Bowin confessed to having killed her, were recalled. They had fixed the date by the fact that Miss Brown had a dress fitted on that date, and the prosecutor scored a point by proving the two women were mistaken as to the dates on which the dress was purchased, fitted and received at their residence.

Bowin has lost much of his buoyant appearance and his every action indicated that he was nervous and worried.

A Villainous Measure.

Montreal, April 8.—Hon. W. Rogers of Winnipeg, who has been conferring with Mr. Borden and the Conservative leaders at Ottawa, says the Aylesworth amendment to the election law is the most villainous measure ever submitted to any Parliamentary body, and that the Opposition will fight it to the death, even if they have to stay at Ottawa till September.

Wreckage Drifted Ashore.

Detroit, April 8.—A portion of the pilot-house of a vessel came ashore two miles below White Hall harbor on Lake Michigan Saturday. The timbers in the wreckage are newly broken, which would indicate that they come from a recent wreck. The life-saving crew are patrolling the beach.

Republicans Gain.

Chicago, April 8.—In the aldermanic election yesterday the Republicans made a net gain of ten. The new council will stand 44 Republicans and 26 Democrats. The make-up of the present council is 36 Democrats or Independent Democrats, and 34 Republicans.

AN APPEAL FOR A RAILWAY DEBATED

Debate in House on Construction of Hudson Bay Line—R. E. Knowles Claims New Line is Solution of Transportation Problem in West.

Ottawa, April 8.—The extension of transportation facilities of the West by construction of a railway to Hudson Bay was the subject of debate yesterday afternoon on a resolution by R. E. Knowles (Assiniboia), who urged the Government to take early action.

After alluding to the rapid settlement of the West during the past two years, during which period nearly half a million immigrants had entered the country, Mr. Knowles observed that notwithstanding the increased demand for marketing grain, transportation facilities were very little greater than when the last spike was driven in the C.P.R., over 20 years ago. Unless adequate facilities were provided, production would cease. He explained that he could find no definite transportation policy laid down in Mr. Borden's Halifax platform.

"Has my hon. friend found out what the Government policy is on this question?" asked Mr. Borden.

Mr. Knowles hesitated an instant before he replied. "Well, I am trying to find out this afternoon," he added, "I am not altogether satisfied either with the way the Government has dealt with the transportation problem in the West. I should like to have seen them move a little more quickly."

The saving distance by the Hudson Bay route, said Mr. Knowles, would bring profit in all directions. In regard to wheat, he showed that the freight charge to Port Arthur was ten cents and an additional 15 cents to the Atlantic seaboard. The same wheat could be carried to Hudson Bay for 10 cents, so that the saving on 20 million bushels, the amount that could be carried in two months by the Hudson Bay route, would be $3,000,000. There would be a saving of 60 cents per hundred weight on cattle and an additional gain, through avoiding [illegible] by rail route, in all $650,000 or 20 per cent. of the selling price.

He differed from Mr. Sifton on the mode of paying for such railway. He would not tie-up one-tenth of the land for an increase in values, because many sections of the West had closed their schools because so much land had been withheld from settlement by the railways. The Government should be generous to settlers. The best of the land had been taken, but there was a lot of good land left and he did not think 160 acres was enough for a settler.

Official correspondence relative to the passing of U.S. warships for the great lakes through Canadian canals since Jan. 1, 1907, was tabled yesterday. The record shows that permission was given on June 26 last to pass a schooner-rigged warship San Juan de Austria, designated for use of the naval reserve in Michigan.

The U.S. gunboat Sandoval was, by order-in-council on Aug. 1, permitted passage through the Canadian canals to Charlotte, N.Y., where she was to be stationed for instructional purposes, to replace the Fern, which was passed through for same purpose in 1905. On Feb. 15, 1908, an order-in-council was passed permitting the U.S. Nashville to go through the Canadian canals, to be used by the state militia of Illinois.

The correspondence shows that in the case of the Nashville the British authorities informed the Government at Ottawa that "the whole question of armed vessels on the great lakes has been referred by His Majesty's Government to the Imperial Defence Committee, and His Majesty's Government will further consult the Canadian Government." In all cases the Government at Ottawa exacted the conditions that the vessels should be used only for training purposes and that their armament and ammunition be sent by some other route.

THE REDISTRIBUTION DEBATE GROWS BITTER AT TORONTO

Premier Whitney Calls Down Member in Legislature—Parodied Phrase in Offensive Way During Redistribution Argument.

Toronto, April 8.—A great deal of work and some excitement constituted the legislative record yesterday.

The work consisted in advancing numerous bills and the excitement arose in the redistribution debate when Duncan Ross and R. J. McDougal ran up against Parliamentary procedure in the defiant style of the amateur legislator. Otherwise the debate was rather dull and reiterative.

Archibald Hislop resumed the redistribution debate and opposed any increase in Toronto representation. He appealed to English precedents as those which should be followed in redistribution.

It had been a live question for half a century, and Mr. Hislop's argument went to show that the great revolutions in public opinion were accomplished by a very small actual change in the voting power.

He adduced several sets of figures, pointing out for example that in one election one party with a three per cent. majority in votes had a majority in members of 65 to 23.

Turning to Huron, Mr. Hislop analyzed the new situation there, which he declared was objected to by all right-minded Conservatives as well as Liberals. He quoted The Goderich Star (Con.) in condemnation of the bill. The crowding of three out of four towns into one riding could not be defended.

Alex. Ferguson (Cardwell) disposed of the Opposition objection that candidates could get over the ground more easily in the city than in the country. If the Government had desired to gerrymander they would have taken townships from Simcoe and added them to the north of Cardwell. He appealed to the House to consult the geography of Simcoe so that they could see that its shape in the past wholly justified the present arrangement.

G. S. May, Ottawa, declared that the redistribution committee should have had four members from each party and a chairman. He referred to the peculiar situation in Ottawa.

The new ridings should have run east and west, instead of north and south, and the Government would find that they had made a mistake.

It was also a mistake when Toronto was allowed two members for 80,000 population in each riding to divide the 80,000 in Ottawa in two parts.

J. R. Dargavel scored the Liberal members of the redistribution committee. They did not appear to have any idea of their duties, and they seemed to be negative members rather than suggestive members.

Duncan Ross furnished some diversion to the House by venturing "whether from venom or innocence," as Premier Whitney remarked, outside the conventional lines of Parliamentary amenity. Mr. Ross reads The Globe and even The Globe editorials and made a quotation. He had already been corrected by Premier Whitney for misquoting that gentleman. Then he declared that the Premier in Globe language was "cowardly enough to be dishonest and dishonest enough to be cowardly."

Premier Whitney declared that he was far from complaining as an individual, but under the laws of Parliamentary procedure, which must be protected, such language was utterly unfit, and could not be permitted inside the walls of the Legislature.

Mr. Speaker requested the withdrawal of the language. Mr. Ross fenced for some time, and was about to repeat the quotation when silenced by loud cries of "withdraw" and "order." He finally withdrew the obnoxious phrases concerned, and the incident passed.

G. W. Neely, East Middlesex, challenged the correctness of the figures given by Hon. A. G. MacKay the previous day. Part of one of the ridings had been added to London, and further annexations from East Middlesex were contemplated.

T. W. McGarry moved the adjournment of the debate.

Forty or fifty ladies were present to support John Smith of Peel in his suffrage bill, but it was not reached.

Hon. Dr. Reaume introduced a bill respecting the improvement of highways. This will permit two-thirds of the county council and half the assessed value of the county to carry a good roads bylaw. Failing that a majority of the ratepayers could authorize it.

A resolution was carried ratifying the contracts made by Hon. Dr. Pyne for temporary accommodation with the Board of Education or School Boards of Hamilton, Peterboro, Stratford, London, and North Bay.

Hon. Mr. Hanna introduced a bill for the protection and reformation of neglected children, being a consolidation of the existing acts.

Ten third readings, a dozen passed through committees and eight second readings of bills were recorded.

Hon. Dr. Pyne informed T. H. Preston (Brant) that the total cost of the commission on the Institution for the Blind was $600, which was paid to the commissioners.

Hon. Mr. Matheson introduced a bill respecting egress from public buildings.

In introducing it he said it referred especially to cinemetograph machines, churches and all public buildings, and could be amended to include schools and any buildings needing protection.

The bill provides that no cinemetrograph or other similar apparatus involving the use of a combustible film more than ten inches in length shall be kept or exhibited in premises licensed for entertainments, or in churches, halls, theatres or other buildings constructed or used for holding public meetings, or for places of resort and amusement, until such cinemetrograph or other similar apparatus has been inspected and approved by the police of the municipality, and until such precautions against fire as the municipal police may designate have been taken by the owner, user or exhibitor of the cinemetrograph or other similar apparatus.

Mrs. A. D. Trudeau, Arnprior, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered terribly from ulceration of the feminine organs for eight years. I tried four doctors but got no relief, and thought I would have to die.

"One day I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper. I sent for some, and before I had used five bottles I was entirely cured. I hope every suffering woman will take my advice and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

PREVENTION BETTER THAN CURE

The action of the City Council in increasing the efficiency of the fire brigade can be described only as commendable in every way. A prompt and effective service in case of fire is worth almost more than anything else to an urban municipality. Then an early cleaning of the streets means much to the health of the people. The remains of winter cannot linger in the lap of April with any degree of profit to anybody. When the property-owners get their buildings in the business section all painted, as has been done in a few cases, Peterborough will look like an up-to-date centre of intelligence and progress. Culture does not refer to agriculture only. A little of it goes a long way in every department of activity and life. As applied to appearances, it has its uses and adds greatly to the comfort and happiness of a community. At one time Riverside Park was a veritable beauty spot, but a patch or two at the north end has made it look a little shabby. The season of tin cans is now opening, when the "lovely banks of sylvan streams" will begin to look like the shade of a defunct boiler, or the shattered remains of Laurier's immigration policy. The age of waste paper is departing when the streets were used as lanes for the deposit of waste-paper that frightened horses and injured many people, while the police looked on in innocuous amazement at the result of the winds' caprice. When we get the drunks and tobacco spit off the sidewalks we may confidently look forward to a further degree of municipal moral regeneration, for "cleanliness is next to godliness." Even apart from the artistic considerations it does not pay to be untidy.

BRITISH TRADE IN CANADA

Mr. Gregg, the special commissioner of the Board of Trade, furnishes some interesting statistics for consideration. In 1906 Great Britain exported to Canada $30,000,000 worth of woollen, cotton and silk textiles. The United States sent us about $5,000,000 worth.

In metals, minerals and manufactures thereof Great Britain sent $11,296,000 and United States $45,744,000, and other countries brought this amount up to $60,000,000. Here then we have $100,000,000 worth of manufactures which might have been made at home and the money kept in the country. We are gradually learning that the paying out of the sole medium of exchange is precisely like handing over to somebody else the sole means of transportation. It has the effect of putting the payer or importer entirely at the mercy of the cashholder and transporter. It is extraordinary how blind some people are to the most elementary principles of trade and trading. Why it may well be asked has all this not been seen to long ago? For very good and sufficient reasons. It would de doing things honestly and fairly. Whereas we know that the desire of many people is to get an advantage over somebody else. "Making money," is a relative term. All cannot "make money" no matter what they do. "Making money" is taking it away from some other competitor. That is one of the peculiarities of finance. Enterprise is limited, not by energy or demand, but by capital. If all the cash capital were taken away from any given place the people there would be on their beamends until they got some other medium of exchange. In a word, the peculiarity of a medium of exchange is that it is a fundamental upon which all modern commerce rests and depends. To have to export cash or in other words have balance of trade against us is just by so much a serious thing. It puts also, the balance of power in the hands of others and makes us dependents and slaves to their plans and [illegible]

THE FARMER AND PROTECTION

Notwithstanding the logic of ultra free-traders, who insist that the admission of cheap goods into a country must, of necessity, and under all conditions, prove beneficial to the country into which they are imported, mature consideration indicates, and experience proves that the temporary admission of the cut-rate surplus product of another country, familiarly known as "dumped" goods, may, by upsetting and disorganising established business, work more harm than good to the importing country, more particularly seeing that, after the dump product ceases to arrive in sufficient quantities, the usual sources of supply have again to be depended upon, and frequently, these having been crippled more or less, are unable to produce so well or so economically as before. Thus, while a temporary advantage to consumers, the unrestricted importation of these cheap surplus or "dumped" goods in large quantities often works out little or no net advantage to them in the end, while the effects on home production in the particular line or lines affected are commonly injurious, and often disastrous. Considered by and all, "dumped" goods are liable to prove more of a disadvantage than benefit to the country which receives them.—Farmers' Advocate.

The old Liberal theory that buying in the cheapest way was naturally the sensible and proper thing to do, was long since proven to be the theory of by no means an unmixed blessing.

The reason that it was not so simple and sensible as it appears was of course that free trade was not under modern conditions trade at all. It reduced a country to the position of being purely an agricultural country and when this condition was reached instead of world-wide competition's continuing to keep down prices for the benefit of the farmer and leaving him in a paradise of cheap buying and dear selling, the farmer found that his only market was the foreign market in which he had to compete on even terms with the lowest form or type—in other words with the cheapest and poorest worker in the world. To meet such competition he must himself go down, the ultimate consequence being that farmers found themselves to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for all mankind. The same conditions operated in the same way on the British farmer. He got lower and lower in the scale until he had to leave his beloved home and go abroad to where his competitors lived and worked. In course of time it dawned upon the farmer that the best market was a highly developed home market. In Great Britain it dawned upon him that some form of protection such as the cattle embargo was needed to keep away competition of the disorganizing sort. There was to be a home market for him too. The long and the short of it is that no nation can live and move and have its being as a nation by living on bread or wheat alone. All the ingredients entering into the life of producing man viz. food, raiment and machinery, must be made to enter into and compose the life of a nation. It is quite possible that if the world were still composed of nomads the true theory of living would be to follow the cheapest and easiest route to everything. But this manner of living is inconsistent with civilization and nation-building. We must take our choice. Are we to be at the mercy of the winds and waves or otherwise? The dumping clause is just as much and just as high protection as any other form of it. It exists for precisely the same purpose, viz., to prevent improper and unfair competition. It is spasmodic and unsystematic and as such is not so sensible. The farmer has outlived his primeval condition. He has found that free trade meant low living. The Liberals thereupon adopted the protective theory and bungled it. They have the will but not the way. An unwise or disproportioned tariff must as we see in time work harm. Favored nation clauses, preferential and jug-handled tariff provisions and the like are all attempts to give or gain undue advantage. They must all find their true level in the end. The remedy is whatever will bring conditions of life back to a state of fairness that alone represents the true state for civilized men and women to live and work in. The Farmers' Advocate sees the inconsistency of expecting that the members of a community can live on terms of such inequality that one portion can enjoy the exquisite privilege of buying in the cheapest and selling in the dearest market, while the others have to buy in the dearest and sell in the cheapest market.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Tim Healey, the Irish M.P., dubs Mr. Sifton's scheme the "All rot route." This is about the best and truest description of it yet suggested.

Appropriating public money for the purchase of battlefields in commemoration of a struggle and conquest seems strangely out of keeping with the fitness of things.

The Mail and Empire is the most ably edited journal with which we have any acquaintance. Its data are admitted and its conclusions irrefragable. As an engine of war it equals the new gun.

A great deal has been spent and well spent by the Commission for the Improvement of Ottawa, but the sulphide works will be the cause of a blight that will as at Aux Sables, Warren Co., N.Y., be the undoing of it all.

London, April 5.—Mr. Keir Hardie, the leader of the Socialist-Labor party in the commons, has been interviewed by the Daily Chronicle on his return from his world trip. He says that he would not recommend Canada for an emigrant, as the country is being developed too fast, and the land system is the curse of the country.

They all seem to agree that the system of land hugging and landholding is detrimental to Canadian interests. Turriff, Burroughs & Co., should cough up.

FOUND FLOATING IN VAT.

Body of Jack Hambly Discovered After Four Months.

Orangeville, April 8.—Excitement was caused here yesterday by the discovery of the body of Jack Hambly, a well-known local character, who followed the occupation of a well-digger.

Hambly mysteriously disappeared about Dec. 1 last. The remains were discovered in an unused vat, one of six, in the rear of the tannery of J. W. Aiken, by William Nichol, one of the workmen, about 11 o'clock.

These vats were formerly covered by a shed, which was torn town last fall. Hambly's body was observed floating in the vat yesterday morning by Mr. Nichol. The corpse was very much bloated, the left eye being entirely closed, as if from a blow, and the hands shriveled up and tanned Brown.

Hambly is supposed to have fallen in the vat at night when intoxicated, as he had been drinking immediately prior to his disappearance. The water was only three feet deep where the fatality occurred.

Several ugly rumors are afloat as to the disappearance of Hambly. He is said to have been seen in the tannery yard the night of his death with two other men, who acted in a suspicious manner, but the fact of his watch and money being found intact somewhat rebuts the idea of foul play.

The woman was so badly burned that she died yesterday.

REPORT OF QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL BUILDING COMMITTEE

Presented at School Board Meeting Last Evening by Mr D. W. Dumble—Vote of Thanks and Hearty Appreciation of Board Expressed to Him.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, chairman of the Queen Alexandra Building Committee, presented his report last evening to the Board of Education. It was the subject of much favorable comment, and at the conclusion of it a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the chairman and the committee for the excellent manner in which the work had been carried out. Dr. Morrison in moving the vote of thanks took occasion to refer to Mr. Dumble's indefatigable labors in connection with the work of re-building the Queen Alexandra school. The work had apparently been done well. Mr. Hill, in seconding the motion made a few complimentary remarks regarding Mr. Dumble's untiring efforts during the carrying out of the work he had so ably supervised. The motion was carried with loud applause.

Mr. Dumble acknowledged the kind remarks of the board and was glad that his work had been appreciated.

The report is as follows:—

To the Board of Education:

Your Building Committee for the Queen Alexandra Public School beg to report as follows:—

The contract of the Baptie Bros has been satisfactorily completed, with complete harmony during the entire progress of the work. They are good workmen and have been fair and honorable in all their dealings. The work of adding to the old building necessarily involved some work that was unforseen and led to some extra charges that have been satisfactorily adjusted. Their account has been settled as follows:—

Total amount of original contract $16950 00
Amount allowed them for extras 216 00
$17166 00

This amount, $17,166.00, has been paid Baptie Bros. in full settlement.

In connection with the school there remains now to be done the proper grading of the grounds and the erection of the fences.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. W. DUMBLE,
Chairman.

CHANGES IN LICENSE ACT

License Inspector Stewart calls attention to the following amendments to the Liquor License Act. They are now in force:—

Sub-section 7 of the said section 152 is repealed and the following substituted therefor:—

If the person served with the notice mentioned in sub-section 3 by himself or by any other person, shall within twelve months after service of such notice, purchase or procure, liquor, or to be found with liquor in his possession, or under the influence of liquor, or lingering or loitering in any place where liquor is sold or disposed, he shall incur a penalty of not less that $10 nor more than $20, and costs, and shall, upon conviction be liable to imprisonment for a period not exceeding one month.

The Liquor License Act is amended by inserting therein the following as section 125:

152a—Every person with respect to whom an order has been made by a Police Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, under sub-section 7 of section 121, or who has been served with a notice under sub-section 8 of section 125, may, upon any prosecution under this Act, be compelled to divulge the name of any person from whom he has obtained liquor during the period, for which such order or notice was in force, and the place where, and the date when the liquor was supplied to him, and if such information is within his knowledge and he wilfully refuses to disclose the same, he shall be guilty of an offence, and may, on the order of the Magistrate or Justice before whom the prosecution is brought, be forthwith imprisoned for any period not exceeding three months, unless he sooner discloses such information and pays the costs of his committal.

CITIZEN COMPLAINS OF PLUMBING IN NEW SCHOOLS

Claims That it is Not According to Specifications Lively Discussion at Board of Education—Matter Will be Investigated.

A charge of improper plumbing in the Queen Alexandra school and Collegiate Institute was laid before the Board of Education at their meeting last evening. A letter to the Board from Mr. Edward Stocker is as follows:—

I wish to lay a complaint re plumbing work being fixed at the North Ward School and Collegiate Institute contrary to contract, and also contrary to city plumbing bylaws.

I am prepared to come before you and give proof for my statements.

Yours truly,
E. R. STOCKER.

Peterborough, April 4th, 1908.

Dr. Morrison stated that complaint had been made to him regarding some pipes that were being placed in the Collegiate Institute not according to specification. On consulting the contractor Dr. Morrison found that in one or two instances it was the case. Some of them were medium iron pipes instead of extra heavy. Mr. J. E. Belcher, the architect, stated that, as the work was of such an intricate and difficult nature, it would be foolish to make the change. All the other pipes, Messrs Belcher, Kincaid and Deronceau, stated were according to specifications. Mr. Deronceau offered to make up the difference in cost. Otherwise Dr. Morrison could find nothing wrong with it.

Mr. Dumble stated that he thought the matter should not be ignored. It must be investigated, notwithstanding the motive that prompted the man to make the change.

It was moved by Mr. Dumble and seconded by Dr. Morrison, that the whole board be a committee to investigate the complaint.

Mr. W. S. Robinson complained of faults in the plumbing of the Queen Alexandra School, but the contractor, who was present, emphatically denied them.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING IN LITTLE LAKE

Considerable excitement was created at the foot of Lake street yesterday afternoon, when three steers belonging to Mr G. Thompson had a narrow escape from being drowned. The cattle were being driven to the market, and when they met the street car at Lake street, they became frightened and ran down the bank out on the ice in the lake. The ice at this season fo the year is breaking up and the weight of the cattle caused it to break. The beasts were soon struggling in the water and it was with considerable difficulty that they were rescued from their peril. Long ropes were procured and were thrown around the animals' necks and by this means they were pulled to shore.

They were somewhat cramped from their cold bath, but they soon recovered.

CHARGE OF CRUELTY TO HIRED HORSE

Was Not Proven---Two Cases Against A. Crouter Dismissed

Albert Crouter was charged in the police court this morning with unlawfully and wilfully breaking the wheel of a light wagon, the property of Isaac Eastwood. Another charge of cruelty to a horse was also preferred against Crouter. He pleaded not guilty. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for Mr. Eastwood. Three witnesses were heard for the prosecution, but his Worship stated that it had not been proven that there was any wanton destruction or cruelty on the part of the defendant. It appears that Crouter hired a horse and light democrat from the livery of Mr. I. Eastwood on the evening on April 2nd, and witnesses stated that when the horse and wagon was returned next morning about 7.30 o'clock, one wheel was broken and the horse's shoulder was badly injured.

However it was not shown that the above damage was wilful on the part of Crouter and the magistrate dismissed the case.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods, at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted, protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Hotel Oriental, on Tuesday, April 21.

FIFTY YEARS A CLASS LEADER

Subject of Paper at City Class Leaders Meeting Last Evening

A largely attended meeting of the Class Leaders' Association was held last evening at the George street Methodist church. The president, Mr. Joseph Batten, was in the chair, and conducted the openning devotional exercises. The feature of the meeting was Mr. Wm. Yelland's paper on "Fifty years a class leader." This proved to be very interesting and was followed by a discussion in which several of the members took part. Rev. E. A. Pearson was present at last evening's meeting. A resolution was passed approving of the steps the Ministerial Association was taking in holding street services next week.

The next meeting will be held the second week in May, when Mr. Wm. Eyres will read a paper.

Committee Appointed to Look into Matter of Providing Suitable Fire Protection for City Schools

The special committee appointed at the last meeting of the local Board of Education to look into the matter of providing suitable fire-fighting appliances for the city schools, did not have a report ready last evening. Mr. J. Crane, chairman of the committee, stated that they were waiting the report of Inspector Hughes, of Toronto. In that city engineers were looking into the matter and Mr. Crane thought the local Board might wait and benefit by the Inspector's report.

Mr. F. B. Ackerman stated that he had supervised the work of having the doors in all the city schools to open outwards. In the old Central school the doors in some of the rooms open inwards, but where such is the case, there are two doors. The schools are now all supplied with gongs.

HATS FOR SPRING AND SUMMER

What's What in Men's Headwear —Interview With Local Hatter

The matter of the prevailing styles and shades in spring and summer hats for men is a timely one now. All the young men of the city are interested in knowing what will be the proper modes in headgear.

Mr. N. McWilliams, the George street hatter, informed a Review reporter this morning that the principal hats for this spring and summer would be brown stiff hats, telescopes in tans, pearls and shades of green and bronze line split, sennet and palm tourist straws, the Tryloese fedora, which has been made so popular by King Edward wearing it, the ever-present Panama and the Oceanic, a soft, high-crowned hat, which promises to be much in vogue. Fancy bands and bands of club colors on straw hats will be quite popular.

Small college caps wil be worn extensively by young boys and golf caps by men.

RIVERSIDE PARK FLOODED TO-DAY

Men Had to Quit Work on New Dredge

The men working on the new Government dredge at Riverside Park, were forced to quit work this morning.

REMAINS WERE LAID TO REST

Funeral of Mrs. Robt. Monaghan Was Largely Attended

The funeral of the late Mrs. Richard Monahan, formerly Miss Nora Cronin, took place yesterday from the residence of her father, Concession st., to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery. It was largely attended, many citizens turning out to pay a last token of respect to the memory of the deceased.

At the church Rev. Father Kelly said mass and at the grave, Rev. Father Galvin conducted the last sad rites.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Thirnbeck, Aldoss Archambault, John Delaire, James Wall, Thos. Turcott and Napoleon Lord. The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous and were a fitting tribute to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Mr. Russell, who, besides being an evangelist, is well known as a hymn writer, visited Peterborough on a former occasion, thirty-five years ago. FROM $5.00 TO $10.00

Any woman who wants a becoming, smart and exclusive hat at a very small price, will be delighted with our new and beautiful styles at from $5.00 to $10.00.

These are fresh from our own workroom, and our talented milliners have exerted themselves to see just how much of beauty and worth they could crowd into hats for selling at these popular prices.

Some of them are splendid copies of high-priced Parisian and New York Models—others are original designs by our own milliners, and there's not one of them which is not a very remarkable value.

The variety includes, the "College Girl" Sailor, "Il Trovator" Turban, "Ethel Barrymore" Sailor and dozens of other styles in all the favored shapes, sizes and colors, variously trimmed with Spring-like flowers and foliage, feathers, ribbons, etc., in smart, new effects

We cheerfully invite you to compare them with hats which others consider good value at from $3.00 to $5.00 more, knowing that such a comparison will impress you with the extraordinary nature of the value.

In justice to yourself, don't buy a hat until you have seen our assortment, in which you will find (along with the many stylish creations for ladies) an assortment of smart hats for the young girls, that our millinery artists have every reason to be proud of and you will think so too, when you see the hats.

APPLIED TO SCHOOL BOARD FOR A GRANT

City Teachers' Institute Want to Form Pedagogical Library

The city teachers institute applied to the Board of Education last evening for a grant towards the initial expense of the formation of a pedagogical library which they have under consideration.

The matter will be given earnest consideration and it was referred to the supervision committee with power to act. Their letter to the Board is as follows:—

Peterborough, April 6th, '08.

Chairman and Members Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—For two years the Executive of the Teachers' Institute of the city have had under consideration the formation of a pedagogical library, towards the initial expense of which they think the School Boards might be asked to contribute.

Such a library would enable each teacher in the city to have the advantage of the latest and best authorities on educational subjects as well as the standard works on the history and development of pedagogy, books which, in number and on account of expense, are out of the reach of the individual teacher. It would help to increase the efficiency of the teachers, assist them in preparing demonstration lessons when the Normal opens and provide works of reference to assist in preparing work for the meetings of the institute. It is our intention to put the books in a central place and to arrange means for their distribution in the freest way possible. Father McColl has unofficially assured us that the Separate School Board would grant an amount in proportion to any grant made by you.

We think $15 granted by the Institute, $25 from you and $10 from the Separate School Board, would in two or three years, enable us to make a sufficiently good beginning to make it possible for the Institute to add necessary books from our own funds.

We therefore ask you to make us such a grant and to do so as soon as possible, so as to permit us to proceed with the selection of books—a matter which will takec time as they will have to make up in quality what they lack in number.

Yours truly,
S. J. STUBBS,
Sec.-Treas.,
Teachers' Institute.

Upon motion of Messrs. Hill and Hay, the matter was referred to the Supervision Committee.

THE BASKETBALL GAME TO-NIGHT

Toronto and Locals Clash at Y.M.C.A. at 8 O'clock--A Fast Game

Tonight the Toronto senior basketball team will play the Peterborough team in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium at 8 o'clock. The Toronto players are an exceedingly fast bunch and are picked from the best men in the City League, so a good game may be looked for. Tickets are now on sale at the Y.M.C.A. and the plan may be seen any time at the secretary's office.

The Peterborough team will be Sutherland, E. Best, R. Best, Loomis, S. Laing and N. Darling.

TURF

The Peterborough Turf Club will hold a matinee at the Driving Park on May 23rd and 25th. This was decided upon at a meeting of the Turf Club held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Grand Hotel. Dr. Johnston, president of the club was in the chair and there was a full attendance.

THE CLASSES.

It was decided to hang up two hundred dollars in prize money for the three events, to be held on May 25th.

Two hundred dollars in prize money will be given. The classes and purses are as follows:

Green race	$50
2.30, pace or trot	50
2.18, pace or trot...	100

The events will be run in half mile heats with the usual rules to govern and the purses will be divided in 50, 25, 15 and 10 per cent.

The finances of the club are in a healthy condition and there is every reason to believe that the coming season will be a successful one. Any horseman desiring any information concerning the coming matinee, should address Mr. C. R. Nixon, secretary of the Peterborough Turf Club.

JAS. A. GRAHAM HAS HAD AN ACTIVE ATHLETIC CAREER

Walker Here for Tournament at Brock Street—Is an All Round Expert Athlete—Has Been in Many Go as You Please Events—Holds Skating Championships

James A. Graham, of Buffalo, the noted pedestrian, who is here for the walking tournament at Brock street rink, has had an unusually interesting athletic career, He will be 47 years old on May 4th, weighs 130 pounds in his walking attire and stands 5 ft. 8 in. He has been in athletics for 37 years getting his first prize when he won a hundred yards boys' dash at Dunkirk, New York, 37 years ago. Ever since then he has walked and run professionally.

"What was the event of your athletic career?" he was asked by the Review last night.

"I think it was a 72 hour go-as-you-please trial against time at Lockport in 1898," he replied. "I walked 417 miles in 72 hours."

MANY GO-AS-YOU-PLEASE EVENTS

Graham has taken place in a great many go-as-you-please events, which, if they ewre fully recorded, and described, would require the writing of a small sized book. It would perhaps be of interst, however, to mention some of them.

In 1901 in Lancaster, Pa., he won the 72 hour American go-as-you-please championship in a race in which there was a field of 42 starters, among them the famous champion, Peter Cavanagh, who died last week. Graham won the race by eleven miles, giving Cavanagh his first defeat.

He won the last six day go-as-you-please, held in Buffalo, N.Y., establishing the world's record. He ran 32 miles during the four hours of each night of the race. He also won eight consecutive 100 mile races in one year. in New York, two of which were held at Lockport, two at Albany and one at Niagara Falls, Brockport and Seneca Falls. Graham took part in the last race for over 12 hours straight going, that was held at Albany, N.Y.

SKATING CHAMPION.

He has done some road running and naturally would be somewhat expert at that, owing to his participation in go-as-you-please contests. However he doesn't indulge in that kind of athletics now, confining himself to straight heel and toe walking. In Graham's opinion it is impossible for an athlete to be good as a go-as-you-please man and a heel and toe walker.

His athletic career has certainly been a varied and successful one. He holds the 10, 15, and 25 mile ice skating record of Munroe County, New York State, having won them at the Rochester skating rink some years ago. He has three medals emblamatic of the championships.

In 1886 he made the world's rink record on roller skates at Madison Square Gardens for a distane of 86 miles. His time has never been equalled since. He has been successful in many other skating events.

WALKED AGAINST SLATER.

Graham has figured in three walks this year. Two weeks before the Kansas City six-day race he was in a six-day race with Slater, the man who got second money at Kansas City. In the race in which Graham and Slater took part Slater dropped out before it was over. Since that event Graham walked 50 miles in 10 hours at the Grey Armouries, Akron, O., and about a month ago walked 187 miles at Erie, Pa. He estimetes that he has walked 26,000 miles during his athletic career, 1,000 miles farther than the distance around the world.

PETERBORO' BASEBALL CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Prospects for Coming Season are of the Most Rosy Nature—Officers Elected and Other Arrangements Made.

Prospects for Midland League ball for Peterborough are of the brightest this season. The local nine will be the fastest that has ever represented the city and if the pennant does not travel this way next September, well this is one bad guess. The annual meeting of the Peterborough Baseball Club was held at the Windsor Hotel last night, when officers were elected for the current season and other arrangements made. The annual meeting of the Midland League will be held at Port Hope on Good Friday, and Manager Johnston and Corney Burns will represent the local club. About fifteen enthusiasts were present at last night's meeting, and the following officers were elected for 1908:

Patrons and Patronesses —Hon. J. R. and Mrs. Stratton, Mayor and Mrs. Rush, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Denham, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Patterson.

Hon. Pres.—Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—J. B. Hay.
President—Harry Neill.
First Vice-Pres.—E. N. McWilliams
Second Vice-Pres.—D. B. MacRae.
Sec.-Treas.—R. M. Glover.
Asst. Sec.-Treas.—F. D. Craig.
Executive Committee — Dr. Wightman, Louis Mendel, W. J. Metheral, W. H. Stroud.
Manager—Arthur Johnston.
Delegates to Midland League meeting—Arthur Johnston and Corney Burns.
Official Scorer—F. D. Craig.

Arrangements for financing the club were discussed and plans made for the season. It is expected that the Midland League season will open about the middle of May. Two or three exhibition games will likely be played next month. Efforts will be made to have Port Hope play here on May 24th. The lakesiders should be a big drawing card on the holiday.

It was decided to hold another meeting on April 21st, when further arrangements will be made. The meeting of the Midland League will then have been held, and the number of games to be played, will then be known and the club can make arrangements regarding season tickets, etc.

The club starts the season with an able set of officers and the brightest prospects, and the baseball bug should buzz louder than ever in Peterborough in 1908. The line-up of the local team will be given out at an early date.

TWO MORE FOR TOURNAMENT

Stacey of Toronto and Hiawatha Man Want to Enter

Mr. James Stacey, 232 Greenwood avenue, Toronto has written for full particulars concerning the walking tournament and wants to know the amount of prize money that will be forthcoming and asks that an entry form be forwarded him.

W. H. Naugen, Hiawatha, also wants to enter.

Morris Mober, Douro, has entered for the walking tournament. He is better known as "Mickey."

The number keeps increasing and a big bunch of starters will get away the first night of the big contest.

CRICKETERS TO MEET TO-NIGHT

At Y. M. C. A. at 8 O'clock---Will Consider Formation of a League

A meeting will be held at the Y.M.C.A. tonight at eight o'clock, for the purpose of forming a cricket league. Every one interested is asked to be present.

There seems to reason why cricket couldn't be revived in these parts and made the popular game it was when the old cricketers wielded the willow on the now extinct P.A.A.A. grounds. Cricket is certainly a good game, and one of the cleanest and most gentlemanly sports on the calendar.

A Y.M.C.A. BALL TEAM FORMED

Meeting Held Last Evening—Mr. J. N. Barber Elected President

At a meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday evening the Y.M.C.A. Baseball Club organized for the season of 1908. Mr. E. M. Best acted as chairman and the following officers were elected:—

Pres.—Mr. J. N. Barber.
Sec.-Treas.—F. Cressman.
Executive Committee—Messrs. C. G. Graham, W. Thornton and H. C. Kirk.

The membership fee was fixed at 50 cents, open to all members of the Y.M.C.A.

There is plenty of good material at the "Y" for a first-class team and under good management they should be able to make the best of them go.

WALKING

A DOURO ENTRY.

Morris Mober of Douro, is the latest entry for the walking tournament. He says he will be there at the finish and intends showing his friends that he has the goods.

There will be a meeting of officers and those interested in the walking tournament at the Oriental tomorrow night at eight o'clock.

CRICKET

A meeting of all those interested in cricket is called by the Peterborough Cricket Club at the Y.M.C.A. this evening at eight o'clock.

Dr. F. S. Chapman of Winnipeg, is held on $15,000 bail on a charge of performing a criminal operation.

MORE PLAYERS IN LOCAL FOLD

Jerry Edmunds Will Do the Receiving and Conney Murphy Will Play the Left Field

Two more ball players have been brought into the fold of the Peterborough Midland League team. They are Jerry Edmunds, who comes here from Brandon, Man., where he played in the Western Canada League last season. He did the back-stopping for Brantford and comes well recommended. In addition to being a good catcher, Edmunds is a hard hitter and a good base runner and should make a worthy successor to Harry Buridge.

It will be pleasing news to the fans to learn that Conney Murphy, who played left field for the locals in the latter part of the last season, will again be found with the Peterborough squadron. Murphy liked Peterborough and was glad to come back again this season. He has few superiors in the left garden and gave splendid satisfaction here last season. As a result of the signing of Murphy, the outfield will be composed of Murphy, left field; "Fris" O'Brien, centre field and Corney Barns, right field. It looks good from this distance

A HIGHLAND PARADISE

Among the "Highlands of Ontario" there ar several districts that appeal to the tourist and summer traveller, but the most popular and probably the most beautiful of these districts is the one known as the "Lake of Bays," a territory covering many hundred square mils of land and water scapes and where the influx of summer travellers is increasing every year. Many an enthusiast has named the Lake of Bays "Queen of Lakes." It is a place where the cool breezes blow, where groves or spice balsam lift their graceful minarets against the sky; where there are no swamps; where bathing is safe and where the speckled trout, salmon trout and black bass are found, and where the deer abound.

This charming district is situated on the line of the Grand Trunk Railwas System and is reached through Huntsville, 146 miles north of Toronto.

A new hotel with accommodation for 200 has been erected and is conceded to be the finest of the summer hotels in the northern districts. A handsome territory, descriptive of the territory and giving all information as to guides, rates, routes, etc, and full description of the new hotel can be had free on application to J. D. McDonald, D.P.A., Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

Chance led them into Graham & Son's store, where they purchased mouth organs and proceeded to regale the audience with soul-inspiring selections from eminent composers, concluding the programme with a feelingly played duet entitled "There's a dry time in the old town tonight."

The prospects for a baseball team for the village this year are very bright. All the old timers are on hand and think that with the amount of new material now in the village a team can be made up that will hold its own with the best in the district.

EXHIBITION OF COOKING AT Y.W.C.A.

Closing Held Last Evening---A Great Success.

The closing exhibition of the Y.W.C.A. cooking classes was held last evening in the gymnasium of the building and proved to be a great success. A large crowd was in attendance and a most enjoyable time was spent. The classes have been conducted during the past three months under the able leadership of Miss Clara E. Elliot, a graduate of the McDonald Institute, Guelph. The gymnasium was prettily decorated and each class had a separate table. The Superior cookery class booth was prettily decorated with marguerites and yellow candles. It was in charge of nine young ladies, who served desserts and sherbert.

The salads table was in charge of five girls and was done in green candles and white carnations.

The school girls' table was conducted by seven little girls. It was decorated with pink candles and white carnations.

The dessert class had a booth done in crimson and silver. This was considered by far the prettiest of all.

Six little boys in a tent around a rustics table represented a camp cookery.

All the booths were were very attractive and were the subject of much favorable comment.

The following musical programme was rendered;

Piano Solo—Miss Meldrum.
Reading—Miss Weir.
Vocal Solo—Mr. K. Shook.
Violin Solo—Miss Irwin.
Drill—Rosebud class of Miss C. Coventry.
Reading—Miss A. Stevenson.

During the evening Miss Elliot was presented with a silver spoon from the superior cooking class, and a bouquet of carnations from the school girls.

FOR THE KIDNEYS AND BLADDER

Mix This at Home if You Have Kidney or Bladder Trouble or Rheumatism

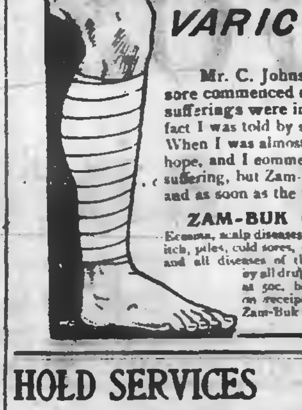
Recent hospital reports show that the dread disease, rheumatism, is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known means of relief are being suggested to save the great amount of suffering this winter ,especially among those who are not in a position to pack up and visit the noted health resorts to be treated. Recent tests prove rheumatism not exactly a disease on itself ,but a severe symptom of kidney trouble ,a condition caused by clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose, usually settling about the joints and muscles, causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism.

There are numerous remedies known whic hmany persons believe will relieve this suffering—salicilate of soda, calchioum, potash, etc—but these drugs are terribly hard on the stomach ,often ruining this most important organ, and they fail as often as they relieve.

A well-known specialist, who has probably treated more cases of rheumatism than anyone else, and who is also the most successful, gives the following simple treatment, which is harmless and inexpensive, and so simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, once ounce; Compound Syrup, Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three vegetable ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothin gbetter in the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble ,too. Such symptoms as frequent and painful urination, soreness ,eakness, general and nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood, which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription.



BAD LEG CAUSED 9 YEARS TORTURE
VARICOSE ULCER HEALED BY ZAM-BUK

Mr. C. Johnston of Poplar Hill Creek, Athabasca Landing, Alta., writes: "Nine years ago a running sore commenced on my right leg, caused by a ruptured blood vessel. As time went on it got worse and my sufferings were intense. I had a very sore leg indeed, and had very small hope of ever seeing it healed, in fact I was told by several who had known such sores that I should suffer with it for life. This was very discouraging. When I was almost in despair I heard of Zam-Buk and wrote to the Company stating my case. They inspired me with hope, and I commenced with Zam-Buk, using it according to instructions. Other salves I had used caused me much suffering, but Zam-Buk soothed the pain, and although it appeared for some time to be doing little good, I persevered, and as soon as the wound became clean, it was only a matter of three or four days before my leg was healed."

PREMIER REPLIES TO HIS CRITICS

Hon. Mr. Whitney Explains Fairness of Government Proposals—Debate on Redistribution Bill Concluded—Liberal Gerrymandering Put Right.

Toronto, April 9.—Hon. Mr. Whitney, the Prime Minister, concluded the debate on the redistribution in the Legislature yesterday with a vigorous address outlining the Government's position and defending the administration against charges of unfairness. Mr. Whitney maintained that all that had been done was to right a few of the more glaring Liberal gerrymanders of the past.

On the vote the Government was sustained by a majority of 36, the figures being 59 to 23. Mr. Allan Studholme, the Labor member, refrained from voting altogether.

Mr. McGarry (South Renfrew), who resumed the debate, said that the present redistribution differed from all its predecessors in Ontario. It was demanded by justice, while former gerrymanders had been prompted with the idea of securing political advantage. He declared that the Opposition found themselves in a ludicrous position on the debate. "The leader of the Opposition," he said, "declares for one man one vote in relation to Toronto, while behind him the two members for Ottawa whine because they are not given the right to have one man two votes in the capital city." In answer to the criticisms of the members for Ottawa he pointed out that in making a division in that riding, the Government was merely adhering to the stand taken by them in 1894. The changes which have been made, are the result of honest and careful deliberation, and they will redound to the credit of the Prime Minister of this Province. The Government has endeavored to give a straightforward, honest and progressive administration.

"We know that we will never have a more honest nor successful Government than the present one, and if the Opposition has no better platform than one of abuse of the Prime Minister, they will find little support from the people."

Prime Minister Whitney was greeted with much applause as he arose to close the debate. He opened his remarks by making a number of effective replies to opinions which had been advanced by members of the Opposition during the debate.

"This is not a general redistribution," said Mr. Whitney. "It is merely a reasonable and proper rearrangement to correct in some of the most glaring instances the monstrous iniquity practiced by the recent Government."

He scored the member for West Northumberland for having nothing to say on this matter in committee and so much in the House. He characterized the member as a "joke," who "kept his hands off anything which was for the good of the people." He anticipated that Gloucester and Osgoode townships belonging to Carleton would be restored to that county.

"All great reforms from this side of the House," said Mr. Whitney, "are brought forward after due consideration has been given to the feeling of the people. What is the feeling of the people on this question? Do we find any petitions being fyled here against the bill? Have the representatives been waited upon by deputations? The member for West Middlesex says that he knows of Conservatives who are going to vote against the Government as a result of this bill, and yet he does not even seem to be thankful." (Laughter.)

The Prime Minister then referred to the remarks previously made by Mr. McDougal of Ottawa. To answer the member's argument in reference to the division in Ottawa Mr. Whitney read a portion of a letter he received from a resident of Ottawa, who said that "the only kick seemed to be on account of the fact that McDougal will not be able to get the convention, for the French people will not stand for him, and Mr. May will be defeated in the west anyway."

Mr. McDougal—"May I ask the name of the person who wrote the letter?"

Mr. Whitney—"Certainly. The gentleman's name is Wright, and I would venture to say he is not wrong." (Laughter and applause.)

The leader of the Opposition complained that nothing had been done for the Liberals. "Well," said Mr. Whitney, "there was nothing to do. All that could be done for them had been done years ago. In 1885 they made a general gerrymander and if the leader of the Opposition wants to see what was done then, let him look at the map and pay especial attention to East Wellington—but I would not advise him to show it to any person of delicate nerves." (Laughter.)

The Prime Minister went on to explain that when the proper time comes, a further redistribution will be inaugurated to make things fair and equal, but the Government will wait for that time.

In referring to Mr. Ross' reference to a former statesman, ridiculing his statement that "his hands were clean," Mr. Whitney administered a stern rebuke to the member for West Middlesex and his unpardonable levity in speaking of deceased statesmen.

"If Mr. Ross' insinuation that his hands were "black" is allowed to stand, I, at least, can answer that his heart was white." (Applause.)

The Prime Minister was willing to rest his claim for the approval of the people upon what had been done in Huron. The former administration had gerrymandered that riding for the mere purpose of sending one or two of their supporters to the Legislature.

To show the condition of affairs as they have existed under Liberal rule, the Prime Minister pointed out that in the election of 1883 the popular vote showed a Conservative majority of 3,137. The returns, however, showed 46 Liberals elected and 36 Conservatives or a Liberal majority of 10 seats. In 1886 after Sir Oliver Mowat redistributed the province, changing the boundaries of 40 constituencies the popular vote showed a Conservative majority of 9,869 while the Liberals had 30 of a majority of the members elected. Thus in spite of the fact that the popular vote of the Conservatives had more than trebled, the result of the redistribution was that the Liberal majority in the Legislature was trebled.

The present Government had tried to wipe out in a few instances, these marks of disgrace. (Applause.)

The vote was then taken, after which the House went into committee on the supplementary estimates.

During the discussion in committee Mr. C. N. Smith (Sault) wanted to know as to the results of the Government operations on the Gillies' limits. He had seen newspaper reports to the effect that the Government had been offered several millions for it.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane said it was unwise always to depend on newspaper reports. (Laughter.) He told of the operations.

Mr. Smith—"But what are the prospects and results?"

Mr. Whitney—"The Government is conducting the limit as a business proposition. There are certain individuals who have a constitutional objections to working for a living and prefer to sell stocks. We don't propose to do anything to encourage wild-catting or foolish speculation."

Mr. May (Ottawa) maintained that the House was entitled to full information.

"And it will be given out as soon as we get returns from the cars shipped. I don't propose to give the country guess work," observed Mr. Cochrane.

MANY SALOONS NOW WILL CLOSE

Great Liquor Battle in Illinois Has Come to an End.

Chicago, April 9.—The great liquor contest in Illinois has resulted in a drawn battle with the saloons winning decisively in most of the larger cities, but losing in scores of smaller ones, 1,014 saloons being voted out of existence.

The returns, as collected by townships, are even more impressive from the prohibitionist viewpoint, 398 townships, or more than three-fourth of the total number, being closed to the saloon. Only by winning in the larger cities did the liquor interests save themselves from a complete rout.

Where the "grog shop" was not an economic asset in city government, the prohibitionists had the advantage. Where financial questions entered largely they lost. Although they did not chase the "demon rum" from the state, they profess satisfaction with the results.

Returns from 1,200 townships of the state are incomplete, and it is not possible to state with exactness how many saloons will close their doors 30 days hence, as a result of Tuesday's balloting. The figures available place the number at over 1,000, being for the most part in towns which had from 5 to 25 saloons each.

The Wave In Colorado.

Denver, April 9.—Thirty-five towns in Colorado, in which elections were held Tuesday, voted on the question of local option. Nineteen of these elections resulted in no licenses, and 18 voted to license saloons.

The anti-saloon element won over four towns that were formerly "wet," and the liquor element made gains of five towns, giving them the advantage of one in the total of changes.

Embassy at Tokio.

St. Petersburg, April 9.—The Council of the Empire yesterday adopted, without discussion, the bill to raise the Russian legation at Tokio to an embassy. This bill already has passed the Douma.

He Starved to Death.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Knute Ohnstead died here yesterday from starvation, after an attempt to fast for 40 days in order to demonstrate his theory that the mind controls the body and that mind is mightier than matter. Ohnstead's fast lasted 31 days, according to those in the house.

Prison and the Lash.

Orillia, April 9.—Joseph McDonald, originally of Alexandria, drifted into town Saturday evening and on Monday committed assaults on three children under 5 years of age. He was sentenced to 18 months in the Central Prison, and to receive 20 lashes.

Shot and Killed Woman.

Kokomo, Ind., April 9.—Mrs Fairy McClain-Miller was shot and instantly killed here yesterday by Worley Osborn, a discarded lover. Osborn entered the Miller home and killed the woman as she lay abed. Osborn fled and has not been captured.

GEORGE VANCE NOW ON TRIAL

Charged With Murder—Threw Stone Which Killed Man

St. Catharines, April 9.—In the Assize Court yesterday John Vance was tried and acquitted on a charge of assaulting William Livingstone at Niagara on March 11.

The case against George Vance, charged with the murder of James Patterson, then proceeded. George Longley swore he and Patterson had been in the Imperial Hotel all afternoon Saturday, Sept. 21. They were put out by the proprietor at 7 o'clock. At the corner of Frank street they met Vance, who bumped into Patterson and both clinched and fell to the ground, but no blows were struck. The witness separated the men and he and Patterson went easterly along Queenston street to Thorold road. Vance started in a westerly direction, but when they reached the corner Vance came behind them and, uttering a foul expression, cause them to look around. As they did so Vance threw a stone or some other object, which hit Patterson over the eye. Both Patterson and the witness pursued Vance, caught him and kicked him about the road until chased by the approach of the chief of police. Longley did not again see Vance till next morning, when he visited him at home and noticed a wound on his forehead.

John Butler swore he saw Vance run out to the centre of the road, pick up a stone and then start down the street towards Patterson.

A lad named Baird gave evidence to the effect that he saw Vance throw the stone, and Arthur Wattam, who separated Longley, Patterson and Vance, swore he noticed blood coming from deceased's forehead.

Dr. Mulock described being called to see Patterson Nov. 9. He found him suffering from concussion of the brain, caused by a wound on the forehead, which had outwardly healed, but on cross-examination he admitted that it would not necessarily follow that poison in the brain would come from the blow. Dr. McCoy, who with Dr. Mulock made the post-mortem, swore Patterson's death was due to septic meningitis, caused by the formation of pus caused by a wound on the forehead.

Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnson, Toronto, in expert evidence, corroborated Dr. McCoy as to the fact that the condition found at the time of death might easily follow from a wound caused weeks before.

Dr. Johnston said that after reading the post-mortem he had no doubt that the natural cause of Patterson's death was the wound on the temple. The case for the crown closed at 7 o'clock and adjournment was made, the judge making an order for the jury to be kept in charge of constables at the New Murray Hotel.

BOWIN VERDICT EXPECTED TO-DAY

State Prosecutor Presents Damaging Case Against Prisoner

Detroit, April 9.—To-day Percy Bowin will know his fate. Both Assistant Prosecutor Grose and Attorney Kennedy had completed their arguments to the jury when court adjourned last night. This morning Judge Phelan will read his charge to the jury.

The judge said last night that this would not occupy more than 20 minutes, and that the jury should be in their room ready to begin the deliberation of the case by 9.30. Bets were being freely offered with no takers after the adjournment of the court, that the jury would not be out an hour.

Assistant Prosecutor Grose's address to the jury was an eloquent effort. He reviewed in detail every bit of testimony contributed by the forty-six witnesses for the prosecution. He pointed out the discrepancies in the testimony of the witnesses for the defence. Bowin's statement on the witness-stand he tore in shreds. He read the defendant's first statement of his conversation with Mrs. Welch, and compared it with the statement that he made later at Mr. Grose's request, pointing out the wide variance.

"I ask to explain, gentlemen of the jury," shouted Grose, "why it was that he repeated the story that is contained in this confession time after time, always the same, while the story that he told on the witness stand he cannot remember from one hour to the next."

The assistant prosecutor expressed his admiration and sympathy for Bowin's mother, who sat with her head bowed on the back of the prisoner's chair.

"I cannot even imagine the state of mind that this poor mother must be in," said he. "But did this defendant think of her when he struck down old Cornelia Welch? No matter who she was; no matter what her character—in the eyes of the law she had just as much a right to live as any other person."

Attorney Kennedy, in his address, which lasted little more than an hour, pinned his hopes to the statements of the witnesses who testified that they saw Mrs. Welch alive on the Saturday after Bowin confessed to having murdered her. He declared that the boy had been led astray by Myrtle Miller, whom he branded as one of the "lepers of society." He closed with a plea to the jury to send the boy back to his family with a chance to start all over again.

Settlement Reported.

St. Catharines, April 9.—It is understood that a settlement has been arrived at with the relatives of Dr. Greegan, the tax collector of Thorold, who is in custody, charged with stealing $2,300 of the town's funds.

DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO ROB THORNHILL BANK FRUSTRATED

Manager Has Fierce Encounter With Nervy Thieves—Bullets Whizzed About His Ears—Struck on Head by Man Who Leaped From Box.

Thornhill, Ont., April 9.—Bank breakers, who used revolvers, and stunned the manager, Roy Henry, with a slung shot, made a daring attempt to get away with $7,800 from the Sterling Bank at Thornhill, 12 miles north of Toronto, early yesterday morning.

Mr. Roy Henry, who sleeps above the bank, heard a noise down stairs about 12 o'clock. He hurried down in the dark and saw a man in the office. Whereupon he hurried upstairs again to get his revolver.

When he came downstairs again the man had disappeared, and the back doors were open. Through the front door he saw, by the dim light, a man trying the handle. He fired one shot through the glass which fell shattered.

As the glass fell shattered two shots were fired at the manager by someone outside through the open space in the front door.

As Roy Henry raised his revolver to reply he was hit upon the back of the head with a slung shot or loaded cane and fell insensible.

But the bank breakers did not carry off any money.

The people in the houses nearby, alarmed at the noise of the shots turned out in force and surrounded the bank building.

The bank breakers had made their escape, however, immediately after the shooting, and the people found the insensible body of Roy Henry near the foot of the stairway.

He was carried to a nearby house, where he was attended by a doctor. This morning he is much better.

Mr. Hector Wright, the assistant, who also sleeps above the bank, was out for the evening and had not returned at the time the attempt was made.

When he returned he went over the securities and bills and found that nothing had been taken.

The inside man on the job was evidently concealed in a cupboard in rear of the bank for hours before the real job was attempted. There is a large room in the rear of the bank, which was formerly used by an undertaker. In fact, there are a few coffins still stored there, and standing upright between two coffins in a very narrow space the burglar waited more or less patiently from 7.30 in the evening till midnight.

In discussing the affair Mr. Henry said: "I left the bank for a few minutes, when both the front and rear doors were unlocked. At this time Mr. Wright, my assistant, was upstairs. It must have been at this time that the man slipped in and concealed himself in the cupboard. The cupboard had been held fast with a single nail, so it was not very difficult to pry open, but he probably did not expect to find that he would have to crouch in beside a couple of caskets to spend the succeeding four or five hours." The traces of the man's temporary occupation were clearly visible in the morning.

Three men, apparently of the tramp or "yegg" variety, were arrested late last night by Chief of Police Petch of Aurora.

They are believed to be the perpetrators of the attempt which was made to rob the Sterling Bank at Thornhill Tuesday night, in which shots were exchanged by the burglars and Roy Henry, manager of the bank, who was severely beaten and who came close to being shot, but succeeded in frightening off the intruders.

When arrested no firearms were found upon the men. One of them had a pair of pinchers. They are locked up at Aurora, charged as vagrants.

While the men refuse to give any names the similarity of their actions leads the police to believe that these men are either the same, or a part of the same, gang that perpetrated post-office robberies at Highland Creek, Agincourt, Scarboro Junction, Lambton Mills, Mimico and Bedford Park. From descriptions in the hands of the police they are also believed to have taken part in the robbery with revolver accompaniment, of the Imperial Bank at St. David's on Monday morning, when the vault was blown, but the solidity of an inner door saved $3,000 there deposited.

They are also believed to be implicated in the robbery of a Canadian Express Co. express money parcel of $1,000 at Collingwood on March 28, when the parcel was taken from a truck at the depot.

It is also believed, though here descriptions are lacking, that they may be implicated in the robbery of $1,500 worth of jewelry from Hagersville on April 3, and to be a part of the gang, four of whom were arrested at Guelph for four recent burglaries in that city.

Second Double Hanging.

Philadelphia, April 8.—The second double hanging of the present year at the Philadelphia County Prison, took place yesterday, when Max Soifer and Joseph Tolrico were executed for murders committed during jealous passions.

Soifer shot and killed a girl because she threatened to end their engagement to marry, and Tolrico killed the brother of his sweetheart after attempting to shoot the girl.

SUBSIDY BILL HAS PASSED IN HOUSE

Mr. Borden Criticizes One-Sided Features of French Treaty—Oliver's Bill is Blocked—Lively Debate in House on Immigration Question.

Ottawa, April 9.—Further criticism of the proposed direct steamship line to France and of the new French treaty was heard yesterday, when the House went into committee on the bill to amend the Ocean Steamship Subsidies Act. This bill, authorizing $5,555 per trip for a maximum of 36 trips yearly between Canada and France, makes a total subsidy of $200,000.

Mr. Brodeur, replying to Dr. Sproule, said that the contract provided that the steamships shall be provided with cold storage, and that freight rates shall not be higher than between U.S. and French ports. An endeavor would be made to induce the company to consent to have freight rates controlled by the Government. Cold storage, said the Minister, would be needed to carry butter and cheese.

It was pointed out by Mr. Monk that there was little likelihood of sending Canadian butter or cheese to France.

The Minister replied that the steamships would call at London.

Mr. Henderson raised the question whether French goods reaching Canada via Great Britain would be admitted at the minimum tariff the same as if imported direct from a French port.

The Finance Minister replied that it had been thought wise to have it so arranged.

It was pointed out by Mr. Borden that this was an unfair concession. Under the treaty France would impose a surtax on indirect importations from Canada, while Canada would have to grant the full benefits of the minimum tariff to indirect as well as direct shipments.

Mr. Fielding replied that under the treaty Canada contained the right to impose a surtax on indirect importations, but it was not the policy of the Government to impose such surtax.

This, Mr. Borden observed, sarcastically, would be a great consolation to Canadian shipping interests.

Mr. Fielding explained that indirect shipments would only be admitted through England.

Mr. Henderson pointed out that we could not assure the steamship company that may receive the subsidy, a return cargo from France, and it might therefore be impossible to get good terms.

Mr. Monk spoke of the need of more commercial agents in France, and it might therefore be impossible to get good terms.

Mr. Monk spoke of the need of more commercial agents in France if results were to be had from the treaty.

Mr. Fielding said Canada had an agent in Paris and it might be advisable to appoint more.

The bill was passed.

During the question hour Mr. Lavergne (Montmagny) asked if it was proposed on the occasion of the anniversary of the founding of Quebec to issue a new series of postage stamps and if the Department purposed recognizing both the spirit of the constitution and that of the celebration by issuing and printing such stamps in the two official languages of the country?

Mr. Lemieux in reply to the first question said "yes"—as to the second, the matter was under consideration.

In Hon. Mr. Fisher's bill to amend the Inspection and Sale Act, now before Parliament, the Minister of Agriculture has taken measures to put an end to the cheese-box romances, which have attracted attention in the old country. It has been found that glass bottles occasionally slipped into the centre of cheese by romantic Canadian dairymaids, as the receptables of matrimonial and other proposals, fell, as a rule, into the hands of unromantic purchasers, who, after breaking the bottles in cutting the cheese, are more apt to grumble about the inconvenience and nuisance than they are to take any serious interest in the contents of the dairymaid's note.

The bill which Mr. Fisher has introduced will declare it an offence to put any foreign substance whatever into cheese, or to incorporate any inferior curd or cheese therein. The penalties provided under the act will apply against anyone who either manufactures or deals in these inferior products.

A lively debate took place on Mr. Oliver's bill to exclude immigrants who do not come direct from the country of their origin. An order-in-council was passed some weeks ago to temporarily meet the difficulties of Department officers who found they had no power to exclude or deport Hindus, for instance, who may have purchased their tickets in Hong Kong. The undesirables could not be returned to Hong Kong for the authorities there would not be compelled to receive them, and steamship companies could not be compelled to return them to India.

The new provision is directed against Asiatics, and from explanations of the Ministers it seems immigration officers will be allowed to use their own discretion. Although Sir Wilfrid Laurier at six o'clock asked that the bill be put through so that the Senate, which adjourns to-day, may pass it, Col. Sam Hughes objected and the bill stands over.

Mr. Borden failed to see the necessity for such legislation. We had power now to refuse a landing of undesirables. Sir Wilfrid Laurier pointed out that a Hindu, tainted with disease, arrived from Hong Kong, there was no way to get rid of him, because authorities of Hong Kong might refuse to receive him. The new act simply created another cause for exclusion. If a man whom the authorities in Vancouver desired to deport did not come on a through ticket from his own country the steamship company would bring him at their own risk.

Mr. Oliver further explained, in reply to Mr. Borden, that the present law was effective to exclude undesirables no matter from what country, but it might be that a man, incapable of becoming a good citizen, might land and his physical or mental defects not be discovered for some time. Under the proposed provision it would be possible to compel the steamship company to carry back undesirables who might have been in Canada some time. It further developed that the new law was not to be enforced against desirable immigrants, and that the immigration officers must be left to exercise their own discretion. A German from New Zealand, according to Dr. Sproule, was deported because he did not come from the country of origin. Col. Sam Hughes said he would prefer a Hindu, who had served the Empire, to a galvanized Yankee, who had been an anarchist in his own country. He moved to amend the bill by excepting "Such immigrants who have served in the auxiliary forces of the Empire under the British flag."

Mr. Haggart renewed his objection to exclusion of British subjects. He did not think this Parliament had the power.

"What about Australia?" asked Mr. Macpherson.

"Well, suppose we have power," retorted Mr. Haggart, "is it right and judicious that we should exclude them?"

Sir Wilfrid Laurier quoted statutes which, he claimed, did give the required power to exclude. By section 23 of the revised statutes it was provided that any person who may become a public charge, or who in two years may become a public charge, may be deported. Mr. Galliher declared that British Columbia was not suited to the Hindu immigrant.

Mr. Lemieux declared that the Japanese arrangement had been carried out conscientiously by both sides and he did not anticipate any further trouble.

"We must keep this country white," asserted Mr. Macpherson, returning to the combat, but Col. Hughes would rather have a black gentleman than a white anarchist.

"War," continued Mr. Macpherson. "Do I think that every soldier is a gentleman? Some of these Hindu soldiers would rather swell around in brass buttons than work."

Mr. Lennox argued that the Minister, having admitted that "artisans" would come under the definition of "class," the Government, under this act, might exclude Japanese artisans.

Sir Wilfrid replied that this could not be done, as the Japanese were protected against special restrictions by treaty which was superior to the legislation before the House.

Mr. Borden explained that it was within the competence of Parliament to repeal the treaty act. But an order-in-council based on the clause of the bill under discussion, would be held to be subject to the terms of the treaty act, the former being special only and the latter general.

After some further discussion, Sir Wilfrid Laurier observed that as it was six o'clock he would like to have the question put and the bill passed so it could go through the Senate today and receive assent. There was urgent necessity for the measure and the Senate was about to adjourn for Easter.

DOCTOR FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Gas Turned on in Room and Bottle of Chloroform in Hand.

Doctor Found Unconscious.

Detroit, April 9.—Dr. Geo. Shoults, who moved to Pontiac, Mich., five weeks ago from Toronto, was found lying unconscious in his office Tuesday night, with a partially filled bottle of chloroform in one hand and the gas in his office turned on.

He was hurried to his room, where medical attention was given him, and the physicians attending him believe he will recover. The authorities think Shoults attempted to commit suicide. He would have been dead in another half hour had not an acquaintance went to his office and attempted to get in, but found the door locked. The acquaintance then called the police and when the office door was broken in Dr. Shoults was found unconscious.

When he revived he said he could not explain how the gas happened to be flowing or how the chloroform got into his hand.

Dr. Shoults is a graduate of the University of Toronto.

Inquest Adjourned.

Peterboro, April 9.—The inquest in connection with the death of Elgin Weaver, the Chandos farmer, was resumed here last night, but as no report had been received from Toronto regarding the stomach, which had been received from Toronto regarding been sent there for analysis, an adjournment was made until Wednesday, April 15. It is alleged that Weaver's death was the result of poisoning.

NEW WAY TO BE WELL

Healthfulness of Oranges.

The one lesson which most people never seem to learn is, how to guard their health.

We have been eating oranges since time immemorial, yet how many of us know that orange juice contains a medicinal principle which has a marked action on the stomach, bowels, kidneys and skin. Some physicians go so far as to say that they can cure the average case of Indigestion, Constipation, Billiousness and Dry Skin with orange juice and proper diet.

This can be easily proved to the satisfaction of any sufferer. Take the juice of one or two oranges every morning before breakfast, take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" every night at bed-time, exercise a reasonable care in diet, and the proof will be found in health.

The cure will be greatly assisted and hastened by taking "Fruit-a-tives" in conjunction with the orange juice. "Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the medicinal principle of oranges, apples, figs and prunes are many times increased by the special way in which they are combined. Then tonics are added and the whole made into tablets. "Fruit-a-tives" may be obtained at all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price—50c a box—6 for $2.50. "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1908.

THE TIME HAS COME

"The time has come for a change in the immigration policy of the Dominion of Canada.—The Canadian Manufacturer.

It is not charged that Sir Wilfrid Laurier went deliberately to work to destroy Canada, but he is succeeding in doing it whether deliberately or otherwise. The Conservative Administration would not in their day accept no matter what sort of immigrant. It is useless for the Liberals to take credit to themselves for having got a host of criminals and degenerates into this country by means of bonuses and a most expensive and doubtful system of agencies or in any other way. Twenty-five per cent., that is 50,000, of last year's immigrants should never have been allowed into Canada at all. The national life of this country has been needlessly corrupted. The industrial life has been lowered. Times are hard; employment is scarce, notwithstanding the Examiner's desire that such statements should not be made. An increase in the circulation of capital is not in sight. The coming twelve-month will be the worst yet. Everything the Laurier Government has undertaken has been made a wreck of. There has been a wanton and senseless destruction of our life and industry and a wasting of our resources. Was there ever, on the other hand, a more favorable opportunity for the development of our resources in a proper way? It is too bad that so excellent a chance has been missed.

TOO LATE FOR THE DEAD

"The Peterborough Review rails at the British preference, says it must be repealed, and claims that because of it, Central Ontario is retrograding rapidly. And all this because, according to the Review, some woollen factories have been unable to meet British competition. Peterborough has never flourished as it has during the past twelve years. It is now, thanks largely to the the impetus given to all lines of business by the forward, progressive policy of the Laurier Government, one of the large manufacturing centres of the Dominion. We do not say that the Government created the abundant harvests on which our general prosperity has been so largely built, but we do say that the measure of those harvests is largely the direct result of the impetus given to immigration and to every line of Canadian development by the well-considered, business-like, and enterprising policies of the Government. British preference, if it has hit rather hardly some factories that could exist only if given advantages at the expense of the consuming public has done Canada incalculable good. It has advertised this country as it was never advertised before; it has made Canada the Mecca of tens of thousands of the people of the Old Countries; it has stimulated Imperial trade and increased the demand for for our products in Britain; and it has given Canadians a sensible measure of tariff reduction without injury to any interests, except those of one industry that was notoriously behind the times in regard to machinery and concentration of business. It is too late in the day to base an attack on the Government on the British preference, or to -lace in the scale against all the good it has wrought the fate of a few inefficient factories."—Montreal Herald (Lib.)

The Herald seems to think that the destruction of 110 woollen mills is their own fault and of no importance anyhow. The Auburn Mills, in Peterborough, are barely able to navigate, and continue to exist in the hope that the Preference will be abolished. This city rose from obscurity by means of and upon the N.P., which was protection without preference. The preference was an undesired and undesirable innovation, which has done nobody any good, but was simply a case of patronizing Great Britain and it has been answered by the British cattle embargo and the British Patents Act. If the preference has induced immigration, then it is worse than we thought. We prophesy that the "preference" will disappear within a twelvemonth. It is a sly attempt to make it appear that loyalty is the reason of an industrial wrongdoing. But the real object of it perhaps is to be found in the new French treaty. An open door serves more than one purpose.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Samuel A. Stodall, representative of the Industrial Workers of the World declares that times are going to be very bad and advises people to live very quietly.

A southern evangelist has invited those of his congregations who cannot sing to whistle. This will no doubt fill a "long felt want."

"Mr. Brodeur has told the Commons that the treaty will be of no good at all without a direct steamship service at a maximum cost of $200,000 a year. France pays no part of this subsidy, which all falls on Canada."

This refers to the "advantages" of the new French treaty. This treaty is a companion to Sifton's "All Rot Route."

An amendment to the Liquor Licence Act sets out that when a man who is legally compellable to reveal the name of the person supplying him with liquor, refuses to do so he may be imprisoned until such time (not exceeding three months) as he does reveal the name.

This reads very like the old ordinances of torture. One step more and he will be flogged. A little further and the thumbscrew may be applied. The principal is wrong.

It might look as though it would have been better to have continued the sturdy Civil Service Commission which had presented a general report and demand of it more explicit results, than to appoint a new commission to go over only one specific charge in the whole report. The report as a whole would seem to be full of the most important matter upon which more mature recommendations might well be asked for.—Montreal Witness.

The report of the Civil Service Commission has supplanted even the G.T.P. in the public mind. It has provided the greatest surprise of the day to those who fondly hoped that in some direction at least Sir Wilfrid's promises would come to something.

"The leader of the opposition moved the adjournment to express his disapproval of the course taken by the Government. Mr. Borden held that one royal commission was sufficient for the whole enquiry. The Government had established a commission, which had done the work well and submitted a valuable report. Where further investigation was required, what better persons could there be than the three able men who had delved for months, with patient industry, into departmental methods, and acquired much information? No good reason was offered why these three men were sent away and a new man called in to begin at the beginning. The Premier suggested that the first commissioners were tired. The commissioners themselves did not say so. Evidently it was the Premier, and not the commissioners, who was tired.—Exchange.

Hon. Mr. Borden has answered the Commission by denying its charges. Surely there is every reason that it should be allowed an opportunity of substantiating or retracting them.

TIGHT LACING

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir.—While I am an old foe to whiskey being drunk by the young men and to people being drunk and to bars, I am not in favor of tight-lacing for women, which is unchristian and unscriptural. I would move that a vote be taken on this question at the earliest possible moment, and that a bare majority will suffice. Also on other subjects at the same time and place. Why not have smoking and chewing stopped since it is so [illegible], and a lot of other bad things.

GOOD CONDUCT.

PLAIN TALK FOR THE PEOPLE PRACTICE AND THEORY DIFFER

Liberal theorists have persistently scoffed at the statements of practical business men and manufacturers that sale prices are not the true measure of profits. General principles are fine things to employ if their employer knows really how to use them. The Liberal party nearly died of free trade before discovering that free trade like water, in the wrong place, work more harm than good. Mills may close, the balance of trade may be millions against us, cash may leave the country and leave it stranded. But what is that to the Liberal party if they can dramatically exclaim, "Trade should be free as the air. Tariffs are for trusts and monopolists." Speech should be free—yet with proper restrictions. Air is free—sometimes altogether too free. In the same way tariffs are for protection not for destruction or misuse. The Conservative party so employed them and thus raised Canada from no position at all into the main highway of development and progress. Surpluses are got from tariffs and from nowhere else. But too large a surplus is a misapplication of tariff and a temptation to spendthrifts and stockjobbers. The following extract from Leslie's is a plain talk on a plain fact. Though so simple it is often denied. Yet it furnishes an excellent example of the usefulness of the tariff when manufacturers and employees are compelled to "mark time." The great beauty of protection is as its name implies its power to tide nations over crises.

Where would Canada be at the the present time if in addition to her burden of boodlers and bunglers she had to bear the slaughtering of American manufacturers. Formerly the Liberal theorists used to say "Oh! We can stand cheap prices." Slaughtering means slaughtering in more ways than one however. In the course of time they found or ought to have found that cheapness was not always a good thing. When they bought cheaply from the U.S. and Great Britain, they were at the same time selling, for a momentary advantage, their own power to produce and to progress. A feast paralyses the higher sense of some people. It so worked with them. There was a complete lack of forethought and foresight. This the Conservative party supplied. The same fault exists with them today. It was not wholly killed out by the frost of defeat. They are playing a dangerous game with our textiles and with our finance.

If the banking system is all right then the conditions of business in the country must themselves be wholly to blame. These conditions are the work of the Laurier administration. The wage-earners feel them first. Soup kitchens like vultures follow the rear-guard in a retreat. The signs of the times are becoming more ominous. Spending our savings will not save us. The G.T.P. was to have brought prosperity for ten years. It has brought poverty within two. It has been a more mocking mirage. The farmer was the last to feel the benefits of the tariff, and he will be the last to lose them, but when he does our last anchor will be gone.

HAPPENINGS AT INDIAN RIVER

Mr. John Hall Meets With an Accident – Farmer's Team Runs Away

Indian River, April 8.—Mr. John Duff has commenced selling bread which is made by Stook & Co., Peterborough.

Mr. Hoden, of Peterborough, was the guest of Mr. John Devlin last Friday.

Mr. John Hall put a bad gash in his foot while cutting wood last week.

Mr. Charles Manley, of Toronto, was the guest of Mr. F. G. Walker last week.

The roads in our district are getting into better condition. The wheels are coming into use now.

Mr. Lawrence Stabler and Mr. Devlin are doing a large business in buying hogs.

Owing to the bad roads and the water flooding them there was no school held here last week.

Mr. J. L. Sullivan may soon start his tannery business here. It will be very handy to the trappers who are tapping mink, etc., along the river.

Mr. G. Rancier has sold his cheese factory to Mr. W. O'Leary. As Mr. Rancier is going to Ennismore, it is not yet fully decided if the factory will be in operation this season or not, but it is likely that it will. A A meeting will be called to consider matters soon.

While Mr. McAdams left his team standing in a local shed they suddenly became frightened at a passing train. They broke their halter shanks and started for home but were stopped while jumping a wire fence. Fortunately little damage was done.

Crossing The Divide.

By AZILE AIDYL.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Jessie Morgan.

The stagecoach rattled out of the little town of Redding at 6 o'clock on a snappy December evening. The driver swung his six horses with great flourish and cracking of whip through the rough but level road of the main street and out at the north end of the town. A brilliant dash down the steep incline to the creek, and he brought the coach far up the road on the other side, where the mountains rose so suddenly from the plains. And so began the climb over the divide.

The three passengers inside the coach, a young girl and two men, apparently accustomed to this mode of traveling, did not brace themselves to resist the pitching and rolling of the ponderous vehicle, but allowed themselves to sway with its every motion.

The road was broken and rough from the heavy autumn rains. Once the coach struck a "chuck hole," which almost brought the inmates to their feet and caused a general friendly laugh.

Up to this time the girl had paid no attention to her fellow travelers. She had been absorbed with her own homesick thoughts. To start the drudgery of a governess' life, miles from nowhere, with no prospect of returning home for a year, was depressing. Oh, well, she must make the best of it. She tried to distinguish the men's faces, but it was too dark, and both were muffled in heavy overcoats. As they boarded the coach at Redding she had noticed one was an old man, the other gray as to hair, broad, strong and youthful as to shoulders.

The older man sat beside her on the back seat. The two men chatted about the rich "strike" in Deadwood, where fortunes were being made in a day. She gathered that the young-old man was mining an old hydraulic property just beyond Lewiston, and he was on his way there. Well, she was going "just beyond Lewiston" also, and she wondered if this huge person was to be a neighbor of hers.

Their desultory talk gradually died away, the old man fell asleep, and his head bobbed and swayed and ducked about until he seemed in danger of losing it, but he slept on oblivious of such alarming possibilities.

At 11 o'clock they reached the Halfway House, and while the driver changed horses the passengers stretched their cramped limbs, pacing the narrow porch of the inn. Later they went into the low, long dining room, where a cold lunch and hot coffee were served them on a table spread with a red and white cloth. The girl saw that the young-old giant could not be more than thirty-seven or thirty-eight years old, though his hair was silver. And such blue eyes! They seemed to belong to a child, so clear and unclouded were they.

He supplied her needs at the table without seeming to do so, and when the driver called "All aboard!" he helped her into the coach in the same unobtrusive manner.

The fresh horses, only four now, as the heavy climb was over, pulled the stage along at a livelier pace, and within a half hour they had reached the summit of the divide and commenced the descent.

The driver cracked his whip, and they whirled down the narrow mountain road, swinging the horses far out on the very edge of the embankment as they turned the outward curve of the mountain and then sweeping rapidly in at the bend—as only a stage driver can and keep his coach in the middle of the road.

It was a magnificent night, the moonlight making it clear as day. The girl from her window could see innumerable lofty peaks of the great coast range stretching in what seemed a level line.

The passengers were startled by a sudden jerking of the coach and a wild imprecation from the driver.

"Something's wrong," said the giant, and he opened the window on the right hand side and looked out. In a moment he drew back.

"The off lead has broken the inside trace and is frightened," he said as he divested himself of his overcoat. The driver must have some help. "Don't be nervous"—this to the young girl. "We'll fix it all right."

He opened the door and stood on the step a second. By this time the terror of the runaway was communicated to the other horses, and they were fast getting beyond control. The coach was rocking and pitching at a tremendous rate.

"Close the door after I get on top," he called to the old man, who was thoroughly awake by this time, and then, waiting until the coach swung around the inner curve, he put one foot halfway up the door on the open window ledge and, grasping the low railing above, pulled himself up on to the top of the coach.

The girl had closed the door and, leaning far out, watched him as the swinging coach permitted step to the seat of the driver and over the dashboard to the tongue. A terrible lurch and he had to pause and hold on for a moment.

"Pull hard on the wheelers," he said to the driver. "I'll look after the others."

Slowly he began moving along the tongue of the wagon, and the girl felt sure he was talking to and reassuring the horses, for his presence did not seem to further alarm the poor frightened brutes.

The girl's hands suddenly grasped the sides of the window as she saw him near the end of the narrowing tongue and realized what he purposed doing. For a moment he paused to pat the neck of the wheeler; then, standing with one foot on the swinging singletree, he gave a tremendous leap and sprang to the back of the maddened leader. He drew himself along over the foaming creature's shoulder and, reaching forward, succeeded in freeing the bit from its clinched teeth, then, talking softly and gently patting its neck, gradually quieted the poor animal, which now, responding to the sawing of the reins, came to a standstill halfway down the mountain side.

The man sprang to the ground, as did the driver, and together they mended the trace and looked over the entire harness. The horses, steaming and trembling, were now docile as lambs.

"You'll have no further trouble tonight," said the man to the driver. "These poor brutes are pretty thoroughly exhausted."

"Smoking Jehoshaphat, but that was a close shave!" said the driver. "We'd all been in kingdom come if it hadn't been for you."

"Oh, not as bad as that, I guess!" answered the man and, turning to the horse who had caused all the trouble, "You would have come to your senses in time, wouldn't you, old boy?" The horse answered by rubbing his head against the man's shoulder.

The giant walked back and climbed into the coach as though nothing unusual had occurred, but the driver as he mounted to his seat and gathered up the reins muttered: "That dodgasted horse never giv' in like that to anybody in his life before. That feller's a reg'lar charmer, like the one in the show at Frisco."

And as the stage rattled on he would say every few minutes, "A reg'lar charmer, that's wot he is."

They made fairly good time thereafter and just at dawn pulled up before the door of a small hotel in Lewiston. As the girl, very pale, stepped to the ground she held out her hand to the silver haired giant, saying:

"I want to thank you. I saw what you did, and it was that which frightened me most. You saved our lives. I shall never forget it. Goodby," and she disappeared into the hotel.

He saw her several times after that at the Peterson ranch just below his mine. He learned that she was the new governess for the Peterson children, but was always busy when he called at their ranch. And how often it seemed necessary to see Peterson lately, even though he never had more than a moment's talk with her.

One day a terrible storm came up, and it rained unceasingly, which kept the giant busy strengthening the reservoirs. The next morning he was awakened by the roar of rushing water. Dressing hurriedly and putting on his high rubber boots, he was soon down at the point of the hill where he could see that Peterson's ranch was entirely submerged, the house seeming to stand in the center of a lake, with the water gradually rising past the window sills. He hurried down the hill and waded through the three feet of water to the house. He climbed through a window, and there on the stairs sat the girl.

"Throw something warm over your head and shoulders and come down," he called.

The girl unhesitatingly complied. He opened the door with great difficulty; then mounting the stairs halfway he gathered her in his arms and without a "by your leave" strode out of the door through the water to the hills.

"The storm is abating, and the water will soon recede, but you could not remain there. My foreman's wife will make you comfortable."

How small and light she was! He could carry her so forever! And how disgustingly narrow the flooded valley seemed! Reluctantly he placed her on the rising ground.

"Where were the Petersons?" he asked.

"They went to visit relatives on the X-Bar ranch. Oh, they left the hired man with me! He had just gone, as you came, to see what he could get in the way of a boat or a balloon."

Then still in a laughing tone, though her eyes filled, she said, "It seems to be your business to come to my rescue."

"Won't you give me the job for life?" he asked eagerly. "I believe I could prevent disaster touching you, even a flood."

And, looking up into his strong, powerful face, she answered, "I believe you could," as she put both hands in his.

REPORT OF POST-MORTEM EXAMINATION

Upon Body of Late Elgin Weaver ---Inquest Again Adjourned

The inquest into the death of the late W. Elgin Weaver was resumed last evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Council Chamber before Coroner Dr. Gray and again adjourned until Wednesday, April 15th, at the same hour. The report of Prof. Ellis, of Toronto, who is examining the stomach of the dead man has not yet been received. The jurors answered to their names as follows last night:—Messrs. Geo. W. Powell (foreman); Thos. Lytle, Robt. Mitchell, J. A. Armstrong, John Craig, John F. Thornton, George W. Powell, F. Bartlett, A. H. Webb, John Thirnbeck, Thomas Emmerson, Geo. Stenton, Henry R. Stewart, George Stevens.

Crown Attorney R. E. Wood explained that he had had a communication from Detective Miller, of Toronto, who asked for a week's adjournment. However, the report of Drs. Boucher and Young, who made the post-mortem examination, was received.

It is as follows:

We beg to report that in accordance with instructions from R. E. Wood, the County Crown Attorney, we made a post-mortem examination upon the body of the late W. E. Weaver. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition. Upon removing the skull cap we found that the brain matter had all disappeared, nothing but a small amount of jelly-like matter remaining. The heart had likewise so decomposed that it was impossible to discover any pathological changes, should they have existed. Nothing remained but a small nodular mass to the position the heart should have occupied. The lungs had disintegrated. The liver was shrunken. We, however, managed to obtain a section of it. The kidneys were smaller than normal, a section of the left kidney being obtained. The stomach was removed. It contained a slight amount of dark colored material. In accordance with instructions received from Dr. Ellis, of Toronto, we forwarded to him in sealed jars the stomach together with sections of the liver and kidney.

The body was in such a putrid condition that it was impossible for us to give any idea of the cause of death.

Signed,

RINK COMPANY HAD GOOD YEAR

Annual Meeting of Peterborough Hockey Club, Ltd., Held Last Night

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Hockey Club, Ltd., was held last evening at the offices of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company. The directors' report showed that the past season had been a fairly successful one, although the returns were not quite as large as in some previous years.

At a meeting of the directors held after the general meeting, the officers were re-elected as follows;—

President—W. H. Hill.
Vice-Pres.—T. H. G. Denne.
Secretary—C. G. Graham.

Mr. John Crane was elected auditor.

Arrangements for the coming season were discussed and general business transacted.

PRESENTATION TO HARRY BURRIDGE

Given Handsome Suit Case by a Number of Intimate Friends ---Left This Afternoon

Mr. Harry Burridge, catcher and captain of the Peterborough Baseball team of last season, left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train this afternoon for Toronto on his way to Youngstown, Ohio, where he will play ball this season. In the departure of Mr. Burridge, Peterborough loses a gentlemanly young man and a splendid ball player. Last night he was the recipient of a handsome suit case from the boys of the Windsor Hotel, where he has boarded during his stay in Peterborough. Mr. R. M. Glover of the Examiner staff was present and made the presentation, referring at the same time to Harry's ability as a ball player and the esteem in which he was held in the city. His departure was greatly regretted.

Mr. Burridge made a feeling reply, expressing thanks for the valuable gift and for the kindly feeling that prompted its donation.

Afterwards a jolly social time was spent by those present. Songs were given by "Fritz" O'Brian, Charlie Satterley, Gordon Buschel, Harry Burridge and Cooney Burns, and there were speeches by a number of others.

Local ball fans will wish Harry every success across the line, and are confident of his ability to hold his own in the league in which he will be playing.

The gathering broke up by singing "God Save the King," and "Auld Lang Syne."

What is the Early Rising Sale?

You all know how hard it is to get up early enough on Saturday morning to do your shopping before the rush begins. We have decided that something must be done to encourage the early Saturday shopping, as the first two hours are the quietest of the day, and the others are too rushed for the convenience of the customers and ourselves. The decision terminated in a sale for the two hours only, viz:

The Early Rising Sale

Specials for the sale will be advertised in each Saturday Snap ad., which comes out in Friday evenings papers. The first two Saturdays proved that the sale will be a success, in fact last week, when the gong rang for 10.10, there was a large number of customers waiting to be served, and many more came too late for the Specials.

We wish to strongly impress on the minds of all that the sale is for two hours only—not one minute before 8 10 or one minute after 10.10. All coming between these hours are entitled to the Specials advertised under the above heading, but after 10.10 the Goods that are left will be removed. However, during the balance of the day the advertised Saturday Snaps will be found marked with Green Tickets throughout the store, and many lines unadvertised as well. See the Saturday Snap ad. tomorrow evening for the two Early Rising Specials—Laces 3c Yard and Art Sateens 11c Yard. Come early, and don't be one of the disappointed customers.

INTERMEDIATES MEET TO-NIGHT

All Clubs Interested Should Have Represenatives at Meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

A meeting will be held at the Y.M.C.A. to-night at eight o'clock for the purpose of re-organizing the intermediate baseball league. The meeting will be a most important one and every club interested should have its representatives present. President Lang will be in the chair and among the business to come up will be the election of officers for the ensuing season. It is also intended to put the league on a better basis than last year in order that there may be no friction. The meeting is called for eight o'clock.

BRASS DEPT. THE WINNERS

Defeat Commutator Dept. at Peterboro' Bowling Club Alleys Last Night

In one of the closest and most interesting contests played on the Peterborough Bowling Club alleys a team representing the Brass Department of the General Electric Company last night succeeded in defeating the representatives of the Commutator department by the small margin of 26 pins after playing four games, the winners slaughtering the timer to the extent of 2,180 pins while teh losers knocked down 2,154 pins during the evening's play. Several very good bowlers were uncovered during the evening and if the winners succeed in arranging the match, they have challenged the Cereal Co. and a stern battle will ensue when the teams come together.

Conway carried off the individual honors during the evening, bowling 543 in his four games, his high single being 174. Dineen, for the winners, furnished the next best figures, his total for the four games being 506. Hanrahan bowled well for the Commutators, while Bourne also had a splendid average for a young bowler. Edmundson, Crough and R. Heard contributed materially to the victory of the Brass Department, while Beckett brought up the rear, though he had the highest single score with 143.

The winners now claim the championship of the C.G.E. and expect to arrange the all-important game with the Cereal Company for some evening next week.

The scores were as follows:—

SPORTING NEWS

PETERBORO' CRICKET CLUB IN FAVOR OF JOINING THE CENTRAL ONTARIO LEAGUE

Annual Meeting Held at Y. M. C. A. Last Night—Outside Towns Approve of Formation of League—Club's Officers for This Year

At the Peterborough Cricket Club annual meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last night the proper spirit was shown by the large number in attendance, and much interest in the business of the evening was shown by those present. The presence of twenty-six seniors and juniors at the meeting would seem an indication that cricket will be given a big impetus in Peterborough this season and if the proposed Central Ontario league is formed this city should be represented by a worthy eleven.

It was encouraging to see so many juniors on hand. They apparently intend to get into the game in earnest. The boys must be looked to to provide players for the senior teams should the game be once more established in these parts. And for the sporting credit of the city it is to be sincerely hoped that it will. The older members of the club intend to do everything in their power to help the youngsters along and to make the game boom in Peterborough.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the season resulted as follows;

Hon. Pres.—Dr. Burnham.
President—E. B. Lovekin.
Vice-Pres.—Allan Campbell.
Sec.-Treas.—Harry Clarke.
Executive Committee — T. Kardley Wilmot, F. C. Derieu, Cyril Hill, E. Reaston, A. C. Yokome, E. R. Stocker, E. A. Roe, G. R. Coleman and Harold Matthews and Barker Dean from the juniors.

GIFT OF TWO CRICKET BALLS.

Mr. Stocker very kindly made the presentation of two match balls to the club. The balls are from the old country where they were used in English games. Mr. Stocker's gift is much appreciated, and a vote of thanks moved by Dr. Burnham and seconded by Mr. E. A. Roe was tendered him.

THE HONORARY PRESIDENT.

The full board of officers with the exception of the honorary president were chosen before that official was chosen. Mr. Lovekin said it gave him great pleasure to nominate Dr. Burnham for the office. The motion was seconded by Mr. Clarke and unanimously carried. Dr. Burnham, who has always been an invaluable member of the club made a few remarks promising he would do all he could in the interests of the Peterborough Cricket Club.

CENTRAL ONTARIO LEAGUE.

One of the most important questions discussed during the evening was the one of the formation of a Central Ontario Cricket League. Mr. Clarke said he had communicated with several clubs with the view of having one organized. He has received replies from some of them and expects to hear from the others later on. Those replying have enthusiastically endorsed the proposition. He read a letter from Mr. J. Collins Davis, secretary of the Orillia Cricket Club, in which the writer said his club was very much in favor of the formation of the league.

Dr. BURNHAM
Hon. Pres. Peterborough Cricket Club.

TEAMS FOR LEAGUE.

The league if formed will be composed of two sections, the eastern and western with the following teams;

Eastern Section—Warkworth, Colborne and Campbellford.

Western Section — Orillia, Port Hope and Lindsay or Peterborough.

The formation of the league was approved of at the meeting and a representative to the place of meeting for the organization of the league will be appointed at a later meeting.

FEES 50c. AND $2.00.

A membership fee of 50c. for juniors and $2.00 for seniors, was decided upon. The junior fee was made as reasonable as possible as it is the desire of the club to give the boys all the encouragement possible to get into the game.

Without a single liability the prospects of the Peterborough Cricket Club for the coming summer look very bright.

LONGBOAT, COLEY AND SIMPSON TO BE THE MARATHON RUNNERS

Tom Flanagan Says They Will Represent Canada in the 25 Mile Event at the Olympiad

The following appears in the March number of "Outdoor Canada;"

"In an interview with T. J. Flanagan, chairman Irish-Canadian Athletic Club, Toronto, he gave out the following information concerning the club's intentions regarding the teams they propose sending to the English Olympian races, to be held at ———, England, July ——— next. For the one mile and five-mile races there will be entered Thomas Longboat, I.C.A.C.; Thomas Coley, I.C.A.C., and Jack Tait, W.E.Y.M.C.A. For the 25-mile sprint, Longboat, Coley and Simpson, the Peterborough Indian, will compete. Simpson will take no part in any of the shorter course races."

One would be led to believe from the above that Tom Flanagan was running the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. Harriers of which Simpson is a member. Of course the genial Thomas may be the works of the whole athletic show in Canada and if such is the case nothing can be done. From here, however, it looks as if Thomas Flanagan will not be the only one to say in which the races the Hiawatha boy will compete.

MEETING WILL BE IMPORTANT

In Connection With Pedestrian Tournament--- A Full Attendance Requested

A meeting of the officers of the walking tournament and those interested will be held at the Oriental to-night at 8 o'clock.

The meeting will be an important one and a full attendance is looked for. As the time for the event is not far distant, it is hoped that as many as can possibly attend will do so.

CENTRALS WON CLOSE GAME OF BASKETBALL

The local Y.M.C.A. basketball team showed surprisingly good form in their game with the Central Y.M.C.A. five of Toronto, last night and gave the fast visitors the game of their lives. The full time score was 28 to 21 in favor of the Toronto aggregation, with the half-time tally 14—13, with the Queen City men in the lead.

SIEVERT'S SHOOTING.

The feature of the match was Sievert's magnificent shooting. He scored 10 of the 14 points in the first half, when his throwing was particularly good. Britton at centre also played a nice game for the visitors.

For the locals the Best brothers and Sutherland were probably the most conspicuous.

THE PLAY.

Toronto secured the first basket, but the locals came back with several others and were in the lead for the most of the half. The play was fast and the checking very close both teams being inclined to be a little strenuous.

Shortly after the commencement of the second half the score was 15—15, but Toronto pulled away and got a lead of several points. The home team took a sudden brace at the latter end of the game and made a very strong finish.

THE TEAMS.

Individually and as checks the Peterborough players were fully as good as the visitors and in fact had it on them in the above respects. Considering their lack of organized practice and that they were up against a fast team that has had a great deal of practice they did exceedingly well.

The system of the Toronto bunch was much in evidence and their signals were used to good advantage.

Where the locals lacked was in shooting, while this was the visitors' strong point.

FOULS AND BASKETS.

It is somewhat of a co-incident that both teams had the same number of fouls against them and secured the same number of baskets. Each made 16 fouls and each had six baskets from the floor.

Messrs. J. Lang, of the local "Y" and Fred Smith, assistant physical director of the Central Y.M.C.A. Toronto, each acted as umpire and referee respectively in the first and second halves.

The teams:

Peterborough—E Best, N. Darling, forwards; Sutherland, centre; Ray Best, S Laing and D. Loomis, defence.

Toronto—Sievert, Tompkins, forwards; Britain, centre; Swanson, and Walker, defence.

LOCAL BOWLERS FOR TORONTO

Will Go up on Friday--Interesting Contest Arranged for To-night

The feature tonight on the P.B.C. alleys will be a big match game between four of the city's cleverest bowlers, Boyd, Frost, McIlroy and Wareham. It will be a team match, Boyd and Frost against the other couple. This match will give the members a line on the merits of the two teams, who have already been made favorities for the four-hour grind which will be held as soon as changes which are now being at the club are completed.

Arrangements have been completed to send a team to Toronto on Friday. Wareham, Frost, McIlroy, Boyd, Joe Pollard and possibly one or two others will make the trip. They will leave in the morning and in the afternoon and evening they meet a picked Toronto team at the C.B.C. alleys. A couple of the bowlers are also talking of making a trip to Detroit leaving here Good Friday evening. Saturday is Canadian Day at the Detroit tournament and the intention is to take part in the play on that day along with a large contingent of Toronto bowlers, who are going by special train.

DROPPED DEAD ON HUNTER ST.

Peterboro' Fuel and Cartage Co. Lost Another Horse To-day

Within two months the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Co. have lost two of their horses and seem to be experiencing considerably hard luck in this line. This morning about half-past nine one of their teams was going along Hunter street with a load of trunks, when, at the corner of George street the bay horse of the two suddenly expired and fell to the road. Assistance was at once given the animal in an endeavor to get it on its feet again, but it was no use. The horse had not previously been stricken with any illness and its death was unexpected.

NEW LODGE WILL HAVE MEETING

Duke of Manchester L. O. L. Will Initiate More Candidates---District May be Formed

Tomorrow night a meeting of the recently organized Duke of Manchester, L.O.L. will be held. It is expected there will be a large class initiated, which will then complete the organization. This new lodge is composed of some of the finest young men in the city, and promises to be one of the best in the district.

At present arrangements are being made for a concert and lecture the week after next, when the officials expect to have one of the best speakers in Western Ontario present as well as local orators.

With the organization of the Duke of Manchester Lodge there are now three lodges in the city and there is a movement on foot to organize a district here so that every twelfth of July there will be an assembly of Orangemen in Peterborough instead of a meet once in every four years.

LEFT LAKEFIELD FOR TRENTON

But Got Drunk in This City---Wm. Harrison in Police Court

Wm. Harrison came to the city yesterday from Lakefield and had intended going to Trenton to work on the section of the Trent Canal that is being opened there. However, he met a couple of friends and together they drank too much. Harrison was arrested for being drunk and disorderly on the city streets. He pleaded guilty in police court this morning but had no money to pay a fine. He was told to go to Trenton right away or he would be put where he would not reach that town for a few months.

A BOY'S VACATION

A novel booklet has just been issued by the Grand Trunk Railway entitled, "What shall a boy do with his Vacation?" The book answers this annual puzzle in a manner that should prove satisfactory alike to parents and boys. The idea developed by the brochure is the establishment of boys' camps in the wilderness, where the youngsters could live under canvas and get a genuine bit of simple life, with plenty of fishing, swimming, rowing and other outdoor sports, while instruction in woodcraft and such nature studies make the camps veritable schools of the wilds, such as would rejoice the hearts of Dr. Long, President Roosevelt or other advocates of the simple life. The booklet tells of many such camps in the Temagami, Lake of Bays, Algonquin Park and other districts with illustrations of the way the boys spend their time and the fish they catch, which would prove attractive to a good many besides boys. A postal card to the undersigned will secure a copy without cost. J. D. McDonald, D.P.A., Union Station, Toronto.

ANOTHER BIG BACKDOWN; WHY WAS IT UNDERTAKEN?

A Very Fortunate Failure to Carry Out a Most Baneful Policy---The Thanks of Canada Due to the Opposition---Their Untiring Efforts Rewarded.

London, April 7.—As a result of the conferences held in this city between Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, Deputy Minister of Labor of Canada; Mr. John Morley, Secretary of State for India, and the Earl of Elgin, Secretary of State for the Colonies, a satisfactory solution of the difficulty arising from the emigration of Indians to Canada has been found. While no legislation to restrict this movement from India will be passed, administrative measures will be taken to deter the Indians from going to Canada. Circulars will be sent to the Punjab and other districts in India, explaining that the condition of the labor market makes it undesirable for the Indian workmen to go to Canada, and that the Canadian climate also is unsuited to them.—The Globe.

OTTAWA-TORONTO TRAIN WILL BE DISCONTINUED

It is the intention of the C.P.R. to discontinue the Ottawa-Toronto train. It will be taken off this route the first of next week. This was a through train from Toronto to Ottawa. It arrived here about half an hour after the Montreal midnight and passed through here returning to Toronto next morning at 4.10. It has been running for the past six months and has proved a great convenience to the travelling public desiring to reach Ottawa without changing trains. However, this service has not been to the railway company what it was thought it would be. There has not been sufficient business to guarantee its continuance.

DEATH OF SOUTH AFRICAN VETERAN LAST EVENING

With shocking suddenness came the death of Mr Richard Boyle, which occurred at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. John Shanahan, 319 McDonell street last evening.

About two weeks ago the deceased contracted a cold, which later developed into pneumonia. Despite the fact that everything that medical aid could do was done, he passed away.

The late Mr. Boyle was 28 years of age and was born in this city. He was widely known and highly respected. He was prominent in military and athletic circles, being quarter master sergeant of the 24th Field Battery and a player on the Peterborough lacrosse team. Mr. Boyle was also a South African war veteran and was a member of the second and third Canadian contingents to South Africa. He fought in several of the battles of the war and served his King and country faithfully as a soldier.

His demise is particularly sad in that he was married hardly six months ago to Miss Shanahan, who is left to mourn his loss. His death will be learned of with deep regret and his many friends will extend their sympathy to his sorrowing wife.

Besides his wife, his mother and one brother, Martin, of this city, survives him.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning from 319 McDonell st. to St. Peter's cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery. It will be under military auspices and will be attended by the 57th band and regiment, 24th Field Battery and 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons.

YOUNG MAN WAS STRUCK BY TRAIN

Had Narrow Escape From Serious Injury at C.P.R. Station

A young man in the employ of the George Matthews Co., had a narrow escape from serious injury at the C.P.R. station on Tuesday evening. He was sitting on a truck checking over baskets of meat and placing them in the express car of the 4.45 train. The truck was quite close to the car and when the train began to move away the young man was struck with great force on the knees and fell off the truck, between the platform and the train. He was knocked senseless for a while, but soon after recovered from the shock. Other than severe bruises to his knees he was not badly hurt.

WEDDING BELLS

McGUIRE—BROWNLEE

A wedding of much local interest was solemnized yesterday afternoon in the city of Toronto, when Miss Eva V. Brownlee of Orangeville, and daughter of Mr. Robt. Brownlee, Belfast, Ireland, was united in marriage to Mr. Ross V. McGuire of this city, and son of Mr. Wm. McGuire, Tilsonburg. The wedding was a quiet one and was performed by Rev. T. E. Bartley, pastor of Elm street Methodist church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the bride, her four sisters, Mrs. D. A. Hogg and Mrs. D. A. McBride of Orangeville, and Misses Emma and Florence Brownlee of Toronto. The bride wore a travelling suit of navy blue panama cloth, with hat to match. The bride and groom were unattended.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the bride and groom, a sumptuous repast was partaken of at the residence of the bride's cousin, 139 Riverdale avenue.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuire arrived in Peterborough last evening, and have taken up residence at 258 Aylmer street.

C.G.E. "AT HOME" OPERA HOUSE

Sale of Seats is Large---Another Successful Affair Assured

The second annual "At Home" tomorrow night at the Grand Opera House under the auspices of the C. G.E. Benefit Association will be a splendid success.

The sale of tickets is very large, showing the general appreciation of the excellent programme that has been prepared. The plan is at the Grand Opera House box office.

A HIGHLAND PARADISE

Among the "Highlands of Ontario" there ar several districts that appeal to the tourist and summer traveller, but the most popular and probably the most beautiful of these districts is the one known as the "Lake of Bays," a territory covering many hundred square miles of land and water scapes and where the influx of summer travellers is increasing every year. Many an enthusiast has named the Lake of Bays "Queen of Lakes." It is a place where the cool breezes blow, where groves of spice balsam lift their graceful minarets against the sky; where there are no swamps; where bathing is safe and where the speckled trout, salmon trout and black bass are found, and where the deer abound.

This charming district is situated on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway System and is reached through Huntsville, 146 miles north of Toronto.

A new hotel with accommodation for 200 has been erected and is conceded to be the best of the summer hotels in the northern districts. A handsome territory, descriptive of the territory and giving all information as to guides, rates, routes, etc., and full description of the new hotel can be had free on application to J. D. McDonald DPA., Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

Paris has adopted a by-law to raise $40,000 for the central school, towards which Mr. Penman will contribute $15,000.

Leopold Bryan, alias Maurice Long, the young Englishman arrested at Belleville for forgery, was sentenced to two years yesterday.

SUGAR SEASON AT HAND AGAIN

Public This Year Apparently Wants the "Pure Stuff" in Maple Syrup Line

The season of maple sugar making is at hand.

It is therefore not an uncommon sight in the country round about, and especially to the north of the Ottawa River, to see the farmer who can still boast of being the possessor of a maple bush betimes wending his way thither. It is a spot, too, which has an especial interest or attraction for more than the farmer. His family and his neighbors—for the farmer usually takes good care to see that all his friends shall share in the joys of the sugar camp—may be seen on an evening gathered together at that place of jollity, where all earthly cares are forgotten in the excitement of the "sugaring off" process.

DEATH OF REV. MR. WAUGH THE CHILDREN'S BENEFACTOR

The Originator and Founder of the Children's Aid Movement—A Fine Type of Christian—A True Hero of the Slums.

The Catholic Times of Liverpool, chronicles the death of the Rev. Benjamin Waugh, noted as being the founder of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The term to us in this country is somewhat foreign. Though we have societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals, our care for the prevention of harsh treatment to the little things of earth has not gone further than this, in name at least. As a matter of fact, however, our Children's Aid Associations do practically the same work as that of the English societies whose names declare them as organized defenders for the preservation of children from the cruelty of parents and other guardians to whom they may be entrusted. When Mr. Waugh first inaugurated his crusade he found the road by no means easy. Ordinary parents and even others, did not imagine that there existed any ground for the interference of Mr. Waugh between some children and those in whose care they were placed. He was accordingly regarded in some places as being highly meddlesome. The cries of the little ones, however, were in his ears, and disregarding all the opprobrium which his first efforts drew towards himself, he persevered with the result that in the end he is regarded as among the benefactors of the English nation.

Amongst the earliest supporters of the English philanthropist was Cardinal Manning who, from the beginning recognized the wide field for Mr. Waugh's efforts. Other supporters followed and it was soon found that all too many parents were capable of not only ill-using their children, but even of depriving them of life and resorting to terrible means for the purpose of doing so. When the extent of the evil came home to Mr. Waugh he often remarked, "One may well shudder at the sufferings of the children, for it is terrible to think of what is going on in this country of ours." The children's benefactor in his closing years had the consolation of knowing that he had been the means of rescuing thousands from the cruelty of those who by natural and other ties should have been their first true protectors, and without doubt his reward was great, for he belonged to the class for whom the promise was given, "in as much as ye have done it to one of these, My little ones, ye have done it unto Me," and the further promise that "a cup of cold water given in My name shall not go unrewarded."—The Catholic Register.

The death of Rev. Mr. Waugh recalls to mind his life which was one of sympathy and sweetness. The first society of the kind in Canada, as it happened to be, the one in Peterborough, was organized in 1891, although not incorporated till 1893. It was first constituted as a branch of Rev. Mr. Waugh's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in England. Later on the movement in Canada, was taken up by Mr. Beverley Jones and others in Toronto, who acquired the literature of this society, had the Canadian movement enlarged and systematized, and had placed on the statute books the various children's acts. From that out these societies in this country were called "Children's Aid" societies. Rev. Mr. Waugh was really the first also to take the wife-beater in hand. There can be no doubt that the work of this Baptist divine was, and is, as the Catholic Register puts it, the work of "the children's benefactor." He was a man of quiet, lovable nature and one of whom the world may reasonably be proud. As he founded the society in Peterborough by special personal letter admitting it to membership as a branch of his own society in Engalnd, it might not be unbecoming for the local society to express its acknowledgments at this time in the usual way.

THE "WATER LILY" IS LAUNCHED

Improvement to the "Otonabee"--Accident to Her Last Night

The Water Lily was launched yesterday and will soon make her first trip.

Some time during last night frost got into the sea cock of the steamer Otonabee and as a result the boat filled with water and went down. She was moored at her wharf in Ashburnham at the time. The damage will probably not exceed $50. Capt. White has a gang of men at work raising the boat.

The boat is to be greatly improved this year and will have a first-class dining room and new cabins.

SLIPPED ON CEMENT FLOOR; WOUND TOOK SIX STITCHES

Accident to Harold P. Opie a Young New Zealander--Was Doing Some Athletic Stunts at Local Livery Barn.

Mr. Harold P. Opie, a young New Zealander of 22 or 23 years of age, who has just arrived in the city, met with a very painful accident last night at Eastwood's livery barns. With a number of other young fellows he was doing some athletic stunts on the cement floor of barn, and as he was making what is known as "three quick jumps," he slipped and fell back on his head receiving a bad gash in the back of head. The wound bled freely and he was carried into the office where he remained until the arrival of a physician, who found it necessary to put six stitches in the wound. During the operation Mr. Opie displayed great grit and didn't utter a sound while it was being performed.

After the stitches were put in he was removed to his boarding house, Mrs. King's restaurant on George street. The young men who were present in the barn at the time of the accident, generously clubbed together and paid the doctor's bill.

This morning Mr. Opie is confined to his room and is feeling somewhat sick and faint but expects to be around in the course of a week or so.

CHINESE BOOK HAS SOME PECULIARITIES FOR STRANGERS

A Review representative was shown somewhat of a curiosity last night in the shape of a Chinese novel. It is in possession of a native of the Flowery Kingdom now residing in Peterborough and until close inspection is made there is somewhat of a resemblance to one of Bertha M. Clay's masterpieces. The book is about the size of the ordinary ten cent novel, and is, of course, printed in the Chinese language. The newspaperman was informed that it was a love story, but he wasn't able to read the last chapter and see if the hero and heroine were married and on the high road of happiness, never more to wander from it. The peculiarity about a Chinese book is that the first chapter is located where the last should be. A Chinaman starts to read at the back of the book and finishes up at the front. This information is given for the benefit of Review readers who might start to read a Chinese book at some time in their lives.

HUSBAND SENT WORD TO WIFE THAT HE HAD BEEN KILLED

Peterboro' Man Working in Omemee Sought Peculiar Means to Get Wife to Come to Him—His Plans Were Unsuccessful

Charlie Clarke went to Omemee ern village a few weeks ago and engaged with a farmer by the name of Wm Graham, his wife and two children remaining here

Yesterday shortly after one o'clock Mrs Wynn, Charlotte street, a sister of Clarke, received a telephone message from Omemee that her brother had been kicked by a horse and instantly killed. She was asked to break the horrible news to Clarke's wife and tell her to come to Omemee and arrange for burial. The body, it was said, was brought into the village hotel and would be left there, awaiting the arrival of his relatives.

Crying and in great distress, Mrs. Clarke and her husband's sister went to Dr. Gray's, seeking advice what to do. The doctor advised them to see an undertaker, who would look after the arrangements of bringing the remains to the city. The hotel at Omemee was phoned and it was learned that there was no body. However, Clarke's father and brother and Patrick Coursey consulted Mr. D. Belleghem and instructed him to take a casket to Omemee and prepare the body for burial

Before doing this Mr Belleghem 'phoned McCrea, the Omemee undertaker, and received the information that the alleged dead man was quite alive and had been seen on the village streets this morning.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE BILL AT TORONTO

Allan Studholme's Eloquence Fails to Move the House—Mr. Smith's Annual Measure Again Turned Down—All Ontario to Vote on Same Day.

Toronto, April 10.—Premier Whitney was quite emphatic yesterday in the Legislature about the uniformity of election dates. The Opposition feared from a clause in the Statute Law Amendment Act that the Northern Ontario elections would be postponed. Hon. Mr. MacKay asked if they would be held on the same day as the rest.

"They must be," was Mr. Whitney's reply. "I say, and I want to be understood as saying, there is not the remotest suggestion, hope, wish or desire they should not."

He pointed out that if no means were left of postponing an election in the event of an accident or error the election might be altogether canceled.

"I accept the assurance of Premier Whitney that all the elections will be held on one day," said Hon. Mr. MacKay.

It had been reported that the Government had some intentions of delay, and that the matter was settled in caucus.

Richard Harcourt scored a point in objecting to a clause in the Government bill which was intended to muzzle the auditor. That official insists on having a voucher for every dollar spent in criminal investigation, and those who know that the publication in the public accounts of every detail of detective operations is in the last degree impracticable. But the law says the auditor must have vouchers and the present auditor insists on the letter. The Government bill provided that the Attorney-General could authorize any expenditures of this nature, and that any money provided for the purpose should be set aside as a "criminal law enforcement fund."

Mr. Harcourt would not suggest for a moment narrowing the power of the Attorney-General, but he would have no fund which he believed would open the way to extravagance.

Hon. Mr. Hanna pointed out that a fund known as the "liquor law enforcement fund" was set aside, but Mr. Harcourt held they were not on the same footing. The liquor informer was the worst detested man in the community, while public sympathy followed the detection of ordinary crime.

The act provides a salary of not less than $2,000 for police magistrates who do not practice the profession of law directly or indirectly or engage in any business of any kind, in cities having a population of 20,000.

John Smith (Peel), reiterated his loyalty to the principle of woman suffrage in moving the second reading of his bill in the Legislature yesterday to give a vote in the provincial elections to widows and spinsters owning property.

"Why discriminate?" interjected Premier Whitney.

Mr. Smith was assured of the wide interest taken in the question from the letters that came to him from all over the province. Women, from the experience gained in other countries, gave a more intelligent and independent vote than most men. He was in his 77th year, but he still hoped to live to see the principle adopted.

Premier Whitney appreciated the motives of the hon. gentleman. He did not, however, understand why he brought his bill up again this year, after having divided the House upon it last year,

It was utterly impossible at this stage to deal with the bill on its merits. Mr. Smith could not have expected it or he would not have confined its operations. At no period of the history of the country had any great drastic change taken place without some evidence of a desire for it. Not a petition or a letter or anything had been presented to show any feeling, but the most undoubted apathy.

Allan Studholme was surprised at the Premier's view of Mr. Smith's insistence. When Mr. Whitney was defeated he did not give up, but came back again and again until now he sat with a big majority behind him. The principle of woman suffrage was just as true and noble as any held by Premier Whitney and had been recognised in New Zealand and other countries and proved successful in application.

It was all very well to say that woman's place was in the House, when they were driven by thousands to work in stores and factories. Talk of heroes, said the Labor member, but he could think of none greater than the mother leaving her child with a sick husband to go out and scrub office floors to keep the family. A man ought to be willing to give a woman what he wanted for himself. If Premier Whitney would not do it another would.

"I would rather vote for a good woman than for any man I ever saw," he concluded.

The bill was lost on a division.

Hon. Mr. Matheson has introduced a bill in the Legislature which will authorize the Government to accept the offer of the Dominion Government to pay off trust funds held by them by cancelling the indebtedness of the province as settled by arbitration, a sum of $1,737,190.72. The trust funds are as follows:

Upper Canada Grammar School fund, $312,769.04; land improvement fund, $124,685.18; common school fund, $1,476,815.92; total, $1,914,270.14. Due by the province, $1,737,190.72; balance, $177,079.42.

When the province sought to place a loan the liabilities were asked for and this amount due appeared against its credit. When they received five per cent. interest from the Dominion there was some object in allowing the moneys to remain in trust. Since the interest had been reduced to four per cent. this advantage had disappeared.

Hon. R. Harcourt observed that the matter was of intense interest, and only those who gave it close attention would understand it, Sir William Meredith, when leader of the Opposition, and Mr. Marter, held that the trust funds were not really a tangible asset. Mr. Harcourt had not taken that view, and now that they were to be turned into cash he was justified. He quite agreed with the action proposed in the bill. It was not worth while to go to the Privy Council and risk the chances of a lawsuit for the difference between the bank interest on $900,000 and five per cent.

The balance will form part of the consolidated fund.

HE FEARS JAP AGGRESSION

Premier Price of South Australia Voice Apprehension.

London, April 10.—Australia's apprehension in the matter of possible aggression on the part of Japan, was voiced at the meeting held in London yesterday afternoon by the Australian Chamber of Commerce by Thomas Price, Premier of South Australia. Mr. Price was emphasizing the necessity of Great Britain giving a more tangible proof of her interests in the colonies.

"You cannot keep a colony by merely flying a flag over it, even the Union Jack," he said. "There must be sympathy and understanding behind the flag. With the awakening of the east, if you are going to retain Australia as a jewel of the British crown, some one has got to stand up and fight to keept it."

Mr. Price expressed his approval in strong terms of the proposal to raise a numerous federal citizen army in Australia.

OIL STEAMER ABANDONED

In Mid-Atlantic After Three Days of a Terrific Storm—Overpowering Fumes of Oil.

Plymouth, April 10.—The steamer Norwegian tank Helios, the crew of which were rescued in mid-Atlantic by the steamer Majestic, as reported Wednesday, was abandoned in north latitude 44, west longitude 39. She had encountered a terrific storm that lasted three days. Her bunkers were broken and the vessel listed badly. Her cargo of oil invaded the stoke hold, and its overpowering fumes compelled the crew to abandon the vessel.

The accident to the Helios occurred on Saturday last. There was great apprehension that the oil would reach the fires and a disastrous explosion would result. One hundred and fifty tons of oil were pumped from the bunkers, but the task of removing the remainder of the oil was beyond the efforts of the crew.

THE JURY ACQUITTED BOWIN AND JUDGE IS NOT PLEASED

Setting a Premium on Murder, He Says—Declares Prisoner Was Moral Degenerate and Clearly Guilty—Youth Goes Free.

Detroit, April 10.—Wearing the suit of clothes that he purchased with Mrs. Cornelia Welch's diamond earrings, Percy Bowin walked free from Judge Phelan's court yesterday, thanks to a verdict that Judge Phelan characterized as "the vilest miscarriage of justice ever perpetrated in this community."

Sympathy with the youthful defendant and his weeping mother, distrust of the methods of Capt. McDonnell and the detective department, unwillingness to send Bowin to prison for life for a crime the full consequences of which he did not contemplate—these are the motives behind a verdict that was a bold defiance of the law.

As the words "Not guilty" fell from Foreman Schroeder's lips, Judge Phelan stood as though paralyzed with astonishment. He went white with anger and then he recovered his speech and poured his wrath upon the twelve men standing before him.

"You should be ashamed to go back into the streets of the city of Detroit and admit that you were on the Bowin jury and not find this man guilty of murder," he thundered. "You may be discharged; you should be. You have simply opened the gate for this man to go back to the life that he led, and the probabilities are that he will commit another such an act. You men should be ashamed of yourselves, and I have no hesitation in telling you about it. It is the most brutal verdict I have ever heard."

Bowin showed no special manifestation of joy at the verdict. He sat in the prisoners' dock until told to go. Then, with his mother and her friend, Mrs. James Rorrick, he crossed to the jail to collect his belongings. He was accorded an ovation by the riffraff that hangs about the municipal buildings and in whose eyes Percy is a hero. After getting his possessions at the jail he walked to Gracot avenue with the two women and boarded a car, still followed by the hero-worshipping rabble.

"Old Phelan seemed kind of sore, didn't he?" remarked Percy. "Well, I suppose he don't like the way things are running over there. That makes three acquittals in the recorder's court since I've been here, and I expect he don't like it. Was I surprised at the verdict? Naw! They didn't have anything on me. What else could the jury do?"

Bowin called at police headquarters later in the afternoon and asked for his suitcase from Capt. McDonnell. He was told that he would have to consult Detectives Downey and Fox, who had charge of his case. As they were not in Percy announced that he would return Friday morning.

Mrs. Bowin was almost worn out by the long trial. "Of course I was much pleased by the verdict," she said.

A survey of the testimony in the case reveals the astounding fact that the question of time, the one which the jury considered of more importance than all the mass of evidence that the prosecution had gathered against Bowin, was never once mentioned by either the prosecution or defense during the trial. Mr. Kennedy, Bowin's attorney, did not even consider it of enough importance to mention it in his address to the jury.

"From things that we have all of us heard and from the evidence that we heard in this case, we were inclined to believe that Capt. McDonnell resorts to unfair methods to obtain confessions," said Juror Bates. Then he blurted out a manifestation of the feeling against Capt. McDonnell, the animus against the police department which is responsible for Wednesday's travesty on justice.

Bowin returns to Woodville, Ont., to-day.

CIGARETTE COMES IN FOR ATTENTION

Mr. Blain Again Raises Question in House of Commons—Tobacco Bill Passed—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Would Not Deprive Men of Smokes for Sake of Boys.

Ottawa, April 10.—When some weeks ago Mr. Blain of Peel endeavored to get the Government to declare itself on the evils of cigarettes and to introduce a bill for their prohibition Sir Wilfrid Laurier skillfully side-stepped and the resolution went to the foot of the list, not to be reached again this session.

Yesterday Mr. Blain saw his opportunity when the Inland Revenue Act amendments were before the House. After much urging by Mr. Blain, Sir Wilfrid Laurier rose. His argument was that it would never do to deprive a mature man of the pleasures of the cigarette just because tobacco in this form is harmful to the youth.

Mr. Templeman's bill to amend the Inland Revenue Act was discussed in committee. The bill carries out changes in excise duties embodied in Mr. Fielding's budget statement.

Mr. Blain deemed the time opportune for the Government to state its intentions in regard to the suppression of the manufacture and sale of cigarettes, but he could get no other reply from Mr. Templeman than that he was in "sympathy" with the idea, while Mr. Brodeur also was sympathetic, but could not promise legislation just now.

Mr. Foster dilated upon the deleterious effects of cigarette smoking, and thought that as Mr. Blain's motion had been shut off by a device well-known to the Government the promoter of that legislation was within his right in asking the Government to do more than express sympathy.

After more to the same effect the Prime Minister was urged to give his view. Not using tobacco in any form himself, he was disinterested, and if he followed his own inclinations he would prohibit the sale of tobacco of all kinds. He agreed that the use of cigarettes by immature youths was harmful, but if that were so, why should mature men, to whom the use was innocuous, be prohibited from smoking cigarettes?

If innocuous to mature men why should they be deprived of that comfort? Tobacco was a luxury for the poor man, and Mr. Blain was radical in moving to prohibit its use by men to whom is was innocuous.

Mr. Foster said his argument was that cigarettes were less noxious to mature men.

"At all events," replied Sir Wilfrid, "I can't see that tobacco is more harmfu in one form than in another. I have never seen evidence to satisfy me." Continuing, he said the great mischief in the cigarette was its cheapness. He believed that tobacco in any form was injurious to immature boys, but did Mr. Foster think cigarettes were more harmful than tobacco in other forms?

"To the boy, yes," answered Mr. Foster.

Mr. Blain concluded the debate on this point by pointing out that the Government had been playing with the question. The Minister of Agriculture last session promised to support such legislation. Mr. Blain thought full-grown men who used cigarettes would be willing to forego the pleasure to save the boys. Referring to the clause abolishing distinguishing stamps on cigars, Mr. Foster said Toronto cigar-makers were hostile to a change in stamps.

Major Beatty declared that smokers bought cigars on the strength of the label, and it was unfair to smokers to permit deception.

Mr. Cockshutt was willing to encourage Canadian tobacco, but it ought to be done above board. Instead of attempting to deceive the smoking public he would increase the duty on foreign leaf.

Mr. Clement, who favored the change, remarked that no other country branded tobacco in cigars as was done in Canada, while Mr. Monk thought the Government was removing a grievance.

On motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when the House adjourns on Wednesday next, it will stand adjourned till Tuesday, April 21. Mr. Emmerson thought the holiday should extend till Wednesday, but the Prime Minister and Mr. Foster though that period too long.

Mr. Foster enquired if, when Judge Cassels would commence his investigation of the Marine Department, he was to be confined to two cases of wrongdoing by officials mentioned by the Civil Service Commissioners and whether it was proposed to have also a Department investigation.

The Prime Minister said the commission had been issued, and he supposed the investigation would be begun at once. He vouchsafed no answer to the other question.

Mr. Chisholm (Huron) was told by the Postmaster-General that $102,470 had been collected by the Government from assessments on postmasters to form a guarantee fund against losses, and the losses had been $5,334. The question of reducing assessment had not been considered.

Mr. Christie was informed by Mr. Paterson the number of cattle exported from Canada to Great Britain was: 1904, 148,345; 1905, 159,078; 1906, 163,994; 1907, 170,164. The number imported from Britain was: 1904, 95 duty paid; 161 for improvement of stock; 1905, 72 and 60; 1906, 149 for improvement of stock; 1907, 12 and 231.

Answering Mr. Monk the Prime Minister said there had been no correspondence of any kind in connection with the all-red line or a faster steamship service across the Atlantic.

Having been shocked by theatrical posters on the bill boards of Ottawa, Dr. Barr was moved to ask that steps be taken to enforce the tariff provision against them. Mr. Paterson told him that the attention of the local authorities had been directed to the question, and the customs official were instructed to co-operate in the suppression.

Montreal, April 10.—It was stated yesterday that John Dillon, the book agent, who killed Constable Shea and seriously wounded two other officers Monday night, was still making good progress, and he does not appear to worry over Monday's exciting incident, though he is consicous that on his dismissal from the hospital he will be put on trial for his life.

His manner towards the nurses and doctors in the hospital is very dignified and pompous at times and again irascible, he being quick to fly into a passion.

THE "FLYING TAILOR" WAS GREAT RUNNER YEARS AGO

Beat Out Stage Coach Between Port Hope and Peterborough—Defeated a Race Horse in a Matched Race and Accomplished Other Feats That Present Day Runners Would Hate to Tackle.

"People are doing a lot of talking about walkers and runners these days," said an old resident last night, "but did you ever hear about the 'Flying Tailor' of Port Hope?"

A group of citizens were discussing the coming walking contest and the old timers' query was received with interest. Some of the older ones had seen the "Flying Tailor," while some of the younger members of the gathering had heard about him.

The first speaker, a gentleman of some sixty years, proceeded to give a little of the history of the "Flying Tailor."

"His right name was Dave Hall," he said, "but on account of his ability to cover ground on foot he was called the "Flying Tailor," for he was able to manipulate a needle and thread with some degree of dexterity. About forty years ago everybody in the district knew, or had heard about the Port Hope runner. He was a little short fellow, hardly as short as David Hartley, but he could hit up a pace that had stages, race horses and everything else looking cheap. The "Flying Tailor" wasn't a walker; he was a runner. When forty or fifty years of age he thought nothing of running from Port Hope to Peterborough in the morning and back again at night. He wore a long coat with split tails and a black silk hat pushed far back on his head, and was a familiar figure throughout the whole district. One of his delights was to meet the passengers when they landed on the wharf at Port Hope from one of the lake steamers and then to run to Cobourg and be on the wharf there when the boat arrived. In these days the boats called at Port Hope and then went direct to Cobourg. The story is also told of how the "Flying Tailor" was pitted against a race horse at Port Hope for a mile race and beat out the equine. The course was from a certain point in the town to the wharf and return, and the tailor was able to get enough lead in starting and in making the turn to win the race with a good margin to spare. The horse had to be slowed down to make the turn, whereas the runner on foot swung himself around a post and didn't lose a second in getting started on the home stretch.

When the "Flying Tailor" was in his prime there was no railway between Peterborough and Port Hope and the journey was made by stage. The Port Hope runner considered stages too slow, however, and made it on foot. He would start from Port Hope a half hour after the stage had left there and beat it out to Peterborough by a half hour or more. Some years later when the railway had been built, the "Flying Tailor" was attending an Orange celebration at Lindsay, and on the return trip the engine of the train on which the Port Hope contingent was travelling home, broke down, at Millbrook. The "Flying Tailor," annoyed at the delay, got off the train and finished the journey on foot, beating out the train to Port Hope.

The "Flying Tailor" was an enthusiastic Tory, and on one occasion when he was acting as poll clerk at Bewdley, at the head of the lake, he beat out a team of horses in reaching Port Hope, with the result of the voting at the poll with which he was connected.

The new provincial Minister in New Brunswick, was returned by acclamation in the bye-elections yesterday.

Brantford, April 10.—In the Police Court yesterday James Gardiner, a local moulder, was charged with interfering on Monday night with the delivery of beds at the Buck works, where a strike of moulders is in progress. The beds were being taken to the factory, where strike-breakers are quartered.

The magistrate did not think necessary identification had been sufficiently established. The case was dismissed.

She declared herself innocent of the charges against her, but said she was without friends or money here and is unable to make a legal fight against extradition.

Charged With Smuggling.

Windsor, April 10.—Fred McMann, 70 years old, formerly bartender in Walkerville, was arrested at Adrian, Mich., in company with three Chinamen, whom he is accused of transporting to the United States via the famous underground railway. Thief River Falls, Minn., April 10.—Canadian Customs Officer Wright and his father, Mayor Wright of Emerson, Man., appeared before United States Commissioner L. C. Browning, the former being charged with smuggling undesirable aliens across the international boundary. He was released on a deposit of $500 bail and returns to Emerson. The case is set for Saturday.

Will Drop the Case.

Portsmouth, N.H., April 10—In view of the refusal of the French Government to grant the extradition of Paul E. Roy, the husband of Glacia Calla, who is accused of the murder of his brother-in-law, George A. Carkins, at Newington, three months ago, it is improbable that the authorities of Rockingham County will make any further move at the present time.

Woman's Fatal Fall.

Kingston, April 10.—Wednesday evening Mrs. Lockhead of Centreville left her home to go to a neighboring house to spend the evening. She was going up the steps of the house, slipped, fell back, struck her head on the pavement and lay unconscious. Medical aid was at once summoned, but death ensued during the night. The deceased was 80 years of age.

FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1908.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

The report of the Civil Service Commission is at hand and it makes choice reading. But what is even more "choice" than the report is the minutes of evidence upon which that report was founded. However for a time we shall confine our attention to the report and afterwards we will give extracts from the minutes of evidence, that dialogue of question and answer wherein the minds of men like to a little kingdom have suffered the nature of an insurrection. It will be remembered that a great pow wow was made at the time of the Report to the effect that the instructions of the Commission had been wantonly exceeded. Here they are. "That such inquiry should include the following subjects:

1. General operation of the Civil Service Act.
2. Classification of the service.
3. Salaries.
4. Temporary employment.
5. Technical employees.
6. Promotions.
7. Discipline hours of service, etc.
8. Efficiency and sufficiency of the departments staffs.

Retiring allowances.

10. Any other matter relative to the service which in the opinion of the Commissioners requires consideration.

That while the service at Ottawa should be the first subject for the consideration of the Commissioners, they be authorized and requested to extend their inquiry to any portion of the outside service that may come under their observation and which the time at their disposal may permit them to take into their consideration."

* * * This extract from the "instructions" indicates how wide they really were and how panicky must have been the condition of the minds of the Liberal ministers when these gentlemen could speak of "exceeding instructions" as they did.

PANIC

"If one looks back on the panic periods of the country in their bearing on railroad affairs, says the Railroad Gazette, he finds that the period of 1837 had no such bearing at all simply because at that early date our railroads were practically non-existent. Coming down to the panic of 1856, conditions were essentially the same because the railroads had not risen to be a great fiscal interest. The two dismal periods of those periods were at bottom financial, with of course, their shadows on general industry. Very different as related to the railroads, were the panic of 1873 and the long drag of five years that followed it. By that time the railroads had grown to be a vast interest, and the panic of 1873 was in fact, rooted in undue railroad expansion which in the two or three years preceding had become a kind of craze."—Canadian Trade Review.

The past periods of panic have been caused, as the Trade Review truly suggests, by undue expansion. The only real growth is the sure, if sometimes slow sort. Gourds that spring up in a night go down in a night. Canada today is in a state of panic, morally, industrially and financially. Our elder brother to the south can drink more, and, therefore, after a debauch looks worse. That is the only difference. Those only profit by "boosting" who stand ready to grab. When a smash comes the valuables always "mysteriously disappear." A few poor men become suddenly rich, point to their own prosperity to confirm their statements and then laugh at the steady-going monuments of an effete and foolish civilization. In these days we live on margin. It will destroy our health and endanger our lives financially, industrially and morally. Sir Wilfrid has lost control of the situation. Even the Examiner can't control it.

REDESTRIBUTION

Hon. J. P. Whitney in closing the debate on the Redistribution Bill, assured the people as well as the members of the House that no improper course had been taken by his Government in the reformation of any riding and that during the first session after the elections he would, if elected, proceed to re-distribute as the necessities of the case now require. Those who know Mr. Whitney know that he speaks the truth, according to his light always. A more detailed account of the redistribution it would be difficult to give, but the justification of it is well summed up in the Prime Minister's assurance that in no case was there a local protest or petition made against it.

A QUESTION ANSWERED

Liberal theorists have persistently scoffed at the statements of practical business men and manufacturers that sale prices are not the true measure of profits. General principles are fine things to employ if their employer knows really how to use them. The Liberal party nearly died of free trade before discovering that free trade like water, in the wrong place, works more harm than good. Mills may close, the balance of trade may be millions against us, cash may leave the country and leave it stranded. But what is that to the Liberal party if they can dramatically exclaim, "Trade should be free as the air. Tariffs are for trusts and monopolists." Speech should be free—yet with proper restrictions. Air is free—sometimes altogether too free. In the same way tariffs are for protection not for destruction or misuse. The Conservative party so employed them and thus raised Canada from no position at all into the main highway of development and progress. Surpluses are got from tariffs and from nowhere else. But too large a surplus is a misapplication of tariff and a temptation to spendthrifts and stockjobbers. The following extract from Leslie's is a plain talk on a plain fact.

The illustration is taken from Josiah Strong's "Expansion."

"In a certain industry the profits are well established, according to the tonnage put through. If the run is 600 tons per day, the profits are 5,000 dollars per month. If the run is 900 tons per day, the profits are 20,000 dollars per month. That is, by by increasing the output fifty per cent, the profits are, in this instance, increased 300 per cent. If the extra 300 tons are sold at cost, it would leave the profits for the month $13,000; so that the extra 300 tons per day could actually be sold for $3,000 less than cost and then the profits for the month would be twice as large as if only 600 tons had been run.

"This will sound to many, very much like the familiar old story of the peanut woman, who "always sold a little below cost and made her money by selling a great many. This statement, however, is capable of demonstration; 600 tons per day equals 18,000 tons per month; 900 tons per day equals 27,000 tons per month; market price of product, $4.96 per ton, leaving a profit of 28 cents per ton.

"At 900 tons per day the cost is reduced to $4.22, leaving a profit of 74 cents per ton. Now, 18,000x28 equals $5,040, the profits per month when only 600 tons are run per day; and 27,000x74 equals $1,980, the profits per month when 900 tons are run per day. If the entire increase of 9,000 tons is sold at cost, the 18,000 tons remaining would, at 74 cents per ton make $13,320 instead of $5,040. So that these 9,000 tons might be sold for $3,000 less than cost and leave profits of $10,320 instead of $5,040. Our laying hold of this principle was one of he reasons why we were able to enter European markets, and it accounts for the fact that many articles of American manufacture can be bought cheaper in Europe than here."

EDITORIAL NOTES

One thousand saloons "bit the dust" at the late elections in Illinois. The wave of temperance in various parts of U.S., is tidal in its size and power.

Ten million acres of the finest agricultural land lie fallow and deserted in England while Englishmen hasten to Canada which "protects" them and furnishes hope of a decent living. We also at present pay them for coming!

La Patrie suggests a commission of experienced men who will go abroad and view the requirements and prospects of foreign trade. As it is at present Canada is in a perilous position giving every evidence of being unable to keep up with even the other colonies of the Empire.

Mr. Mackenzie King is pleased with his mission to England. He seems to know more of how to do things than the whole of the Laurier Administration put together. Mr. King found the British sympathetic. Was anything said of the British Government's early warning to ours? It does not appear so.

Allan Studholm, M.P.P., the labor member declined to vote on the Redistribution Bill, as he said it was purely a party squabble. There is no doubt that the opposition did oppose merely for party's sake yet Mr. Studholme might have voted all the same. There must be two sides to that as to every other question.

"London, April 8.—Hon. Mr. Lyttleton, speaking at the Royal Society of Arts, said that Canada, South Africa and Australasia were irrevocably determined not to admit effective competition of the Asiatic races within their borders. He looked upon the British Columbia Natal Act as the politest possible statement of that resolve."

And yet Sir Wilfrid persistently disallows the Natal Act! "Behind the veil! Behind the veil!"

The Orient is here, and apparently is here to stay. Next week it is expected that work will be begun on a Buddhist temple in Seattle, Wash. The ground has been purchased at a cost of $6,000 and it is expected that the temple will cost $12,000. G. Nakai, the priest who is in charge, is now in Japan, and when he returns he will bring with him an image of of Buddha, which will be placed in the chapel. We have no fears of a Buddhist propaganda, and yet it is well to remember that Buddhism is not yet dead.—Christian Guardian.

700,000 millions of Orientals against six millions of Canadians! We win.

Port Arthur, April 8.—At a meeting of the City Council last evening the following resolution was unanimously passed;—"That this council on behalf of the city of Port Arthur, desires to acknowledge to the Editor of the Globe the great benefit it has received by the wise and judicial editorials recently appearing in that paper respecting the water powers of this part of Ontario, and wish to thank the management of said paper for the assistance the city has thereby received."—The Globe.

This is the bill that was so likely to go through the Bills Committee at Ottawa, thanks to Mr. James Conmee, M.P., and Senator Kerr that Mr. Whitney had to fight it with all the resources at his command. No mention is made here of Port Arthur's opinion of the Ottawa Government.

The condition of the Marine Department was further disclosed in the Public Accounts Committee on Wednesday by the evidence of W. P. Richards, of the New York firm engaged by the Government to put the marine books into shape. This man, who was paid $75 per day, and whose firm has received $43,000, with $6,700 yet unpaid, swore that his work had been stopped when it was only half done, so that the whole business of setting the department right would cost $100,000. He testified that the work done would be largely lost if it were not completed, and gave a ghastly account of the conditions which he found.—Exchange.

No reform has been suggested by the ministry. They are still in a state of panic.

Paris has adopted a by-law to raise $40,000 for the central school, towards which Mr. Penman will contribute $15,000.

JACK THE HUGGER AT WORK IN CITY

Report That He Held up Young Lady on Aylmer St.

Jack the Hugger is in evidence again. This time he is a young man who takes delight in stopping ladies on the street and giving them a hug that would do credit to a full grown bear. Last evening a lady and her two daughters were walking along Aylmer street, when near the corner of King street, one of the daughters was attacked by a ruffian. The three ladies were able to fight the man off, leaving the young lady in a state of collapse, however. The mother gave chase, but the fellow easily got away by jumping over a nearby fence. He wore running shoes.

SPLENDID PROGRAMME AT SOCIETY'S CLOSING MEETING

Three Excellent Papers Read at Meeting of T.A.S. Ladies' Literary Society Last Night—Many in Attendance.

A most interesting programme, quite in keeping with the many excellent programmes presented by the members of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S., during the past season, was that presented to the large and appreciative audience at the closing meeting of the society last evening.

Miss Agnes Holland's excellent paper on Charles Dickens, Miss Aileen Coughlin's comprehensive book review of "A Tale of Two Cities," and Miss Edith Connor's able essay on the two characters, Sydney Carton and Jerry Cruncher, were the chief features of last evening's entertainment.

The first essay was read by Miss Holland, it being a most interesting account of the life, works and influence of Charles Dickens. He was born in a small suburb of Portsea, in the year 1812. During his early life he was surrounded by the most unpleasant home influences. He was sensitive and ambitious beyond his station or years, and felt keenly the humiliations and hardships of his mode of life, the scars of which were never effaced from his memory.

His early education obtained in the streets of London, gave him an unlimited supply of information and experience upon which to base his writings, which were in after years to make him famous. After spending a few years at Wellington House Academy, he became a parliamentary reporter, and much of his success as an author was due to those years of severe journalistic training.

His first venture in the field of prose fiction was in 1853, when appeared a humorous paper entitled, "Dinner at Poplar Walk." In the same year appeared the "Pickwick Papers," and Dickens' fame and fortune were secured. Then followed in rapid succession, "Nicholas Nickelby," "The Old Curiosity Shop," "Christmas Stories," "Pictures of Italy," "Dombey & Son," "David Copperfield," one of the great masterpieces of English fiction, and "A Tale of Two Cities."

Miss Aileen Coughlin in beautiful and well chosen language related briefly the story of the very interesting book, "A Tale of Two Cities." which proved to be most instructive. The story opens with Dr. Manehbe, just released from prison, in the house of an old servant, a mental physical wreck, interested only in mending shoes. The only name he knew was "One Hundred and Five," North Tower. His daughter Lucy had been kept in ignorance of his imprisonment until the secret was revealed to her by Mr. Larry, after he had gained his release. He soon took Lucy to meet her father, who was in an inn in Saint Antoine, a most squalid district in Paris. It in the year 1775, just previous to the French Revolution. The daughter took her unfortunate father over to England, and for a period of five years nothing is heard of them.

The writer then carried the audience in imagination to the court room in London, where Charles Darnay was being tried for suspected treason. Dr. and Lucy Manedhe were among the spectators. Sydney Carton, a young lawyer, made things interesting by passing a note over to Mr. Stryner, the counsel for the defence. Acting on the hint given in the note he confused the witnesses by pointing out the striking resemblance Sydney Carton bore to Charles Darnay. The jury returned a verdict of "not guilty," and Charles Darnay left the court room a free man, indebted to Sydney Carton for his liberty.

Continuing the writer gave vivid discriptions of the noble character of Sydney Carton, who was willing to sacrifice his life to spare a life he loved. Charles Darnay, who was subjected to so many trials and finally sentenced to death, owing to the fact that he belonged to the House of St. Earemond. Dr. and Lucy Minebie, Mr. Larry, Jerry Cruncher and Madame Defarge, who was a story in herself.

Space will not permit to give a more complete synopsis of this very interesting essay, suffice it to say, however, that Miss Coughlin's review of the story, "A Tale of Two Cities," was most complete.

Miss Edith Connor then followed with an exceedingly interesting account of Sydney Carton and Jerry Cruncher, two of the characters of the story. Carton who was considered the second hero of Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities," was introduced as a wigged gentleman, with his hands in his pockets, whose whole attention seemed to be concentrated on the ceiling of the court room. Carelessness and indifference to everything and everybody were his chief attributes, though he was not as indifferent as he seemed, as was shown during the trial of the prisoner.

Why he did not become famous was a mystery to his friends. His brilliant career faded away, his castles in the air came toppling down burying him in their ruins. It was to hide his disappointment in his life that he assumed that carelessness for which he afterwards became noted.

He proved himself a hero by sacrificing his life for Charles Darnay, the beloved husband of Lucy Manette, who had been condemned to death. By appealing to Darnay's love for Lucy and partly by force, Carton induced Darnay to exchange clothes with him and as he took his place in the wretched tumbril to be taken to the guillotine he did not regret in the least the awful fate he had ordained for himself, when he thought of the happiness it meant for Lucy and Darnay.

Jerry Cruncher was then very humorously described by the essayist, His personal appearance was not at all prepossessing. He had the peculiar habit of referring to himself as "Jerry you honest Tradesman." His domestic life was not the happiest as his wife stood in great dread of him. He interfered with her in her devotional exercises, and so made her life most unhappy. When he went to France, as a bank messenger, and saw the unhappiness of the country, he resolved, that if he ever returned to England alive, he would never interfere with Mrs. Cruncher's praying. As Jerry did return happiness reigned supreme in the Cruncher household.

These excellent essays were intensely interesting throughout, the treatment of the subject by the talented young essayists being most praiseworthy.

The musical part of the programme which preceded the reading of the essays, was especially bright and attractive. To select the meritorious selections would be to name the whole programme, in the selection of which excellent judgment was shown.

fol 2nd galsplendid program

The following was the musical programme introduced by Miss Fannie Holmes, who occupied the chair for the evening.

A meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee was held last night, when several matters were considered. Those present were Ald. Johnston, chairman; Mayor Rush, Ald. Turner and Ald. McIntyre.

A report was received from the chairman and city engineer regarding certain street lights and was taken up clause by clause.

It was moved by Ald. Turner, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the chairman interview the Peterborough Light & Power Company, and ascertain on what terms they will place incandescent lights on Crescent street, Ware street and Lansdowne Avenue.—Carried.

McIntyre, that the Otonabee Power Company be notified to remove eight poles on the north side of Hunter street east of the bridge, over the Otonabee river, and not in use. Also a brace or guy at the corner of Burnham street, in accordance with a notice given them by the city engineer.

On motion of Ald. McIntyre and Turner, the Peterborough Light and Power Company will be requested to place the light at the corner of Hunter and Rogers streets on a span wire in the centre of the street, and on motion of Ald. THE VALUE OF ACCIDENT INSURANCE

DEATHS from accident are stated by the Census Officials, Washington, to have been 57,513 in 1902. The percentage of deaths from accident is 5.76, which is more than ten years ago. The "Insurance Press" in giving details from the Census, says, "An Inspection of the Census Tables showing causes of death brings out the fact that a person is more liable to meet death by accidental injuries than by any other single cause except consumption, pneumonia or heart disease

—From Financial Chronicle, Montreal.

The Utopia Policy issued by the General Accident Assurance Company of Canada, provides indemnity for disability, resulting from accident or sickness. It is in all respects a model policy.

T.A.S. WILL ADMIT 200 NEW MEMBERS ON SUNDAY

The success that is attending the efforts of the local T.A.S. to increase their membership to one thousand must indeed be gratifying to the active workers. The campaign was started a few days ago and already the canvassers have turned in over two hundred names.

Owing to the large number of initiations to take place on Sunday afternoon it has been decided to hold the meeting at St. Peter's hall instead of at the T.A.S. rooms.

A strenuous campaign will be waged to reach the one thousand mark, and not only that, but to have every Roman Catholic in the city a member of this society. Nothing is being left undone to obtain the desired results, and there is no doubt but that this good work will be accomplished.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted, protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Hotel Oriental, on Tuesday, April 21.

INTERMEDIATE BIBLE CLASS

Held Enjoyable Banquet Last Evening--"Blues" Won Membership Contest

The Intermediate Bible club of the YMCA. brought their membership contest to a happy conclusion last evening when an enjoyable banquet was held. A large number of boys were present. For some weeks past the contest between the "Reds" and the "Blues" to increase the membership of the association has been keenly carried on. It resulted in the "Blues" winning by sixteen points. Mr. Arthur Weart was captain of the 'Blues' and Mr. M. Hart, captain of the "Reds."

At the banquet last evening, Mr. F. H. Dobbin gave an interesting talk on "Wireless Telegraphy" and "Industry."

Dr. Middleton who has charge of the class also made a few remarks.

A very delightful affair was brought to a close by the singing of the National anthem.

Next Wednesday night there will be another banquet held.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

MR. BAILEYS' TROUBLE

Editor of the Review;

Sir,—You give my letter re the poisoning of the dogs the above heading. It is the trouble of all law-abiding citizens and I venture to think the police are not doing their duty. If it was some bovine wanderings or some imaginary canoe voyages the town would know all about it.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

THE IMMIGRANTS

Editor of the Review;

Sir,—What does 'Canadian' know of these bar rooms he speaks about so dispairingly. Does he own one and if not who does? Perhaps they grow or did the immigrants bring them. Justice Meredith gave us the disease the immigrants have, perhaps he will tell us what disease the criminal doctors have.

"IMMIGRANT."

INQUIRY

Editor of the Review:

Sir,—A correspondent in the Canadian Churchman who is apparently a clergyman says that the Anglican church does not acknowledge the right of private interpretation of the Scriptures. Is this correct? I do not know enough about it myself or where to find it but I know many would like to hear about it if you will excuse me for asking.

Yours,
'INQUIRER'

THE LIVING WAGE

Editor of the Review:

Sir,—As you are aware several employees of the city from the Solicitor down to the more humble workmen such as those who plough the snow from our streets asked for raises in pay. What was the result? Those who could easily support themselves and their families in comfort without the asked for raise in pay got it. It is the old Bible saying, "To them that have shall be given. Now the men who turn out at all hours and in all kinds of bad weather to keep the pavements clean, asked for a slight increase over their bids for such work on account of the exceptionally severe winter. I know that them men put in tenders. So do men in all contracts. Still, in common justice when circumstances justify it, as did the heavy snow of last winter justify these men in their requests an extra allowance is made. I think the Council should re-consider this matter and make these snow ploughers a small allowance for the unforeseen heavier work they did than the ordinary winter would have imposed. The men did their work well and should be paid for it.

WAGE EARNER.

STILL HARPING

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I thought your readers might like to see the opinion of a writer in the London, England Daily Telegraph on undesirables and unemployed. At a conference with the Birmingham Distress Committee the whole matter was gone into thoroughly.

At the same time no one would say that if there was a Canadian immigration to go to England that Canadians would be any better. Likely worse. I hope you will publish this Sir, as I am hearing lots of talk over this matter;

"But while I have endeavored to explain that 'unemployed' and 'undesirable' are not interchangeable terms, I readily admit that there is a growing number of men in Canada who may be described as 'tired' men. For the most part these individuals work for a month or so and then take their rest, spending meanwhile what little they have in drink, and returning again and again to casual employment. Consequently, when this class of employment fails, these 'tired' men become a charge to the community. Naturally Canada does not want that class of person, but the Canadian authorities may rest assured that this is not the class of man who is sent out by the agencies or whose fare is paid out of public funds.—Birmingham Mail."

Yours truly,
SYMPATHISER.

LITERARY SOCIETY HAS HAD MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The secretary of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S., Miss L. L. Coleman, read the following annual report at the closing meeting of the society last night:—

At the closing meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S., for the season 1907-1908, I wish to place before the audience a detailed report of the work done by the society during the past season.

On Friday evening, Sept. 20th, 1907, a meeting of the Ladies Literary Committee was held in the T.A.S. Assembly hall for the purpose of re-organization. The same earnestness and enthusiasm which have been the characteristic features of this society's work during the past seven years and which have won for it the reputation of presenting such excellent literary programmes was very much in evidence at this meeting. The business part of the evening was carried on with despatch and the popular vote raised the following members to the position of officers for the ensuing year:

Director—Rev Dr. J. O'Brien.
President—Miss L. Deannard.
Secretary—Miss L. L. Coleman.
Treasurer—Miss A. Cahill.
Members of Committee—Misses Deannard, Coleman, Cahill, Holmes, O'Connel, McGrath, Kane, McCarthy, Desautel, M Coughlin, N. Coughlin, O'Hearn, Furmau, Tangney and Sullivan.

At a business meeting held a few evenings later plans were discussed for the literary work of the season. Many suggestions and new ideas were advanced by the members of the committee. Matters were briskly disposed of and it was decided that the literary season of this society be formally opened on Friday evening, Oct. 11th, by an address from the highly esteemed director of the society, Rev. Dr O'Brien. It was also decided that the literary meetings of this society be held on every second Friday evening throughout the season and that the programmes at these meetings consist of essays on interesting subjects supplemented by high-class musical programme. The officers and members of the committee spared no time and plans to make these meetings not only interesting, but educative and their hopes were fully realized.

Since the inaugural meeting the Society has enjoyed a continuous and constantly increasing popularity, as evidenced by the large and enthusiastic audience present at each meeting. Excellent essays and bright musical programmes combined to make these meetings worthy of the high aims and worthy aspirations of the society.

The following is a list of the very interesting essays read during the season:

Oct 11—Value of Good Literature, Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
Oct. 25—Norway, Miss B. Flynn.
Nov. 8—Duty, Miss M. Powers.
Nov. 22—Literature as a Source of Self-Cultivation, Miss Maloney.
Dec. 6—Some Elements of Success, Miss K. McGrath.
Dec. 20—Lay of the Last Ministrel, Miss Milaney
Jan. 9—Early History of Peterborough, Miss V. Donoghue.
Jan 24—Dombey and Son, Misses McGrath.
Feb. 7—The Study of History, Rev. Father Galvin.
Feb. 21—St. Bridget of Kildare, Miss Deannard.
March 21—Kenilworth, Miss M. Ward.
April 8—Character Building, Miss Mahoney.
April 9—A Tale of Two Cities, Misses A. Holland, E. Connor and A. Coughlin.

To those who so kindly prepared essays the thanks of the society are extended in a special manner. The essays, without exception, were most instructive and proved to be a source of great pleasure to the literary element of the society.

The hearty thanks of the society are also extended to those who contributed so liberally to the musical part of the programme. To them we attribute much of the success of our literary evenings, as the various musical selections rendered in such a brilliant manner by the talented performers gave variety to the performers.

The number of tickets disposed of during the season was three hundred and thirty, fifty-one in advance of last year.

To the editors of our local papers the Review and Examiner, the thanks of the society are in a special manner, due, for the unfailing courtesy shown us in our dealings with them. They have contributed not a little towards the working out of our plans by their willing promptness in inserting notices of our meetings and have manifested a kindly interest in the success of our literary work by the prominence given the fortnightly reports of the essays, lectures, etc.

The success of the society was due in no small degree to the untiring efforts of the officers and members of the committee, while special mention must be made of the highly appreciated assistance of our worthy president, Miss Deannard.

In conclusion we have but to tender our most sincere thanks to our worthy director, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, for the deep interest he has at all times manifested in our society. His help in planning and carrying out our work his attendance at all our meetings, and his kind word of encouragement and approval so cheerfully given proved to be an incentive to renewed effort on our part. We therefore voice the sentiments of each individual member of the society in extending to him our esteem and gratitude.

L. L. COLEMAN,
Secretary.

HIS ESCAPE WAS NARROW

Herbert Wilson, a Young English Boy, Rescued From the Otonabee

The Otonabee nearly claimed another victim this morning. A young English lad by the name of Herbert Wilson was walking along the river bank below Crawford's Grove when a portion of the edge of the soft bank gave away and he rolled down into the water.

The mud in he bottom of the river was very soft and his feet became stuck in it and he gradually began to sink until he went down with the mud over his knees the water coming up to his armpits. Mr. Walter Henderson who fortunately happened to be nearby went to his rescue and after a great deal of difficulty managed to pull the lad out of the river.

The boy was quite exhausted by the time the rescue was effected.

ANOTHER TEAM HAS ENTERED

Wellingtons are the Ninth Team to Enter the Intermediate League

Another team has entered the Intermediate Baseball League. They are the Wellingtons and Mr. McMahon will be their representative on the executive. The Dukes will have a strong team and should stand well up in the league when the schedule is finished. The entry of the Wellingtons makes nine teams in the league.

BELLEVILLE ORGANIZES A BALL TEAM

Good Outlook for Team---Many Enter Midland League

A meeting of baseball enthusiasts was held on Monday night in the Y.M.C.A. rooms and another meeting, by different parties, was last night held in the Quinte, the object of both parties being to try to arouse interest in the game and provide for good sport in the city this summer. There was a good attendance at last night's meeting and considerable enthusiasm was displayed. It looks as though, if the St. Lawrence Baseball League is organized, Belleville will surely have a team in it. Failing that, entrance to the Midland Baseball League may be obtained. Bloomfield and Wellington have applied for admission to the latter league, which also comprises teams from Port Hope, Cobourg, Peterborough and Lindsay. A good Belleville team in such a league should be just what the doctor ordered for this city, and would, without doubt, be well supported.

At last night's meeting no action was taken as to election of officers, but it was resolved to hold another meeting on Friday night in the city hall to which all interested are invited.

Baseball should boom in Belleville this summer, for some solid men and good sport are at the head of the movement.

EXTENSIVE PREPARATIONS FOR WALKING TOURNAMENT

Were Made at Second Meeting in Connection With Event at Oriental Last Night—Many Important Matters Decided.

The second meeting of the officers of the big walking tournament held at the Oriental last night was well attended and much business of an important nature in connection with the event was transacted. The president, Mr. R. J. Munro, occupied the chair. Among others in attendance were three of what are regarded as thee of the most promising competitors that are to take part in the tournament. David Hartley, Ja,es Grahame and Brooks, the Australian champion. All three took an active interest in the proceedings and made many useful suggestions.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which were adopted.

It was decided that the money from the one dollar tickets now on sale be handed over to the secretary, Mr. C. G. Graham, by 6 o'clock on Monday April 20th the first day of the tournament.

CONCERNING THE SCORING

Mr. E. Clarry, said he was of the opinion that the scoring was a very important matter. Mr. Jas. Graham the pedestrian, and a man who has figured in numerable walking contests was asked to explain his version of how the scoring should be done and told of the way it had been conducted in the majority of the events with which he had been associated. He suggested an official scorer. Mr. Brooks also gave his opinion concerning the most desirable manner of scoring.

A committee consisting of Messrs. E. S. Clarry, C G Graham and R. J Munro were appointed to make arrangements concerning the scoring and to look after the securing of a chief scorer.

TICKETS AND TICKET SELLERS.

The matter of the selling of tickets at the box office and taking them at the door was next gone into. Mr. C. G. Graham was selected to look after getting the ticket sellers and the collectors of tickets at the door.

Mr. Jas. Graham on behalf of the walkers, spoke of them having a representative to look after the share of the money coming to the walkers. This was quite agreeable to the meeting and upon motion it was decided that the treasurer furnish a daily statement of the money taken in at the gate to the representative when appointed.

VOTE OF THANKS

A vote of thanks was tendered Messrs. Hartley and Stevens for what they had done for the promotion of pedestrianism in Peterborough and record of the vote was placed in the minutes of the meeting. The vote was proposed by Mr. Clarry and seconded by Mr. Dick Baker and was unanimously adopted. Mr. Stevens was also elected manager of the tournament.

The important question of measurement was next considered and it was decided to measure the track three feet out from the pole.

Peterborough, April 10th

Sporting Editor of the Review;

Dear Sir,—There is a matter of great interest to the Quaker tug of war team that I would like to say something about it in the columns of your paper.

Some time ago the Peterborough Turf Club put up a cup to be competed for by tug of war teams. The Quaker team won the cup and lost it later to the Force team, a local aggregation. The Force team was challenged for the cup but did not accept the challenge. The trophy was put up on the understanding that the winners of it had to accept a challenge to compete for it with another team within thirty days from the time the challenge was issued. In case this was not complied with the team holding the cup was to forfeit it to the challenging team.

On account of the fact that the Force team did not accept the Quaker challenge in the time specified the latter should naturally be the rightful possessors of the cup. But what did the Force team do but hand the cup over to a local man, who was at that time interested in the Turf Club instead of giving it to the Quakers.

The man in question has the cup yet and the Quakers demand their property from him. They desire to compete for it in the near future with another team if the match can be arranged but cannot pull for the cup while it is in the possession of the person referred to above. The team has had to turn down several challenges for the cup for that very reason. To sum up matters in a nutshell the Quakers want their cup.

Yours truly,
C. MUNDEN,
Captain of Quakers

NINE TEAMS ENTER THE INTERMEDIATE CITY LEAGUE

Enthusiastic Meeting Held at Y.M.C.A. Last Night When Officers Were Elected and Other Business Transacted—Prospects are of the Brightest Nature.

WEST ENDS.
KARNOTS.
LAKEVIEWS.
STRATHCONAS.
SHAMROCKS.
Y. M. C. A.
KNOCKERS.
GRAFTERS.
WELLINGTONS.

The above teams will comprise the Intermediate City Baseball League for 1908, if something unforeseen does not happen. The prospects for the season are of the brightest nature and it is apparent that what was an infant organization last year is going to be a big husky youngster this season.

The annual meeting of the league, of which the Review cup is emblematic of the championship, was held last night at the Y.M.C.A. and was of a most enthusiastic nature. Over thirty were in attendance and everything passed off most successfully. President Jas. Lang was in the chair and the different clubs were represented as follows:—

West Ends—J. Hardwick.
Strathconas—W. Metheral.
Karnots—Norman Geale.
Lakeviews—S. Theobald.
Shamrocks—Leo Derocher.
Y.M.C.A.—Wilbert Thornton.
Knockers—D. Hillier.
Grafters—Harvey Staunton.
Wellingtons—M. McMahon.

Other members of the clubs were also present, but the above were the official representatives.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

The secretary of the league, Mr. F. D. Craig, presented the following report of last season:—

The first year of the Intermediate Baseball League was, on the whole, a most satisfactory one, some good ball being played, and the race being warmly contested. Six clubs were in the running; the West Ends, Karnots, Strathconas, Excelsiors, Lakeviews and Lillies. The league honors were finally won by the West End Club, after a good race with the Karnots.

The Review Publishing Co. donated a handsome silver trophy for competition and of course, was held by the West End Club for the year. On behalf of the league I wish to thank the Review for their kindness and to state that the cup has made the competition much more interesting.

Financially there is not much to report. The entrance fee was placed at $1 per team and one team (the Lillies) failed to comply with the condition, thus leaving $5 in the treasury which, on a vote of the Executive, was turned over to the West Ends for the purpose of having a photograph taken of the club.

In closing I might suggest that some changes should be made in the constitution, or rather that a new constitution, based on the lines of the City Hockey League, be followed. One thing is certain, that the games should if at all possible, be played on Saturday afternoons, as the practice of breaking up a game into two halves of four and three innings, tends to introduce an element of luck and doubt about the game that should be suppressed.

Some standard as to the eligibility of the players in the league should also be set. Last year each team was asked to submit a list of players to the Executive and those whose names met the approval of that body, were allowed to play. There was no standard by which a player was to be judged and it merely depended upon the feelings of the Executive as to who should play and who should not. As a result many were refused permits who had a perfect right to play in the league, while others, better players and with more experience, were allowed to play. This is bound to occur unless some change is made in the rules of the league to cover this point and the matter should be settled at to-night's meeting.

There seems no reason why the league should be called the Intermediate Baseball League, in view of the fact that there is no senior league in the city and a change might well be made in this respect. The title City League champions, would be much more gratifying to the winning team than that of intermediate champions. I might also suggest that the league season be made longer this season. There is no reason for bringing the competition to an end in June, just in the middle of the baseball season and a double schedule should be arranged.

FRED D. CRAIG,
Sec.-Treas. Intermediate Baseball League.

The report was adopted on motion, and a vote of thanks tendered the secretary for his efficient services.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:

Patron and Patronesses—Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mayor and Mrs. Rush, Mr. and Mrs Jas. Kendry and Mr. and Mrs J. J. Howden.

Hon. Pres.—F. H. Dobbin.
President—Jas. Lang, (re-elected.)
Vice-President—D. B. MacRae,
Secretary—Harry Theobold.

The Executive Committee will consist of the atcive officers and one representative from each club, as given above.

A committee of three, the president, secretary and Mr. Metheral, was appointed to draw up a constitution for the league and to present same at the first meeting of the Executive for approval.

A lively discussion took place as to who was eligible to play in the league. There were motions and amendments galore for some time and a thorough discussion of each one. It was finally decided to leave the question of who shall play in the hands of the Executive. Each club will submit a list of its players and the Executive shall decide who are eligible to play. The representatives of the Strathconas and Shamrocks opposed this decision, but the other clubs favored it.

The Shamrocks, Y.M.C.A., Knockers and Grafters are new members of the league, and will have strong teams. The other clubs were in the league last season and have plenty of good material.

The Wellingtons are also a new club.

A meeting of the Executive will be held at an early date to make further arrangements.

DR. BROWETT'S OPHTHALMOMETERS

In estmating the degrees and kind of astigmatism, this eye instrument is most valuable and accurate. Dr. Browett has, during the past fifteen years, taught opticians the use of five different kinds of ophthalmometers, all of which were good instruments, but the one he now uses is conceded to be the most exact and the finest instrument made for the detection and estimation of astigmatism, and the measurements of the curvatures of the cornea of the eye. This and other instruments are used for many examinations daily at our office. We supply modern eye glasses at reasonable prices.

Prospects Good for Baseball Team in the Scugog Towon

Port Hope, April 8th

R. J. Menzies, esq., Secretary Baseball Club, Lindsay, Ont.—

Dear Sir,—The annual meeting of the Midland League will be held here in the American hotel on the afternoon of Good Friday, April 17th. You are privileged to send two representatives.—Yours truly,

SANDY LOCKINGTON,
Sec. Midland League

The above letter was received by Mr. Menzies this morning. We think that if a nine is to be placed in the field this year it would be stronger than ever. Someone in authority should call a meeting and appoint delegates for this convention. Peterborough already is in line.

PRAISE FOR THE LOCALS

Peterborough Basketball Team is Regarded as Very Fast Outfit

The following is from the Toronto Star:

The Central YMCA. senior basketball team journeyed to Peterborough last night and won from the Peterborough YMCA boys by the close score of 28 to 21.

There was very little combination indulged in by either team, as the checking was too close and hard. In the first half only five baskets were scored, Peterborough getting three and Central two, but Sievert was as accurate as ever when taking the free shots, and Central was ahead at half-time by the narrow margin of 14 to 13.

A better exhibition of the game was handed out in the second half, both teams being more anxious to play the ball rather than the man. In the first few minutes of this period, Sievert, Tompkins and Britton scored, and got a lead of six points but Peterborough played more aggressive ball than at first, and the game ended 28 to 21 in Toronto's favor.

Peterborough have by far the fastest team they have had in years and with a little more experience will give any of the senior teams in the country a very busy time.

Sutherland, who played at centre, is a Montreal player, of a good calibre, knowing all the fine points of the game, and Roy Best is another very promising player, big and strong, with lots of speed.

Sievert of Centrals was the star of the game, getting four baskets and 14 free shos. Swanston and Walker played well together, although they had a pretty busy time looking after Darling and E. M. Best, who plays a very strenuous game.

After the game the Toronto boys were banquetted when speeches were made and a very pleasant time enjoyed.

CITY COUNCIL WILL ASK FOR NEW WHARF

To be Built at Wolfe St.--Decided Upon at Meeting Last Night

Ald. Elliott brought up the matter at a meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council last evening of petitioning the Government for a new wharf at Wolfe street. He said that recently a deputation from Lakefield had visited Ottawa, and had been granted $3000 to build a new concrete wharf at Lakefield. Heretofore these wharves have been under the jurisdiction of the Department of Public Works, but Lakefield had been successful in having it transferred to the Board of Railways and Canals. Ald. Elliott thought that the same might be done with the Wolfe street wharf. A lot of business passed over this wharf and it was necessary that it be a good one.

It was moved by Ald. Bradburn and seconded by Ald. Elliott that the city ask that the wharf be changed to the Board of Railways and Canals, and also the Government for a grant to construct a new concrete wharf.

MAGISERATE PRAISES ZAM-BUK

Magistrate Rasmussen, of 202 Marquette St., Montreal, writes: "For many years I was troubled with a serious eruption of the skin. This was not only unsightly, but it was at times very painful. I first tried various household remedies, but these proved altogether useless. I then took medical advice. Not one, but several doctors in turn were consulted, but I was unable to get any permanent relief. Some time back I noticed a report from a Justice of the Peace (Magistrate Perry, J.P. for B.C.), who had been cured for a chronic skin disease by Zam-Buk, and I determined to give this balm a trial. After a thoroughly fair test, I can say I am delighted with it. I have the best of reasons for this conclusion; because while everything else is tried—salves, embrocations, washes, soaps and doctors' preparations, failed absolutely to relieve my pain nad rid me of my trouble, three boxes of Zam-Buk worked a complete cure. In my opinion this balm should be even more widely known than it is, and I hope that my experience will lead other sufferers who are in despair to try this herbal healer, Zam-Buk.

For healing eczema, running sores, cuts, bruises, burns, boils eruptions, scalp sores, pimples, spring eruptions, itch, chapped hands, and diseases of the skin Zam-Buk is without equal. All druggists and stores sell it, 50c box or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

FAST TIME FOR FIFTY MILES

Walter Bruce and R. McNeish Millbrook Walk Some Over Country Roads

Walter Bruce, Millbrook, arrived in the city this morning for the walking contest and is registered at the Munro House.

He will go home again today but will return in the morning and will remain here for the tournament.

Bruce, who is 21 years of age has never been in any pedestrian event.

FIFTY MILE JAUNTS

On a couple of occasions recently, Bruce, in company with R. McNeish of Millbrook, who will also enter the walk, walked from Millbrook to Port Hope and return, a distance of forty-eight miles.

The time they made for one trip was very fast considering the condition of the roads. Leaving Millbrook at 6.30 in the morning they reached Port Hope before noon and coming back did the distance inside of six hours. They did not particularly exert themselves on the return trip.

MILLBROOK INTERESTED

"What do the people of Millbrook think oft he tournament" Mr. Bruce was asked.

"Everybody down there is greatly interested in it" he replied, "and think it should be a great success. There are sure to be big crowds in attendance from Millbrook and the surrounding villages and country. The people of the town were very anxious that I should enter the tournament.'

Mr. Bruce said that "Bill" Rose, of Fraserville would also be here for the walk. There is a belief he stated among many in the vicinity he comes from that an entry fee is charged. For the benefit of those desirous of starting in the walk it would be well to mention that there is no entry fee or any expense whatever in connection with entering the tournament.

CITY ASKED TO CONTRIBUTE TO MAINTENANCE OF GATES

Railway Companies Will Erect Gates if City Helps to Maintain Them—Matter Before Committee of Whole Council Last Night.

A meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council was held last evening when the following members were present:—Mayor Rush and Ald. Tovey, McIntyre, Neill, Bradburn, Johnston, Gillespie, Turner, Morgan, Morrow an dElliott.

The first matter taken up was a letter received by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P.P. from the Railway Commission of Canada regarding the placing of gates at the Aylmer street and Reid street crossings. The commission order the gates to be placed there, the city to pay 25 per cent. of the cost of maintenance, and the companies the balance.

Ald. Phelan did not think that the city should pay anything towards the maintenance of them. Both are dangerous crossings. At Aylmer street, only a short time ago a man was nearly killed. Since the commission sat here, Judge Mabee had been appointed chairman, and Ald. Phelan thought that the matter should be fought out again. He moved that the city solicitor be instructed to again ask for the gates, and to state that the city would not pay for the maintenance. Ald. Bradburn seconded the motion.

OPPOSED TO G.T.R. SIDINGS.

Regarding the proposed branch lines of the G.T.R. off Bethune street, It was moved by Ald. Morgan and seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the city clerk reply to the commission, and state that the council were opposed to the conditions and to the construction of these sidings, and think that they should not be permitted.

CHANGES IN POLLING DIVISIONS

City Clerk Armstrong stated that since the changes in the boundaries of the wards some alterations in the polling divisions and the re-arranging of the voters' lists would be necessary. Mr. Armstrong explained the changes in the boundaries.

Ald. Neild moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that Mr. Armstrong rearrange the polling divisions as he deems most advisable.

MR. E. H. D. HALL RESIGNS OFFICE OF CITY SOLICITORSHIP

Resignation Placed Before Committee of the Whole Council Last Evening—Was not Accepted and an Increase in Salary Was Granted.

The city solicitor, Mr. E. H. D. Hall tendered his resignation before the Committee of the Whole Council last evening. Owing to the increased amount of city work, Mr. Hall did not think that the salary he was receiving was sufficient considering the large amount of his time he devoted to the city's interests. Considerable discussion followed the reading of Mr. Hall's letter.

Ald. Tovey said that the matter of an increase had come up before the Finance Committee several times. It had been gone into, in detail, and the committee was thoroughly convinced that Mr. Hall was worthy of an increase.

Ald. Bradburn said that the city solicitor in Kingston, received a salary of $800, where the work was not nearly so heavy as here. In Brantford where the duties are a little heavier the same official was receiving $1000, and surely, Mr. Hall was worth $900.

Ald. Neil said that he knew what a thorough and capable man, Mr. Hall was. It would not be business to allow such a man to resign.

Ald. Gillespie and Phelan considered that the matter had been carefully dealt with by the committee and they had decided Mr. Hall worthy of the increase.

Ald. Johnston thought that the question should have been discussed in the Committee of the Whole, before it was brought up in the council.

Ald. Turner was opposed to the increase, and Ald. Elliott thought that as the city solicitor did work for the Water Commissioners and City Trust, they should each contribute one hundred dollars towards his salary.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan, and seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the resignation be accepted. It was moved in amendment by Ald. Morrow and seconded by Ald. Neill, that the resignation be not accepted, and that the solicitor's salary be increased to $900.

On a vote being taken, the result was even, and His Worship voted for the amendment.

FIXED ASSESSMENT ASKED FOR THE NEW CURLING RINK

Deputation From Curling Rink Co. Waited Upon City Council Last Evening—Asked for Assessment of $5,000 for Ten Years.

A deputation consisting of Messrs. S. T. Medd, Robert Hicks and R. M. Waddell, from the Peterborough Curling Club, waited upon the Committee of the Whole of the City Council last evening, asking for a fixed assessment on the proposed new curling rink of $5,000 for ten years. The gentlemen were promised that the matter would be given the Council's earnest consideration.

Mr. Medd was the first to address the meeting. He asked for the fixed assessment on the ground that the curlers represented a large number of the principal ratepayers, and that the rink does not compete with anything else.

Mr. Hicks, in speaking on the matter, said that the Curling Club consisted of about one hundred and fifty of the city's most prominent citizens. The property on Charlotte street was purchased two years ago. From a business standpoint Mr. Hicks thought that the matter was worthy of consideration. Charlotte is fast becoming a business centre. It is the intention of the club to erect a three-storey building with 114 feet frontage. There will be three stores to the front and the rink will be in the rear. Club rooms and a reception hall will occupy the second and third floors. Further, Mr. Hicks remarked that no individual would benefit by the fixed assessment. The club would hold big bonspiels, which would mean the bringing of several hundred men here, and the city would indirectly be benefitted in this way. The Curling Rink Company was not strong enough financially to go into such a speculation as is proposed without a guarantee like the deputation was asking for. The assessment on the old rink was $5,000. and Mr. Hicks asked in conclusion that it be made the same on the new building.

Ald. Bradburn asked why was fixed assessment wanted for the stores. They certainly would be in competition with others.

Mr. Hicks replied that it was not an enterprise nor a scheme to make any money other than expenses. The rink will be the largest in Canada.

Ald Turner stated that Mr. Lendrum put up stores valued at $8,000, and the taxes would be in the neighborhood of $6,000. The Rink Co. would be deriving the same revenue as Mr. Lendrum and would be benefitting from a fixed assessment.

The deputation were promised that the matter would be dealt with in detail.

PICTURES OF OLD COUNTRY POLICEMEN

P. C. Newhall Receives Photos of Fellow Officers Who Have Been Pensioned

P. C. Newhall has received pictures of a number of former fellow policemen on the Liverpool and London force who have recently been pensioned. One is a group of eight, strong, sturdy looky fellows. They have spent twenty-six years in the service in London. They are not very old yet and entered upon their duties at an early age. They are men of splendid physique and a striking example of the class of men the London police are. The other photo is one of a former Liverpool policeman, Mr. Harry Church, who is now detective on a CPR. steamship running between Liverpool and Quebec. He was pensioned on January 25 th after twenty-six years of service on the Liverpool police force. He is an intimate friend of P. C. Newhall.

LESS RHEUMATISM HERE

How to Prepare Simple Mixture to Overcome Dread Disease

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from any good pharmacy, and are easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle.

This prescription states a well-known authority, forces the clogged-up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and torturous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that persons who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce, indeed, and when you need it you want it badly.

THEY SURPRISED THEIR FRIENDS

Local Young People Kept Their Marriage a Secret for Over a Month

Having been married for over a month and the relatives of the two parties not knowing anything about it, the bride finally broke the news to her father on Wednesday evening and last night in honor of the event a large number of friends were invited to the bride's home where a pleasant time was spent.

The interested parties are Miss Annie Gertrude Sanders, daughter of Mr. Alf. Sanders, of this city and Mr. Bruce H. Johnstone of North Monaghan. The young couple left the city together on March 4th going to Lindsay where they were married by Rev. Dr. Bishop of that place. They returned to Peterborough, each going to their own home. They kept their marriage a secret over a month but on Wednesday they disclosed the news of the happy event.

A most enjoyable time was spent at the home of the bride's father last evening and hearty congratulations were bestowed upon the young couple.

BOWLERS MAKE THE PINS FLY

Boyd and Frost Won Two From Wareham and McIlroy--Playing in Toronto To-night

The pins were rolling in lively fashion at the Peterborough Bowling Club last night when the long-looked for match between Boyd and Frost and McIlroy and Wareham was pulled off. A goodly number of spectators turned out to witness the game, and they were treated to an exceptionally clever exhibition of the great indoor pastime. Both teams are entered for the four-hour grind which will be held shortly and the followers of the respective teams expected that the result of the match would give them a line on the possible winner of the coming struggle of endurance. But it just so happened that the men were so evenly matched last evening that there is still as much room for discussion as to their relative merits as before.

Three games in all were played, Boyd and partner winning two but by such small margins that their lead was more than overcome in the single game that was won by Wareham and McIlroy, the total number of pins toppled over being Frost and Boyd 3106, McIlroy and Wareham 3143.

Frost carried off the single honors rolling 225 in one of his games. In each of the other two games he also went over the 200 mark. McIlroy and Boyd also exceeded the 200 mark in one game each, while the best Billy Wareham did was 188.

The scores made during the evening compare most favorably with the best that Toronto bowlers can do and members of the local bowling fraternity look for the team to give the picked five a hard go in Toronto tonight. The Peterborough team left this morning, Joe Pollard being the fifth man. The latter in a couple of practice games last night, made an exceptionally good showing, and he should show to advantage tonight in the game which will be played on the new C.B.C. alleys in Toronto.

The scores last night follows;

Frost	191	225	157
Boyd	182	128	181
	373	353	338—1064
McIlroy	154	190	170
Wareham	164	162	180
	318	352	350—1020
McIlroy	154	205	172
Wareham	175	178	188
	319	383	360—1062
Frost	147	203	146
Boyd	141	148	187
	288	351	333— 972
Frost	165	112	212
Boyd	194	206	181
	359	338	393—1070
McIlroy	190	190	182
Wareham	159	158	182
	349	348	364—1061

Totals; Frost and Boyd, 3106; McIlroy and Wareham, 3143.

PRIZES TO BE GIVEN BOWLERS

For Competition at the Majestic Bowling Alleys

Mr. J. T. Smyth, proprietor of the Majestic Bowling Alleys, has decided not to hold the spring bowling tournament, which he at first decided he would. It was announced when the tournament was suggested that if it took place a couple of outside teams would be secured to take part. It has been found impossible, however, to secure these teams and under the circumstances it was thought advisable to call off the tournament.

Mr. Smyth announces, however, that he will give a cash prize of five dollars to the bowler making the highest score in three consecutive games up to My 9th, any score under 150 not to count.

The prize for the highest single score to May 9th will be a box of cigars.

KENNEDY AND HURTUBUISE

Some Talk of a Match Between Them Says the Toronto Star

There is talk of a match at Peterborough between Eugene Hurtubise the ex-champion amateur heavyweight wrestler of Canada and Kennedy, the New York heavyweight. Hurtubuise is under suspension with the Peterborough rugby team by the CAAU for playing with Montreal rugby club last fall and it is said that he would turn "pro" for a big bout like this. Kennedy, too, claims that he didn't get any the best of the deal with Edmunds when it came to the officials, and wants another crack at Edmunds. He would sooner have the match pulled off outside Toronto where the crowd is not so hostile.—Toronto Star.

BALL TALK OF LOCAL INTEREST

Manager Johnston of the local baseball club has lines out for a new short stop, whom he hopes to land. The new man must be a good one as it is said he will be an improvement on Cheetham. If he is secured Cheetham will go to third base which is his regular position. The man who is likely to be landed is a right hand thrower and a left hand hitter, and a hand one too.

It is also hoped to land a southpaw pitcher, and if McDermid is secured for second, Anderson will go to first base which is his regular position. The Italian outfield, Burns, O'Brien and Murphy, promises to be a crackerjack. Watch it when the season opens.

BASEBALL

AN UNKIND REMARK.

The Port Hope Guide says that baseball hot air is beginning to flow freely from Peterborough. This is unkind. Can't the Peterborough papers boost the game along here without being chaffed by Sandy Lookington? Baseball is going to boom here this year, and the team that wins the Midland League will have to be better than Peterborough at any rate.

The West End baseball team will practice tomorrow afternoon at the McDonnell street field.

RUNNING

Tom Coley, the man who has been chasing Tom Longboat for Canadian running honors, will stack up against W. F. Cumming, the I.C.A.C.'s Scotchman, who beat the Indian in a mile race at the R.C.B.C. meet in a three-mile race, as the big attraction at the opening night of the C.A.A.U.'s Olympic Carnival at St. Lawrence Market Thursday.

Coley is conceding Cumming his choice of distance, and the Scotchman thinks he can give the English runner a trimming at the three-mile distance.

OPERA HOUSE DROP CURTAIN

Artistic Curtain for Campbellford Opera House Painted by Mr. Fred Cook

Mr. Fred Cook, the local brush artist, has painted a handsome and tasteful drop curtain for Cole's Opera House, Campbellford, to which extensive improvements are being made by its manager, Mr. R. H. Cole.

The scene on the curtains represents the Vatican Gardens, Rome, overlooking the Bay of Naples. The principal colors are a rich red and green and the general effect of the painting is at once pleasing and striking.

Around the border of the curtain are oval panels to be used by advertisers. The panels are so arranged that they will give effective display to any advertisements painted on them.

The photos are of the front of the theatre with the manager and his staff of seven included in the picture and of the interior. The Majestic is constructed on the most approved modern lines and has a seating capacity of four hundred.

MUCH BLOOD BEING SHED

Peace in Portugal Cannot be Regarded as Sure---The King Refuses to Accept Premier's Resignation.

Lisbon, April 11.—Subsequent to the rioting of last Monday, Premier Ferreira offered his resignation to King Manuel, but His Majesty refused to accept it.

The greatest indignation exists here because of the conduct during the disorders of the municipal guards, which has been described as wholesale shooting down of citizens. It has been reported that King Manuel is willing to disband the offending municipal corps as a balm to the irritation of the public

In the midst of the rioting the mob forced several priests who fell into its hands to cheer for "Liberty." Some priests refused, whereupon the mob fell on them and beat them so severely that they had to be carried away. Troops and warships are in the roadstead. There has been no further disorder. The anti-Government press declares that too much blood has been shed to make peace in the future sure.

Enforced Jim Crow Law.

Muskogee, Okla., April 11.—A threatening letter was received here yesterday, addressed to The New Guthrie State Tribune, in which the writer asserts that Governor Charles N. Haskell and Bud Ledbetter, the chief of police of Muskogee, are to be assassinated, and the City of Guthrie burned by negroes. The letter is unsigned.

The letter is an outgrowth of the Jim Crow law passed by the Legislature and recently put into force. It had been rigidly enforced by the governor, and in addition Chief of Police Ledbetter has ordered all negroes not employed to leave the city. Every gambling house and saloon in the city has been closed.

Jumped From Window.

Alexandra Bay, N.Y., April 11.—Mrs. Hunt, aged 52 years, wife of W. H. Hunt, merchant, lost her life Thursday by jumping from a window to escape fire which broke out in the upper portion of the house.

Mrs. Hunt was ill, and was resting on a bed in one of the rooms in the second storey. The fire spread so rapidly that her rescue by the stairs was cut off, and just as a ladder was placed against the open window of her room she jumped to the ground, breaking both limbs, dying from the injuries.

Strengthen the Garrison.

Tiflis, April 10.—Fifty-six heavy guns, destined for the fortress of Kars, on the Russo-Turkish frontier, has passed through here by railroad from interior Russia.

This strengthening of the fortress is due to a memorandum of several officers of the garrison on its weakness, in view of a possible attack by the Turks.

Robber Policemen Sentenced.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Quick justice was meted to the four policemen who were arrested last Saturday on charges of robbing stores and warehouses on the beats which they paroled in the wholesale district.

The accused pleaded guilty and were sentenced to serve seven years each in the Eastern penitentiary.

WOULD PROTECT THE FARMERS

Mr. Clements Continues Budget Debate in the House.

Ottawa, April 11.—There was a revival of the budget debate yesterday afternoon, some members taking the opportunity to prevent carefully prepared speeches going stale.

Mr. Clements (Kent) made an appeal for protection for the farming class.

On motion to go into supply he rose to offer some observations which he had hoped to make during the budget debate. Dealing with the question of protection he said he believed the manufacturers were fairly well protected, and in his opinion we should put a prohibitive duty on agricultural products. In the Fielding tariff of last year the only change for the benefit of the farmers was an increase on beans from 15c. to 25c. against a United States tariff of 45c. While protected pork packers were able to make a profit of from 50 to 100 per cent., farmers had to be satisfied with three per cent. and the latter class ought to be given a greater degree of protection. It had been represented that western farmers were opposed to protection, but Mr. Clements believed that if they were given the Canadian market to themselves they would not be averse to it after all. He advocated that coal be placed on the free list, and proceeded to attack the Minister of Agriculture for not looking after the interests of the farmers. Owing to the Minister's construction of regulations the farmers were compelled to sell their hogs for less than cost. Mr. Clements stated that if he had sold the grain he fed to his hogs and given the hogs away he would have been $600 better off.

Mr. Clements spent some time reading a return relating to the location of immigrants by an agent of Kent County, who, he said, had collected the head tax on many who did not stay in the country.

This official, he claimed, ought to be prosecuted on the statement of the Minister of Interior that the agent had been asked to return $500 that he was not entitled to.

Mr. Loggie (N.B.) replied, claiming that Mr. Clements was "all wrong with regard to hog-raising."

THEY MAY NOT SELL CANDIES

Important Judgment Affecting Sunday Selling in Restaurants

Toronto, April 11.—Justice Clute yesterday announced his decision in the stated case submitted to him by Magistrate R. T. Kingsford in the case of the King v. Henry Weatheral, who was tried for an infraction of the Lord's Day Act, and the city bylaw, under which he was licensed as a restaurant-keeper, by selling candies by the box, peanuts in bags, and soft drinks to customers, on Sunday, June 9, 1907. Weatheral was the keeper of a booth at Hanlan's Point, and claimed that he was within the law in selling the articles, with which view the magistrate differed.

The judgment in part says: "Under sub-section 7 of section 2 of said bylaw, the defendant, as licensee of a victualling house, is only licensed to sell fruit, oysters, clams, or victuals, to be eaten in such victualling house.

"I do not think that the mere fact that Weatheral holds a license as restaurant-keeper enables him to sell on the Lord's Day candies, peanuts and soft drinks, notwithstanding the statute. The question in each case depends upon a question of fact."

His lordship also answers in the negative a question as to whether a bona-fide restaurant-keeper can sell on Sunday candies, etc., in a parcel to be taken off the premises; and the question: "Can Weatheral justify selling commodities as aforesaid on the Lord's Day, notwithstanding the prohibition contained in the bylaw under which the license in question is issued?" is answered: "Yes,' if sold as a restaurant-keeper; "No," if the restaurant license is only a cloak to cover the privilege of selling.

Child Killed by Train.

Lindsay, April 11.—An exceedingly sad fatality occurred here yesterday afternoon about two o'clock when Willie, the little two and a half-year-old son of William Baker, employed by the Sylvester Manufacturing Co., was run over and killed by a Grand Trunk double-header.

The train was running about four miles an hour when the fatality occurred, and the engineers succeeded in stopping the train before one engine had passed over him. The front trucks only of the first engine had gone over the little lad, but they had completely severed the body. No inquest will be held, as the fatality was clearly accidental.

Noah Gets Twelve Years.

London, April 11.—Twelve years in Kingston Penitentiary was the sentence imposed on Thomas Noah by Justice Riddell yesterday on a charge of manslaughter for the slaying of Absalom Fox on May 23, 1907.

The defence offered no evidence, but E. D. Meredith, K.C., submitted that there was no murder case made out. This was acceded to by Judge Riddell, and Mr. Meredith stated that the prisoner was willing to plead guilty to a charge of manslaughter.

When sentence was pronounced, Noah turned to a fellow-prisoner and laughed heartily.

Disaster In English Colliery.

Bath, Eng., April 11.—Ten miners lost their lives in the Norton Hill colliery in Somersetshire yesterday, as the result of an explosion of coal gas.

The first rescue parties to go down were overcome by the fumes in the mine, and were saved only with the greatest difficulty. Some of them are in a precarious condition.

Gave Life to Save Cat.

Boston, April 11.—Mrs. Catherine C. Tucker, matron of a feline hospital in South Boston, lost her life Thursday night in an accident caused by her favorite cat. The cat upset a lamp, and in a vain effort to save her pet Mrs. Tucker received burns from which she died.

Nun's Request Refused.

Kingston, April 11.—The Sisters of the House of Providence applied for permission for two of their number to attend the public school kindergarten classes as teachers in training, but the board of education defeated the request by 12 to 3.

Lord Chancellor of Cambridge.

Cambridge, April 11.—John William Stratt, Lord Rayleigh, was yesterday elected lord chancellor of Cambridge University in succession to the late Duke of Devonshire.

Wild Runaway at Stratford.

Stratford, April 11.—A runaway horse with the remains of a badly smashed buggy entered the city on Huron street, and after a mad dash along Downie street plunged through the plate glass window in Larkworthy's butcher shop.

The animal was badly cut about the head and body. Pedestrians on the street had narrow escapes.

Set Himself on Fire.

Akron, O., April 11.—Antonio Pessoline, an insane tailor, set his clothes on fire in the padded cell of the county jail yesterday and burned so badly that he will die.

Lawyer Shoots Himself.

New York, April 11.—Charles A. Murphy, a prominent lawyer and real estate dealer, committed suicide in a room in the Astor House some time Thursday night.

Prisoner Kidnapped Constable.

Anniston, Ala., April 10.—J. C. West, a white man, who was acting as a special deputy sheriff, was kidnapped by Will Cunningham, a negro, whom he was attempting to arrest near Lincoln, this state.

While West was reading the warrant, the negro seized the deputy's revolver and marched him toward the Coosa River.

ARE NOT WANTED IN THIS COUNTRY

Insane Immigrants Are Becoming a Serious Menace—Hon. Mr. Hanna Presents Some Startling Facts to the House—Expensive to the Province.

Toronto, April 11.—Hon. Mr. Hanna called the attention of the Legislature last night to the effect of immigration in the last year or two upon the inmates of the provincial institutions. He had just received a telegram from Port Arthur, as follows:

"Fort William police magistrate has committed ten male Doukhobors to Central Prison, nine females to the Mercer Reformaory. They are in jail here. We have no room for them. Fifty-three other prisoners here now. There are fifty-seven other Doukhobors at Fort William to be sent to the Central and the Mercer. They have burned their clothes and are naked. Alex. W. Thompson, shreiff."

This was not only a matter of so many more inmates of the jails, but indicated a condition of affairs that must be dealt with, and the responsibility for which placed where it belonged.

Although 80 per cent. were native born in the province, the inmates of the asylums were 30 per cent. foreign born.

During 1907 there were 1,162 patients admitted to asylums of the province, of whom 346 were foreign born. During the past five years the percentage of foreigners admitted to these institutions had increased from 20 to 30 per cent., while Canadian-born patients had decreased from 80 to 70 per cent. In the same period, from 1903 to 1907, the cost of maintenance of foreign-born patients had increased from $24,613.20 to $51,744.30. While the foreign-born of the entire adult population were only 20 per cent., the total admissions to asylums from that class was 30 per cent.

The figures showed the necessity of effective methods to prevent the dumping on the province of undesirables by friends, and others aided by charitable associations with no other object than to get rid of the responsibility of providing for them. Taking into consideration the probable length of life of these patients, the cost of maintaining those admitted in 1907 alone amount to $1,467,058.80 without including any proportion for capital expenditure.

Of the estimated total population of the province, over 16 years of age, 1,209,308 were Canadians, and 291,675 foreigners or 20 per cent. of the whole. At the same time of the commitments to jail, 38 per cent. were of foreign birth, and the cost of providing for them amounted to $21,724.65.

Toronto Asylum gave a practical illustation of the position. Of 262 persons admitted less than half were Canadians. Of course, many of the foreign-born had been resident in Canada for some years, but no less than seventy-seven were recent arrivals, who should have been deported if a satisfactory law had been in force. The majority of those people should not be allowed to enter Canada. Owing to technicalities only thirty-four came within the requirements of the Deportation Act, and therefore Ontario had to assume the cost of maintaining forty-three.

That meant that the province would have to expend and assume an obligation of $224,000 for the support of people who had not the slightest claim for their consideration. No matter how it was regarded, the picture was one that could not be contemplated with equanimity.

The figures, he claimed, showed that the proportion of insane among arrivals was twenty-six times greater than it should be, and there was a strong suspicion that many were deliberately sent out from Great Britain to be got rid of. An analysis showed that whole families of degenerates were included among arrivals [illegible] and weaklings of all objectionable types were represented, as well as many with criminal records, including sexual perverts and criminally insane.

By deportation it was estimated that $450,000 had been saved to the province. The total deportations amounted to 108 since 1906.

The first deportation was in 1906 when 19 were returned, in 1907 76, and in 1908 up to the present 18, while 20 or 30 were ready after investigation. They were following up all the data and furnishing it to the Dominion Government. They were cases in which there was a persistent, determined effort to drive from the old country by those who were responsible for them, people who became a charge on the province. The system in the United States was much superior to that in force here.

What were they to do with the Port Arthur people? They should be able to go to those who were first responsible for bringing them here.

Sam Clarke (Northumberland) wished to say with all due respect to the Provincial Secretary, although they were receiving some culls, if they wanted to have a great country they must have the people. He defended the Doukhobors whose home life he admired. While some had come in who were no good, the great majority were a benefit to the country.

Hon. Mr. Hanna pointed out that the proportion of foreign-born criminal and insane had increased fifty per cent. beyond the proportion which the foreign-born should contribute comparatively with the rest of the population. Mr. Clarke, after ten minutes, was unable to understand the point, whether from the late hour or natural incapacity.

Allan Studholme supported the Provincial Secretary and baited Mr. Clarke for his stupidity.

R. J. B. Pense declared he knew regarding the work done by Mr. Armstrong and he thought it most valuable, and he approved the deportation suggestions of the Provincial Secretary. As far as the Dominion Government was concerned the House might be assured that the gate was closed against further undesirables.

The redistribution bill was read a third time at the evening session of the Legislature after a long series of amendments by the Opposition had been negatived on division. The division figures being those of the division on the Toronto amendment by T. H. Preston, that the city have only six members in separate constituencies. The vote was 48 to 18 against the Opposition amendments. These were for the preservation of the status quo in the several ridings in which changes are expected to affect adversely the Liberal majorities. J. A. Auld moved to retain the Essex ridings; Sam Clarke pleaded for Brockville; C. M. Bowman championed Peel; Duncan Ross fought for Middlesex; Archibald Huron spoke for Huron; D. J. McDougall patronized Ottawa, and G. M. May also took up Ottawa with a different plan. Mr. McDougall wanted to divide the city by Bank street instead of the Rideau Canal. Mr. May would elect two members from the whole city. There was some lively debating and not a few sharp encounters, but the general temper was apathetic.

The Legislature adjourned at 1 o'clock this morning and will resume at 11 a.m. It is expected that the session will be ended before 6 p.m., Hon. Mr. MacKay having promised to facilitate this.

The redistribution and city bills were given their three readings after midnight.

MAY DIVIDE MANCHURIA CHINA AGAIN THREATENED

Russia and Japan Now Supporting Each Other—A Tacit Agreement—Russia to Become Entrenched in the North and Japan in the South.

Mukden, April 11.—Unless the other great powers awaken to the facts and aid China in her resistance to the aggressions of Russia and Japan in Manchuria, that rich province will soon be reduced to a mere dependency of the two nations which fought their great war in it. Such is the opinion of observers of events here, who declare that despite the assurances given by the Governments at Tokio and St. Petersburg, the autonomy of China is being directly undermined in various ways.

There are many indications of a tacit agreement between Japan and Russia to support each other's demands on the Pekin Government, so that Russia shall become entrenched in the north and Japan in the south. Russia's contention that her powers of administration under her railway grants include the civil government of the city of Harbin has been put forward as a crucial test apparently for both Governments. If it should be recognised, then Japan, it is believed, would insist on the same status for her railway administration.

The "open door" in China, to which all the powers are pledged, is technically observed by both Russia and Japan, but indirect discrimination against the traders of other nations is charged. Japan's opposition to the building of a railroad to Fakumen which would parallel her Manchurian railway in the west is declared to have small basis, so far as her diplomatic rights are concerned, but is taken as indicating clearly her intention to monopolize railway development in this territory, and thus to eliminate trade competition.

Japan also refuses to abandon her control of the posts and telegraphs and other local administrative functions, and thus retains her grip on all the municipalities. The Chinese are opposed to all these measures of assimilation, but they are intimidated in the presence of the huge military forces of Russia and Japan. The situation demands international action if the integrity of China is to be maintained, say impartial observers here.

Opium Board at Pekin.

Pekin, April 8.—The throne yesterday issued an edict appropriating 90,000 taels for the creation of an opium board at Pekin. It shall be the duty to examine all metropolitan officers in the matter of their use of this drug; to certify all men who do not smoke opium, and to arraign all those who do indulge in the practice, &c.

LAND MAY BE EXPROPRIATED

Russian Department of Agriculture is Attacked in the Douma

St. Petersburg, April 11.—The conduct of the Russian Department of Agriculture was severely attacked in the Douma yesterday during the discussion of the agricultural budget. Dissatisfaction was expressed with the failure to accomplish greater results towards securing larger land holdings for the peasants, the adoption of modern scientific methods of farming, etc.

The spokesman for the Regenerationists, M. Efromoff, declared that the forcible expropriation of land was the only solution of the agrarian problem, but the Constitutional Democrats dropped their former battle cry, expropriation, in favor of a resolution demanding a better distribution of the land without specifying the method by which this was to be attained. The Opposition speakers recommended an increase of expenditures for the general development of agriculture. Russia, it was asserted, although the most extensive agricultural country in the world, ranks fifth on the basis of budget allotments for the help of agriculture, only 2 1-2 per cent. of the total income being given for the furtherance of this chief industry.

Prince Vassilchikoff, Minister of Agriculture, defended his Department, which he says had been demoralized by perpetual reorganization and repeated changes in its leader.

Returned After Five Years.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 11.—Returning to his home, near Jonesboro, Tenn., after he had been mourned as dead for five years, John T. Strong found his wife, now 32 years old, married to William Curtis, and two children born to this union.

It was decided to allow Mrs. Strong-Curtis to settle the perplexing matter by deciding between the two men. She chose her first husband, and now Curtis, who says he loves her, will institute formal proceedings to annul the marriage between himself and the woman.

Strong had been in the army in the Philippines.

Would Keep Emma Out.

Winnipeg, Man., April 11.—Emma Goldman is not coming back to Winnipeg again if the civic authorities can help it, although her recent visit here, which ended in her rather sensational disappearance across the boundary under an assumed name, passed off without untoward incident, the authorities fear that her propaganda may be upsetting to the foreign element in the city, and have consequently requested the Minister of Interior, Hon. Frank Oliver, to take steps making it impossible for the woman to return to Canada from the United States.

Wanted to Shoot Chief.

Montreal, April 11.—John Dillon, alias Smith, who murdered Constable Shea and shot Chief of Detectives Carpenter and Police Constable Foucault, states that he had every intention of killing off, if he could, not only Detective Carpenter, but Chief of Police Compeau. He regretted that his shot at Constable Foucault did not prove fatal.

Posse Lynched Negro.

Fort Worth, Texas, April 11.—Following an attack on a 12-year-old white girl, May Morris, at Long View, Texas, Albert Temple, a negro, was captured by a posse and lynched.

Miss Robinson Sentenced.

London, April 11.—Miss Mary Robinson, one of the witnesses in the Druce case, was yesterday sentenced at the Old Bailey to four years' penal servitude for wilful perjury.

Slapped Wife; Two Months.

Kingston, April 11.—Magistrate Farrell shows no leniency towards wife-beaters. For slapping his wife in the face he sent David Tee down for two months.

Chinaman's Sacrifice.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 11.—Years of pain and an agonizing death followed the brave act of Wong Chung Se, a Chinese ranchman, who seven years ago saved the lives of scores of passengers by closing an open switch on the Soutrern Pacific Railroad. Wong died at the County Hospital yesterday.

The Chinaman had a ranch on one of the southern branches of the Southern Pacific. He came upon an open switch that had been opened by tramps. A passenger train was due, and Wong started to turn the switch into place. The rails swung into place just as the train hit them. Wong fell and a step of one of the coaches struck him across the back, breaking his spine.

At the hospital, where he was sent, a heavy plaster cast was fixed to Wong's body, and he remained in it until he died.

Too Cold For Douks.

Nelson, B.C., April 11.—Peter Veregin, leader of the Doukhobors in Canada, who is in the city, stated last night the climate of the territories was too cold for his countrymen, and that he proposed to bring all the Doukhobors in Canada into British Columbia, settling them in the Kootenays, probably in the neighborhood of Nelson, if land could be got hereabouts.

If there was no room for all his people here, he would take the balance to the coast and settle them near Vancouver. The Doukhobors number 7,000 persons, comprising 1,200 families.

Coalition Probable.

Melbourne, April 11.—(C.A.P.)—The Government being defeated, Premier Deakin contemplates resignation, but is being urged to remain until the tariff is finally passed. If he resigns, Lyne-Fisher, the Liberal-Labor leader, will succeed, and a coalition is probable.

BARGAIN OF A BIGAMIST

Briefer Will Support Children of Both Wives---One of Them Protests.

New York, April 11.—Although convicted of bigamy, Michael Briefer, a business man of Decatur, Ill., will not have to serve a prison sentence if he carries out an agreement entered into with Judge Foster in the Court of General Sessions yesterday. The agreement was made in spite of protests by Briefer's first wife, who, through her counsel, declared that any such plan was illegal and would be putting a premium on bigamy. By the terms of the agreement Briefer will be obliged to contribute to the support of three children by his first marriage and one by the second marriage. He furnished bonds to secure the carrying out of the agreement on his part. In suspending sentence Judge Foster said: "I do this as the most practical, quickest and most common-sense method of assuring the maintenance of these children. This plan has caused a great deal of comment, as undeserved as it was unexpected. But the district attorney and I are of one accord in the matter. You will be parolled in the custody of the Prison Association, and can be sent for, and will be sent for, any time within five years by this court and punished if you do not conduct yourself as a man."

Son Saved Mother.

Belleville, April 11.—The residence of James Beatty, Jr., in Kaladar Township, was burned to the ground. The fire, which was caused by an overheated stove, was not discovered until under good headway, and it was all that could be done to get the inmates out safely.

Mr. Beatty's mother, who makes her home with him, is an aged lady and a cripple from rheumatism and it was with the greatest difficulty that she was taken from the burning building by another son, Robert Beatty. The loss was heavy.

Charged Under Charlton Act.

Chatham, April 11.—Thomas Bissell, colored, aged 18 years, was brought in from Dover yesterday by County Officer John McLaren. The charge against Bissell will come under the old Charlton Act, and the party against whom the offence was committed is a young colored girl under 14 years of age.

Bissell was brought before Judge Houston in the County Police Court and remanded for a week.

Leo Thurman Hanged.

Norfolk, Va., April 11.—Leo C. Thurman was hanged here yesterday for the murder on Feb. 1, 1906, of Walter P. Dolson, his room-mate, whose body he placed in a trunk and then fled, being captured 18 months later at Vancouver, B.C.

Thurman declared that the murder was in self-defence after great provocation.

A Priest Suicides.

Albany, N.Y., April 11.—Rev. Joseph Graham, rector of the Roman Catholic Church of the Blessed Sacrament in the west end of this city, killed himself by shooting in the vestry of his church yesterday afternoon.

Sentenced to Five Years.

London, April 11.—Herbert Mee, convicted of embezzling the funds of the Strathroy Brewing & Malting Co., was sentenced by Justice Riddell yesterday to five years in the penitentiary

THE EX-PREMIER IS WEAKENING

Bulletin Gives Little Hope for Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman.

London, April 11.—Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to King Edward's household, and Dr. Bertrand Dawson, physician extraordinary to His Majesty, were called in consultation with Sir Henry's regular physicians yesterday afternoon.

The gravity of the ex-Premier's condition was evidenced by the issuing of a bulletin last evening. This is the first time in several weeks that a second daily bulletin has been given out. This communication says: "Sir Henry has had a quiet day, but there is no improvement in his symptoms. Although he has had comparatively little suffering, he is very weak."

Rock Wrecks Train.

Kenora, April 11.—A serious accident occurred Thursday night between 11 and 12 o'clock to No. 97, six miles east of MacMillan. When approaching there a huge rock, dislodged by the rapid thaw, fell in front of the train, causing the collapse of the engine and four coaches.

Mail baggage and passenger cars kept the rails.

Engineer George Love of Kenora was pinned under the engine and scalded to death. He leaves a widow and one child. Fireman Sanders, observing the obstruction, jumped and saved himself, but was dragged some distance by pieces of the wreck. No passengers were hurt. The train was delayed 12 hours.

May Renew the Subsidy.

London, April 11.—It is understood, though no official confirmation has been obtained, that the British Government has decided to renew the subsidy to the Canadian Pacific Empress mail service to the Pacific on certain stipulations.

The Postoffice Department intimated when the present temporary renewal was arranged the necessity of closer connections between railway and steamer services on the Pacific coast. This will presumably present no serious difficulty.

HELPFUL ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness — you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you could not explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her vast correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the power of to conquer all female diseases.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Frank Emaley, Lindsay, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:—

"When I wrote to you some time ago, I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the feminine organs and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do.

"A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman.

"I most heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer with female troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

The Daily Review

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1908.

THE PREFERENCE

The Examiner re-publishes the Montreal Herald's article attacking the Review for its move against the preference. In an editorial of its own the Examiner launches out against the Review's stand in favor of the abolition of the preference and attacks the Canadian woollen industry as a pampered and effete industry, which has not prospered as other industries have, because of the universal stupidity of its managers. Oddly enough the English woollen industry ascribes its success in Canada to the preference. Likewise of what use is a preference if it does not give an advantage? In the name of "loyalty" this was the use made of it. The net result of this wretched piece of tariff bungling is that 110 woollen mills with a following of 75,000 people have succumbed. Is it reasonable to defend such a policy and in addition to charge it to the alleged inefficiency of 110 managers out of 120 in the whole of Canada? What Mr. Kendrey, Mr. Carnegie and those in a similar position lose by the deterioration of the value of their mill property comes out of their own pockets. There was no canvas made by them of Canada for contributories nor is the Auburn Company a mere industrial speculation which a host of shareholders will suffer for. The Auburn mills are the result of the genius for management and textiles of Mr. Kendrey, aided by a fair tariff. They flourished for years, but now are brought to the verge of the grave by a preference—for others. The Cereal Works are not the product of a preference. The C.G.E. are not the product of a preference. Nor is there one single centre of industry and employment in Peterborough the result of a preference but all are the result of "protection," a word which should be "writ large" on the brain of every misguided Liberal editor in Canada. The battle for Canada has to be fought over again, evidently. Sir Wilfrid with a light heart and apparently an equally light head, gaily hands over this Dominion to the scum of the Orient and in the name of loyalty too, to the textile manufacturers of England for which 110 mills pay the penalty and having nothing left but timber limits, he turns his favorites loose on them. But we have a deficit of $30,000,000 in prospect for next year. Mr. Fielding affirms it. It is the natural result of ten years of living on our savings and of trying to buy prosperity at our own expense. The truth is, that the present condition of Canada has been steadily foreseen by all but Liberal politicians blinded by theories which are fit for nothing but children's copy-books and lunatic asylums. The proof of the pudding is in the eating and the proof is not wanting. Canadians are suffering from national indigestion brought on by bad food and no lack of that.

THE T.A.S.

St. Peter's T.A.S. set out shortly ago to increase its membership, being influenced thereto by a desire to further lessen the evils of intemperance both by precept and a good example. It has succeeded in adding 250 members since then and these members will be initiated on Sunday afternoon next at St. Peter's Cathedral. Until such time as the excessive drinking of stimulants ceases to endanger the nation it will be necessary to resort to reforms of this description. They have a most beneficial effect. The brotherly help of friends and relatives rescues many a man from a drunkard's grave. The "drinking" man becomes a "weak" man whose persistent self-indulgence has undermined his will. The rescue of these is a fundamental necessity. The St. Peter's T.A.S. is doing a very great work.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY

A railway from the Bay to pierce the very heart of the northern half of this continent has long been a magnum desideratum. Reaching tidewater as soon as possible and by the shortest route is the aim of all systems of transportation. In the case of the Hudson Bay route it is merely a question of the time during which the route will be available not of its desirability during that time. For three months and probably part of the fourth Hudson Bay is open and for that period it will be alive with vessels hurrying to and fro in that interchange of supplies called trade. In three months enormous quantities of supplies can be brought in and sent out. This new route is moreover a cheap one to construct and the harbor at Port Churchill is ready-made. It is true that the season's wheat cannot be removed. The crop of the previous year will alone be available for transportation. But one of the chief objects of the undertaking is the opening of a new spillway to prevent congestion and confusion, which entail ultimate and serious loss. As an aid to digestion and development it will be invaluabel to the great west. It is much better that something practicable and immediately useful like this, should be pushed through than that huge schemes of railway and canal construction should burden the country while furnishing immense profits to those most interested in their carrying-out.

THE USE OF THE PLUTOCRAT

The aristocrat is the gilded monument of the time when knights of old were warriors bold. He lives on pride. The democrat is all for the people—nominally. But like the caterpillar he sometimes emerges from the chrysalis state into that of a gaudy blatant plutocrat. Now, a plutocrat is the possessor and worshipper of money not because it gives him power to do good but because it enables himself his wife, his ox, his ass, his servants, and all that is his to shine with pride, to glitter in the brazen brilliance of common show because it enables him to fill his own stomach with good things, to enjoy himself, not as the artist, the engineer, the scientist, the inventor, the mechanician enjoy themselves but merely as a gatherer of gold, a reveller in the "good things" of life who will die like a pig, but will not make even decent pork when dead. However, the plutocrat is the king of today, in the street, in the office in government—in fact, everywhere except in gaol where he ought to be. He will pass as all evil-smelling things must pass but what harm he is doing meanwhile! Think of the tears that he causes to be shed by those who have been starved that he may overeat. Gross as he appears his mind is still more so. Jolly in jest, he entertains—those only who are like himself. A financier by name, a wolf by nature, rich, prodigal, content, a suborner of perjury, a perjurer himself, he poses as a representative man of his time, a foremost of the foremost, bra... gantic and sincere, while his oily skin enfolds merely the body of the snake that once before lured with fair speeches to destruction the earthly father and mother of us all.

EDITORIAL NOTES

In all probability the Ontario House will finish work to-night and prorogue on Monday.

The love affairs of foreign counts and American heiresses are certainly not worth reading about. However journals are full of them as they seem to please the curious and "democratic."

The National Trades and Labor Council would increase the poll tax on Asiatics to $1,000. But a little sum like that isn't going to stop W. T. R. Preston if he wants to take a run over from Shanghai.—Toronto Star, Liberal.

It has been the custom of the "pushers" to provide the orientals with the small "entrance fee" as a sort of bonus. It would take $1000 to stop that.

There is talk in certain trades of a reduction of wages. It would be justice before the wage-earner is compelled to economize still further, to wait until there is apparent some reduction in the price of the things he has to buy. House rent shows no signs of coming down and all food products are still at giddy heights.—Montreal Herald, Liberal.

Doesn't the Preference prevent all this? It was supposed to do so. This is "rit sarcastic" as A. Ward used to say.

London, April 7—A paper on the Imperial problem of Asiatic immigration was read today before the Royal Society of Arts by Richard Jebb.

Referring to British Columbia's difficulty with the Japanese, he said, "if colored labor in any district becomes a permanent institution its effect is always to stigmatize the work in which it is employed. If on the other hand, colored labor is introduced with the intention of diminishing it later on, its immediate effect is as British Columbia has clearly shown, to deter the immigration of white labor which is required to replace it."

An employer's desire to have labor "on tap" like water or electricity may be natural enough but cannot be satisfied through the Asiatic conduit without aggravating the very difficulty which that expedient was intended to overcome.

The deliberate attempt of the Laurier Government to introduce an oriental mixture into Canadian life was little short of criminal. It is a strong word to use but it is, we think, justified. There was no need for it and certainly no excuse.

COBOURG LIKES REV. A. H. BRACE

Was Given a Most Hearty Welcome in Lakeside Town Last Sunday

Rev. A. H. Brace preached at Cobourg on Sunday last and was so heartily received that a church meeting was called for Wednesday to formulate a call. At this meeting a most unanimous call was given and Mr. Brace received the offered message from the church while at Toronto, where it was thoroughly indorsed. He has communicated his acceptance of the call and will begin his duties on May 10th. This appointment is giving general satisfaction and Mr. Brace is receiving many congratulations as the pastor elect for Cobourg.

ORANGE CELEBRATION

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—My attention has been called to a paragraph in yesterday's issue of the Review, in which it is asserted that a movement is on foot to have a district lodge of the Loyal Orange Association, formed in this city and also vouchsafing the information (apparently known only in the imagination of the writer) that in such an event the 12th of July celebration, will in future be held here every year instead of every four years, which has been the practice, heretofore.

Permit me to say that such a thing has not even been considered, neither is it practicable or possible. The Orangemen from the surrounding counties visit us here every four years, with the understanding that the lodges in this county will in turn visit them, in accordance with the arrangement arrived at a number of years ago.

It is a fact that we have now attained sufficient strength to form a district composed exclusively of city lodges, it is considered advisable in the interests of the association to do so. That however will not necessarily effect the present arrangements with regard to 12th of July celebrations.

W. H. G. ARMSTRONG,
County Master, West Peterborough.

THE CALL WAS UNANIMOUS

Rev. A. H. Bruce, who recently resigned from the pastorate of the Peterborough Baptist church has been invited to become pastor of the Baptist church here, to succeed Rev. Mr. Quarrington, and it is understood he will accept the call.

Rev. Mr. Bruce preached at Cobourg last Sunday and was listened to by a large congregation. He made a fine impression and was strongly urged to locate in the town by the lake.

At a meeting of the Baptist church members held on Wednesday evening, it was decided to extend a call to Rev. A. H. Bruce, late pastor of the Peterborough Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Bruce recently resigned from the Peterborough pastorate and will leave his present duties about the first of May. Rev. Mr. Bruce is the Home Mission Secretary of the Peterborough Association of Baptist churches.

Rev. Mr. Quarrington, the present pastor, will preach his farewell sermon here on Easter Sunday, and will commence his Hamilton pastorate the Sunday following.—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

APPALING PERIL OF STEEPLEJACK

New York, April 10—Hundreds of persons from the street and shop windows today watched Jos. Bailey, a steeplejack, extricate himself from a dangerous predicament at the top of a 280 foot chimney in Jersey City. Bailey was sitting in a boatswain's chair slung from the top of the chimney, when a gust of wind whirled the chair and he fell out of it. As he did so he grasped a rope which was dangling from the chimney top and the wind blew the chair out of his reach. Several persons witnessed the mishap, and their cries of alarm attracted the attention of a crowd to Bailey as he struggled hand over hand up the swaying rope to the top where he had barely strength enough to crawl over the edge. He then descended inside the chimney, but declared he would return to finish the task of placing a collar around the chimney near the top.

PRESENTED REPORT OF HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION

Recently Held in Toronto—Local Committee Gave Report at Meeting of Nicholls Hospital Board Held on Thursday

At a meeting of the Nicholls Hospital Board held on Thursday afternoon, the report of Messrs. John Crane and W. H. Hill, who were the committee appointed to attend the Hospital Association held in Toronto on Wednesday, March 18th, presented their report.

Among other business transacted at this meeting it was decided to engage an expert from Toronto to enquire into the cause of the recent explosion in the boiler room of the hospital.

The report is as follows:—

The Chairman and members Nicholls Hospital Trust, Peterborough, Ont.:

Gentlemen,—Your Special Committee appointed to attend the meeting of the Ontario Hospital Association in Toronto, beg to report as follows:

Your Committee attended the Hospital Association held in Toronto on Wednesday, March 18th, 1908, which was held in the Public Account Committee room in the Government Buildings and was attended by about 100 delegates representing the various hospitals of the province, including representatives from New Ontario.

An interesting general discussion was entered into which elicited much valuable statistical information and a general plan was mapped out to lay before the Ministers of the Cabinet the claims of the hospitals for Government aid. Some eight speakers were appointed, their choice being made with a view to covering hospitals throughout the province, and each was assigned a part in the discussion so as to avoid repetition and make their various points of most effect.

We were afterwards met by the Hon. Mr. Hanna, Provincial Secretary; Hon. Mr. Reaume, Hon. Mr. Matheson, and Hon. Mr. Cochrane.

The interview with the Hon. gentlemen brought out some interesting statistics in regard to hospitals' work and which your committee feel should make a strong impression on the minds of the Cabinet.

First—In 1882 there were 13 hospitals.

In 1907 there were 65 hospitals.

In 1882 the hospital treated 6,032 patients

In 1907 the hospital treated 45,551 patients

In 1882 the first Government grant was $14,832.

In 1907, the first Government grant was $110,000.

In 1882 the cost of maintenance was about 68 cents per day.

In 1907 the cost of maintenance was $1.16 per day.

In 1882 the total cost of maintenance was $104,035.

In 1907 the total cost of maintenance was $1,149,875.

The figures produce the following rather unique results:—That while pay patients have increased their own support to maintenance in the past 20 years from 16 per cent. to 53 per cent. Municipalities to 17 per cent. and although the cost per day for maintenance is double what it was in 1882 and the income from investments has reduced from 10 per cent. to 4 per cent. in spite of this the Government grant has reduced from 36 per cent. to 13 per cent.

In the past 1898-1908 ten years, the patients have increased by nearly 30,000 at an increased cost of 700,000 per year still, the same sum of $110,000 has gone into the estimates each year in spite of the fact that during that time the succession duties (which were instituted to aid hospitals and charities) have amounted to over five millions of dollars.

These facts were all pointed out to the Ministry and from the remarks of the Hon. Mr. Hanna at the close, evidently made a marked impression.

The aim of the association was to secure a level rate of 30 cents per day, which add to the public grate of 70 cts., would give $1 per day for maintenance or 16c. less than the present average cost.

Hon. Mr. Hanna stated that while the estimates had already been brought down, if he could succeed in impressing his colleagues as thoroughly as he had been impressed there would be the supplementary estimates to fall back on.

After the Ministers had retired a meeting was held for the election of officers when Mr. W. G. Rundle, of the Toronto General Hospital was elected president and Mr. Hutchinson, of Brockville, secretary.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN CRANE,
W. H. HILL.

A further fact was pointed out by the reduction in donations since the Succession Duties Act came into force. Those desirous of making bequests in their wills to hospitals were deterred from doing so, saying that the hospitals were provided for from the succession duties.

C. G. E. "AT HOME" WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL IN EVERY WAY

Large Audience and Programme of Great Merit at Grand Opera House Last Night.

The second annual "At Home," of the Canada General Electric Company Mutual Benefit Society held at the Grand Opera House last night cannot be described as anything but a marked success. Every seat in the house was taken and the programme was one of unusual merit. Great credit is due those in charge for the excellent arrangements made and those taking part in the programme for the splendid manner in which they acquitted themselves. Those taking part were almost entirely employees of the Canadian General Electric Company and it was a revelation to many in the audience to learn that so much talent was confined to one industry. The attendance was larger than last year and the function highly successful in every respect.

Mr. R. E. Harding announced a few changes in the printed programme after which the concert was proceeded with.

The orchestra was composed of night pieces and was in splendid form. The programme opened with a march, "Fraternity Belle," that was given with a fine interpretation. This was followed by selections from the 'Geisha' that were received with much applause. Mr. I. O'Brien who was on the programme for a song was unable to appear owing to illness. Mr. E. Crowe gave the first vocal number, "Some Day When Dreams Come True," in fine voice and for an encore sang "When You Know You're not forgotten by the Girl You Can't Forget." Annie Christie, a little girl of about seven years, made a great hit in a recitation "Nip and Tuck." She was forced to respond to an encore and gave another pleasing selection that was received with great enthusiasm. Another selection "Cleopatra," by the orchestra with cornet solo by Mr. W. Hughes, added greatly to the programme. Mr. Hughes' playing was beyond criticism. Mr. George Lynch, always a favorite, added to his laurels in one of Dr. Drummond's selections, "My Friend Baptiste." For an encore he gave a selection that pleased equally well.

Mr. E. M. Booker sang "The Bandilero," in fine voice and was forced to respond to an encore. Mr. W. McLaren gave the famous speech of the prosecuting attorney in the Bardell versus Pickwick Breach of promise case and did it in a manner that elicited the heartiest applause. Mr. J. W. Chambers sang "The Veterans' Song" in splendid spirit and was recalled for another selection. This completed the first part of the programme.

The opening number of the second part was an orchestral selection, 'Sons of Erin,' a medley of favorite Irish airs. This was one of the most enjoyable numbers of the evening. Miss E. Lee sang "Dear Home Songs," very sweetly and for a recall gave another pleasing selection.

Mr. F. Pratt showed himself the possessor of a fine bass voice in a song entitled "The Pitiless Goodwin Sands." He had to respond to an encore. Mr. Frank Clarke is an artist with the banjo and fully sustained his reputation last night. His two numbers were features of the programme. Miss May Edwards was heard to advantage in a vocal solo, "Spring Flowers," which she sang very sweetly. Her encore number was equally pleasing. She was the recipient of a bouquet of flowers. Mr. Herbert Nicholl, the accompanist of the evening, gave a piano solo in brilliant manner and was encored. He is a pianist of great ability and his playing added greatly to the programme and the evening's enjoyment.

Mr. W. McLaren appeared on the programme in another selection, "The Grass Widower," and had to respond to an encore. The last number on the programme was an illustrated song, "Where the Shannon River Flows," sung by George Lynch. The slides were exceedingly pretty and Mr. Lynch gave the song in fine voice.

"The Maple Leaf Forever," and "God Save the King," by the orchestra brought the programme to a close.

BEVERAGE TOO MUCH FOR THEM

Mysterious Drink Killed Three Indians---Was it Essence of Lemon?

Swan Lake, Man., April 8. — On Saturday last three of the Indians on the reserve west of here died as a result of drinking what they believed to be essence of lemon. Dr. Speechly, of Pilot Mound, a coroner, was notified, and after viewing the bodies on Sunday, assisted Dr. Cooper in a post-mortem examination. A jury was summoned today by Constable McLean. The evidence of Dr. Cooper and Malcolm Campbell, the farm instructor, was heard. Dr. Cooper, in giving his evidence, stated that there were no signs of external violence. Two of the Indians were not dead, when he saw them first, but they were past medical aid.

Malcolm Campbell stated that he learned through an interpreter that they had been drinking from a bottle a fluid which they got for essence of lemon. He also learned they had procured this from a store in Somerset. Mr. Campbell further stated that this essence is a favorite beverage with the Indians. He found three bottles in the house. Two were full, the other partly filled.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

Special to J. R. Heintz & Co

New York, April 11—Today's stock market has been rather inactive, and there seems to be quite a little stock offered for sale. The professional element appear to be working for a somewhat lower level of prices, and the buying on declines was some abated. We rather look for a traders' market next week, and believe most stocks can be bought a little lower than they are selling at present. We would confine operations to the best stocks and when purchases are made on dips, quick rallies should be taken advantage of to secure fair profits. We feel very favorable to Am. Car. & Foundry and advise its purchase even at present prices for a long pull and think it will eventually sell very much higher.

Selling appearing in the local traction stocks on this bulge and a reaction seems due. Southern Pacific looks cheap to us. Buy Union Pacific on all soft spots and take about three points profits for the present. Look for a better copper market next week with higher prices in Amalgamated and Anaconda.

American stocks in London mostly lower at the close. London was still a little skeptical about the advance here and sent over a pretty good quantity of selling orders. There were some more sharp upward moves in the New York specialties, including Third Avenue, Metropolitan, Interboro and American Ice today.

Today's bank statement makes a good showing. The increase in loans no doubt reflects special loans made to tide over Erie notes. Gain cash not as large as expected, but sufficiently large to make a good report. On the whole it is a favorable statement.

TOM MARKS CO.

Tom Marks, who will begin his week's engagement in the Grand Opera House on Monday night, April 13th, in "Major O'Hara, an Irish Dragoon," is one of the most successful comedians on the stage today. Tom is undoubtedly a good fellow, big and good looking, with a genial manner that is almost irresistible. He is hailed as a good fellow wherever he goes. He is a great dog fancier, and always has one of the best with him, his last acquisition being "Buster," whose picturesque countenance appears on the bill boards with him. "Buster" is a rival of "Tige" in Buster Brown. Of Irish descent, Irish comedy appealed more naturally to Tom than any other branch and he has made himself one of the leading impersonators of these roles on the stage today. His Irishman is not the gross caricature so offensive to the race, but is the real thing, warm hearted impetuous and lovable. So, too, with the plays in which he appears. He has discarded the old hackneyed Irish melodrama and has a series of new comedies mostly written by himself, or under his own dictation. They are clean, bright and entertaining, and worth double the present price of admission. But for this engagement the price has been placed within the reach of all, 10c, 20c, and 25c., while on Monday night one lady and one gentleman, or two ladies may secure two of the best seats in the house for 25c. if purchased in advance at box office now on sale. On Good Friday there will be a special matinee, all seats reserved.

"PARSIFAL" TO BE GIVEN HERE

The Last and Greatest of Richard Wagner's Art Plays Coming to the Grand Opera House Easter Monday

To the many readers and students of the legendary stories of the "Holy Grail," especially as understood in Wagner's beautiful spectacle of "Parsifal," its Christian symbolism and teachings will be readily recognised and appreciated. One cannot fail to see in this beautiful work that it was the intention of the mind that conceived it to construct a work so natural and life-like in action, so human, moral and instructive in its entire fabric, that it would for ages endure as a forceful and constant reminder of its grand, noble Christian lesson. It was Wagner's last work. It was his greatest. It will serve forever as a glorious monument to his immortal genius. If there there was no other work of Wagner's extant. "Parsifal" would attest as to his wonderful powers as a philosopher, poet and intellectual giant. What then must have been the genius of the man who has left to posterity more than three hundred works in poetry, music and prose, and covering the entire field of philosophy, art and science. And yet such is but a slight part of the history of the "wonder of the age." Richard Wagner. But it is only of his last and greatest work we wish to speak, "Parsifal," that wondrous creation of Wagner's that has stirred the hearts and minds of men the world over. His story, from beginning to end, is a powerful exposition of the secret of redeeming love. Can one possibly imagine a more worthy theme upon which to build a play! Yet the builder has constructed so well, illustrated the subject in so graphic and interesting a manner, that it is at once the very ideal drama from an ethical standpoint, and a most thrilling and entertaining spectacle as appealing to the mere material senses. One can see in its presentation the God-like teachings of its author. One can also see in it a magnificent and impressive spectacle the equal of which has heretofore never been witnessed, - for its entrancing story and regal environments. Such a production must necessarily demand more than the ordinary in equipment, cast and treatment, in order to do justice to so worthy a theme. These requirements we are assured, will be completely fulfilled during the engagement at the Grand Opera House, Easter Monday, April 20th.

Owing to the unusual length of the performance the curtain will rise for the first act promptly at 7.45 p.m. There are four acts, each one of which requires about forty minutes for its enactment. The intermissions are comparatively short, and the final curtain falls at eleven o'clock. It is one of the rules of the performance, and the management gives the assurance that the rule will be strictly enforced, that every one must be seated before the theatre is darkened, which means before the music begins. Late comers will not be shown to their seats until the conclusion of the act. Warning of the approach of commencement time will be given by trumpeters in the lobby entrance.

THE MENZIES PROPERTY; AN APPEAL TO THE COUNCIL

Last Chance to Obtain This Property for a Branch Library —Give the Working People a Chance—One Big Library a Mistake—The Latest and Most Economical System in Use.

It is almost too late to discuss this property further but we understand that for a few days yet there is an opportunity open to the city if the city wishes to acquire it for a public purpose. Mr. Langford offers this splendid property to the city for $8500 house included. From any other buyer he demands $10,000. He is anxious for the city to buy it and make a public use of it. Since he despaired of the city's doing so he has begun to sell and has already sold 45 feet off the southeast corner to a well-known citizen for $30 a foot or $1350 To another citizen he sold the 45 feet adjoining for $25 a foot or $1125, making so far a total $2475 for about 1-5 of the vacant land. At this point the question naturally arises, "Why does he not continue?" At that rate he would get at least $7500 for the vacant portion leaving him with a house worth $12000 standing on a small square with ample means of ingress and egress to and from it. Beyond doubt as a business proposition the offer to the city of the whole property for $8500, (the sold lots being included) is not sound. But that is Mr. Langford's business. He is still ready to sell the whole square and house to the city and to the city only for $8500. What use, the reader will ask, could be made of it by the city even if such an excellent offer were accepted. We suggest as an answer that it would make a fine branch public library. Utilize the building and sell the superfluous land and the reason for our suggestion is complete. Branch libraries are the last thing in public libraries. A main central library only is a mistake. People who work all day will not go long distances in the evening to read papers or take out books. The reading and lending stations must be handy to the people. That is the only way to cultivate a taste for information. The branch-library in College street, Toronto, is a humble affair but it is thronged daily at certain hours. We know by personal asking that the men and women spoken to would not have gone the mile or more to the central library had that been their only recourse. Branches moreover, are inexpensive. They can be handled by private occupants of the buildings in which they are established. One in the Menzies mansion, one in mid-city and one below Sherbrooke street would fill the bill. They would be infinitely better than a central palace even with a hall, etc, attached. Give the working people a chance. Put books and proper reading material within their reach not out of it. The offer of Mr. Langford's is a splendid one but if it is to be accepted it must be accepted at once. Who of our aldermen willl take the matter in hand?

SIR FREDERICK BORDEN WILL LAY CORNER STONE

At the New Armories—Minister of Militia Will be Here for the Function on Either April 21st or 22nd—Meeting to Arrange for Reception

The corner stone of the new armories will be laid on either the 21st or 23rd of this month. Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia will be master of ceremonies.

The Review saw Lt.-Col. Stevenson of the 57th Regimental Rangers, concerning the matter and he informed the representative that Sir Frederick would be here, but that the Minister of Militia had not yet definitely fixed the date.

A meeting is being held this afternoon at 5 o'clock by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., Lt.-Col. Stevenson and a representative from the city council, for the purpose of making arrangements in connection with Sir Frederick's reception.

LATE SOLDIER WAS LAID TO REST WITH MILITARY HONORS

Funeral of Quarter Master Serjt. Boyle Held This Morning —24th Field Battery and 57th Regiment Attended

The remains of the late Quarter Master Sergeant Richard Boyle were borne to their last resting place in the Roman Catholic cemetery this morning. The funeral was under military auspices, the deceased having been a gunner in the 24th Field Battery and saw active service in South Africa with the second and third Canadian contingents. The members of the 24th turned out in large numbers and a squad from the 57th Regiment and the the 57th band attended to pay their last token of respect to the memory of their late comrade.

Lieuts. R. H. Leary and T. W. McDonough were in charge of the battery while Sgtt. Major Brittain had charge of the 57th.

Wrapped in the Union Jack the casket was driven on a gun waggon. This was in charge of Sgt. Gray and drivers Sullivan and McGee. The 57th band preceded the procession and was followed by the gun waggon and then tery, while Sergt. Major Brittain had regiment.

The pall-bearers were Sgt. Hutchison, O. R. Sgt. R. Hay and Sgt. R. Galvin, of the 24th Field Battery, and Sgt. W. Batten, Sgt. Giles and Sgt. Dummett, of the 57th regiment.

At the cathedral, requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Father Kelly, who also took occasion to refer in glowing terms to the military career of the deceased, and to what an example of unselfishness and devotion to his country he had left for his fellow comrades to follow.

Miss Lavina Hallihan sang the "Ave Maria."

At the cemetery, Sgt. Major Fee had charge of the firing party. Three volleys were fired over the grave and the last sad rites o fthe church were conducted by Rev. Father Galvin.

The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous inlcuding designs from the 57th regiment and the 24th Field Battery.

All along the street people thronged to watch the procession and pay their last mark of respect of a brave soldier.

A LONG WALK FOR A PERSON NEARING THE CENTURY MARK

To walk from the western part of Charlotte street to Auburn and return is somewhat of a remarkable accomplishment for a person ninety-eight years of age. That was the feat performed by Mr. Robert Nantell, father-in-law of Mr. J. E. Edwards, who resides on Charlotte street, a considerable distance west of Park street. Mr. Nantell is ninety-eight years of age ,but he travels about the city in a manner that might be envied by many men twenty years his junior. Mr. Nantell walked to Auburn and return the other day and enjoyed the tramp very much. He walked to the lift lock one day last fall and takes a long stroll around the city every day that the weather is fine. Mr. Nantell is remarkably active for his advanced years, and attributes his good health largely to plenty of ourdoor exercise.

THOMAS—FRY

The marriage took place at four o'clock this afternoon of Miss Daisy Agnes Louisa Fry to Mr. George W. Thomas, both of this city. The ceremony took place at 450 Elm street and was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's church. The bride was attended by Miss Lily Nixon and the groom was supported by his brother, Jos. Thomas.

The young people will have the best wishes of a large number of friends.

"No, I never carry my watch when I go out," she said artlessly. "I am so careless that it wouldn't be safe. Why, a person could steal anything right from under my nose and I wouldn't miss it." Then the young man by her side stole a kiss, and she didn't seem to miss it.

TRAIN'S DASH DOWNHILL

A serious accident, happily involving no loss of life, occurred on the Highland Railway early the other morning. A mineral train, consisting of twenty-four wagons of coal, was climbing the summit which borders Perthshire and Inverness-shire when the engine coupling snapped. In a moment the twenty-four wagons were dashing down the incline at a terrific pace. The guard in the rear van, after endeavoring to apply the brake, jumped for his life. He landed without injury. After a run of four miles the wagons were switched off by catch-points into a hillside where they piled up in a mass of wreckage.—Overseas Mail.

FRED SIMPSON COMING HERE TO TRAIN FOR TRIAL RUN

Will be in in Charge of Dick Baker—Promising Runners in Hiawatha—Go-as-you-please Trip Through the Mud

Fred Simpson, the crack Hiawatha runner, was in the city this morning, and in conversation with the Review, stated that great interest is being taken in the running game in the Rice Lake village. Two promising young Indian runners Paddy Muskrat and Bob Tobico are getting into shape for the distance events and may enter the Examiner road race next fall. The latter is also a walker of ability, and would enter the tournament here if it were not for the fact that he would be professionalized. Billy Anderson another Hiawatha resident is looked upon as a likely one for shorter distances, such as the mile and two miles.

WILL BE HERE TO TRAIN.

Simpson himself, who with Coley and Longboat are picked by Tom Flanaghan to represent Canada in the Olympic races, is working out regularly, and expects to be in the pink of condition for the big Brantford to Hamilton trial run on May 25th.

He is coming here on the 27th of this month to get into shape for the run and will be taken under the capable charge of trainer Dick Baker.

JAUNT THROUGH THE MUD.

This morning Simpson and two of his friends Messrs. Moses Anderson and Ryerson Whetung, did a six and a half mile go-as-you-please stunt over the muddy roads. They took the stage from Hiawatha to Greystock's, but as the heavy going made the progress very slow, they lightened the horses' burden by getting off and travelling from Greystock's to this city alternately running and walking the distance.

I.C.A.C. AFTER SIMPSON.

The Irish Canadian Athletic Club are after Simpson to join that organization, but he has not yet decided whether or not he will throw in his lot with Flanagan's champions. There is no doubt he would be a decided acquisition to the athletic strength of the Queen City aggregation.

HURTIBUISE WOULD LIKE TO MAKE MATCH WITH KENNEDY

In last night's issue of the Review there appeared a clipping from the Toronto Star in which it was stated that a match was being talked of between "Gene" Hurtubuise, the local heavyweight and Kennedy, the New York mat man, who recently stacked up in a handicap bout against Artie Edmonds, the Toronto lighweight.

Last night a representative of the Review saw Hurtubuise at the Montreal House and he stated the bout would take place and in Peterborough if suitable terms could be made with Kennedy's manager. He expected a long distance from the American's manager last night, but the latter did not ring up and so nothing binding has yet been decided.

Should the bout be pulled off several preliminary events of merit and an entertaining musical programme wil be put on. There is every indication that the match will be made, and should it materialise, it should prove a great drawing card in this city. Further particulars concerning the matter will be announced.

LOCAL BOWLERS WERE DEFEATED

Gave Toronto Pin Artists Close Games---Return Match Tuesday Night

A Toronto despatch says;

Two friendly games of bowls were played yesterday on Canadian Bowling Club drives between a picked team from the Peterborough Club and the C.B.C. The games created quite a lot of interest and was close all through. However the "Otonabees" were worsted in both games. The scores;

ATHLETICS

As was expected from Thursday night's showing, "Con." Walsh last night at the C.A.A.U. events, established a world's record in the 56-lb. throw for height. The record, which was held by Mitchell of New York, with 15 feet 6 3-8 inches, was broken by 3 1-1 inches, Walsh throwing it 15 ft. 9 1-2 inches. This was the feature of the night, as far as athletics were concerned.—Toronto World.

McGRATH WAS NOT IN SHAPE

Ran 50 Yards Dash at C. A. A. U. Meet--Had Not Put on Shoe Since Last December

Without having had a running shoe on or any training since the Y.M.C.A. Harriers meet here last December, Fred. McGrath went up to the C.A.A.U. meet at the Arena rink, Toronto, and started in the fifty yard dash against a very select field of sprinters. He was naturally not very fine, as the result of his condition, and considering this his showing was a splendid one.

He ran in the second heat of the 50 yard event, and although he didn't get to the wire within the money, he was the first man to touch the wall which was fifteen yards past the finish.

The track was wide, each of the eight men in the race having a space of about six feet or more, but it was not very fast.

McGrath was galley two

Fred has no kick whatever coming, but thinks his chances would have been good had he been in condition. He had some important business to transact and chose Thursday as the night to go owing to the fact of the meet being held there.

Concerning his showing the Toronto Star says:—

Fred McGrath, of Peterborough, was beaten in the second heat. He was set back for a false break, and was so careful on the second down that his field had five yards on him before he kicked off. He closed strongly on end, but the journey wasn't long enough to let him inside the money.

Mr. Robert Wade, a commercial man, who has recently been in Brockville, states that there is still good sleighing in that town, and also says there is skating in the rink there.

Mr. Wade bore out the truth of his statement by an aricle in the Brockville Times.

BASEBALL

Port Hope, April 9.—Picton and Wellington have applied for admission to the Midland Baseball League and it is understood that they have practically been assured that they will be admitted. Both of the towns have first-class teams and should make it interesting for other teams in the league. The Invincibles practiced this afternoon at Boswell's field. The team will try to arrange a game for Good Friday.

GUARANTEED SECOND HAND BICYCLES
Every Second-hand Bicycle sold by the Banks Bicycle Works is guaranteed for one year.

BASKETBALL

Mr. A. E. Froude, physical director of the local Y.M.C.A., has received word that the Midland Basketball team will play here on Easter Monday.

Midland has a very fast team and the game should be a very interesting one.

BASEBALL

Belleville are desirous of entering the Midland League, and a notice of the annual meeting has been sent to the secretary of their club. From present indications there should be big doings in the league this year.—Port Hope Guide.

THE EXAMINER WAS IN WRONG

Mr. Henry Sage Denies a Story About Walking Home From the City

Mr. Henry Sage of Smith township denies the statement that appeared in the Examiner that he and his wife had to walk home from Peterborough, a distance of seven miles, as a result of his horse dying while in the city.

"There is absolutely no truth in the Examiner's story," said Mr. Sage, "and I want it denied. We didn't have to walk home and don't see why they published such stuff."

DR. BROWETT'S OPHTHALMOMETERS
In estimating the degrees and kind of astigmatism, this eye instrument is most valuable and accurate. Dr. Browett has, during the past fifteen years, taught opticians the use of five different kinds of ophthalmometers, all of which were good instruments, but the one he now uses is conceded to be the most exact and the finest instrument made for the detection and estimation of astigmatism, and the measurements of the curvatures of the cornea of the eye. This and other instruments are used for many examinations daily at our office. We supply modern eye glasses at reasonable prices.

MR. HOWDEN IS PROPRIETOR

Mr. Alex Gordon in No Way Interested in Market Arcade Butcher Shop

Mr. Alex. Gordon, formerly proprietor of the Market Arcade, wishes to contradict an item which appeared in the Examiner the other evening. In the article it was stated that Mr. Gordon was in partnership with Mr. Howden, but Mr. Gordon wishes it understood that he is not.

Mr. Howden is sole proprietor of the Arcade butcher shop, and Mr. Gordon is in no way interested in the business, having disposed of it entirely to Mr. Howden.

GOOD NEWS FOR THEATRE-GOERS

A correct and sumptuous presentation of Wagner's famous musical production "Parsifal," will be given at the Grand on Easter Monday. The cast will be composed of operatic singers of distinction, and it will take over three hours to enact the piece, the performance commencing at a quarter to eight.

The costuming will be elaborate and in fine taste, while the stage stage dressings will be particularly rich and descriptive.

Harry C. Payne, of Windsor, will again be tried in Detroit for smuggling Chinese into the States.

Paris has adopted a by-law to raise $40,000 for the central school, towards which Mr. Penman will contribute $15,000.

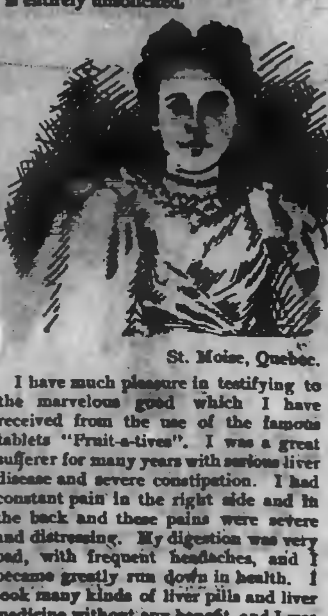
Nothing Did Good

Until She Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

Madame Rioux is the wife of M. Jos. Rioux, a wealthy manufacturer of lumber in St. Moise. Madame Rioux is greatly esteemed in her home town and her testimonial in favor of "Fruit-a-tives" carries conviction with it, as it is entirely unsolicited.



St. Moise, Quebec.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the marvelous good which I have received from the use of the famous tablets "Fruit-a-tives". I was a great sufferer for many years with serious liver disease and severe constipation. I had constant pain in the right side and in the back and these pains were severe and distressing. My digestion was very bad, with frequent headaches, and I became greatly run down in health. I took many kinds of liver pills and liver medicine without any benefit, and I was treated by several doctors but nothing did me any good, bloating continued. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I began to feel better, the dreadful pains in the right side and back were easier and when I had taken three boxes I was practically well. 150

"Fruit-a-tives" — or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box —6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

MESSAGE FROM MISSIONARIES

Unique Programme at Murray St. Church Last Evening

Unique to an unusual degree was the entertainment of the Mission Band of Murray street Baptist church held last night. Four months ago the members of the band wrote to the missionaries of the Baptist Church in India and South America, asking each one for a message to be read at the meeting held last night. Replies have been received in the meantime and the messages were read at last night's assembly. A large number were in attendance and it was an impressive feature when the names of the missionaries were called out and the members of the band came forward and repeated the messages that had come from the laborers in God's vineyard in far-off countries. One message was from Rev. F. J. Scott, a former pastor of Murray street church. All were of a most encouraging nature. The programme was as follows;

NEW STRENGTH FOR THE SPRING

Nature Needs Assistance in Making New Health-Giving Blood

In the spring your system needs toning up. In the spring to be healthy and strong you must have new blood, just as the trees must have new sap. Nature demands it and nature's laws are inexorable. Without new blood you will feel weak and languid. You may have twinges of rheumatism, or the sharp stabbing pains of neuralgia, there may be disfiguring pimples or eruptions of the skin, a tired feeling in the morning and a variable appetite. These are some of the signs that the blood is out of order, that the long trying months of indoor winter life have told upon you. A purgative medicine, such as too many people take in spring, can't help you. Purgatives merely gallop through the system, and further weaken you. Any doctor will tell you that this is true. What people need in the spring is a tonic medicine, and in all the world there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose of this medicine helps to make new, rich rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring. This new, red blood clears the skin, drives out disease and makes weak, easily tired men, women, and children bright, active and strong. Try this great blood-building medicine this spring, and see what new life and energy it will give you.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ALL RUN DOWN
Weak---Nervous---Unstrung.

Thousands get run down and become invalids before they realize anything is wrong. By permitting low vitality to develop, the way is paved for fevers, pneumonia and diphtheria. To put off makes it all the harder to get well. The time to repair the system is right now, before the damage gets any worse. The remedy is Ferrozone; it revitalizes, renews, builds up vitality that outlasts old age.

FERROZONE is a genuine invigorator that banishes weakness, and instils surplus force and vigor into every organ of the body. Ferrozone sharpens the appetite, produces rich nutritious blood, and thereby contributes that sense of buoyancy that adds so enormously to one's pleasure and usefulness in life.

For all forms of debility, weakness, lack of blood or nerve tone, sleeplessness, tiredness and exhaustion, there is no medicine so vitalizing and potent as Ferrozone. Even one trial demonstrates its rapidly and certainty of action.

To restore the energy of youth, to get back your vital stamina and reserve force, there is positively no treatment so certain as Ferrozone. You have only to try Ferrozone to know the enormous benefit it invariably brings to all in poor health.

FERROZONE

Miss Dorothy B. Ledus of Chester gives the following convincing evidence of Ferrozone's power:—"My work compels me to rise early in the morning and work ten hours daily as a saleslady. Last Spring I was run down, lost my color and fell off in weight. I seemed to lack ambition and the life was out of me. A friend recommended Ferrozone, and I took one tablet after meals with wonderful results. Ferrozone brought back my complexion, and has given me new strength and abundance of energy and spirits. I would advise all young ladies to use Ferrozone."

Mrs. H. G. Wilder of Dexter says:—"My daughter was not very well last Winter, and lost her strength completely when the Spring came. I gave her Ferrozone, and am glad to say it did wonders. After six boxes were used my daughter was strong, and looked the picture of health."

Gave New Strength

FERROZONE

It makes the weak strong, the sick well, and assures lasting good health.

WARNING—Beware of any substitute for Ferrozone; it alone can cure you. Sold by all druggists and dealers in medicine, only in 50c boxes containing 50 chocolate-coated tablets. By mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

LABOR PARTY'S NEW PLATFORM FREE COMPULSORY EDUCATION

The Independent Labor Party Met on Thursday Last—Asiatic Exclusion Demanded—Public Ownership of Public Utilities Recommended—Women's Suffrage Not Endorsed

The Independent Labor party last evening constructed a platform of the following planks:

Free compulsory education.

Legal working day of eight hours, with Saturday a half holiday.

Government inspection of factories, shops and all Industries.

Abolition of the contract system in all public works.

A minimum living wage based on local conditions.

Public ownership of all franchise such as railways, telegraphs, telephones, waterworks, lighting etc.

Tax reform by lessening taxation on industries and increasing it on land values.

Abolition of the Dominion Senate

Exclusion of all Asiatics from the country.

Restricted immigration and the abolition of Government assistance.

Abolition of property qualification for all public offices.

Voluntary arbitration of all labor disputes.

Proportional representation with grouped constituencies and the abolition of municipal wards.

Direct legislation through the initiative of referendum.

Prohibition of prison labor in competition with free labor.

They came near adding the plant of woman's suffrage as well. Before the gathering broke up, however, they decided to refer the question of universal adult suffrage to the next provincial convention, should one be called.

Power was granted the Executive to recall any candidate from Parliament who should be discovered violating the party's principles.

MEANS OF SOME ACTORS TO FATTEN THEIR ROLES

The desire that many leading actors have to make the parts they play even more important than the dramatist intended that they should be has led to some severe and protracted feuds upon the stage. It also has led to some queer changes in the drama.

When David Garrick appeared in a play in which he thought that one of the minor characters got more applause than was his due he took from the part of that unfortunate minor actor those lines that brought forth the applause. He tacked them on to his own part and so transformed the applause to himself. And although he professed to be a great lover of Shakespeare, and even quit speaking to some Frenchmen who could not say truthfully that they thought Shakespeare was as great a man as Garrick thought he was, some of the mutilations he made were made in the plays of Shakespeare.

So greedy was Charles Kean of the centre of the stage that one of his enemies said of him that Kean's ideal company would consist of himself, his wife, and a ballet.

In one of the recent revivals of Shakespeare's "The Tempest," a free hand was taken by one of the actors who was not satisfied with his part as the poet had written it.

To his original part he added lines taken from other plays of Shakespeare, and in the end succeeded in building out of bricks from various Shakespearian buildings a considerable monument to his own conceit.

Although Henry Irving pasted his caprices upon what he said were solid grounds to be found in the plays themselves, it is a fact that while in his company the admirable Ellen Terry never got all the chances she deserved.

Although one of the last things that Irving said to Bram Stoker, his friend and manager, before he died was that he hoped Miss Terry was prospering, he never, while she was a member of the Lyceum Company, gave her a chance to play Rosalind, for which part she was especially fitted and in which her friends all desired that she should be seen.

Webber and Fields, who acted together for twenty-six years, had their differences toward the end of their long association. Some of these differences were due to Lew Field's deep-seated and not to be uprooted conviction that he is a fine actor of serious parts. Webber never told Fields that he did not agree with the Field diagnosis of the Field acting, but while they were together Fields never got the chances to do the bits of serious work that he later introduced in his mimicry of David Warfield, for instance, in "About Town."

Many of the alterations that are found in the plays of Shakespeare were made by actors who wanted to "fatten" the parts they played themselves. There never was a greater offender in this regard than was Colley Cibber. His version of "Richard the Third" still keeps the stage, however, and has shown more vitality than the undiluted work of Shakespeare.

Contrary to the notion that generally is accepted, the great majority of leading actors do not get along too well with their leading actresses, and vice versa. For the actor who, like David Garrick, was beloved of his leading woman, Peg Woffington, there are many who are civil to their leading woman only when they have to be.

The desire to be first at any price is pretty firmly implanted in the mind of the average actor, and the traditions of the stage foster in him a disinclination to reduce the importance of his own part of any submission to the views of the actress who wishes to elevate the importance of her own.

Catarrh of Digestive Organs and Bowels.

MRS. MARY M. MARSHALL, Tipton, Mo., writes:

"I suffered three years with catarrh of the digestive organs and bowels. I was unable to find relief, until as a last resort I was induced to try Peruna.

"I began the use of Peruna when I was confined to the bed and can say that I experienced benefit from the first dose.

"I have taken five bottles in all and believe that I am cured of my trouble.

"I am enjoying as good health as an old lady of my age could expect. My age is 77.

"I recommend your medicines to sufferers whenever I meet them, and some of my friends are using them with great success.

"I will always feel grateful to you for your grand medicine and kind advice and trust that many others may be as greatly benefited as I have been."

Pe-ru-na For Bowel Trouble.

Mrs. L. S. Tinker, 862 Second street, Macon, Ga., writes:

"Two years ago my grandson suffered with hemorrhages of the bowels and he was treated by different doctors, but without cure.

"We quit all other treatment, and began the use of Peruna, and after the use of three bottles he seemed to be quite well. He is able now to walk six miles to school every day.

"Peruna has certainly worked wonders for him, and I shall not hesitate to recommend it."

Miss Anna Carsten, Clayton, Ill., writes:

"Your medicine, Peruna, did me so much good. I believe I should have been dead by this time if I had not used it.

"I am feeling so well now and have no trouble with my stomach. I have not taken any medicine for four or five months.

"If I am ever troubled with anything of the kind again, I shall take nothing but Peruna. I can cheerfully recommend it to my friends."

A Severe Cough.

Mrs. Emma Martin, Odessa, Mo., writes:

"I cannot thank you enough for curing me. For two years I doctored my cough which cost me many dollars, but still I seemed to get worse. My cough was so bad I could not sleep.

"Finally I purchased a bottle of Peruna. I took it according to directions, and in a short while I felt better, and after I had taken a second bottle I felt entirely well.

"After the use of six bottles I feel that I am cured, and therefore recommend this grand medicine to all who suffer with a cough as I did."

A Household Remedy.

Mrs. Celia Eibling, R. R. No. 8, Payne, Ohio, writes:

"I have better health now than I have had for years, and am fleshier than I have ever been. I am so thankful to you for what you have done for me.

"I cannot praise Peruna enough. I keep it in the house. You have my sincere thanks for your advice.

"My husband is taking Peruna, now. He had such a cough he thought he had consumption, but he is getting better.

"He has taken it only one week and it has done him good."

Miss Eva Schelle, 127 N. Quincy St., Topeka, Kas., writes:

"I unhesitatingly recommend Peruna as a splendid specific for catarrhal affections. I was a sufferer with this trouble off and on for a number of years and each fresh cold added to the difficulty.

"Finally I began taking Peruna for a cold and was glad to note that it was ridding me of the catarrh also.

"I continued to use it faithfully and the result was a complete cure in a very few months."

Mrs. Christina Clow, 411 E. Platte Ave., Colorado Springs, Col., writes:

"I have taken Peruna off and on for six years and have found it very beneficial in a great many ways.

"I took it for a cough and a cold, also for catarrh of the head, and it cured me. I took it for a tonic and it gave me strength. I have every reason to speak well of your medicine."

FAITH THAT CANNOT BE SHAKEN.

Despite everything that sensational magazines may say, the women of the United States continue to have faith in Peruna.

These women know a great deal more about Peruna than the editors who have, for selfish purposes, written against it.

These women have tried Peruna in their families. They have taken it themselves. They know it will help them.

They have suffered from various ailments, and Peruna has come to their relief, even when the doctors failed to cure them.

Such women cannot be convinced by any editorial spasm that their favorite household remedy is a humbug.

Peruna goes right on in its conquest over disease. Its fame is spreading all over the earth.

Especially among American women is Peruna a beloved household remedy.

It is entirely useless for anyone to try to dissuade them from the results of their own experience.

Peruna is a remedy for the mucous membranes. It therefore has a beneficial effect upon the internal organs of the body that are lined by mucous membranes.

For various chronic climatic diseases Peruna is a reliable remedy.

The testimonials concerning Peruna are given in the language of the people. We do not change or add to anything they may say concerning it.

The evidence is overwhelming that Peruna is a safe, reliable, invaluable remedy for the household.

Headache and Backache.

Mrs. Franziska Gaengel, Dominion 1, Old Bridgeport Mines, C. B., Canada, writes:

"I thank you for the benefit which I derived from Peruna. There may be many who are suffering from the same disease that I had, for which they have not yet been able to find the correct remedy.

"For the benefit of such persons I wish to say that I suffered with headache and backache and had a severe cough. I was in bed several weeks and could not do my work. I tried many remedies in vain.

"Then I consulted Dr. Hartman, who advised me to take Peruna and gave me further instructions, which I carefully observed.

"I felt better after taking the first bottle. I have taken several bottles now and am feeling so well that I can do all my work.

"I will never be without Peruna again, and recommend it to all."

Catarrh of the Stomach.

Mrs. Mary Allen, Route 6, Franklin, Tenn., writes:

"I am glad to be able to tell you that I am well of catarrh of the stomach, and am sincerely thankful to you for your advice.

"If it had not been for Peruna I would never have been well. I had three physicians. One of them told my husband that he could not cure me.

"I had been sick about nine months when a friend asked me to try Peruna to gratify her; so I commenced taking it. I can eat and walk and work.

"Everybody says I look as well as I ever did. Oh, you don't know how thankful I do feel to you! I have got several other people to take Peruna. I praise it to everybody."

WILL MOVE INTO THEIR NEW QUARTERS NEXT SATURDAY

Bell Telephone Co's Building Ready for Occupation—Transfer From One Office to the Other Will be Made Without Inconvenience to Subscribers.

The new Bell Telephone building on Hunter street, has been completed, and next Saturday will likely see the company change over from their old quarters on George street to the new ones. Subscribers may rest assured that there will be no inconvenience incurred by the transfer. According to the improved methods no interruption is caused to the services.

The building is a handsome structure and is a vast improvement to the street on which it is situated. It is three storeys in height and is built of yellow brick. The employees can pride themselves on having a commodious and comfortable place to work in and the attractive building will no doubt add pleasure to their duties.

On the first floor or in the basement is the main distributing room. Here are installed the cables which are connected with the underground wires. The machinery is of a most intricate character. It has been installed by the Northern Electric Co. of Montreal, under the direction of Mr. F. G. Donnelly.

On the second floor are situated the offices and retiring rooms. The general office is a spacious room, with that of the manager adjoining it. The resting rooms will be greatly appreciated by the operators.

On the third floor is the operating room. The switch-board extends along the east side. An advantage in the new building that will be appreciated is the fact that an operator can connect any one line with the other without transferring to another operator. Adjoining the operating room is the intermediate distributing apartment connected with the basement and battery department.

The building is complete in every way and compares favorably with telephone buildings in many of the larger cities.

YOUNG MAN ARRIVED HERE WITHOUT MONEY OR FRIENDS

Slept in Police Station Last Night—Looking for Employment in the City—Been Out of Work Four Months.

After tramping from city to city in an endeavor to obtain employment, a young man about twenty years of age, and who gave his name as A. W. Oberlander, landed in this city last evening, and without money or friends sought the police station for assistance. Here he was given a nights' lodging.

Oberlander told a Review reporter that he had been engaged as fireman on the New York Central Railway until about four months ago, when seven hundred men were laid off work and were walking about the streets of Buffalo looking for employment.

WAS IN MANY CITIES.

The financial stringency so prevalent throughout the United States during the past winter put many men out of their positions. Oberlander visited many cities in search of something by which he could earn a livelihood, but it seemed of no avail. When he started out he said that he had considerable money which he had saved when working. He went from Buffalo to Cleveland, and from there to Toledo. He also was in Detroit, Hamilton and Toronto, but in every place the story was the same—no work. If there was any, men, residents in those cities, were given the preference. Oberlander is a mechanic having learned brass finishing in the electric works at Schenectady, N.Y. His father is also engaged in the same establishment, but the young fellow said that he did not want to depend upon him for a living as he had several other children to support. Oberlander holds a fireman's membership ticket for the Young Men's Christian Association of Buffalo, and he travels on the railways free. He left Toronto for Peterborough, and arrived here about five o'clock.

HAD NOTHING TO EAT.

His money ran out about four days ago, and he said that all he had had to eat during that time was just what little he could procure from trainmen. Through the kindness of a local restauranteur the young man was given something to eat last night.

Oberlander is a respectable looking young man and from his conversation, impressed one as being honest and upright. He intended to apply at the C.G.E. works this morning for a position in the brass department.

SOME REMINISCENCES OF LIFE IN THE BACKWOODS

Stories of Pioneer Days in the North Country Told by Mr. F. M. DeLaFosse, of Lakefield Struggle Not Without its Numerous Features.

I made my acquaintanceship with backwoods farming in the guise of an agricultural pupil. Thirty years ago Canada was well nigh a terra incognita to English men and women, and when the offer was held out to myself and a few others of a chance to learn farming in the backwoods under the watchful eye of a Christian gentleman, our parents and guardians who knew nothing of Canadian economic conditions, fairly jumped at it.

A good, comfortable home, hunting, fishing, and, beyond all, the tuition of an expert agriculturist formed a combination of advantages hard to equal. True, that in order to enjoy these benefits we were asked to pay £100 per annum, but that was a bagatelle, if we learned to become practical farmers and stockraisers.

I can see even now the beautiful pictures conjured up in my young and ardent brain, by the plausible letters of my future instructor. The cosy farm house nestling in the woods, the fields, green with verdure stretching away to horizons bounded by waving pines or roaring billows; I could hear the gentle lambs bleating in the barnyards, the hens cackling merrily over their eggs, the cocks crowing lustily from their straw-strewn battlements. The dear old cows! What cream they would give! the horses, delightful creatures; how gracefully they would pirouette and prance over the meadows to be fed with apples and sweetmeats at our hands. The languorous, ease-loving swine, too, how pleasantly they would blink at us as we leaned over their styes in the cool of the evening, and meditatively tickled their backs with brambles.

But the hunting! oh, the hunting! The view hallo would be raised with a vengeance when we went hunting. Galloping at break-neck speed through the forest glades, we would chase the woolly bear to his lair, or, dagger in hand, advance on the antlered monarch as he stood at bay on some giddy precipice. And the fishing! Why the finny denizens of the northern deeps would jump in shoals, when our fly-laden hooks flicked magically over the waters. Yes, the dream taken altogether was a pleasant one, but, like most pleasant dreams, was destined to be rudely shattered. A sort of hazy inkling of the true state of affairs had dawned on my intellect on reaching the terminus of the railway, where I found myself assigned to a bed already occupied by two strangers, a fat man and his son. Wedged in between these two, I passed a night of horror, actively employed in warding off suffocation and praying for daylight. Forebodings harrowed me after that and yet I had found consolation in the thought that my future abode lay forty miles beyond the present purgatory, and that all sorts of agreeable surprises might be quite easily exposed to view within half that distance. There were certainly many surprises on that journey, but not one of them was a pleasant one. The slow progress of the ox-wagon was one, the obtrusiveness of the mosquitoes and blackflies was another, and the villainous condition of the Colonization road was a third.

After enduring untold misery for upwards of seventeen hours my spirits were cheered by the intelligence that we were nearing our destination. This was comforting, but the appearance of the country did not suggest any nearer approach to the paradise of my dreams. Rocks and boulders lay thick along the track, no clearing had been passed for miles; the swamps were wider in extent, the hills more precipitous. Here and there, also, a snag, decrepit with age, had fallen across the roadway, and axes and hand-spikes had to be brought into requisition to remove it.

"Is Mr. S——'s farm situated on land anything like this?" I enquired timidly of the driver.

"Why, bless your bones, sonny," he answered; "there's all the differ between this 'ere land and S——'s land as there is betwixt an angel's whisper and a hog's grunt. This is an angel's whisper."

AN UNINVITING SPOT

The comparison, though far-fetched, was quite an intelligible one. The "far" certainly was a "hog's grunt." The cleared land amounted to about half an acre, whilst all the rest, with the exception of seven or eight acres freshly felled, was virgin forest. It did not need very laboured investigation to find that rock and swamp were the predominating characteristics of the land and that every appliance connected with ordinary agriculture was conspicuous by its absence. There were no farm buildings of any kind. The arrangements provided for our domestic comfort were also of the crudest description, for our habitation consisted simply of two small log shanties, adjoining each other, the hollows in the walls of which were "chinked" with pine and plastered with cow manure. The furniture was home-made, the beds being rude creations of split baswood slabs, nailed to the walls. The pantry was a open shelf running along the western end of the shanty. Needless to say there was no carpet. None of us had been bred as Sybarites or Epicureans, but this was a condition of affairs to which we were entirely foreign, and the novelty of it proved quite delightful for about two days. As soon as the "farming" commenced, however, our enjoyment vanished, and the quality of the victuals we received did not tend to relieve our feelings to any appreciable extent. Then, the mice used to make a picnic ground of the rice and sugar bins, and, worse than that, drown themselves in the syrup jug, so regularly as to almost suggest the existence of a system of hari-kari amongst them. As a member of our party aptly observed, one morning, as he fished a corpse out of his plate and deftly balanced it on his knife, "this sort of thing is getting to be really most unpleasant, don't you know."

With the perspicacity characteristic of him, our instructor had erected our abode on the summit of a steep cliff, immediately overlooking a beautiful stretch of water. One of the daily pleasures—for which we paid at the rate of $40 a month—was to descend this precipice for the purpose of obtaining water for the establishment. In summer the task was hard, but in winter it was positively hazardous, owing to the almost perpendicular climb to the summit. Our experiences in that shanty during the first year were, indeed, closely akin to misery. Matters were muddled along fairly well during the summer, but when the wintry winds began to get in their work we realised what "cold" meant. The way the blizzards struck our unprotected shanty was terrific. One awful day, the thermometer went down 72 degrees in a little over two hours. I crawled under my blankets that night with overcoat and shoepacks on. One of our number, I remember, got his nose frost-bitten in bed, and was quite indignant over it.

Oh, the days of that pupil farming! Whatever we turned our hands to went wrong. It seemed as if some special fate kept watch over us to render our labours abortive and make us ridiculous in the eyes of our neighbours.

THE OXEN RAN AWAY.

Our first work was "logging." None of us had the faintest idea of how to handle a handspike or cant-hook, or to drive the unwilling beasts which, under the names of Buck and Bright, were supposed to be subservient to our wills. They simply ran the show themselves, and more than half of our time was spent in chasing them merrily over the fields in vain attempts to get them under control. On one occasion our instructor took a hand in the game. He said: "Look here! you young chaps, you are just playing the fool with these cattle. Watch me drive them." We were quite willing to stand aside and be taught. Armed with a sapling about fifteen feet long and an inch thick, our instructor started.

"Git up, you great lubberly garden goats, you, whoa, back, ha!" Down came the gad on their backs and away went the oxen. The round hook of the chain caught in his turned up trousers and then the fun was on in earnest. Over rocks and snags and underbrush they whirled that unfortunate man, and the more we rushed after them the wilder they got. Finally after half killing him, they landed him hard against a stump, causing the hook to part company from the trousers and the trousers from the man, leaving the victim in a state of semi-nudity painful to witness. It was no fun logging with those cattle.

Sometimes settlers who had nothing else to do would happen along in order to see us working. They always seemed deeply impressed with what they saw, and in generous tribute to our instructor's superior methods, christened the place the "Model Farm."

It had taken us all summer to log up the eight acres and no time was lost for putting up any shelter for the cattle so that the poor brutes were obliged to crouch together in the woods that winter, and subsist as best they could on the hemlock boughs that were daily cut for their provender. Most of them died and their bones and skulls were to be seen for many a day scattered in various places about the "farm." Nothing went right with that man. Even when in the course of time a stable was erected, the mortality went merrily on. His sheep died, his pigs died, his horse died, and one of his oxen also died. All sorts of minor accidents such as losses of eyes and horns were rife and it was not his fault that some of his cantankerous beasts did not make us die, too.

His mare bit and kicked at everything in sight, and it always took the whole staff to round up his shorthorn bull and lead him into the stable. The foul fiend was in that bull. The moment we entered the enclosure, armed with saplings and handspikes, he snorted defiance and charged down at us. He was never captured except by the most consummate strategy. The ram was, if anything, more dangerous than the bull. If the football armour of the present day had been in vogue in those days I would gladly have purchased a suit for my daily encounters with that ram. Once he caught me unawares. I was carrying two pails of swill to the pigs and gaily whistling, "Do you love me, Mollie, Darling." The ram didn't like the music and sent me soaring. The swill soared, too, most of it over myself. I had no sooner landed than the ram landed, too, in the same place as before, and sent me a few yards further. He was a born pugilist, that ram, for, when he was not using us as punching bags he was practicing on the bull.

LEFT THE CHORES TO OTHERS.

Our instructor scarcely ever helped with the "chores." He left the milking and the "mucking out" of the stables to us, as also the currycombing and harnessing of the mare, and the general oversight of the bull and the barnyard. He said it was the best way to learn us to become handy men. He was right. By the end of the second year we could have qualified as expert matadors in any bull ring in the world, whilst the antics of the mare had endowed us with a quickness of vision and shiftness of foot that any pugilist might have envied.

It was not long before the unquestioning belief in our instructor's infallibility under which we had first labored was effectually banished from our minds. We were sophisticated enough in a few months to look upon him as a very ordinary human being. We found that he was subject to fits of temper—like other people, and also to fits of indisposition to work.—like other people. Work always made him so tired. It was really pitiful sometimes to notice how the very mention of it seemed to depress him, especially at certain seasons. In the fly months for instance, and in winter time he simply could not summon up strength enough to milk the cows. We had a complete monopoly of that festive amusement. If any of my readers have tried milking three or four cows in the open with mosquitoes and blackflies swarming about them, or when the mercury is hovering near the 30 below zero mark, they will appreciate the extent of our enjoyment of the task.

Still in justice to the gentleman, let it be frankly said, that another cause, that of sheer fright, may have had something to do with his aversion to working with us. He hardly ever untook anything in in which we were concerned without being involved in peril or disaster of some sort. It was almost uncanny. To take one instance out of many—On one occasion he and I were stationed on the same "cleet" roofing the barn. It was a somewhat lofty structure, being perhaps 35 feet in height. We were near the ridge board, hammering away merrily when suddenly a suspicion dawned on me that the "cleet" was loose, so, in order to test its soundness I caught hold of the ridge with both hands and gave a shove with my foot. My surmise had been correct. It had been loose. It gave way, and in an instant, to my horror, down went hammer, nails and our revered instructor. I can see him now, glaring wildly upwards, his teeth chattering, his beard wagging, his fingers grabbing wildly at the shingles. Then, of, merciful heavens! with the speed of an avalanche he was out of sight, and the next instant there was a dull thud below! The other fellows had heard the clatter and looked up. "Why, where the dickens is S?" they cried out in astonishment. "He's g-g-gone below" I ejaculated feebly. Sick with apprehension, we clambered down, expecting to find his mangled corpse on the stones beneath. But no, a kindly Providence had watched over him. We found him firmly embedded in the manure pile, looking the picture of abject misery, but sound in wind and limb.

A LITTLE HUNTING EXPEDITION

During the days of our pupilage we used often to indulge in small hunting excursions, and we sometimes had queer experiences. Once, two of us, on the kind invitation of a neighboring settler put in a week's still hunting with him. We had a very enjoyable time, the only drawback being that we got no deer, but as our chief anxiety had been to get away from the "farm" we looked upon this as quite a minor misfortune. The settler and his wife and three children lived in a single-roomed shanty. They were new comers to the woods and consequently their furniture was scanty. Their hospitality however was unbounded.

OBITUARY

Mr. Alonzo Dunk, one of the oldest pioneers of this locality, departed this life on Friday of last week, after an illness of three months. Mr. Dunk was in his 90th year, having been born in the United States in the year 1818. In 1831 he removed to Seymour, then a huge forest, with here and there a clearing in the midst of which was the settler's hut.

Deceased is survived by six sons, viz., Thomas and Robert of Seymour, Charles E. and Alfred of Campbellford, William and Nesbitt, of Manitoba, and one daughter, Mrs. W. Butler, of Peterborough. The family has been known for its longevity. Mr. Lewis Dunk, of town, and George, of Seymour, are brothers of the deceased, the former of whom is almost 92 years of age. One sister, Mrs. Spencer, of Havelock, also survives. Mr. Dunk was a man honored and respected by all. He was a member of the Church of England since boyhood, Rev. A. J. Reid conducted the funeral which took place on Saturday, from the residence of Mr. Chas. E. Dunk, Front street, to Christ Church cemetery. — Campbellford Herald.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., 82, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother, her home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Paris has adopted a by-law to raise $40,000 for the central school, towards which Mr Penman will contribute $15,000.

BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON, Author of "Graustark." Copyright 1904, by Dodd, Mead and Company.

Arrayed in clean linen and presentable clothes, pale from indoor confinement and fever, but once more the straight and strong cavalier of the hills, he hastened into her presence when the summons came for him to descend. He dropped to his knee and kissed her hand, determined to play the game notwithstanding his doubts. As he arose she glanced for a fitting second into his dark eyes, and her own long lashes drooped.

"Your highness!" he said gratefully.

"How well and strong you look!" she said hurriedly. "Some of the tan is gone, but you look as though you had never been ill. Are you quite recovered?"

"They say I am as good as new," he smilingly answered. "A trifle weak and uncertain in my lower extremities, but a few days of exercise in the mountains will overcome all that. Is all well with you and Graustark? They will give me no news here, by whose order I do not know."

"Turn about is fair play, sir. It is a well established fact that you will give them no news. Yes, all is well with me and mine. Were you beginning to think that I had deserted you? It has been two weeks, hasn't it?"

"Ah, your highness, I realise that you have had much more important things to do than to think of poor Baldos. I am exceedingly grateful for this sign of interest in my welfare. Your visit is the brightest experience of my life."

"Be seated!" she cried suddenly. "You are too ill to stand."

"Were I dying I should refuse to be seated while your highness stands," said he simply. His shoulders seemed to square themselves involuntarily, and his left hand twitched as though accustomed to the habit of touching a sword hilt. Beverly sat down instantly. With his usual easy grace he took a chair near by. They were alone in the antechamber.

"Even though you were on your last legs?" she murmured, and then wondered how she could have uttered anything so inane. Somehow she was beginning to fear that he was not the ordinary person she had judged him to be. "You are to be discharged from the hospital tomorrow," she added hastily.

"Tomorrow?" he cried, his eyes lighting with joy. "I may go then?"

"I have decided to take you to Edelweiss with me," she said, very much as if that were all there was to it. He stared at her for a full minute as though doubting his ears.

"No!" he said at last, his jaws settling, his eyes glistening. It was a terrible setback for Beverly's confidence. "Your highness forgets that I have your promise of absolute freedom."

"But you are to be free," she protested. "You have nothing to fear. It is not compulsory, you know. You don't have to go unless you really want to. But my heart is set on having you in—in the castle guard." His bitter, mocking laugh surprised and wounded her, which he was quick to see, for his contrition was immediate.

"Pardon, your highness. I am a rude, ungrateful wretch, and I deserve punishment instead of reward. The proposal was so astounding that I forgot myself completely," he said.

Whereupon, catching him in this contrite mood, she began a determined assault against his resolution. For an hour she devoted her whole heart and soul to the task of overcoming his prejudices, fears and objections, meeting his protestations firmly and logically, unconscious of the fact that her very enthusiasm was betraying her to him. The first signs of weakening inspired her afresh and at last she was riding over him roughshod, a happy victor. She made promises that Yetive herself could not have made; she offered inducements that never could be carried out, although in her zeal she did not know it to be so; she painted such pictures of ease, comfort and pleasure that he wondered why royalty did not exchange places with its servants. In the end, overcome by the spirit of adventure and a desire to be near her, he agreed to enter the service for six months, at the expiration of which time he was to be released from all obligations if he so desired.

"But my friends in the pass, your highness," he said in surrendering, "what is to become of them? They are waiting for me out there in the wilderness. I am not base enough to desert them."

"Can't you get word to them?" she asked eagerly. "Let them come into the city too. We will provide for the poor fellows, believe me."

"That, at least, is impossible, your highness," he said, shaking his head sadly. "You will have to slay them before you can bring them within the city gates. My only hope is that Franz may be here tonight. He has permission to enter, and I am expecting him today or tomorrow."

"You can send word to them that you are sound and safe, and you can tell them that Graustark soldiers shall be instructed to pay no attention to them whatever. They shall not be disturbed." He laughed outright at her enthusiasm. Many times during her eager conversation with Baldos she had almost betrayed the fact that she was not the princess. Some of her expressions were distinctly unregal, and some of her slips were hopeless as she viewed them in retrospect.

"What am I? Only the humble goat hunter, hunted to death and eager for a short respite. Do with me as you like, your highness. You shall be my princess and sovereign for six months at least," he said, sighing. "Perhaps it is for the best."

"You are the strangest man I've ever seen," she remarked, puzzled beyond expression.

That night Franz appeared at the hospital and was left alone with Baldos for an hour or more. What passed between them no outsider knew, though there were tears in the eyes of both at the parting. But Franz did not start for the pass that night, as they had expected. Strange news had come to the ears of the faithful old follower, and he hung about Ganlook until morning came, eager to catch the ear of his leader before it was too late.

The coach was drawn up in front of the hospital at 8 o'clock, Beverly triumphant in command. Baldos came down the steps slowly, carefully, favoring the newly healed ligaments in his legs. She smiled cheerily at him, and he swung his rakish hat low. There was no sign of the black patch. Suddenly he started and peered intently into the little knot of people near the coach. A look of anxiety crossed his face. From the crowd advanced a grizzled old beggar, who boldly extended his hand. Baldos grasped the proffered hand and then stepped into the coach. No one saw the bit of white paper that passed from Franz's palm into the possession of Baldos. Then the coach was off for Edelweiss, the people of Ganlook enjoying the unusual spectacle of a mysterious and apparently undistinguished stranger sitting in luxurious ease beside a fair lady in the royal coach of Graustark.

CHAPTER XII.

It was a drowsy day, and, besides, Baldos was not in a communicative frame of mind. Beverly put forth her best efforts during the forenoon, but after the basket luncheon had been disposed of in the shade at the roadside she was content to give up the struggle and surrender to the soothing importunities of the coach as it bowled along. She dozed peacefully, conscious to the last that he was a most ungracious creature and more worthy of resentment than of benefaction. Baldos was not intentionally disagreeable; he was morose and unhappy because he could not help it. Was he not leaving his friends to wander alone in the wilderness while he drifted weakly into the comforts and pleasures of an enviable service? His heart was not in full sympathy with the present turn of affairs, and he could not deny that a selfish motive was responsible for his action. He had the all too human eagerness to serve beauty; the blood and fire of youth were strong in this wayward nobleman of the hills.

Lying back in the seat, he pensively studied the face of the sleeping girl whose dark brown head was pillowed against the corner cushions of the coach. Her hat had been removed for the sake of comfort. The dark lashes fell like a soft curtain over her eyes, obscuring the merry gray that had overcome his apprehensions. Her breathing was deep and regular and peaceful. One little gloved hand rested carelessly in her lap, the other upon her breast near the delicate throat. The heart of Baldos was troubled. The picture he looked upon was entrancing, uplifting; he rose from the lowly state in which she had found him to the position of admirer in secret to a princess, real or assumed. He found himself again wondering if she were really Yetive, and with that fear in his heart he was envying Grenfall Lorry, the lord and master of this exquisite creature, envying with all the helplessness of one whose hope is blasted at birth.

The note which had been surreptitiously passed to him in Ganlook lay crumpled and forgotten inside his coat pocket, where he had dropped it the moment it had come into his possession, supposing that the message contained information which had been forgotten by Franz and was by no means of a nature to demand immediate attention. Had he read it at once his suspicions would have been confirmed, and it is barely possible that he would have refused to enter the city.

Late in the afternoon the walls of Edelweiss were sighted. For the first time he looked upon the distant housetops of the principal city of Graustark. Up in the clouds, on the summit of the mountain peak overlooking the city, stood the famed monastery of St. Valentine. Stretching up the gradual incline were the homes of citizens, accessible only by footpaths and donkey roads. Beverly was awake and impatient to reach the journey's end. He had proved a most disappointing companion, polite, but with a baffling indifference that irritated her considerably. There was a set expression of defiance in his strong, clean cut face, the look of a soldier advancing to meet a powerful foe.

"I do hope he'll not always act this way," she was complaining in her thoughts. "He was so charmingly impudent out in the hills, so deliciously human. Now he is like a clam. Yetive will think I am such a fool if he doesn't live up to the reputation I've given him!"

"Here are the gates," he said, half to himself. "What is there in store for me beyond those walls?"

"Oh, I wish you wouldn't be so dismal!" she cried in despair. "It seems just like a funeral."

"A thousand apologies, your highness," he murmured, with a sudden lightness of speech and manner. "Henceforth I shall be a most amiable jester to please you."

Beverly and the faithful Aunt Fanny were driven to the castle, where the former bade farewell to her new knight until the following morning, when he was to appear before her for personal instructions. Colonel Quinnox escorted him to the barracks of the guard, where he was to share a room with young Haddan, a corporal in the service.

"The wild, untamed gentleman from the hills came without a word, I see," said Lorry, who had watched the approach. He and Yetive stood in the window overlooking the grounds from the princess' boudoir. Beverly had just entered and thrown herself upon a divan.

"Yes; he's here," she said shortly.

"How long do you, with all your cleverness, expect to hoodwink him into the belief that you are the princess?" asked Yetive, amused, but anxious.

"He's a great fool for being hoodwinked at all," said Beverly, very much at odds with her protege. "In an hour from now he will know the truth and will be howling like a madman for his freedom."

"Not so soon as that, Beverly," said Lorry consolingly. "The guards and officers have their instructions to keep him in the dark as long as possible."

"Well, I'm tired and mad and hungry and everything else that isn't compatible. Let's talk about the war," said Beverly, the sunshine in her face momentarily eclipsed by the dark cloud of disappointment.

Baldos was notified that duty would be assigned to him in the morning. He went through the formalities which bound him to the service for six months, listening indifferently to the words that foretold the fate of a traitor. It was not until his new uniform and equipment came into his possession that he remembered the note resting in his pocket. He drew it out and began to read it with the slight interest of one who has anticipated the effect. But not for long was he to remain apathetic. The first few lines brought a look of understanding to his eyes; then he laughed the easy laugh of one who has cast care and confidence to the winds. This is what he read:

> She is not the princess. We have been duped. Last night I learned the truth. She is Miss Calhoun, an American, going to be a guest at the castle. Refuse to go with her into Edelweiss. It may be a trap, and may mean death. Question her boldly before committing yourself.

There came the natural impulse to make a dash for the outside world, fighting his way through if necessary. Looking back over the ground, he wondered how he could have been deceived at all by the unconventional American. In the clear light of retrospection he now saw how impossible it was for her to have been the princess. Every act, every word, every look, should have told him the truth. Every flaw in her masquerading now presented itself to him, and he was compelled to laugh at his own simplicity. Caution, after all, was the largest component part of his makeup. The craftiness of the hunted was deeply rooted in his being. He saw a very serious side to the adventure. Stretching himself upon the cot in the corner of the room, he gave himself over to plotting, planning, thinking.

In the midst of his thoughts a sudden light burst in upon him. His eyes gleamed with a new fire, his heart leaped with new animation, his blood ran warm again. Leaping to his feet, he ran to the window to reread the note from old Franz. Then he settled back and laughed with a fervor that cleared the brain of a thousand vague misgivings.

"She is Miss Calhoun, an American, going to be a guest at the castle;" not the princess, but Miss Calhoun. Once more the memory of the clear gray eyes leaped into life. Again he saw her asleep in the coach on the road from Ganlook. Again he recalled the fervent throbs his guilty heart had felt as he looked upon this fair creature, at one time the supposed treasure of another man. Now she was Miss Calhoun, and her gray eyes, her entrancing smile, her wondrous vivacity, were not for one man alone. It was marvelous what a change this sudden realization wrought in the view ahead of him. The whole situation seemed to be transformed into something more desirable than ever before. His face cleared, his spirits leaped higher and higher with the buoyancy of fresh relief, his confidence in himself crept back into existence. And all because the fair deceiver, the slim girl with the brave gray eyes who had drawn him into a net was not a princess!

Something told him that she had not drawn him into his present position with any desire to injure him or with the slightest sense of malice. To her it had been a merry jest, a pleasant comedy. Underneath all he saw the goodness of her motive in taking him from the old life and putting him into his present position of trust. He had helped her, and she was ready to help him to the limit of her power. His position in Edelweiss was clearly enough defined. The more he thought of it the more justifiable it seemed as viewed from her point of observation. How long she hoped to keep him in the dark he could not tell. The outcome would be entertaining. Her efforts to deceive, if she kept them up, would be amusing. Altogether he was ready, with the leisure and joy of youth, to await developments and to enjoy the comedy from a point of view which she could not at once suspect.

His subtle effort to draw Haddan into a discussion of the princess and her household resulted unsatisfactorily. The young guard was annoyingly unresponsive. He had his secret instructions and could not be inveigled into betraying himself. Baldos went to sleep that night with his mind confused by doubts. His talk with Haddan had left him quite undecided as to the value of old Franz's warning. Either Franz was mistaken or Haddan was a most skillful dissembler. It struck him as utterly beyond the pale of reason that the entire castle guard should have been enlisted in the scheme to deceive him. When sleep came he was contenting himself with the thought that morning doubtless would give him clearer insight to the situation.

Both he and Beverly Calhoun were ignorant of the true conditions that attached themselves to the new recruit. Baron Dangloss alone knew that Haddan was a trusted agent of the secret service, with instructions to shadow the newcomer day and night. That there was a mystery surrounding the character of Baldos, the goat hunter, Dangloss did not question for an instant, and in spite of the instructions received at the outset he was using all his skill to unravel it.

Baldos was not summoned to the castle till noon. His serene indifference to the outcome of the visit was calculated to deceive the friendly but watchful Haddan. Dressed carefully in the close fitting uniform of the royal guard, taller than most of his fellows, handsomer by far than any, he was the most noticeable figure in and about the barracks. Haddan coached him in the way he was to approach the princess, Baldos listening with exaggerated intentness and with deep regard for detail.

Beverly was in the small audience room off the main reception hall when he was ushered into her presence. The servants and ladies in waiting disappeared at a signal from her. She arose to greet him, and he knelt to kiss her hand. For a moment her tongue was bound. The keen eyes of the new guard had looked into hers with a directness that seemed to penetrate her brain. That this scene was to be one of the most interesting in the little comedy was proved by the fact that two eager young women were hidden behind a heavy curtain in a corner of the room. The Princess Yetive and the Countess Dagmar were there to enjoy Beverly's first hour of authority, and she was aware of their presence.

"Have they told you that you are to act as my especial guard and escort?" she asked, with a queer flutter in her voice. Somehow this tall fellow with the broad shoulders was not the same as the ragged goat hunter she had known at first.

"No, your highness," he said easily. "I have come for instructions. It pleases me to know that I am to have a place of honor and trust such as this."

"General Marlanx has told me that a vacancy exists, and I have selected you to fill it. The compensation will be attended to by the proper persons, and your duties will be explained to you by one of the officers. This afternoon, I believe, you are to accompany me on my visit to the fortress, which I am to inspect."

"Very well, your highness," he respectfully said. He was thinking of Miss Calhoun, an American girl, although he called her "your highness." "May I be permitted to ask for instructions that can come only from your highness?"

"Certainly," she replied. His manner was more deferential than she had ever known it to be, but he threw a bomb into her fine composure with his next remark. He addressed her in the Graustark language:

"Is it your desire that I shall continue to address you in English?"

Beverly's face turned a bit red, and her eyes wavered. By a wonderful effort she retained her self control, stammering ever so faintly when she said in English:

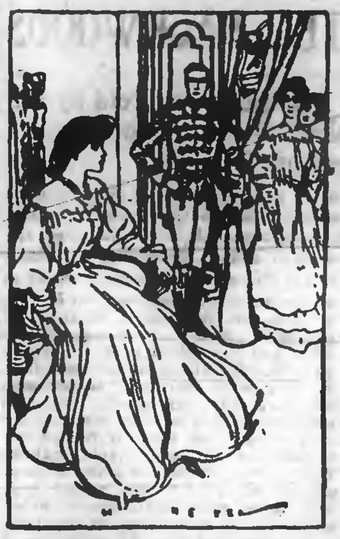
"I wish you would speak English," unwittingly giving answer to his question. "I shall insist upon that. Your English is too good to be spoiled."

Then he made a bold test, his first having failed. He spoke once more in the native tongue, this time softly and earnestly.

"As you wish, your highness, but I think it is a most ridiculous practice," he said, and his heart lost none of its courage. Beverly looked at him almost pathetically. She knew that behind the curtain two young women were enjoying her discomfiture. Something told her that they were stifling their mirth with dainty lace bordered handkerchiefs.

"That will do, sir," she managed to say firmly. "It's very nice of you; but after this pay your homage in English," she went on, taking a long chance on his remark. It must have been complimentary, she reasoned. As for Baldos, the faintest sign of a smile touched his lips, and his eyes were twinkling as he bent his head quickly. Franz was right; she did not know a word of the Graustark language.

"I have entered the service for six months, your highness," he said in English. "You have honored me, and I give my heart as well as my arm to your cause."



"Your highness, I fear we have spies and eavesdroppers here."

Beverly, breathing easier, was properly impressed by this promise of fealty. She was looking with pride upon the figure of her stalwart protege.

"I hope you have destroyed that horrid black patch," she said.

"It has gone to keep company with other devoted but deserted friends," he said, a tinge of bitterness in his voice.

"The uniform is vastly becoming," she went on, realising helplessly that she was providing intense amusement for the unseen auditors.

"It shames the rags in which you found me."

"I shall never forget them, Baldos," she said, with a strange earnestness in her voice.

"May I presume to inquire after the health of your good Aunt Fanny and, although I did not see him, your Uncle Sam?" he asked, with a face as straight and sincere as that of a judge. Beverly swallowed suddenly and checked a laugh with some difficulty.

"Aunt Fanny is never ill. Some day I shall tell you more of Uncle Sam. It will interest you."

"Another question, if it please your highness. Do you expect to return to America soon?"

This was the unexpected, but she met it with admirable composure.

"It depends upon the time when Prince Dantan resumes the throne in Dawsbergen," she said.

"And that day may never come," said he, such mocking regret in his voice that she looked upon him with newer interest.

"Why, I really believe you want to go to America!" she cried.

The eyes of Baldos had been furtively drawn to the curtain more than once during the last few minutes. An occasional movement of the long oriental hangings attracted his attention. It dawned upon him that the little play was being overheard, whether by spies or conspirators he knew not. Resentment sprang up in his breast and gave birth to a daring that was as spectacular as it was confounding. With long, noiseless strides he reached the door before Beverly could interpose. She half started from her chair, her eyes wide with dismay, her lips parted, but his hand was already clutching the curtain. He drew it aside relentlessly.

Two startled women stood exposed to view, smiles dying on their amazed faces. Their backs were against the closed door, and two hands clutching handkerchiefs dropped from a most significant altitude. One of them flashed an imperious glance at the bold discoverer, and he knew he was looking upon the real princess of Graustark. He did not lose his composure. Without a tremor he turned to the American girl.

"Your highness," he said clearly, coolly, "I fear we have spies and eavesdroppers here. Is your court made up of—I should say, they are doubtless a pair of curious ladies in waiting. Shall I begin my service, your highness, by escorting them to yonder door?"

CHAPTER XIII.

Beverly gasped. The countess stared blankly at the new guard. Yetive flushed deeply, bit her lip in hopeless chagrin and dropped her eyes. A pretty turn, indeed, the play had taken! Not a word was uttered for a full half minute; nor did the guilty witnesses venture forth from their retreat. Baldos stood tall and impassive, holding the curtain aside. At last the shadow of a smile crept into the face of the princess, but her tones were full of deep humility when she spoke.

"We crave permission to retire, your highness," she said, and there was virtuous appeal in her eyes. "I pray forgiveness for this indiscretion and implore you to be lenient with two miserable creatures who love you so well that they forget their dignity."

"I am amazed and shocked," was all that Beverly could say. "You may go, but return to me within an hour. I will then hear what you have to say."

Slowly, even humbly, the ruler of Graustark and her cousin passed beneath the upraised arm of the new guard. He opened a door on the opposite side of the room, and they went out, to all appearance thoroughly crestfallen. The steady features of the guard did not relax for the fraction of a second, but his heart was thumping disgracefully.

"Come here, Baldos," commanded Beverly, a bit pale, but recovering her wits with admirable promptness. "This is a matter which I shall dispose of privately. It is to go no further, you are to understand."

"Yes, your highness."

"You may go now. Colonel Quinnox will explain everything," she said hurriedly. She was eager to be rid of him. As he turned away she observed a faint but peculiar smile at the corner of his mouth.

"Come here, sir!" she exclaimed hotly. He paused, his face as somber as an owl's. "What do you mean by laughing like that?" she demanded. He caught the fierce note in her voice, but gave it the proper interpretation.

"Laughing, your highness?" he said in deep surprise. "You must be mistaken. I am sure that I could not have laughed in the presence of a princess."

"It must have been a—a shadow, then," she retracted, somewhat startled by his rejoinder. "Very well, then. You are dismissed."

As he was about to open the door through which he had entered the room it swung wide and Count Marlanx strode in. Baldos paused irresolutely and then proceeded on his way without paying the slightest attention to the commander of the army. Marlanx came to an amazed stop, and his face flushed with resentment.

"Halt, sir!" he exclaimed harshly. "Don't you know enough to salute me, sir?"

Baldos turned instantly, his figure straightening like a flash. His eyes met those of the Iron Count and did not waver, although his face went white with passion.

"And who are you, sir?" he asked in cold, steely tones. The count almost reeled.

"Your superior officer! That should be enough for you!" he half hissed, with deadly levelness.

"Oh, then I see no reason why I should not salute you, sir," said Baldos, with one of his rare smiles. He saluted his superor officer a shade too elaborately and turned away. Marlanx's eyes glistened.

"Stop! Have I said you could go, sir? I have a bit of advice to"—

"My command to go comes from your superior, sir," said Baldos, with irritating blandness.

"Be patient, general," cried Beverly, in deep distress. "He does not know any better. I will stand sponsor for him." And Baldos went away with a light step, his blood singing, his devil-may-care heart satisfied. The look in her eyes was very sustaining. As he left the castle he said aloud to himself with an easy disregard of the consequences:

"Well, it seems that I am to be associated with the devil as well as with angels. Heavens! June is a glorious month."

"Now, you promised you'd be nice to him, General Marlanx," cried Beverly the instant Baldos was out of the room. "He's new at this sort of thing, you know, and, besides, you didn't address him very politely for an utter stranger."

"The insolent dog!" snarled Marlanx, his self control returning slowly. "He shall be taught well and thoroughly, never fear, Miss Calhoun. There is a way to train such recruits as he, and they never forget what they have learned."

"Oh, please don't be harsh with him," she pleaded. The smile of the Iron Count was not at all reassuring. "I know he will be sorry for what he has done, and you"—

"I am quite sure he will be sorry," said he, with a most agreeable bow in submission to her appeal.

"Do you want to see Mr. Lorry?" she asked quickly. "I will send for him, general." She was at the door, impatient to be with the banished culprits.

"My business with Mr. Lorry can wait," he began, with a smile meant to be inviting, but which did not impress her at all pleasantly.

"Well, anyway, I'll tell him you're here," she said, her hand on the door knob. "Will you wait here? Goodby." And then she was racing off through the long halls and up broad staircases toward the boudoir of the princess. There is no telling how long the ruffled count remained in the anteroom, for the excited Beverly forgot to tell Lorry that he was there.

There were half a dozen people in the room when Beverly entered eagerly. She was panting with excitement. Of all the rooms in the grim old castle the boudoir of the princess was the most famously attractive. It was really her home, the exquisite abiding place of an exquisite creature. To lounge on her divans, to loll in the chairs, to glide through her priceless rugs, was the acme of indolent pleasure. Few were they who enjoyed the privileges of "little heaven," as Harry Anguish had christened it on one memorable night long before the princess was Mrs. Grenfall Lorry.

"Now, how do you feel?" cried the flushed American girl, pausing in the door to point an impressive finger at the princess, who was lying back in a huge chair, the picture of distress and annoyance.

"I shall never be able to look that man in the face again," came dolefully from Yetive's humbled lips. Dagmar was all smiles and in the fittest of humors. She was the kind of culprit who loves the punishment because of the crime.

"Wasn't it ridiculous, and wasn't it just too lovely?" she cried.

"It was extremely theatrical," agreed Beverly, seating herself on the arm of Yetive's chair and throwing a warm arm around her neck. "Have you all heard about it?" she demanded naively, turning to the others, who unquestionably had had a jumbled account of the performance.

"You got just what you deserved," said Lorry, who was immensely amused.

"I wonder what your august vagabond thinks of his princess and her ladies in hiding?" mused Harry Anguish. The Count and Countess Halfont were smiling in spite of the assault upon the dignity of the court.

"I'd give anything to know what he really thinks," said the real princess. "Oh, Beverly, wasn't it awful? And how he marched us out of that room!"

"I thought it was great," said Beverly, her eyes glowing. "Wasn't it splendid? And isn't he good looking?"

"He is good looking, I imagine. But I am no judge, dear. It was utterly impossible for me to look at his face," lamented the princess.

"What are you going to do with us?" asked Dagmar penitently.

"You are to spend the remainder of your life in a dungeon, with Baldos as guard," decided Miss Calhoun.

"Beverly, dear, that man is no ordinary person," said the princess quite positively.

"Of course he isn't. He's a tall, dark mystery."

"I observed him as he crossed the terrace this morning," said Lorry. "He's a striking sort of chap, and I'll bet my head he's not what he claims to be."

"He claims to be a fugitive, you must remember," said Beverly in his defense.

"I mean that he is no common malefactor, or whatever it may be. Who and what do you suppose he is? I confess that I'm interested in the fellow, and he looks as though one might like him without half trying. Why haven't you dug up his past history, Beverly? You are so keen about him."

"He positively refuses to let me dig," explained Beverly. "I tried, you know, but he—he—well, he squelched me."

"Well, after all is said and done, he caught us peeping today, and I am filled with shame," said the princess. "It doesn't matter who he is, he must certainly have a most unflattering opinion as to what we are."

"And he is sure to know us sooner or later," said the young countess, momentarily serious.

"Oh, if it ever comes to that I shall be in a splendid position to explain it all to him," said Beverly. "Don't you see, I'll have to do a lot of explaining myself?"

"Baron Dangloss!" announced the guard of the upper hall, throwing open the door for the doughty little chief of police.

"Your highness sent for me?" asked he, advancing after the formal salutation. The princess exhibited genuine amazement.

"I did, Baron Dangloss, but you must have come with the wings of an eagle. It is really not more than three minutes since I gave the order to Colonel Quinnox." The baron smiled mysteriously, but volunteered no solution. The truth is, he was entering the castle doors as the messenger left them, but he was much too fond of effect to spoil a good situation by explanations. It was a long two miles to his office in the Tower. "Something has just happened that impels me to ask a few questions concerning Baldos, the new guard."

"May I first ask what has happened?" Dangloss was at a loss for the meaning of the general smile that went around.

"It is quite personal and of no consequence. What do you know of him? My curiosity is aroused. Now, be quiet, Beverly. You are as eager to know as the rest of us."

"Well, your highness, I may as well confess that the man is a puzzle to me. He comes here a vagabond, but he certainly does not act like one. He admits that he is being hunted, but takes no one into his confidence. For that he cannot be blamed."

"Have you any reason to suspect who he is?" asked Lorry.

"My instructions were to refrain from questioning him," complained Dangloss, with a pathetic look at the original plotters. "Still, I have made investigations along other lines."

An Army In One.

By J. LUDLUM LEE.

Copyrighted, [illegible], by C. H. Sutcliffe.

The snow had been falling for hours. The air was heavy with dampness, and the streets were crowded with children, glad of the storm, as it offered them an opportunity to use their sleds. And at last here was the snow they had prayed for!

In the middle of High street a snowball fight was in progress. A motley crowd of youngsters had made hundreds of snowballs, and they were ranged on both sides of the street in "gangs." The recruits were lined up ready for action when a sleigh turned the corner.

"Cheese it, fellers!" came from the leader of one side. "Here comes the Salvation Army!"

"Beat it! Beat it!" screamed the leader of the opposite forces. And in rank disorder both sections disappeared around the corner and in doorways.

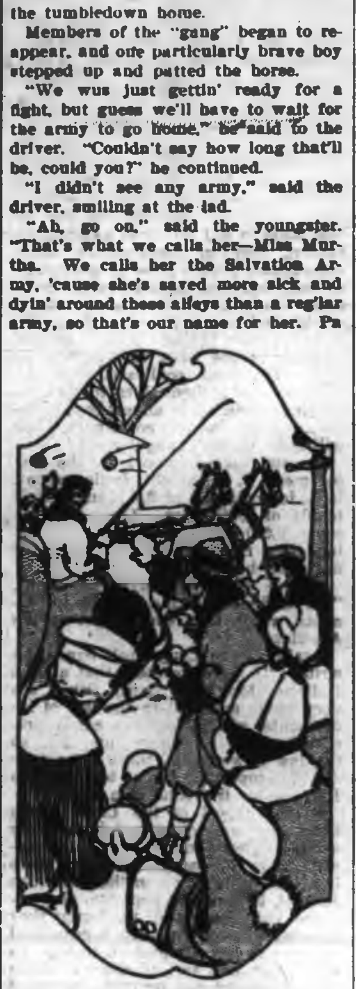
A passerby might have looked in vain for the sight of the Salvation Army. The sleigh drove up in front of a little cottage in the row, and a young girl, muffled in furs, got out, gave some directions to her driver and went into the tumbledown home.

Members of the "gang" began to reappear, and one particularly brave boy stepped up and patted the horse.

"We wus just gettin' ready for a fight, but guess we'll have to wait for the army to go home," he said to the driver. "Couldn't say how long that'll be, could you?" he continued.

"I didn't see any army," said the driver, smiling at the lad.

"Ah, go on," said the youngster. "That's what we calls her—Miss Murtha. We calls her the Salvation Army, 'cause she's saved more sick and dyin' around these alleys than a reg'lar army, so that's our name for her. Pa and ma, they calls her Miss Murtha, but the "gang" calls her Salvation Army."



"SOCK IT TO HIM! RIGHT ON THE COCOA!" THEY YELLED.

Inside the cottage Miss Murtha had laid aside her coat and was ministering to a sick child. Her furs were thrown carelessly over a kitchen chair, and she drew up another by the side of the bed.

"Now, Mrs. Quinn, go and take a little rest. I'll sit with Jimmy until the doctor comes. I stopped on my way and told him to come around. I'll heat some broth for Jimmy and do everything that is necessary."

The weary mother went to an adjoining room without any protest. Miss Murtha heated the broth and stared anxiously at the little fellow. She walked to and fro watching the window in hopes of seeing the doctor, but he failed to appear. Going to the door, she called to her driver, who was still in deep conversation with the boy.

"Elston, you'd better drive around to the doctor's and bring him back with you. Tell him he must hurry. Take Michael along with you to hold the horse while you go into the office," she added as she saw the rosy cheeked lad gaping at her.

The sleigh and its two occupants started to turn around. The recruits had all returned by this time and, seeing one of their leaders about to desert them, joined forces against him. With one accord they rushed to the piles of hard snowballs.

"Sock it to him! Right on the cocoa!" they yelled.

The orders were carried out to a T. Of course some of the balls hit the dignified Elston, but he tickled the horse with his whip, and they spun around the corner before much damage was done. They were gone only a few minutes, as Dr. Cosgrove lived within a few blocks of High street. The time was spent in renewing ammunition, however, by the boys who were left in the street.

Elston returned with the doctor, and Michael snugly tucked between them. Suddenly a well aimed shot struck the little fellow in the left eye. With a scream he turned, but too late. The blood poured down his cheek as the doctor picked him up in his arms and carried him into the house, where Miss Murtha was waiting for him. She met them at the door in time to have seen the accident. Stepping out in the yard, she called the boys to her.

"Who hit Michael? I want to know at once. You ought to be ashamed of yourselves when you know his little brother is so sick. Who did it, I say?"

Had they been lined up for military orders they could not have replied with more even accord. Twenty voices answered:

"I done it."

Surely there is honor on High street if money is scarce.

Miss Murtha proceeded to lecture them and assured them that she would be out again in a few moments and wanted every one of those snowballs to have disappeared by that time. The boys stood in a group discussing how best to get rid of them, as they were frozen like ice.

"I tell you what, fellers, let's start a fire and melt 'em," said one clever youth.

No one ever knew where the front gate that belonged to the Quinns' fence disappeared, and it was a comment among the neighbors that Mrs. Mulqueen's kitchen shutters were stolen that same day, but the snowballs were duly melted, and the gangs sauntered toward Smith's hill for a few coasts with their new sleds.

Inside the cottage Dr. Cosgrove and Miss Murtha had barely spoken. The doctor was beside Jimmy's bed, while Miss Murtha was holding a piece of ice on Michael's cut.

"Does it hurt much now, Michael?" asked Miss Murtha as she bathed the wound, which proved to be not very deep and of no consequence.

"'Tain't nothin', Salvation," said the child. His eyes sparkled as he continued: "Gee, but that was a swell ride I had in the sleigh, just like a real gentleman. It was worth a biff in de eye I'll do it again if I git the chanct."

"Kitty, take him out of the room," said the doctor softly. "And maybe you'd better call Mrs. Quinn. Jimmy has fallen asleep, and I don't want him roused."

Michael left the room without the assistance of the Salvation Army, and Miss Murtha went to call Mrs. Quinn. They left the sick child in care of his mother, and Miss Murtha dismissed her driver and drove the doctor to his home.

Dr. Cosgrove looked at the girl beside him. Even a casual observer could see the admiration in his eyes. His very look bespoke his love for her.

"Kitty, I wish you would not expose yourself to these diseases. That child has typhoid, and I simply forbid you to go there again," he said, with some emphasis.

"Indeed, doctor, since when were you appointed my guardian?" Kitty answered, with a scornful raising of her upper lip. "I'll go where I please."

Nothing more was said until they drove up to the door of the doctor's office, and then only curt goodbys were uttered. The next morning Kitty was at the Quinn cottage to hear that the doctor had been there all night with Jimmy and had finally fallen asleep on a couch in the dingy parlor. He had pulled the little fellow through the crisis.

Kitty stepped in and looked at the sleeping form of the man who had loved her so long and faithfully. He had forbidden her to come again, yet he would sit up all night with a sick child from whose parents he would never get a fee. She walked a little nearer to him. He roused.

"Kitty! Where am I?" he said as he shook himself and sat up.

"You are here in Mrs. Quinn's parlor, Roland, and I am sorry I was cross with you yesterday," she answered meekly.

"Kitty, darling, won't you promise me to give up this missionary work and take care of me only? I need you, dear, so much," he pleaded.

"Yes, Roland, I will, because I love you more than all the others put together," she answered as his arms went about her and their lips met.

Just then Michael's shining face appeared at the door, but with the honor of the alley he cried:

"I didn't see nothin', Salvation, honest!"

Coffee as Remedy For Asthma.

Coffee is a very excellent remedy for asthma. Those who do not know how to cut short their attacks and have not tried coffee should do so by all means. It often succeeds admirably when almost everything else has failed. There are one or two little points to be attended to in taking coffee for asthma. In the first place, it should be very strong, in fact, perfectly black. Weak coffee does more harm than good. If made very strong, much of it need not be taken. A large quantity is a positive disadvantage, for it is less rapidly absorbed and only distends the stomach. Then it should be given without sugar or milk, pure "cafe noir." It should be given on an empty stomach, for when taken on a full stomach it often does harm by putting a stop to the process of digestion.—Family Doctor.

The No Grog Law.

In July, 1862, congress revolutionized the American navy by passing the historic law providing:

"That from and after the 1st day of September, 1862, the spirit ration in the navy of the United States shall forever cease, and thereafter no distilled spirituous liquors shall be admitted on board of vessels of war except as medical stores and upon the order and under the control of the medical officers of such vessels and to be used only for medical purposes.

"From and after the 1st day of September next there shall be allowed and paid to each person in the navy now entitled to the spirit ration 5 cents per day in commutation and lieu thereof, which shall be in addition to the present pay."

And since that day there has been no "grog" in the United States navy.

Frank Inconsistency.

John Hunter, one of the pioneers in the practice of medicine over a century ago, was absolutely blind to any theory unsupported by facts. While many men were guessing out things he was seeking to prove them.

"I love to think," he said to one of his colleagues, though he afterward qualified the statement by an almost contradictory one:

"But why think? Why not make the experiment?"

Like other men of real genius, he was not afraid of seeming inconsistent. Sir Astley Cooper once asked him, with some surprise, if he had not once stated an opinion directly at variance with one he had just put forth, and he replied:

"Very likely. I hope I grow wiser every year."

Again a pupil inquired if he had not written to a certain effect.

"Never ask me what I have said," he returned, "or what I have written. But if you ask me what my present opinions are I will tell you."

Sometimes, too, he would say to pupils who were taking down notes: "You had better not write down that observation. Very likely I shall think differently next year."

CONCERNING NAT RAY'S HORSES; LINE ON HIS RACING STABLE

The current issue of the Canadian Sportsman has the following to say about Nat Ray's horses;—

The well-known steeple-chase rider and all-round horseman Nat Ray, has a select string of horses owned by himself, in training at his own stables, Queen street east, hear the Woodbine track, and is losing no time in getting them ready for the spring meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club.

It is now several years since the premier cross-country jockey was seen in colors on Canadian tracks, and it will be welcome news to his many friends in this city and throughout Canada to know that he will be in the saddle at the forthcoming at the Woodbine. Nat Ray is what no other horseman has ever been, a leading rider and also one of the very best of drivers of harness horses, and he is not only proficient in training the thoroughbreds but equally as skillful in keying up his fast pacers for a bruising race. In his work with the horses Nat has the assistance of his father, the veteran Charles Ray, who for many years has been a leader among the Canadian trainers and drivers of light harness horses, and who has the confidence and respect of the horse lovers in this country.

In training at the Ray stables at the present time are the following horses;—

Spencer Reiff, an aged gelding by imp. Esher—Carmenita, steeplechaser

Mystery, black gelding, by Ben Strome, steeplechaser.

Will King, chestnut horse, by imp. Cannie Boy—imp. The Duchess. Will be raced through the field.

Braggadocio, ch.g. (3), by imp. Pirate of Penzance—Peavine.

Ingoltravis, a 2-year-old brown gelding, by imp. Ingoldsby.

John McEwen, 2.08 1-4, b.g., by Dr. John, one of the best pacers in Canada.

Prairie Wolf, blk. g., by Easy Fortune, dam by Kendal. The latter is a pacer without a record, but one that is quite capable of bringing home the "coonskins" when his owner is ready to start him on the turf.

The horses have all wintered nicely and are taking their early training in a manner that leads one to the belief that they will win their share of the races in which they start during the coming season.

MANY IMMIGRANTS ARE NOW PASSING THROUGH THE CITY

Immigrants trains are passing through Peterborough every day now, carrying new comers to points in Western Ontario. A Toronto despatch says;

The first big rush of immigrants for the season arrived last night, and by six o'clock this morning two more special trains, carrying in all about four hundred and fifty immigrants, will have reached the Union Station. The greater part of these new arrivals are under the care of the Salvation Army, the officers of which meet them at the depot and arrange for their care in the city and see them on the trains for their respective destinations. Of the ninety-two passengers who arrived by a special Canadian Pacific train last night only nineteen were for Toronto, and these were mostly domestic servants. There were seven for London, and six for Orangeville. The remainder were for forty-one different places, and will leave in ones and twos this morning.

Another special train over the Grand Trunk reached the city early this morning with about two hundred and twenty-five passengers, and of these forty-three are for Toronto, and among them are a number of domestic servants. Nearly all the others are for points southwest and west, and a few for the north. The Grand Trunk expect about one hundred and thirty by the train due at 6.15 this morning and many of them are also for points outside of Toronto.

Of the men arriving all are for farm work or for some special kind of labor and have work to go to. When met at the station the new arrivals only recognized the Salvation Army officers, and so well drilled were they all that when asked to follow the officers to the Welcome Hostel they fell in line, the young men helping to carry the baggage which was required, and also the babies, of whom there appeared to be a very plentiful supply.

CAMPBELLFORD WILL GO DRY

Toronto, April 9—Mr. Justice Clute has dismissed the application to quash the local option by-law passed by the town of Campbellford. On behalf of the liquor interest it was urged that many unqualified persons had voted on the by-law, but His Lordship held that the voters' list was final and that the Court could not on proceedings like the present enter into conings like the present enter into the question of wheter voters on the list had hte necessary qualifications.

SOME CHANGES IN C.P.R. TIME TABLE

Commencing April 11th, the trains which now leave at 10.45 pm. and Peterborough at 1.10 am. for Ottawa and train which leaves Peterborough at 4.48 am. for Toronto will be cancelled.

Ottawa sleepers will be placed on train leaving Toronto at 10 pm. Peterborough 12.31 as formerly.

The attention of the citizens of Peterborough is particularly drawn to the fact that commencing April 11th, last train for Peterborough leaves Toronto at 10 pm.

A PECULIAR MONSTER

The Fierce Man Eating Crocodile of Australia.

A PATIENT, CUNNING BRUTE.

This Powerful and Savage Saurian, Sometimes Twenty-seven Feet In Length, Will Tackle Anything From a Sheep to a Half Ton Bullock.

The crocodile of the Nile differs very little from that of Australia, which is generally termed "alligator," though in reality a true crocodile. The head of a true alligator is broader and shorter than that of the crocodile. There is also considerable difference in the teeth and their disposition in the jaws. The teeth of an alligator are unequal, and the larger of the lower canine enters a cavity in the upper jaw, while that of a crocodile simply fits into a groove on the outside of the upper jaw, leaving the tooth clearly visible when the mouth of the monster is closed. There are also differences in the webbing of the toes and the form of the legs, though to the general observer there is little or no difference.

The crocodiles no doubt feed largely upon fish, but as they grow older and stronger and require great quantities of food they will when hungry attack anything from a sheep or kangaroo to a bullock, a big crocodile making short work of a bullock weighing over half a ton. Some of these monsters measure as much as twenty-seven feet in length and possess immense strength besides wonderful cunning and patience. One will lie in wait at any watering place frequented by animals, hardly distinguishable from a log of wood, so still and impassive it has become. The animal coming down to drink is seized in the crocodile's huge jaws and drawn into the water and drowned.

At other times the tail is used to sweep the animal into deep water, where, even though its prey may be a heavy bullock, it has little or no chance against its enemy, which is specially provided by nature with an arrangement that prevents the water rushing down its huge throat even though its jaws are fully distended through holding its prey. Thus after a few brief seconds the unequal struggle is over, and the saurian takes the carcass in tow to some favored locality where he can enjoy it at his leisure.

In the early days at Port Darwin, South Australia, bathing in the open sea was forbidden owing to the danger from crocodiles, there and nearly everywhere else in Australia called alligators, though in reality no true alligators exist in Australia. A young trooper named Davis, a fine swimmer, disregarded the general order and one morning early went for a swim. Far out in the harbor he noticed what he and others took to be a floating log. Many of the northern trees float and are washed down in the wet season to the open sea. Out went the strong swimmer, nearer and nearer to the supposed log, until too late he recognized his mistake and that he was approaching instead of a log a huge and apparently listless crocodile.

But the knowledge came too late to be of any service to poor Davis, though some men called out to him from a small craft close by to "Go back! Go back!" and Davis did make an attempt to retreat and was swimming manfully shoreward when the huge brute flashed down upon him at a terrific speed and, opening his great jaws to their utmost capacity, came down with a smack that was heard even to the shore, and inside their cruel grasp was Trooper Davis' head. Then, with the quickness common to the saurian, it had disappeared with its victim.

Crocodiles at nighttime low and bellow just like cattle, especially like bulls, and I have spent some nights in an open boat in Cambridge gulf, northwestern Australia, where the whole place seemed to be alive with them, and what with their splashes and cries, the weirdness of the whole scene and their close proximity as they at times rocked the boat sleep was impossible, for there are several instances on record where crocodiles have taken or have attempted to take men from out of camps and boats.

A poor fellow named Reed, the mate or second mate of the Guinan, had gone in his vessel to some river in Carpentaria gulf—I believe the Roper. The vessel was at anchor near the mouth of the river. The mate, Reed, had been dispatched in charge of a watering party and was some distance up the river in a large open boat. Water had been obtained, and they were all ready for a return to the ship. All being made snug, the tired fellows turned in, having made their camp in the boat. The night was a very fine one, the moon shining brightly, when toward midnight the sleeping camp was aroused by some terrific shrieks. These were the cries of poor Reed, who, enveloped in his bedding and mosquito curtains, was being borne off by a crocodile.

It is said by those who knew him well and accompanied him on this and other previous trips that he had the habit of sleeping with his foot on the gunwale of the boat, and no doubt this afforded the crocodile an easier opportunity of seizing him.

The crocodile has a remarkable eye. It can arrange the pupil to a vertical or horizontal position at will to suit its requirement by day or night. It has a special natural protection to the eye, and through a duct escapes the fluid when the monster weeps. In fact, he is a peculiar brute altogether, with many special gifts besides his huge jaws that help to make of him the terror he is.—Sydney Mail.

BORDER INDIAN BANDS.

Mr. J. S. Grate Enters Plea Against Their Demoralization.

The Department of Indian Affairs for the Dominion of Canada is face to face with a problem of gravest import. It involves either the disintegration and utter disappearance of the border Indians on this half of the continent, or their perpetuation and physical and moral salvation.

The race that can produce the administrative and creative qualities of an Oronhyatekha, the literary genius of a Pauline Johnson or the athletic predominance of a Longboat needs no apology from those who have interested themselves in the Indian peoples. The Mohawks, under the influence of the good that is in civilization, have produced many good citizens, professional men and even distinguished figures.

What a chasm there lies, however, between the healthful surroundings made possible in one case and the damning, soul-blighting, death-dealing conditions under which some of the border tribes are forced to exist. The Department knows full well of the ravages of tuberculosis in many of the Indian tribes. If the assurances of the Minister of the Interior may be relied upon the Department will do all that medical science can do for these people. That is part of the campaign, and the time may yet come when the little Indian boys or girls may enter the schools with some slight chance of reaching physical maturity before filling graves in the reservation cemetery.

The Indian Department, while cognizant and doubtless appreciably concerned about these conditions, is also aware of the peculiar difficulties which confront those who are working on behalf of the Indian bands along the Rainy River. There are 14 reservations and eighteen bands in this jurisdiction. Many of the reservations are located along the river directly opposite the state of Minnesota. It is not against the law in that state to sell liquor to a Canadian Indian, and in consequence these unfortunate people have been exploited and degraded almost beyond credence. Men of vicious character have established across the river from the reservations "blind pigs," where whiskey of the most vicious kind is sold. The utter soullessness of the men who lend themselves to this degrading business is almost beyond belief, and the Indians go blindly, even willingly to the slaughter.

In his annual report to the Department, J. P. Wright, Indian agent, tells, for example, of the Hungry Hall bands of Objibways. Their reserves cover 6,280 acres, and much of the land is a rich clay loam. They have no taste, however, for agriculture.

"These Indians," says the agent, "are addicted to the use of intoxicants, which they usually get on the American side."

Again, of the Long Sault bands, he writes: "I regret to state that all the Indians along the Rainy River are very much addicted to the use of intoxicants, which they can easily procure on the American side, for, as the law now stands, there is no penalty for supplying liquor to Canadian Indians on the American side."

In his report of the Little Forks band, the same story is told in other words: "These Indians are intemperate," says the agent, "and as there is a 'blind pig' kept on the American side of the river, opposite the reserve, they can get all the liquor they can pay for, consequently a great deal of their money is spent in liquor. In November last two of these Indians were shot and one seriously wounded in a drunken row with the keeper of this 'blind pig,' but both recovered."

The cold language of the official reports conveys scant information of the demoralizing influences exercised on the lives of these people by conditions across the river from their reservations.

What chance has that little Indian boy who was held up playfully by the guide when I visited one of the border reservations? While his black eyes gleam with laughter now, and in childish play he runs around the tepee, his future is as surely blighted as the flower that withers and falls with the first frost of winter. He is one of those who must grow up and contribute to the men across the river.

These Indian bands range in number from 40 to 110. There are 18 of them in the Rainy River country.

Two things I strongly recommend after making a personal investigation and knowing full well the nature of the information in possession of the Department. Remove the reservations far back from the border. It will help to save these people and will remove at the same time one of the greatest obstacles in the development and settlement of the Rainy River valley. Then, let the Department of Indian Affairs approach the United States and Minnesota authorities with a view to securing their cooperation for the protection of the border tribes of Indians.

The Indian population of Canada is 110,345, of whom 10,347 are pagans. In 1905 the population was 107,637, of whom 10,906 were pagans.

Any inference to be drawn from these figures is left to readers who may be interested in this article.

Czar Enters Lawsuit.

An extraordinary suit at law which is exciting much interest among Manitoba lawyers is now in progress in Winnipeg. No less a person than the Czar of Russia is suing a citizen of the western metropolis. The statement of claim sets forth that one Proskurekoff, passing under the assumed name of Stefan Tudkofski, was formerly treasurer of the Department of the Interior of the Russian Government in the province of Turkeston, and that he absconded with funds to the amount of 340,000 roubles. The alleged unfaithful steward went to Winnipeg, taking with him a Russian lady, pretty and of high degree. There he invested in real estate, and lived luxuriously. Czar Nicholas is now seeking to recover the lost roubles, and asks for the delivery to him of the alleged delinquent's property. Proskurekoff has not been seen since the suit was begun.

THE PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS HELD IN JUNE OR AUTUMN

Premier Whitney Hints Appeal May be Deferred Until the Fall—Date not Yet Decided Upon—House Will Prorogue To-morrow.

Toronto, April 13.—The Legislature will prorogue to-morrow. At 17 minutes after five o'clock on Saturday afternoon Mr. Speaker Crawford announced that "this House does now stand adjourned," and the members rose in their places and sang the National Anthem.

A few moments previous the Prime Minister, Hon. Mr. Whitney, had informed the House that it was the present intention of the Government to bring on the general elections before the 15th of June. If, however, the voters' lists in the new constituencies are not ready by that time, the First Minister stated that polling need not be anticipated until the end of September or the beginning of October.

"A word before the House finally adjourns," began Mr. Whitney when the business had been concluded. "Earlier in the session I told hon. gentlemen that, if it were possible, I hoped to make a statement as to when the elections might be anticipated. It has been the custom to surround this matter with a pseudo-mystery—why, I could never understand. Everyone knows exactly what is going on, but, for some reason, this must never be stated frankly or in a straightforward manner, especially to political opponents. To my mind it can do no harm to take the people into confidence wherever it is possible.

"On one occasion I remember a former Prime Minister of this province, Hon. Mr. Hardy, called me, as leader of the Opposition, to his counsel as to the time of the issue of the writ and the polling day. I do not say he accepted my suggestion but we found that our opinions were much alike. I appreciated the occurrence and I determined, if occasion ever arose, I would like to be as open and ready with my confidence.

"The election may take place during the latter part of September or the beginning of October if we are unable to get the list ready, otherwise the present plan is to have them come on early in June. The Cabinet has not yet decided upon a date—in view of the circumstances this has been impossible, but the plan has been, unless we are forced to wait till the early autumn, to bring the elections on before the 15th of June."

The Government bill granting aid to the Canadian Northern Railway met its only opposition from the Conservative members. Mr. Philip H. Bowyer (East Kent) led the attack, protesting against subsidies and guarantees of bonds to railway corporations, especially in the dying hours of the session. "This," said Mr. Bowyer, "I condemned in the Ross administration and I cannot condone it in the present Government. I must oppose the Government on this measure."

Col. Hugh Clark (Centre Bruce) reiterated his opposition expressed on the introduction of the bill, stating that he also spoke for Mr. Donald Sutherland (South Oxford) and Mr. J. P. Downey (South Wellington), both of whom had been called out of the House by some visiting constituents. Mr. J. Tucker (West Wellington) followed and also spoke against the measure. The members of the Opposition, however, all supported it, and it carried.

Hon. Adam Beck's Government bill validating the contracts by the Hydro-Electric Commission with the Ontario Power Co. and the municipalities was given its third reading without discussion. In response to a question from the Opposition leader, the Minister of Power said the municipalities were never expected to pay more than the actual cost of the power whatever that might be.

An amendment was made to the Government bill to amend the Shops' Act, under which no child under 14 years can be employed without a certificate from the truant officer.

Mr. Whitney announced the withdrawal of the resolutions re tuberculosis by Mr. Downey and Dr. Godfrey. It had been decided to take Government action in this matter and it would be given full consideration. The automobile legislation recommended by the municipal committee was also approved after a short and animated discussion.

The Attorney-General explained the measure to grant $130,000 to the La Rose Mining Co. in settlement of all claims against the Government. This company had originally taken action against the O'Brien Co. to establish the ownership of the mine, and had supported the Government with all data for the action. The La Rose people expected to obtain possession of the mine, but the Government had rights, which in the public interest he said they were not ready to relinquish, and the settlement was accordingly reached.

Hon. Mr. Foy submitted his resolution in reference to law reform with little comment. It has been before the House for some time and had been generally discussed by the public and the press. The resolution was adopted, and the amendment by the Opposition leader voted down.

DEATHS UNDER ANAESTHETICS

Royal Commission to Enquire in England and Wales.

London, April 13.—A royal commission is to be appointed to enquire into the deaths under anaesthetics in England and Wales.

The records of these deaths for the years 1902 and 1906 inclusive were 146, 146, 154, 163 and 183.

The duties of the public vaccinator are rapidly disappearing in many small towns.

The inhabitants avail themselves of the conscientious objectors' declaration act and therefore escape the vaccination of themselves and their families.

The prejudice against this form of innoculation seems to be spreading everywhere.

Arrested For Bigamy.

Kingston, April 13.—Twice married although professing to believe that he has only one legal wife, is the plight of George Hupburn of this city, arrested on a charge of bigamy.

Six years ago he married Annie Tandy, living near Peterboro, one child resulting from the union. Last year he left his wife and he claims that in October the legal firm of Hall & Hays, Peterboro, wrote him stating that his wife had secured a divorce with alimony.

In January last he married Miss Eva Smith, Storrington, near here, and they have been boarding in the city since. The father of the second wife heard the news and swore out a warrant.

The accused is second engineer on the F., T. Co.'s steamer Scout.

There has been an epidemic of burglaries lately, and Wilmot, who is a young man, was on guard, and is supposed to have received a shot while attempting to arrest a burglar.

Woman Fatally Burned.

CITY OF BOSTON IS VISITED BY TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATION

Chelsea District Completely Devastated by the Flames—Four Dead and Fifty Injured—Loss Estimated at $3,000,000—Thirteen Churches Burned—Two Hospitals, City Hall, Public Library and Five Schools Also Destroyed.

Boston, April 13.—The greatest fire that has scourged any part of the Metropolitan district in ten years yesterday and last night devastated the manufacturing, tenement and retail business sections of Chelsea, burning over more than one square mile of territory, and levelling many of the city's best structures.

The fire started at 10.40 a.m. Half of the Boston fire department's strength, and steamers from a dozen other cities and towns went to the aid of the helpless Chelsea department.

The fire originated in the marshes in the rear of the Boston Blacking Co.'s works on West Third street, among large quantities of rags that were being dried there.

A terrific gale from the northwest, which at times had a velocity of 60 miles an hour, communicated the fire to the buildings of the blacking company and carried shingles, embers and myriads of sparks from these to a score of wooden buildings, most of them of cheap wooden construction.

The place of origin was almost in the extreme southwest section of the city, and the fire cut a path to the end of Maverick street at the extreme southeastern end of the city, which borders on Chelsea Creek, and about one mile and a quarter from the point where the conflagration began.

The flames wrecked the heart of the retail business section of the city.

Among the structures destroyed were thirteen churches, two hospitals, the public library, city hall, five schoolhouses, twenty business blocks, nearly a score of factories and upwards of 300 tenements and dwelling houses.

Among the places burned were: Frost Hospital, Children's Hospital, Fits Public Library, St. Stanislaus Polish Catholic Church, First Baptist Church, Central Unitarian Church, St. Luke's Episcopal Church (old building), First Methodist Episcopal Church, Elm street Synagogue, Walnut street Synagogue, Chelsea Presbyterian Church, People's Afro-Methodist Episcopal Church, Fourth street Universalist Church, Fifth street Congregational Church, Shurtleaff street Methodist Episcopal Church, Second Adventist Church, New England Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s central offices, Austin & Young's cracker factory, Chaplin & Soden Car Companies shops, Rosenfelt Bros', three-storey rag-picking factory, and the Tidewater Oil Co.'s three immense tanks.

The streets over which the flames rushed included Carter, Maple, Spruce, Arlington, Ash, Walnut, Poplar, Chestnut and Cherry to Broadway. From Broadway the fire spread to Bellingham Hills. From Summer street, it cut another pathway, running diagonally, through Third street, Everett avenue and Fourth street to Bellingham street.

The flames reached Broadway, the principal street of the city, at a point between Third and Fifth streets, and destroyed the Masonic Hall, Oddfellows Hall and the Bennett block.

The flying embers and the showers of sparks were carried across Chelsea Creek to the East Boston district, and the East Boston engines were obliged to return from Chelsea to protect property in their district.

A militia call by Mayor Beck of Chelsea brought out the first company coast artillery to guard property moved into the streets from buildings in the path of flames. Col. Wood, commanding the marine at the Charlestown navy yard, volunteered the services of the men of 106th company, and Rear-Admiral Swift also sent out all the men on board the receiving ship Wabash. Those sailors were not commanded by officers; but were instructed to give their services wherever needed.

Marines with fixed bayonets held back the crowds while the militia and sailors helped families remove their goods. Advance squads of the militia and police warned out families living in the path of the fire, which leaped over block after block with astonishing rapidity.

Two lives are known to have been lost, and at a late hour last night it was reported that two other persons had perished, one a woman, having shot herself in a frenzy over her inability to save her property.

From 50 to 75 persons were injured.

In the confusion attending the situation, accurate estimates of the loss were impossible. The city police estimated it at nearly $10,000,000.

The fire raged before a 45-mile an hour gale for more than six hours, defying the combined fire departments of Chelsea and several nearby cities, and a large detachment of Boston firemen and apparatus.

The fire area, which was in the form of an eclipse a mile and a half long and half a mile wide at its broadest part, extended diagonally across the city from a point near the boundary between Everett and Chelsea to the waters of Chelsea Creek.

It was useless for the firemen to attempt to check the onrush of the flames before the gale, and their main efforts were to prevent a spread of the blaze upon either side.

Their last stand was taken at Chelsea Square late in the afternoon, and for hours a doubtful battle was waged. At 9 o'clock word was passed that the firemen were winning, and with renewed energy the contest was pressed. At 10.50 official announcement was made by Fire Chief Spencer that the fire was under control.

The great majority of the buildings were of wood and were completely destroyed, but structures of other material were almost as quickly and thoroughly incinerated by the fierceness of the blaze.

All the banks, more than three quarters of the churches, half of the business blocks and nearly all the schools were wiped out. One hospital and a day nursery were destroyed. In the turmoil many of the sick and infirm found difficulty in obtaining assistance, and several of them had narrow escapes.

TWO TREATIES NOW ARE SIGNED

Bryce and Root Came to Terms in Boundary and Fishing.

Washington, April 13.—Secretary of State Root and British Ambassador Byrce Saturday signed two treaties, negotiated recently between the United States and Great Britain.

One provides for a commission to determine the boundary between the United States and Canada and the other regulates fishing in the great lakes and contiguous streams.

The boundary commission will be charged with the work of resurveying certain sections of the boundary line and determining disputed questions in that connection.

It is understood that the fishery question also is placed in the hands of a commission by the terms of the treaty.

Prayers and Parades.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 13.—The primary elections throughout Pennsylvania, held Saturday, were marked with bitter political battles in several sections of Western Pennsylvania. In a number of districts factional fights complicated the situation, and all the tactics known to politics are being resorted to.

Supporters of local option have played a prominent part in the campaign and thousands of school children paraded the streets in the vicinity of the pooling booths Saturday carrying inscribed banners and singing for the success of local option candidates.

In the churches and homes services were held at which prayers were offered for the victory of local option.

New German Cruiser.

Kiel, Germany, April 13.—The armored cruiser Bluecher was launched from the Imperial Navy Yards at 11 o'clock on Saturday in the presence of Prince Henry of Prussia and many high officials of the Admiralty. Gen. Baron Von Der Goltz, commander of the army corps at Koenigsberg, delivered an address. Countess Bluecher christened the warship.

The cruiser is built entirely of steel, with a displacement of 15,000 tons. The estimated cost of construction is $6,915,000, of which $4,625,000 will be spent on the hull and machinery, while her artillery will cost $2,125,000 and her torpedo armament $165,000. Her complement will total 790 officers and men.

Says War Is Inevitable.

Washington, April 13.—Debate on the naval appropriation bill in the House of Representatives Saturday revolved itself in the main into a discussion of the possibility of a war between the United States and Japan.

Mr. Hobson of Alabama pleaded for four battleships instead of two for the next fiscal year, and pointed out that from now on the United States should have a fixed policy with regard to naval construction.

A war between the yellow and white races, he regarded as inevitable, and he asserted that Japan's present military activity was with a view to the supremacy of the Pacific and as a natural consequence there would be a clash at arms with the United States.

LAW DRAWN TO RULE TIME.

British Commoner Would Move Up Clocks In Summer.

About a year ago there was announced a scheme which had been proposed by a certain Willet, who was distressed at the enormous amount of daylight Britishers — especially Londoners—wasted abed. He suggested that all clocks should be simultaneously put forward so that a man getting up apparently at 9 in the morning would really be doing so at 7.40, and thus would gain an hour and twenty minutes of daylight. Mr. Pearce of the House of Commons has drawn up a bill entitled "The Daylight Saving Bill," which asks that the House of Commons legally institute a new British time for the summer months.

The measure proposes that all clocks be then advanced eighty minutes, giving Britishers 210 extra hours of daylight as by a miracle.

Business men and eminent brain specialists declare all the best work is done early in the morning, and, therefore, the scheme would increase the output of authors, clerks, and all sorts and conditions of men.

The head of one of the biggest business firms in the city says he is not willing to discuss the matter, but the railways and business houses must all concur that an extra hour for the summer evening cricket or tennis game appeals to the young city man.

The manager of the Savoy declares the change is impossible for society whose dining hour is late, and it is possible people would dislike walking about in evening dress in daylight. If the bill passes it means dinner at 7.30, which is now at 6.10.

Robbing the Mail.

General Post Office, Dec. 17, 1796.—The Post-boy, carrying the North Mail from Warrington to Chester, was stopped on Monday evening, the 5th inst., between 7 and 8 o'clock, within a mile of Chester, by a Man on foot, who took from him the Mail, containing the Manchester, Warrington, and Frodsham bags of letters. The Robber was dressed in a blue jacket and White Trousers, and had an oil case cover to his hat. Whoever shall apprehend and convict, or cause to be apprehended and convicted, the person who committed this robbery, will be entitled to a reward of Two Hundred Pounds over and above the reward given by Act of Parliament for apprehending of highwaymen; and if any accomplice in the robbery, or knowing thereof, shall surrender himself and make discovery, whereby the person who committed the same may be apprehended and brought to justice, such discoverer will be entitled to the said reward of Two Hundred Pounds, and will also receive his Majesty's most gracious pardon. By command of the Post-master-General.

"You'll have a fit when I get through with you!" cried the first.

"Just try it on!" promptly retorted the other.

No, gentle reader, they were not quarreling. The first speaker was a dressmaker and the other her patron.

THE GOVERNOR IS SHOT DOWN

Member of Delegation Slays Polish Aristocrat at Lemburg.

Lemburg, Austria-Hungary, April 13.—Count Andreas Potocki, governor of the Austrian Polish Province of Calicia, was assassinated yesterday afternoon by a Ruthenian student, Mierostap Sjezynzki, by name, while giving an audience to a delegation of students.

The assassin fired three shots from a revolver, all of which took effect. The governor soon afterwards died, but first asked his secretary to inform His Majesty at once.

"Tell him," said the dying man, "I was his most faithful servant."

The assassin did not resist arrest. When lead through the governor's ante-chamber he said to the Ruthenian peasants who were waiting for an audience, "I have done this for you."

The assassin's brother, who had been informed of the plan to kill the governor, committed suicide shortly before the murder.

The affair has caused a great sensation throughout the monarchy. The Potocki family is among the most prominent aristocrats of Polish blood. On learning of the tragedy, the Emperor sent a message of sympathy.

Many Ruthenians have been arrested, but none as yet implicated in the assassination. Sjezynzki said he thought it his duty to avenge the Poles for the opposition of the Potocki government.

Margaret's Alphabet.

Little Margaret was having difficulty with the alphabet, which was being taught her in the good old way. H she could not remember, so her mother said, "See, Margaret; it looks like a gate." That was an inspiration. Now Margaret is in clover. She never forgets, but this is what she says:

A, b, c, d, e, f, g, gate, i, etc. Her mother sees still harder work ahead in making the little maid forget.—Washington Star.

Shooting at Hamilton.

Hamilton, April 13.—There was a shooting affray at the east end steel plant on Saturday. Pretre Dresabio and Tony Brown become involved in a dispute and the former chased the latter from the house, firing three shots from a revolver at him. The bullets went wild and Pretre threw the revolver to the ground.

The police arrested him on a charge of shooting with intent.

One of the Heroes of Civilization.

New York, April 13.—Hundreds of surgeons and physicians were among the guests who greeted Dr. Robert Koch, the German bacteriologist, at a banquet tendered him in the Waldorf-Astoria by the German Medical Society. Andrew Carnegie was one of the speakers. He placed Dr. Koch in the list of the heroes of civilization.

A Tragic Death.

Victoria, B.C., April 13.—Seized with an epileptic fit while waiting for his supper, which he had just ordered, William Hooper, a member of the firm of Hooper Bros., mill owners, expired suddenly on the sidewalk outside the restaurant.

THE NEW BRITISH CABINET MEETS WITH MUCH APPROVAL

Winston Churchill Promoted—His Re-election in Manchester Considered Doubtful—Changes Will Cause Four Bye-Elections.

London, April 13.—Official announcement was made last night of the new Cabinet appointments. They are as follows:

Herbert Asquith, Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury.

David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Lord Tweedmouth, President of the Council.

Earl of Crewe, Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty.

Winston Spencer Churchill, President of the Board of Trade.

Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Education.

John Morley, Secretary of State for Indian, and

Sir Henry Fowler, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, have been made peers, but retain their present offices.

Col. G. S. E. Seeley has been appointed Under-Secretary for the Colonies.

Lord Lucas, Parliamentary Secretary of the War Office.

F. D. Acland, Financial Secretary of the War Office, and Thomas R. Buchanan, Parliamentary Secretary of the India Office.

Having been fully anticipated in well-informed political circles, the few changes which Mr. Asquith made in the old Campbell-Bannerman Cabinet caused no surprise. There had been some speculation as to whether the new Premier would think well to dissolve Parliament, and he would have been fully justified, in assuming the Government under somewhat unusual circumstances, in taking the course of appealing to the country for a new mandate. He has, however, evidently decided otherwise.

His aim in composing the Cabinet seemingly has been to avoid as far as possible any bye-election in constituencies where the faith in Liberalism is wavering.

The changes as announced will only necessitate four bye-elections, of which heretofore held respectively by John Morley, Walter Runciman and Sir Henry Fowler, may be considered safe. Winston Churchill's re-election in Manchester, however, is considered decidedly doubtful. Until won by Mr. Churchill, after one of the most notable contests thirty months ago, this seat had been for a decade a Conservative stronghold.

It is interesting to note that before giving the chancellorship to Lloyd-George, Mr. Asquith offered it to Mr. Morley. Mr. McKenna, the new Admiralty chief, is credited with being an advocate of economy in the navy.

Some further appointments outside the Cabinet will be announced after the King's return to London.

The condition of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is reported by his physicians as being unchanged.

The appointments to the Colonial Office meets with the widest approval. Earl Crewe's tact, kindness and ability have been generally recognised, whilst Col. Seeley is agreed to be an able Minister. The newspapers have received the Cabinet with great favor.

It is understood that Premier Asquith will himself make the coming budget statement, although he has resigned the chancellorship, there being a precedent for the course.

The Earl of Elgin is said to be chagrined at the loss of the Colonial Office, and Lord Tweedmouth's downward promotion is due to the Emperor's letter incident and to general dissatisfaction over his administration.

Mr. Churchill has issued a bold fighting address to voters of Manchester, pinning to his mast, the whole Government legislative program, and even the unpopular licensing bill in its integrity.

It is reported that Mr. Lloyd-George has resolved to throw to the winds the prescriptive law which forbids a Cabinet Minister from participating in an election contest, and that he is going to Manchester to speak in the campaign for Churchill.

Denies His Confession.

Montreal, April 13.—William Sangster has now denied the confession he made to the New York police of having been one of the men who murdered Oscar Delorme, on the Black River road last October. He made a statement to this effect a few hours after his arrival in the city Saturday, to Sergeant-Detective Charpentier. He declared that he had made up the story in order to create a little excitement and also to obtain a free trip to Montreal. Up to the present there is nothing but his own confession to hold him.

Sangster will not be set at liberty, however, as he is now accused of having stolen $120 from a man named Lortie.

Found Drowned.

St. Catharines, April 13.—The badly decomposed body of a middle-aged man was found in the old Welland Canal, not far from the Canadian Henley course, yesterday. Coroner Jory ordered it removed for burial. The man had been in the water all winter. Several fingers fell off.

Poisoned by Matches.

Westbourne, Ont., April 13.—The little daughter of J. Demarais was poisoned by sucking the phosphorus from matches.

All-Red Route Report.

London, April 13.—(C.A.P.)—The all-red route committee will report immediately, according to The Scotsman. It is believed the Treasury objections to the financial part of the scheme remain unanswered. Lloyd-George's promotion to Chancellor of the Exchequer, however, encourages some speculation of possible arrangements.

Hospital Burned.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., April 13.—Fire Saturday destroyed the Northwestern Hospital. The nurses prevented a panic and 30 patients were carried out in safety.

Carl Sorenson was under the influence of ether on the operating table when the fire broke out.

Imprisoned by Ice.

Dunkirk, N.Y., April 13.—The crew of the fishing tug Banks, which had been caught in the ice jam out in Lake Erie since Friday morning, were all brought ashore yesterday.

They tell a harrowing story of battle for life aboard the tug and contending with a crippled wheel and a hole stove in her side. The tugs Desmond and Viola, are still fast in the ice. Relief parties went over the ice to them yesterday with food. The fires have been drawn and the men will have coal enough to keep warm for several days.

Unless a heavy wind moves the ice the imprisoned tugs may not be released for another day. Crews are aboard some of them.

$50,000 Jewel Burglary.

San Francisco, April 13.—Some time during Friday night and in the best patrolled district of the city, thieves entered the jewelry store of P. Lundy, 744 Market street, and robbed it of diamonds, watches and other jewelry, amounting to $50,000.

Entrance was made by cutting a hole through the partition that separates the store from a candy shop. The safe was drilled and blown open with nitro-glycerine.

The robbery is believed to be the work of eastern crooks, many of whom have arrived in the city with the idea of operating while the battleship fleet is visiting this port.

TRAGIC FREAKS OF WIND STORM

Several Lives Lost and Many Injured During Terrific Storm.

New York, April 13.—Five men are known to have lost their lives, a number of boatmen are reported missing and dozens of persons were injured in a furious windstorm which set in here Saturday afternoon. The wind's velocity, according to the local weather bureau, averaged between forty and fifty miles an hour, but at times was as high as sixty miles.

Pedestrians suffered much discomfort, besides being in constant danger from falling signs, shutters, awnings and other articles torn from their fastenings. Two men met death from this cause, an expressman and a policeman. A boat containing three men was seen to upset in Pelham Bay. Those on shore could do nothing, and were forced to see the men drown.

The force of the wind on the city streets may be judged by the fact that it swept Louis Specter, a four-year-old boy, from the roof of a five-storey apartment house, to which he had ventured. The lad suffered a fractured skull.

A runaway, due to the flying dust blinding a horse and stinging his sides, was another strange incident of the storm. It resulted in the severe injury of Mrs. Bertha Straus, 63 years old.

Incoming shipping report heavy weather at sea.

The local weather men said the high wind was due to the steep barometric pressure between two rainstorms, one on the coast and the other central over the St. Lawrence Valley. A low area of pressure was suddenly displaced by a high area of pressure, and this caused the high winds.

Kipling In Trouble.

New Westminster, B.C., April 13.—Rudyard Kipling was roundly condemned at Saturday night's meeting of the Westminster Branch of the Asiatic Exclusion League. A number of statements made by the bard in his series of "Letters to the Family," being objected to by anti-Orientals.

Representations will be made direct to the offender, while statements contradicting his conclusions with respect to the need of the Asiatics in this province will be scattered broadcast.

Prince's Portrait Damaged.

Quebec, April 13.—The portrait of H.R.H. Prince Arthur of Connaught, which Mayor Carneau received through the medium of Col. J. Hanbury-Williams, secretary to His Excellency the Governor-General, has been damaged in transit and will require to be touched up, after which it would grace the walls of the Council chamber.

Increased Indemnity.

Halifax, N.S., April 13.—A bill introduced by Premier [illegible] the local House Saturday [illegible] the sessional indemnity [illegible] to $700.

Conservatives voted against the increase.

YOUNG MOTHERS

A mother who is in good physical condition transmits to her child the blessing of a good constitution; sickly, ailing mothers, the reverse. The tiny babe brings to her a living responsibility. At such a time too great care cannot be taken to build up the mother's general constitution, and restore her feminine system to a healthy, normal condition. The greatest assistance that any woman can have in accomplishing this all-important work is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. M. Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

"I was greatly run down in health, suffering from a weakness peculiar to my sex. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was not only helped to health but am the proud mother of a fine baby girl. I wish every sick and ailing woman would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."

Mrs. Paul Oliver, of St. Martinville, La., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For years I suffered from the worst form of female troubles, and the doctor said I could not get well without an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I have the sweetest little baby girl. I will never cease to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with the worst forms. Why don't you try it?

STREET PREACHING

Until the gospel is brought down into "the street" and the street is brought up to the level of the gospel there can be no communion between the two—between the life of Christ and the life of the market-place. If the gospel is to be "spread abroad" there is only one way to do it. While in a united effort the note of self-conscious leadership should be absent at any rate in a work of this kind and all idea of worldly ambition should be ruthlessly cast aside as unworthy of the great cause and the Great Master, nevertheless it is not to be expected that there will not arise some things that will appear objectionable to some, although they may not really be so. The tragic and the comic stand close together at all times although not allied and what the multitude may mistake for a proper subject of jest may be something of the most tragic and pathetic character. Even the Story of the Cross itself is to many a subject of jest while others find in it a subject of the most solemn and tragic interest. The object to be gained is doubtless the true test. Salvation from the burning and the restoration of man to heavenly bliss are surely worthy of consideration while the sufferings of the historical Jesus even to the unbeliever, must appeal as infinitely sad. We must beware of suppressing the higher emotions. Religion properly so-called must transcend Reason. All the primals such as Nature and Being necessarily transcend reason. They are unaccountable facts which we are able only to perceive. It was no mere fleery of the imagination that moved the poet Wordsworth to exclaim:

"Our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting.
The soul that rises with us, our life's star
Hath had elsewhere its setting and cometh from afar.
Not in entire forgetfulness,
Not in utter nakedness,
But trailing clouds of glory do we come,
From God—who is our home."

But with it all it is vitally necessary to be consistent for "consistency is a jewel." Otherwise it is all a mockery and Christ is crucified once more.

There was nothing to laugh at or to patronize in this morning's service. It was restrained, earnest and solemn. No affectation of any sort marred its strength and fitness. As an expression of the divine in man it was what the most critical could not fail to appreciate. That the clergymen formed their own choir, added greatly to the effectiveness. No man can afford to pass these services by.

NEW ONTARIO

The third of our series of articles on New Ontario begins with a reference to the celebrated O'Brien deal. Mr. O'Brien was chairman of the Railway Commission under the Ross Government. Like other officials of that ilk and era, he tried to realize on his beloved country as far as possible. He got his deeds and had everything put in shape prior to the advent of Mr. Whitney to power. When Mr. Whitney looked into some of the "deals" he made up his mind that there was fraud and collusion in them from one end to the other. Suit was begun against Mr. O'Brien, who promptly compromised by granting the Government a royalty of 25 per cent. This royalty brought in no less than $100,000 cash to the Government in the year 1907 alone! Just think of it! That enormous sum represents one year's royalty only, and yet this transaction is but one item in the long list of Liberal government dealings of this character. Cobalt Lake was put up for sale by tender, the first instance in the history of the government of Ontario of this sort of thing. The sum realized was $1,085,000 in cash! The Liberals following their custom, would have declared that mines were problematical anyhow, that they were doubtful investments, lake mineral claims presented enormous difficulties, etc., etc., while the province would have been deprived of this large sum which would have gone into the pockets of favourites instead of those of the people. The Kerr Lake sale was of a similar character. The tender on the first put-up was $30,000. On the second, which the Government deemed it wise to try, the tender was $178,000 and 10 per cent. royalty! But some may say that this whole Cobalt business from beginning to end is now that we do not know what the Liberals would have done, &c. That is just where a misstatement would be made to do duty for the facts. Numerous stretches of mineral land have been disposed of, or rather given away, by the Liberals to "admiring" friends. No wonder Mr. Conmee, M.P., and Senator Kerr heaped abuse on the heads of Whitney & Co., terming them meddlesome busybodies, faddists and the like. The loss of so much silver was quite enough to make such men extremely angry. But the province is not angry.

CORRUPTION

The reign of corruption in departmental affairs at Ottawa, emphasizes the weakness of humanity. In course of time all governments fall victims to corruption it would seem. History indicates that liars, thieves, robbers, crooks, harpies, sneak-thieves, and all that band that makes it a business to prey on the public, sooner or later get possession of the public treasury, and of necessity drive what is called "the reigning government" from power. All thieves cultivate slickness, slimness offhandedness and apparent generosity (which they return to themselves later on from the public purse with interest). At first they are hypocritical wearing the mask of virtue or sympathy, but later on they rely upon their reputation for success, to carry them through or upon the completeness of their outfit of burglars' tools. There are many who will not do the "dirty work," for fear of being caught or because they do not know how but they continue to share in the plunder. They indeed in this because they are of use to the chief robbers in attaining success. They bleat like a lamb and the lamb runs to the wolf. Although there are men and women that appear and are godlike, aye almost divine, the great bulk of them come up to no such standard. It is beyond them altogether. Why then expect more than is reasonable?

Civilization is founded not upon virtue. If it were it would be an altogether different thing. It is in the last analysis a system of mutual protection, orderly, well-worked out so far as it goes and serving the purpose. But beyond that it is a mere covering for religious, commercial and political depravity. Few professionals are hypocrites. They learn in time to despise the very appearance of virtue. If it were not that regardless of political opinions people fall to and drive off the plunderers, the state would not last long enough to be photographed. At Ottawa we have a lot of supposedly virtuous statesmen. We do not say apparently. We prefer the word supposedly, as it befits the legal fiction that enwraps the official. They are very capable. They say so themselves and appeal to us for a renewal of confidence on that ground. Meanwhile we read as follows not occasionally but from day to day. And lest anything should be wanting to complete the picture some of these statesmen rejoice in the weakness of the flesh. The misgovernment of a country is bad enough but when in addition physical, mental and moral corruption is saddled upon it in the name of government it is surely time for a change. We append the "as follows," to which we refer. Burglars sometimes leave pretty jests behind them written on bits of paper. The joke is upon us here beyond a doubt.

"The report of the civil service commission has at last made its appearance in printed form, 875 pages in bulk. The main report occupies 46 pages. The remainder is taken up by appendices.

An appendix which covers 780 printed pages consists of the "notes" upon which the commissioners base their sweeping criticism of the Marine department. These notes are excerpts from files of the department, with comments. They appear to have gone thoroughly into the matter of "challenged accounts," particularly with reference to the management of the Quebec agency. Some of the extracts bear such headings as "Irregularities at Quebec agency," "Lost accounts," "price extravagant," "Shocking delay in settlements of accounts," "Blundering correspondence."

It appears from the file extracts that the agent at Quebec, G. U. Gregory, who has recently been suspended, when reprimanded for buying flour at $6.95 a barrel when the regular price was $4.50, explained that there was only one flour dealer on the patronage list and recommended that one or two more be put on. A. W. Owen, accountant of the department, drew attention of the deputy to the fact that Samson and Filion of Quebec were charging 15c a pound for tallow. Mr. Owen observed that he thought this excessive figure for tallow "was based on the price of beefsteak."—World's Ottawa correspondent."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The end of the session at Ottawa is in sight. Government business is to have precedence from this out.

Notwithstanding a double headline announcement in its own columns that the local centres of charity had to close from lack of funds our friend the Examiner continues to attack us for stating that the industrial condition of Peterborough is at the present time distinctly bad. When charities fail for lack of funds what could be worse?

The decapitation of all Grit officials! Where, in Waterloo County, for instance! What hungry Tories have been caught red-handed on the trail of some trembling office-holders appointed by a Liberal Government in Toronto? In South Waterloo all the old bailiffs, Division Court clerks, and License Inspectors have been retained. And as to the alleged gerrymander—what about it. Was there ever in the history of Canada a fairer redistribution?—Galt Reporter.

The Cobalt Lake deal has since been proved to have nothing behind it. What else did we expect?

The following is of interest:

"While there is much in the present situation to cause business men to be unusually careful and prudent there is nothing to warrant the belief that, provided the crops of 1908 are normal we shall not before long be again in a quite prosperous position. We have to get over the effects of over-importation, lean crops, and a money market overdone throughout the whole world."

Mr. Walker, it will be noticed, blames over-importation and yet over-importation furnishes the only vestige of reason for crying out that our trade has increased.

THE SHINING LIGHTS

George Potts, who undertook to personate a voter at the recent municipal elections has been fined $500, and, in default of payment, must go to jail for six months. There have been several examples of this kind made in Montreal in recent years. The crooked election workers should soon begin to understand what they mean.—Montreal Gazette.

If this reward had been meted out to some of the "fancy" in this district there would have been fewer political thefts here. As Steffens says it is the alleged good men and shining lights in a community that are to blame. We don't expect anything better from those who can rejoice in food that falls from the table of the rich even if it is only in "scraps" of one and two dollar bills but those who pose as the formers of the constitution and as guides to "the development and progress of this country," and yet betray both, are the real crooks. A man like Mr. Whitney who is not tempted by the love of money or the sweets of social prominence is worth a king's ransom to this province and the people know it.

"Reverend Doctor Milligan, in the course of a sermon at Toronto on Sunday, stated that "an editor should be ashamed to write a line that will encourage attacks on finance by these amateur anarchists in Queen's Park," his reason being that "they are making Ontario an unsafe place for capital to invest in." These remarks, stripped of their Sunday clothes, refer to the presentation of Public versus Private ownership in Ontario. Politics is playing the chief role in this drama, while the stage managers push forward the public as the martyr. The press, and now the pulpit, have acted as dramatic critics. Reverend Doctor Milligan says he does not know but what he will write to certain Scotch newspapers, telling his friends not to put a dollar in Ontario. His friends probably will be grateful. "I would not invest a dollar there myself." Let the play proceed. Additional light from the Church is, to say the least, amusing. After all, so long as capital does not get too much and the public too little, nobody cares." —The Monetary Times.

This may be called a pretty reference to public ownership and to the Ontario Government as it is at present constituted. What did Rev. Dr. Milligan have to say when the Ross Government was in full swing?

BEHIND BARS AT KINGSTON

Release of W. H. Rowley on Parole Gives Hope to Others--Confinement Telling on Some

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, April 13.—It will interest Peterborough readers to learn that the Justice Department has released on parole, W. H. Rowley, of Elgin Loan notoriety. Those of the penal population at Kingston Penitentiary most interested by this announcement are the remaining five members of the "pen's" banking fraternity. They see in the curtailment of Rowley's sentence a possibility of a similar curtailment of their own. The Elgin Loan delinquent served about four and a half years of a twelve-year sentence and considering these figures from the view-point of proportion in some others of the banker's colony, may soon have completed their relative terms.

Of the five ex-financiers still at the bastile near Kingston, some are bearing up well, while others show signs of worry and physical breakdown.

Hillhouse Brown, late of Hamilton, Ontario, has put in one half of his four year term. He is well liked by all. On workdays he acts as clerk in the steward's department and on Sunday plays excellent sacred music on the chapel organ at the pen.

Edwin St. George Banwell, of Crown Bank and elopement fame, has, at his own request, been transferred from office work to the stone quarries and as a result his health is better than it was. He has put in over a year of his four year term.

Joe Phillips, he of the wrecked York Loan fame, is thriving on a clerkship in the tailoring department and is now beginning the second year of his five-year term.

J. F. Duncan, formerly of Ayr, is said to be in bad shape physically, his condition being due to excessive worry. He has about two and a half years left of a four-year term.

Mr. Whitelaw Reid, the United States ambassador at London, speaking at the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of Luton, last week, said: "There were many things in the history of his country of which an American was intensely proud, but among them all there had been nothing in forty odd years, since the great civil war of modern times, of which they had more right to be proud than of San Francisco in the earthquake and of San Francisco today.

THE VALUE OF ACCIDENT INSURANCE

DEATHS from accident are stated by the Census Officials, Washington, to have been 57,513 in 1902. The percentage of deaths from accident is 5.76, which is more than ten years ago. The "Insurance Press" in giving details from the Census, says, "An Inspection of the Census Tables showing causes of death brings out the fact that a person is more liable to meet death by accidental injuries than by any other single cause except consumption, pneumonia or heart disease

Beverly of Graustark

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON,
Author of "Graustark"
[illegible]

"And who is he?" cried Beverly eagerly.

"I don't know," was the disappointing answer. "We are confronted by a queer set of circumstances. Doubtless you all know that young Prince Dantan is flying from the wrath of his half brother, our lamented friend Gabriel. He is supposed to be in our hills with a half starved body of followers. It seems impossible that he could have reached our northern boundaries without our outposts catching a glimpse of him at some time. The trouble is that his face is unknown to most of us, I among the others. I have been going on the presumption that Baldos is in reality Prince Dantan, but last night the belief received a severe shock."

"Yes?" came from several eager lips.

"My men who are watching the Dawsbergen frontier came in last night and reported that Dantan had been seen by mountaineers no later than Sunday, three days ago. These mountaineers were in sympathy with him and refused to tell whither he went. We only know that he was in the southern part of Graustark three days ago. Our new guard speaks many languages, but he has never been heard to use that of Dawsbergen. That fact in itself is not surprising, for, of all things, he would avoid his mother tongue. Dantan is part English by birth and wholly so by cultivation. In that he evidently finds a mate in this Baldos."

"Then he really isn't Prince Dantan?" cried Beverly, as though a cherished idol had been shattered.

"Not if we are to believe the tales from the south. Here is another complication, however. There is, as you know, Count Halfont, and perhaps all of you, for that matter, a pretender to the throne of Axphain, the fugitive Prince Frederick. He is described as young, good looking, a scholar and the next thing to a [illegible]."

"Baldos a mere pretender!" cried Beverly in distress. "Never!"

"At any rate, he is not what he pretends to be," said the baron, with a wise smile.

"Then you think he may be Prince Frederick?" asked Lorry, deeply interested.

"I am inclined to think so, although another complication has arisen. May it please your highness, I am in an exceedingly [illegible] state of mind," admitted the baron, passing his hand over his brow.

"Do you mean that another mysterious prince has come to life?" asked Yetive, her eyes sparkling with interest in the revelation.

"Early this morning a dispatch came to me from the Grand Duke Michael of Rapp-Thorberg, a duchy in western Europe, informing me that the duke's eldest son had fled from home and is known to have come to the far east, possibly to Graustark."

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Anguish. "It never rains but it hails, so here's hail to the princes three."

"We are the Mecca for runaway royalty, it seems," said Count Halfont.

"Go on with the story, Baron Dangloss," cried the princess. "It is like a book."

"A description of the young man accompanies the offer of a large reward for information that may lead to his return home for reconciliation, and"—here the baron paused dramatically.

"And what?" interjected Beverly, who could not wait.

"The description fits our friend Baldos perfectly!"

"You don't mean it?" exclaimed Lorry. "Then he may be any one of the three you have mentioned?"

"Let me tell you what the grand duke's secretary says. I have the official notice, but left it in my desk. The runaway son of the grand duke is called Christobal. He is twenty-seven years of age, speaks English fluently, besides French and our own language. It seems that he attended an English college with Prince Dantan and some of our own young men who are still in England. Six weeks ago he disappeared from his father's home. At the same time a dozen wild and venturous retainers left the grand duchy. The party was seen in Vienna a week later, and the young duke boldly announced that he was off to the east to help his friend Dantan in the fight for his throne. Going on the theory that Baldos is this same Christobal we have only to provide a reason for his preferring the wilds to the comforts of our cities. In the first place, he knows there is a large reward for his apprehension and he fears our police. In the second place, he does not care to direct the attention of Prince Dantan's foes to himself. He missed Dantan in the hills and doubtless was lost for weeks, but the true reason for his flight is made plain in the story that was printed recently in Paris and Berlin newspapers. According to them, Christobal rebelled against his father's right to select a wife for him. The grand duke had chosen a noble and wealthy bride, and the son had selected a beautiful girl from the lower walks of life. Father and son quarreled and neither would give an inch. Christobal would not marry his father's choice, and the grand duke would not sanction his union with the fair plebeian."

Here Beverly exclaimed proudly: "He doesn't look like the sort of man who could be bullied into marrying anybody if he didn't want to."

"And he strikes me as the sort who would marry any one he set his heart upon having," added the princess, with a taunting glance at Miss Calhoun.

"Umph!" sniffed Beverly defiantly. The baron went on with his narrative, exhibiting signs of excitement.

"To lend color to the matter, Christobal's sweetheart, the daughter of a game warden, was murdered the night before her lover fled. I know nothing of the circumstances attending the crime, but it is my understanding that Christobal is not suspected. It is possible that he is ignorant even now of the girl's fate."

"Well, by the gods, we have a goodly lot of heroes about us!" exclaimed Larry.

"But, after all," ventured the Countess Halfont, "Baldos may be none of these men."

"Good heavens, Aunt Yvonne, don't suggest anything so distressing," said Yetive. "He must be one of them."

"I suggest a speedy way of determining the matter," said Anguish. "Let us send for Baldos and ask him point blank who he is. I think it is up to him to clear away the mystery."

"No!" cried Beverly, starting to her feet.

"It seems to be the only way," said Lorry.

"But I promised him that no questions should be asked," said Beverly, almost tearfully, but quite resolutely. "Didn't I, Yet—your highness?"

"Alas, yes!" said the princess, with a pathetic smile of resignation, but with loyalty in the clasp of her hand.

CHAPTER XIV.

THAT same afternoon Baldos, blissfully ignorant of the stir he had created in certain circles, rode out for the first time as a member of the castle guard. He and Haddan were detailed by Colonel Quinnox to act as private escort to Miss Calhoun until otherwise ordered. If Haddan thought himself wiser than Baldos in knowing that their charge was not the princess he was very much mistaken. If he enjoyed the trick that was being played on his fellow guardsman his enjoyment was as nothing when compared to the pleasure Baldos was deriving from the situation.

The royal victoria was driven to the fortress, conveying the supposed princess and the Countess Dagmar to the home of Count Marlanx. The two guards rode bravely behind the equipage, resplendent in brilliant new uniforms. Baldos was mildly surprised and puzzled by the homage paid the young American girl. It struck him as preposterous that the entire population of Edelweiss could be in the game to deceive him.

"Who is the princess' companion?" he inquired of Haddan as they left the castle grounds.

"The Countess Dagmar, cousin to her highness. She is the wife of Mr. Anguish."

"I have seen her before," said Baldos, a strange smile on his face.

The Countess Dagmar found it difficult at first to meet the eye of the new guard, but he was so punctiliously oblivious that her courage was restored. She even went so far as to whisper in Beverly's ear that he did not remember her face and probably would not recognize Yetive as one of the eavesdroppers. The princess had flatly refused to accompany them on the visit to the fortress because of Baldos. Struck by a sudden impulse, Beverly called Baldos to the side of the vehicle.

"Baldos, you behaved very nicely yesterday in exposing the duplicity of those young women," she said.

"I am happy to have pleased your highness," he said steadily.

"It may interest you to know that they ceased to be ladies in waiting after that exposure."

"Yes, your highness, it certainly is interesting," he said as he fell back into position beside Haddan. During the remainder of the ride he caught himself time after time gazing reflectively at the back of her proud little head, possessed of an almost uncontrollable desire to touch the soft brown hair.

"You can't fool that excellent young man much longer, my dear," said the countess, recalling the look in his dark eyes. The same thought had been afflicting Beverly with its probabilities for twenty-four hours and more.

Count Marlanx welcomed his visitors with a graciousness that awoke wonder in the minds of his staff. His marked preference for the American girl did not escape attention. Some of the bolder young officers indulged in surreptitious grimaces, and all looked with more or less compassion upon the happy faced beauty from over the sea. Marlanx surveyed Baldos steadily and coldly, deep disapproval in his sinister eyes. He had not forgotten the encounter of the day before.

"I see the favorite is on guard," he said blandly. "Has he told you of the lesson in manners he enjoyed last night?" He was leading his guests toward the quarters, Baldos and Haddan following. The new guard could not help hearing the sarcastic remark.

"You didn't have him beaten?" cried Beverly, stopping short.

"No, but I imagine it would have been preferable. I talked with him for half an hour," said the general, laughing significantly.

When the party stopped at the drinking fountain in the center of the fort Baldos halted near by. His face was as impassive as marble, his eyes set straight before him, his figure erect and soldierly. An occasional sarcastic remark by the Iron Count, meant for his ears, made no impression upon the deadly composure of the new guard who had had his lesson. Miss Calhoun was conscious of a vague feeling that she had served Baldos an ill turn when she put him into this position.

The count provided a light luncheon in his quarters after the ladies had gone over the fortress. Beverly Calhoun, with all of a woman's indifference to things material, could not but see how poorly equipped the fort was as compared to the ones she had seen in the United States. She and the countess visited the armory, the arsenal and the repair shops before luncheon, reserving the pleasures of the clubhouse, the officers' quarters and the parade ground until afterward. Count Marlanx's house was in the southeast corner of the inclosure, near the gates. Several of the officers lunched with him and the young ladies. Marlanx was assiduous in his attention to Beverly Calhoun, so much so, in fact, that the countess teased her afterward about her conquest of the old and well worn heart. Beverly thought him extremely silly and sentimental, much preferring him in the character of the harsh, implacable martinet.

At regular intervals she saw the straight, martial form of Baldos pass the window near which she sat. He was patrolling the narrow piazza which fronted the house. Toward the close of the rather trying luncheon she was almost unable to control the impulse to rush out and compel him to relax that imposing, machine-like stride. She hungered for a few minutes of the old time freedom with him.

The Iron Count was showing her some rare antique bronzes he had collected in the south. The luncheon was over, and the countess had strolled off toward the bastions with the young officers, leaving Beverly alone with the host. Servants came in to clear the tables, but the count harshly ordered them to wait until the guests had departed.

"It is the dearest thing I have seen," said Beverly, holding a rare old candlestick at arm's length and looking at it in as many ways as the wrist could turn. Her loose sleeves ended just below the elbows. The count's eyes followed the graceful curves of her white forearm with an eagerness that was annoying.

"I prize it more dearly than any other piece in my collection," he said. "It came from Rome. It has a history which I shall try to tell you some day and which makes it almost invaluable. A German nobleman offered me a small fortune if I would part with it."

"And you wouldn't sell it?"

"I was saving it for an occasion, your highness," he said, his steely eyes glittering. "The glad hour has come when I can part with it for a recompense far greater than the baron's gold."

"Oh, isn't it lucky you kept it?" she cried. Then she turned her eyes away quickly, for his gaze seemed greedily endeavoring to pierce through the lace insertion covering her neck and shoulders. Outside the window the steady tramp of the tall guard went on monotonously.

"The recompense of a sweet smile, a tender blush and the unguarded thanks of a pretty woman. The candlestick is yours, Miss Calhoun—if you will repay me for my sacrifice by accepting it without reservation."

Slowly Beverly Calhoun set the candlestick down upon the table, her eyes meeting his with steady disdain.

"What a rare old jester you are, Count Marlanx," she said without a smile. "If I thought you were in earnest I should scream with laughter. May I suggest that we join the countess? We must hurry along, you know. She and I have promised to play tennis with the princess at 3 o'clock." The count's glare of disappointment lasted but a moment. The diplomacy of egotism came to his relief, and he held back the gift for another day, but not for another woman.

"It grieves me to have you hurry away. My afternoon is to be a dull one unless you permit me to watch the tennis game," he said.

"I thought you were interested only in the game of war," she said pointedly.

"I stand in greater awe of a tennis ball than I do of a cannon ball, if it is sent by such an arm as yours," and he not only laid his eyes, but his hand, upon her bare arm. She started as if something had stung her, and a cold shiver raced over her warm flesh. His eyes for the moment held her spellbound. He was drawing the hand to his lips when a shadow darkened the French window, and a saber rattled warningly.

Count Marlanx looked up instantly, a scowl on his face. Baldos stood at the window in an attitude of alert attention. Beverly drew her arm away spasmodically and took a step toward the window. The guard saw by her eyes that she was frightened; but, if his heart beat violently, his face was the picture of military stoniness.

"What are you doing there?" snarled the count.

"Did your highness call?" asked Baldos coolly.

"She did not call, fellow!" said the count, with deadly menace in his voice. "Report to me in half an hour. You still have something to learn, I see." Beverly was alarmed by the threat in his tones. She saw what was in store for Baldos, for she knew quite as well as Marlanx that the guard had deliberately intervened in her behalf.

"He cannot come in half an hour!" she cried quickly. "I have something for him to do, Count Marlanx. Besides, I think I did call." Both men stared at her.

"My ears are excellent," said Marlanx stiffly.

"I fancy Baldos' must be even better, for he heard me," said Beverly, herself once more. The shadow of a smile crossed the face of the guard.

"He is impertinent, insolent, your highness. You will report to me tomorrow, sir, at 9 o'clock in Colonel Quinnox's quarters. Now, go!" commanded the count.

"Wait a minute, Baldos. We are going out too. Will you open that window for me?" Baldos gladly took it as a command and threw open the long French window. She gave him a grateful glance as she stepped through, and he could scarcely conceal the gleam of joy that shot into his own eyes. The dark scowl on the count's face made absolutely no impression upon him. He closed the window and followed ten paces behind the couple.

"Your guard is a priceless treasure," said the count grimly.

"That's what you said about the candlestick," said she sweetly.

She was disturbed by his threat to reprimand Baldos. For some time her mind had been struggling with what the count had said about "the lesson." It grew upon her that her friend had been baffled and humiliated, perhaps in the presence of spectators. Resentment fired her curiosity into action. While the general was explaining one of the new gun carriages to the countess Beverly walked deliberately over to where Baldos was standing. Haddan's knowledge of English was exceedingly limited, and he could understand but little of the rapid conversation. Standing squarely in front of Baldos, she questioned him in low tones.

"What did he mean when he said he had given you a lesson?" she demanded. His eyes gleamed merrily.

"He meant to alarm your highness."

"Didn't he give you a talking to?"

"He coached me in ethics."

"You are evading the question, sir. Was he mean and nasty to you? Tell me; I want to know."

"Well, he said things that a soldier must endure. A civilian or an equal might have run him through for it, your highness." A flush rose to his cheeks, and his lips quivered ever so slightly. But Beverly saw and understood. Her heart was in her eyes.

"That settles it," she said rigidly. "You are not to report to him at 9 tomorrow."

"But he will have me shot, your highness," said he gladly.

"He will do nothing of the kind. You are my guard." And her eyes were gleaming dangerously. Then she rejoined the group, the members of which had been watching her curiously. "Count Marlanx," she said, with entrancing dimples, "will you report to me at 9 tomorrow morning?"

"I have an appointment," he said slowly, but with understanding.

"But you will break it, I am sure," she asserted confidently. "I want to give you a lesson in—in lawn tennis."

Later on, when the victoria was well away from the fort, Dagmar took her companion to task for holding in public friendly discourse with a member of the guard, whoever he might be.

"It is altogether contrary to custom and"— But Beverly put her hand over the critical lips and smiled like a guilty child.

"Now, don't scold," she pleaded, and the countess could go no further.

The following morning Count Marlanx reported at 9 o'clock with much better grace than he had suspected himself capable of exercising. What she taught him of tennis on the royal courts in the presence of an amused audience was as nothing to what he learned of strategy as it can be practiced by a whimsical girl. Almost before he knew it she had won exemption for Baldos, that being the stake for the first set of singles. To his credit, the count was game. He took the wager, knowing that he in his ignorance could not win from the blithe young expert in petticoats. Then he offered to wager the brass candlestick against her bracelet. She considered for a moment and then in a spirit of enthusiasm accepted the proposition. After all, she coveted the candlestick. Half an hour later an orderly was riding to the fort with instructions to return at once with Miss Calhoun's candlestick. It is on record that they were "love" sets, which goes to prove that Beverly took no chances.

Count Marlanx, puffing and perspiring, his joints dismayed and his brain confused, rode away at noon with Baron Dangloss. Beverly, quite happy in her complete victory, enjoyed a nap of profound sweetness and then was ready for her walk with the princess. They were strolling leisurely about the beautiful grounds, safe in the shade of the trees from the heat of the July sun, when Baron Dangloss approached.

"Your royal highness," he began, with his fierce smile, "may I beg a moment's audience?"

"It has to do with Baldos, I'll take oath," said Beverly with conviction.

"Yes, with your guard. Yesterday he visited the fortress. He went in an official capacity, it is true, but he was privileged to study the secrets of our defense with alarming freedom. It would not surprise me to find that this stranger has learned everything there is to know about the fort." His listeners were silent. The smiles left their faces. "I am not saying that he would betray us"—

"No, no!" protested Beverly.

—"but he is in a position to give the most valuable information to an enemy. An officer has just informed me that Baldos missed not a detail in regard to the armament or the location of vital spots in the construction of the fortress."

"But he wouldn't be so base as to use his knowledge to our undoing!" cried Yetive seriously.

To be continued.

EAST CITY RESIDENTS HAD NO WATER

Bursting of Pipe on Hunter St. Cause of the Trouble

The residents of Ashburnham suffered a great inconvenience Saturday evening and all day yesterday until about six o'clock, by the water supply being cut off. Many who had had not been previously warned were obliged to carry what water they need at some distance. The old reliable pump is the best after all and those who had not one on their property yesterday were seen going to their neighbors carrying pails.

The cause of all the trouble was the bursting of a pipe near the McAllister Milling Co., on Hunter St., the water soaked into the drain which was filled over with earth causing it to sink about two and a half feet. The land above the roadway was flooded.

The employees of the Waterworks Company worked all last night and today making the necessary repairs.

Dying Words of Some of the World's Famous Men.

Nothnagel, who died alone in his room, noted his own symptoms to the last. A letter to his assistant is said to have ended as follows: "Written late on the evening of July 6 just after experiencing these severe attacks—died of calcification of the arteries." Traube also made observations on himself to the very end. Locock expressed a wish to be present at the postmortem examination on himself, and among Cuvier's last recorded words is a remark, as his fingers twitched involuntarily: "Charles Bell is right: 'Ce sont les nerfs de la volonte qui sont malades.'" Dyce Davidson, professor at Aberdeen, died immediately after saying to his class, speaking of the next meeting, which was never to take place, "Four o'clock on Monday, gentlemen; 4 o'clock."

Several doctors have taken their leave with a blessing to those around them. Astley Cooper's last recorded words are, "God bless you, and goodby to you all!" He had previously said to his physicians, Bright and Chambers, "God's will be done; God bless you both!" adding, "You must excuse me, but I shall take no more medicine." Benjamin Brodie was heard to mutter, "After all, God is very good." The saddest of all recorded last words are probably those of Oliver Goldsmith, who, when asked by his physician if his mind was at ease, said, "No, it is not!" On the other hand, William Hunter's mind seems to have been full of bright thoughts at the moment of death, for he said, "If I could hold a pen, what a book I could write!"

Pasteur and Darwin, though not belonging to the medical profession, are venerated by it as teachers. Darwin's last words were, "I am not the least afraid to die." Pasteur was offered a cup of milk and, being unable to swallow it, murmured, "I cannot." He passed away with one hand in his wife's, the other grasping a crucifix. Lastly are mentioned the last words of Mirabeau, which are said to have been addressed to a doctor. He wrote on a slip of paper, which he gave to his physician, the philosopher Cabanis, the single word, "Dormir." Another account, which may be an expanded version of this, is that after begging for an anodyne he said reproachfully to the doctor: "Were you not my physician and my friend? Did you not promise to spare me the suffering of such a death? Must I go away carrying with me the regret of having confided in you?" This is rather a long and rhetorical speech for a dying man.—British Medical Journal.

Japanese New Year Cakes.

An annual event in Japan is the making of the New Year's cake, which every family must have if good luck is to follow it during the ensuing year. This cake is made of a peculiar variety of rice, boiled and pounded in a great wooden mortar until it is of the consistency of dough. Although the pure white dough is often colored yellow or pink, the shape of the cake is always the same—that of the sacred mirror, one of the three sacred symbols of the Shinto faith. A piece of this cake is offered to the Shinto deities because it is of the shape of the sacred mirror which wooed the sun goddess to come out of the cave where she had hidden herself in wrath and thus saved the land from total darkness. Each member of the family takes a hand in the manufacture of the New Year's cake. Even the baby is carried out and his baby hand guided in lifting the heavy wooden mallet for a "good luck" blow. Enough is made to last nearly the whole year through, and it occupies an important place in the daily menu.—Leslie's Weekly.

Queer Fish.

At first thought the electric chair, which sends the criminal to his doom, would seem to be a refinement of invention possible only to man's genius. But the electric eel can benumb a horse so that it will drown before recovering from the shock, and the fiercest fish is rendered helpless by the gentlest touch of this creature. Small wonder these eels flourish in their native waters and seldom fail to find food enough and to spare!

At any rate, the gentleman angler casting his fly upon the ripple is unique. Surely no animal can match the rod and line! Yet there is a fish with a long, slender filament drooping forward from its head, tipped with a fleshy, wormlike appendage. The fish lies quietly on the bottom and awaits a nibble. Soon a minnow makes a dash for the waving luscious morsel. The huge mouth opens, and—the finny angler has dined! A veritable Shylock this, with rod, line and bait of his own flesh and bone!

When the Nose Bleeds.

When the nose is bleeding never hold it over a basin or hold the head down in any way. This only causes further rush of blood to the broken tissues in the nose. The head should be held up and back, the flow being caught in handkerchiefs or cloths. One of the most effective and simple means of checking a nosebleed is to press on the upper lip. Near the undersurface of the lip runs the artery that supplies the interior nasal passages where the ruptures occur. If this is pressed, the flow of blood is mechanically checked, thus allowing the blood around the broken tissues to congeal and seal up the opening. If merely pressing with the finger does not succeed, place a wad of paper under the lip and fold the lip over it, holding it down tight. Again, if this does not succeed and a drug store is near get some adrenalin, saturate a piece of cotton with it and apply to the interior of the nose from where the blood flows.

DISCOVERY THAT AVERTED WRECK

Young Man's Quick Action Saved Terrible Disaster—Piece of Rail Was Missing and He Flagged Cobalt Special—Mr. A. J. McClellan Saw Bowin Who Was on Trial for Murder at Detroit.

Mr. A. J. McClellan, of this city, tells of an escape from death on Monday night that was little short of miraculous. He was travelling from Toronto on the C.P.R. to Cobalt on the special and when the train was about a mile and a half south of Orillia it was signalled and brought to a sudden stop.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

The time the train was signalled was about eleven o'clock at night, and the story of the reason why it was given is told in the most concise form as follows:—A young man, accompanied by a young lady, who, it is supposed, was employed at the asylum in Orillia, were walking down the track, and when about two hundred yards from the asylum building the young lady exclaimed, "Is that a coat on the track?"

Her escort immediately investigated, and found, to his surprise, that a solid chunk about a foot in length and been removed from one of the rails. The Cobalt special was approaching at a high rate of speed, and if a wreck, and probably the loss of numerous lives was to be averted, quick action was necessary.

The young man ran to the asylum, and securing a lantern, waved it on the track. The engineer, seeing the signal, stopped the engine as soon as he could, bringing it to a standstill at about two hundred feet from the place where the piece of rail was removed.

PORTER TELLS OF INCIDENT.

The porter of the train was among those who went to make investigations when the train was stopped. When he returned to the sleeper the only two passengers on board who were awake were Mr. McClellan and a Mr. McMurrich.

"We have just had a very narrow escape from a wreck," he said.

"What was it?" they asked, in surprise, and he told them of the happening as related above. It was probably one of the closest shaves in the history of railroading, and the prompt action of the young man saved Canada from another of those lamentable disasters.

HOW WAS PIECE REMOVED?

How the piece of rail came to be removed is a mystery. It is not known whether it was the malicious work of some evil person or whether it was due simply to some accident or heavy concussion. At any rate it was out, and it was an incalculably lucky thing that its absence was discovered. The missing chunk of rail was found near the track.

SAW BOWIN AT BLACKWATER.

On Friday, while changing cars at Blackwater, the passengers got news of the fact that Bowin, who was acquitted of murder the other day after his famous trial at Detroit, was going to pass through Blackwater on his way to his home at Woodville.

Those who learned the intelligence were naturally anxious to see a man who had achieved such a wide notoriety and were on the lookout for him when he came to Blackwater.

HE LOOKED WELL.

Mr. McClellan states that Bowin did not have the appearance of a man who had gone through the long and trying ordeal of a trial for his life. He was accompanied by his mother, who, according to press despatches, had suffered acute mental agony during the progress of the trail.

He was quietly and neatly dressed and looked rather fresh and healthy.

FIRST STREET SERVICE ATTRACTED LARGE CROWD

Conducted by Ministerial Association To-day at Noon—Rev. W. D. Reid, of Montreal, Delivered Earnest Address.

The first of the street services to be conducted at the corner of George and Hunter streets, by the Ministerial Association was held today at noon and was most successful and encouraging. The street service is an innovation in this city, but judging from the enthusiastic way, not only the clergy but the people in general entered into it is a guarantee for its future success in Peterborough. The service attracted a large crowd and they manifested a deep interest and reverence throughout the 20 minutes that it was held.

Rev. W. D. Reid, pastor of Taylor Presbyterian church, Montreal, delivered the address which was a strong appeal to all to concentrate their lives in Jesus Christ. The service was opened with the hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," which was heartily sung by everyone present. Rev. Canon Davidson then offered prayer, after which Rev. Mr. Reid gave his address. Mr. Reid is an earnest and forcible speaker, and his words today could not do otherwise but impress all who heard him and a great spiritual awakening in the lives of many is bound to be the result.

Rev. Mr. Reid said that what every one needed nowadays was power. People want power financially spiritually and in every other way. The power of the locomotive has replaced the stage coach and the power of electricity has made rapid advances in the progress of industry. The chief and all important thing is power.

There is a certain magnetism about the Christian, said the preacher, that denotes the presence in his life of the power of Jesus Christ. The Montreal divine referred to a speaker he once heard in his city whose address was strongly atheistic and skeptical. He had to have a brass band playing to draw a crowd, his discourse lacked magnetism.

In concluding the reverend gentleman urged his hearers to let Christ guide them and control their lives. If they would believe on Him, their lifes would be made happy. He thanked his hearers for their attention.

Canon Davidson brought the meeting to a close by pronouncing the benediction.

At the conclusion of the service a meeting of the Ministerial Association was held in a local office, when plans for the remainder of the services were made. Rev. Mr. Reid was heartily thanked by the association for his presence at the meeting and the strong and appealing address he delivered.

Rev. Mr. Pogue of St. Paul's church, will give the address tomorrow.

YOUNG LAD WAS HEAVILY FINED FOR PILFERING

Pleaded Guilty to Stealing Thirty Dollars From Well Known Citizen—Fine Was Paid

The young fellow of seventeen years who was remanded on Friday last on a charge of stealing thirty dollars from a well-known citizen, appeared before His Worship Magistrate Dumble this morning, and changed his plea of not guilty to that of guilty. He was fined $20 and costs, amounting to $30.50. Mr. E. A. Peck was present on his behalf and asked for the leniency of the Court. He drew attention to the fact that if a boy at his age was sent to gaol where he would be associated with criminals, a black mark would be placed on his character for the rest of his life. The counsel asked that the youth be given another chance, and that no more severe punishment be meted out to him than to allow him to go on suspended sentence.

His Worship thought that the best system of punishment was to impose a fine. He fined him twenty dollars and costs, amounting to $30.50, to be paid forthwith, or three months in gaol. The boy's uncle paid the required amount.

IS CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

Geo. Hepburn Arrested at Kingston—Had Married Annie Sandy of Peterboro'

Kingston, April 12.—George Hepburn, Stewart street, this city, second engineer of the steamer Advance, is under arrest on a charge of bigamy, preferred by his second wife's father. The arrest, it is said, was the result of some row. Eight years ago Hepburn married Annie Sandy, near Peterborough, and lived with her six years. Then they separated. Hepburn says he received word from Hall & Hays, barristers, Peterborough, that his wife had secured a divorce and alimony from him. On January 2nd last he married Eva Smith, daughter of Edward Smith, Storrington.

AN EXPRESSION OF GOOD WILL

Mr. Joseph Maher Was Presented With Address of Appreciation by T.A.S. Yesterday

At yesterday's meeting of the T.A.S. in St. Peter's hall, Mr. Joseph Maher, who has been a valuable member of the organization since it was formed, was presented with an appreciative address by his fellow members, the address being read by Mr. W. S. Merrill. It was signed by Messrs. P. O'Donnel, president; W. S. Merrill, 1st vice president, and Vincent Corkery, secretary, who was appointed to that position through the retirement of Mr. Maher.

Mr. Maher has filled every office in the society from guard to president. He has been a most valuable and energetic member, and his departure for Lindsay will be a great loss to that body. Mr. Maher was extended the best wishes of the large gathering.

The address was as follows:

Peterborough, April 12

Joseph Maher, Esq.,

Dear Sir and Brother,—On the eve of your leaving Peterborough, to let some more "daylight" into the clothing business of our sister town of Lindsay, the members of St. Peter's TAS. cannot let you depart without giving expression to their appreciation of your worth, and the loss we are about to sustain. While we can only touch lightly at present on the value which you have been to our Society, we can all unite in testifying to your great zeal for the welfare and progress of its members.

As one of our Honorary ex-Presidents we have been indebted to you for the enthusiasm you have displayed in your office, and for the good judgment you have shown in matters coming before our meetings. As our Recording Secretary we have all been impressed with your untiring love for the Order, as well as for the sacrifice of time, which you have always been ready to make in order to discharge the many official duties which the Society has called upon you to perform.

Time is too short, space does not permit, and words are incapable of expressing to you our heartfelt gratitude and kind regards for your untiring labors, undaunted courage, and persistent efforts towards the cause of Temperance.

That we will miss you from our councils is therefore but natural, but we know that you will always be with us in spirit. It is our earnest wish that you may prosper in your new field of labor and become a strength to our cause among those with whom you may come in contact. Remember that in years to come, that no honor can come to you that will not cause hearts to beat in sympathy here.

With kindest wishes for Mrs. Maher and family we bid you God speed.

Signed on behalf of the members of St. Peter's TAS.

STRUCK MAN IN THE FACE WITH TUMBLERS

Young Man Heavily Fined in the Police Court

For assaulting Stephen Holland at the Royal Hotel on Thursday night last, a resident of this city was fined ten dollars to be paid forthwith. He had not the money, but a friend came to his assistance and very kindly paid the fine. The prisoner pleaded guilty.

It appears that in a row caused by the refusal to give the defendant any more liquor, he picked up three empty glasses and hurled them at Mr. Holland. One struck him in the face, while another hit him on the arm. After hearing the complainant's story His Worship imposed the above fine.

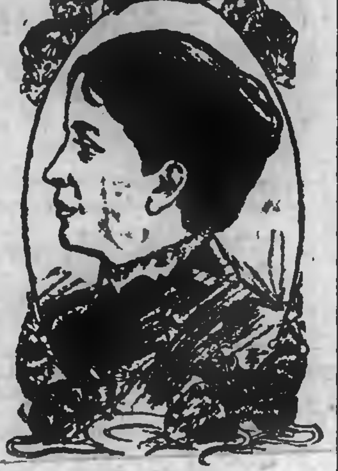
Woman's World

MISS ABBIE LATHROP.

She Runs a Rat and Waltzing Mouse Farm.

The proverbial and traditional horror of women for mice has been dispelled by Miss Abbie Lathrop of Granby, Mass., who has developed a mouse and rat farm to such an extent that she has over 2,000 rodents. In addition to the mice and rats, she has upward of 200 guinea pigs and a large number of ferrets as well as several hundred waltzing mice.

At first her mice went wholly to bird stores and fanciers to be sold again as pets, and this proved a very profitable avenue for her. Particularly was this true because in recent years mice have figured so extensively in window displays and with training developed a capacity for some quite marvelous stunts.



MISS ABBIE LATHROP.

She next opened up a still more promising field of activities, what promises to be her best paying line. The medical colleges of the country in their anxiety to conduct experiments are eager to try their theories on animals and have found mice about as good material as they can work with. How to get them has long been a problem, but now the medical departments of various institutions throughout the country have become regular customers of Miss Lathrop, who ships to them every month specified numbers of mice that are to be used in these medical college experiments.

Nonalcoholic Cocktails.

As an introduction to a course dinner the alcoholic cocktail is under the ban not only of temperance people, but also of those who understand the art of delicate dining. When whisky, rum or other strong alcoholic beverages are used, their pungent flavor destroys the appetizing effect of the hors d'oeuvre and seriously retards the processes of digestion. On this account the clam, the oyster, the various fruit cocktails and even those of appetizing herbs are used, their object being to stimulate but not cloy the appetite. From Germany comes a decoction of herbs put up in bottles for this special purpose. The cost, however, being about $2 a small bottle, makes it almost too expensive for ordinary use. Quite similar in taste and effect is the West Point cocktail, made in this way:

West Point Cocktail.—Fill a glass with shaved ice. Add a scant teaspoonful of lime juice, two or three dashes of orange, angostura or dandelion bitters and sugar or rock candy sirup to sweeten. Shake well, strain into a cocktail glass, put a twist of lemon peel on top and serve.

Mint Cocktail.—Crush a bunch of mint by rubbing each leaf with a wooden masher. Pull in bits, then soak half an hour in the strained juice of two lemons and the carefully grated yellow rind of one. Put a pint each of water and granulated sugar to cook until the sirup spins a fine thread, take from the fire and stir in the juice of a large orange and the lemon and mint. Let stand on the ice until very cool; then serve in small glasses, a spoonful of chipped ice being placed in the bottom of each cup.

Cranberry Cocktail In Lemon Cups.—Cook three pints of cranberries in an equal quantity of water about ten minutes or until the berries are soft. Strain. Add the juice of three oranges, three lemons and three cups of sugar. Freeze to a stiff mush or simply turn in with shaved ice. Serve in lemon cups, the edges of which have been cut in tiny points with scissors, then the skins chilled in the ice or in cold water.

Grape Fruit Cocktail.—For each glass allow four tablespoonfuls of grape fruit juice and a tablespoonful of sugar sirup and grape juice. Pour into a glass of shaved ice, shake thoroughly and then pour into the small glass from which the cocktail is to be served, adding to each a small section of the grape fruit pulp from which every suspicion of white fiber has been removed.

Women the Greatest Dreamers.

The state of dreaming has at all times attracted the attention of physiologists, and the study of this subject has occupied many moralists. All or almost all of us dream, and for that reason all seek a solution of this interesting problem. Dreams resemble reality so strangely that one wishes to find the actual cause of these mysterious reminiscences or fantastic divinations which fatally escape the action of the will.

We cannot even direct our dreams as we wish. They come of themselves without any invitation on our part, and they disappear without any possibility of our retaining them. Happy or somber, joyous or sad, they always preserve their mysterious origin for us.

Dreams are, properly speaking, not only a direct consequence of the memory in repose; they constitute its primordial factor. They are less frequent when the repose results normally from rational fatigue, and therefore adults in good health, for example, dream much less frequently than old men, and their dreams are generally happy ones.

This again accounts for the greater frequency of dreams in women. The statistical side of the question has recently interested a Vienna doctor, who has published the following figures:

Thirteen men out of a hundred as against thirty-three women dream during their sleep.

The number of men who dream frequently is 27 per cent; that of women is 45 per cent. As a general rule, it may be said that the weaker sex has twice as much tendency to dreaming as the opposite sex.

The cerebral phenomenon under consideration is absolutely unknown to 9 per cent, and 14 per cent dream only very rarely.

It seems idle to add that the same doctor noted, what is perfectly well known, that almost all our dreams are suggested more or less directly by the incidents of the material life of every day.

Monkey Brand Soap cleans kitchen utensils, steel, iron and tinware, knives and forks, and all kinds of cutlery.

Daniel Webster's Favorite Pickle.

Chop rather fine one-half peck of green tomatoes, twenty-five cucumbers and fifteen white onions of good size. Slice two large heads of white cabbage. Pack in a large jar with salt between the layers and let stand for twenty-four hours. Drain and pour over the vegetables a scalding hot pickle made from three quarts of the best cider vinegar, three pounds brown sugar, one-half teacupful of turmeric, one-half cupful of black ground pepper, one ounce celery seed, three-quarters of a pound of white mustard seed and three or four ripe red tomatoes or their equivalent in canned. Scald well and pour over the drained vegetables. When cold mix one-quarter of a pound of mustard seed, a cupful of the best olive oil and a dessertspoonful of curry powder and one quart of vinegar and stir well through the pickle. This recipe is taken from the "Famous Old Recipes" contributed by the descendants of old Virginia families.

Dainty Accessories.

Every woman loves dainty accessories, and one of the prettiest of these trifles seen lately is an imported fan that is just the correct thing for a demitoilet.

The sticks are quite plain, of painted wood mounted with coarse black brussels net, on which are painted life size birds. Exquisite swallows, natural looking parrots, dainty love birds and graceful birds of paradise, all in their brilliant colorings, are represented. The sticks are either red or green.

They are much prettier than the description implies, for the net is almost invisible, and the effect is of a charming bird held aloft on a bright trellis.

Good Manners.

Manners are not like clothes. It's a bad thing to have two suits of them, one for best and one for every day. Wear your best manners all the time. They suffer more by being put away than by constant use. If you keep your best manners for company, they will fit you ill, and your visitor will suspect they were put on for him. Wear your second best clothes at home if you will, not your second best manners. To whom, in heaven's name, is it worth while to be courteous if not to the people you love best?—Harper's.

After Dinner Naps.

Complete relaxation after eating, a suspension of mental and physical activity, will favor the processes of natural digestion not only because of its tranquilizing effect upon the nerves, but because the stomach may use the surplus unused energies of the body in the processes of digestion. Happy the man or woman who can take an "after dinner nap." It means health, happiness and long life.—What to Eat.

When Prematurely Gray.

When the hair turns gray prematurely there is nothing to do but to take such excellent care of your thought dome covering that it will cease its process of color transforming. Take scalp treatments, which consist of electric brushing and massage. Use any good tonic, and get an egg shampoo every three weeks. Your glory crown will soon reform.

The Wrong Ticket.

An official of a railway once got leave to get married and was given a pass over the road. On his way back he gave to the ticket collector his marriage certificate instead of his pass. The latter studied it carefully for a few moments and then said, "My man, you have got a ticket for a long, wearisome journey, but not on this railway."—Woman's Life.

For a good cement mix the best powdered rice with a little cold water, slowly add boiling water till the right consistency is obtained; then pour into a saucepan and boil for a minute. This paste is almost transparent and well adapted for fancy paper work, for which a strong and colorless cement is required.

If tea or coffee be spilled on a woolen material, it may be removed by applying glycerin to the spot, afterward washing out the glycerin with water.

GROUP PHOTO OF STUDENTS

One of the Largest Ever Turned Out in Peterborough---At Roy Studio

The largest photographic group ever turned out in Peterborough with the exception of one gotten up for the Oddfellows some years ago, is under construction at the Roy Studio.

Mr. Roy has a number of orders for groups on hand, among which are the Ministerial Association, the Rough Riders Hockey team and one of the Y.M.C.A. Basketball team.

ELECTION NIGHTS.

One of the Five Saturnalia of New York City.

New York has five saturnalia every year—New Year's night, Decoration day, Fourth of July, election night and Thanksgiving—and not the least of these is election night. If it is a right first Tuesday of November, the daytime wind will be veering from west to south and back, sun and cloud will equally share the hours between them and a not unnatural quiet, as of political passions hushed under the blanket of the Australian ballot, will prevail. The streets will be rather emptied than filled, and the litter of straw and scrap paper and the ordure and other filth of the great slattern town will blow agreeably about under your feet and into your eyes and teeth. But with the falling of the night there will be a rise of the urban spirits; the sidewalks will thicken with citizens of all ages and sexes and nations, and if you will then seek some large center for the cinematographic dissemination of the election news you will find yourself one of a multitude gloating on the scenes of comedy and tragedy thrown up on the canvas to stay your impatience for the returns. Along the curbstones are stationed wagons for the sale of the wind and string instruments whose raw, harsh discords of whistling and twanging will begin with the sight of the vote from the first precinct. Meantime policemen, nervously fondling their clubs in their hands, hang upon the fringes of the crowd, which is yet so good natured that it seems to have no impulse but to lift children on its shoulders and put pretty girls before it and to caress old women and cripples into favorable positions, so that they may see better. You will wish to leave it before the clubbing begins and either go home to the slumbers which the whistling and twanging will duly attend or join the diners going into or coming out of the restaurants or the throngs strolling down into the fairy realms of Broadway under the flare of the whiskies and the actresses.—W. D. Howells in Harper's Magazine.

ANY ONE CAN HYPNOTIZE.

But It Cannot Be Accomplished With a Mere Glance.

Of course, whoever wants to hypnotise—in fact, no one but a physician ought to do it—must learn the technique and apply it patiently and skillfully. And certainly there are individual differences. Not every one can be deeply hypnotised. With not a few the inhibition goes no further than the inability to open the eyes, while only one out of four enters into strong hypnotic hallucinations. Further, not every one is well prepared to awaken that confidence which is essential and that feeling of repose which guides one over to the dreamy state. The look, the voice, the gestures, the phrases, the behavior, of certain persons make them poor hypnotisers, however well they may understand the tricks. But in principle everybody can hypnotise and can be hypnotised, just as in principle everybody can love and can be loved, and no special mysterious power is needed to fall in love or to awaken love.

Yet, while thus every one can exert hypnotic influence, no one can do it by a mere glance. All the stories of a secret influence by which one man's will gets hold of another man's mind are remains of the mesmeric theories of the past. Today we know that everything depends upon the attention and imagination of the hypnotised and that no mysterious fluid can flow over from the mind of the hypnotist to the mind of the subject. The old mystical view of unscientific superstition reached its climax in the prevalent belief that a man could exert secret influence from a distance without the victim's knowledge of the source of the uncanny distortion of his mind. According to this belief, every heinous crime might be committed under that cover. The distant hypnotiser could inflict pain and suffering on his enemy and could misuse the innocent as instruments of his criminal schemes.—Professor Hugo Munsterberg in McClure's Magazine.

TRENT VALLEY LACROSSE LEAGUE UNDER DISCUSSION

It Seems Very Probable That One Will be Formed—Meeting May be Held Here in Near Future

How about a Trent Valley Lacrosse League? A movement is on foot to organize one and a meeting will probably be called in Peterborough in the near future for the purpose of organizing one. It is understood that at least one team will be entered from Peterborough and all that is required now for the successful formation of the League is an expression of opinion from the surrounding villages as to the prospects they have for teams and with what favor they look upon the proposition of organizing the league.

TO WRITE TO OTHER PLACES.

Communications concerning the formation of the league will be sent to Marmora, Havelock, Hastings, Campbellford, Millbrook, Lindsay and Port Hope. It is thought teams representing most or all of these towns can be secured for the league. There seems every reason to believe that the league can be formed and with a large and flourishing membership. There has been nothing doing so far in the matter of getting a C.L.A. team together for Peterborough and as lacrosse under proper auspices is a game that takes in Peterborough it is to be sincerely hoped that the Trent Valley Lacrosse League will be a go.

It is three years ago since the league was in existence and then the TAS won the championship.

TOM SLATER ARRIVES AND IS IN GREAT CONDITION

Ready for the walk of his life, Tom Slater, of Buffalo, arrived in Peterborough this morning and will remain here till the big walking tournament is over. Tom is a likely looking chap and can be counted on to make them all step some at Brock street rink next week. He was second at Kansas City and also second in a six days' walking contest held at Trenton, N.J., a few days ago, England taking first place.

"Great weather you have here," said Tom to a Review representative "a little cool compared with Buffalo, but fine and bracing. I'm in fine shape for the big walk and expect to make a good showing although there are a lot of good ones entered.

Mr. Slater was shown around the city by Mr. George Stevens and expressed himself as greatly pleased with Peterborough.

FISHING NUMBER OF ROD AND GUN

April Number Devoted to the Piscatorial Art

With the advent of April the majority of sportsmen turn their thoughts to fishing, and "Rod and Gun & Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont., has published a Spring Fishing number for the month. There are stories of fishing in Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia, while an article descriptive of Kaliki—the new rod wood—is of deep interest to fishermen. A fine survey of the whole question of International Waters by Mr. C. H. Wilson is worth careful perusual, embodying as it does a long and careful study of the whole question from both sides. A paper on Guides and Their Patrons, written from a guide's point of view by a veteran guide ought to lead to a controversy as exciting as that on dogs versus still hunters. Wolf hunting, moose hunting, deer hunting and deer preservation are but a few of the many good things in the number, while How One Settler Helps the Deer, should prove as widespread in its interest as the former paper by the same settler on How One Settler Treats the Deer. Indeed the many excellencies of the number are apparent from the opening paper to the closing page.

MATCH LIKELY TO BE ARRANGED

Between "Gene" Hurtubuise and the American, Kennedy

"Gene" Hurtubuise was talking over the long distance 'phone on Saturday with the manager of Kennedy, the New York heavyweight wrestler and there is every indication that the proposed match between "Gene" and Kennedy will be made. In the event of it being held it will be pulled off in Peterborough and should prove a great drawing card for the local lovers of the mat game.

Steering by Music.

The astounding feat of steering a boat by singing to it has been accomplished by means of mechanism invented by Mr. John Gardner, of Fleetwood. It is well known that vibrations are produced by sounds. Mr. Gardner has succeeded in condensing the minute but widespread force of these vibrations, and has thus obtained power which, through a simple electrical mechanism of his own, he turns to many uses. He sings, on a certain musical note—it must be a fixed note—by the side of a pond, and the rudder of a little model-boat, fitted with Mr. Gardner's mechanism, turns and steers her round. Or, at his pleasure, he can start or stop the propeller by the same mechanism. Mr. Gardner can fire a gun, light a lamp, or ring a bell at a considerable distance by means of his invention. There is a far more important future before it, he claims, however, than is shown by these minor feats. Water is an excellent sound conductor, and by means of his invention—which practically amounts to a very elaborate system of mechanical sound signals—Mr. Gardner believes he will be able to ensure almost complete safety for vessels on the sea. The booming of a submerged bell through the water from a lightship would set mechanism at work in the submerged receiver of an approaching ship, which could be made to blow a whistle, or give warning in some other unmistakable way. Thus the human element, with its chance of error, as well as the difficulties of fog, would be removed. Submarine wireless, telegraphy—of incalculable value to war vessels—can also, Mr. Gardner claims, be established by means of his invention. Mr. Gardner will, in fact, give music a power which it has never possessed since "Orpheus with his lute made . . . . the mountain tops . . . bow themselves when he did sing."

SHAW SAYS DESPOT MUST DIE.

Irishman Analyzes Causes of Political Assassinations.

George Bernard Shaw, writing about the appalling frequency of political assassinations, after reviewing those since Alexander II. of Russia and referring to that of Charles I., says:

"Let me try to bring the question home to England. For 200 years our monarchs have run no risks. Our kings have adopted a liberal attitude so completely, that we have forgotten that it still is possible for kings to do what the late King of Portugal did.

"Our revolutions have been the general elections, swinging the pendulum between the Whigs and Tories, but the twentieth century brings a new force into the field—Socialism. Private property at present is supreme over both King and Parliament, and may, within the lifetime of many now living, be defending is last ditch.

"Suppose the next four general elections show such a steady increase of Socialists in Parliament as to make it a practical certainty that the fifth general election would place them in majority.

"Suppose the only way of averting that would be to repeal the last two great reform acts or the introduction of the three class system, with the establishment of a Franco dictatorship to suppress public demonstrations against the measures.

"Suppose the propertied classes of the Government of the day should compel the reigning monarch to countenance these proceedings.

"Suppose he, having taken a political bias, not like Edward in the heyday of Victorian liberalism, but in the heyday of jingo Imperialism, and were to throw himself heart and soul into the attack on democracy.

"What should we do? What would our remedy be against the King?

"The English answer so far is 'kill him.'

"The French answer so far is 'kill him.'

"The Russian answer so far is 'kill him.'

"The Portuguese answer so far is 'kill him.'

"The ancient Roman answer glorified to the utmost of his power by our greatest poet was 'kill him.'

"No sane humane person can be satisfied with that answer, but it stands and will continue to stand until a better one is found."

Silent Maxim Gun.

A remarkable apparatus has been invented by an Indian official, which seems likely to revolutionize machine gun fire. The object of the invention is to silence the tell-tale noise of the machine gun, thus increasing its value in the field.

The inventor is Mr. Alfred Thompson, who is serving on the Indian establishment as chief examiner of machine guns.

The instant crack of the Maxim is reduced by the invention to a slight detonation, which is indistinguishable beyond a range of 500 yards. At present machine gun fire can be heard thousands of yards off, and no matter how good or rapid it may be, the field batteries discover the guns and rout them before they can become a danger.

The role of the machine gun is, therefore, one of secret opportunity to strike a body of troops by surprise with 600 shots per minute, as with the Maxim, and then lie low. But if the gun can operate in silence its possibilities are sensibly widened, not only by reason of its demoralising effect, but because a steady, nonoverheating discharge of 100 a minute can be maintained from time to time throughout an action.

Mr. Thompson's apparatus can be attached to a Maxim in a couple of minutes. It weighs 16 pounds, and is less than a foot in length. The Maxim authorities have submitted it to the Home Government.

Lion Liked Kilts.

A droll sensation, if the description may be pardoned, was witnessed at Collins' Fun City, Old Gill street market, Liverpool, when Miss Carrie Baker, a barmaid, entered the den in which a magnificent lion, by name Wallace, was confined. The young lady was dressed in Highland costume, and to win a wager of $250 she was to dance for Wallace. She entered the cage boldly, and started a hornpipe, going through her steps with conspicuous skill and ability. Scottish bagpipes played lively tunes in the arena, but Wallace bore up well, merely roaring his applause. Miss Baker was accompanied into the lion's den by Maccomo, the tamer. After Miss Baker had gone through her act she came quietly out of the den, the lion glancing sadly at the retreating kilts. So successful was the exhibition that the proprietors decided at once to engage Miss Baker to enter the lion's den nightly until further notice. Miss Baker, of course, won the wager, and was presented by the proprietor with a check for that amount. When an attempt was made by another person to enter the adjoining den of a tigress the result was not so peaceful, though happily no ill results followed.

Will Sacrifice Beard.

When it was noticed that Oliver Cromwell was to be excluded from the list of characters figuring in the London pageant W. T. Stead entered a protest, vigorously telling the committee that this would boycott "the greatest man in English history." The committee replied it would include Cromwell if Stead would appear in a part. Stead gladly consented, though it involves the sacrifice of an ample beard which has never yet known a razor and was never even trimmed till Stead was past 40, but Stead declares he would shave his head.

London Workingmen Walk.

Directors of the London (Eng.) underground tubes railways are baffled to find an explanation of the decrease in traffic. As the surface systems, trains, and buses make the same complaint, competition does not seem a sufficient explanation. During the same time the total decrease in passengers on the railways within London was 13,000,000.

Harry C. Payne, of Windsor, will again be tried in Detroit for smuggling Chinese into the States.

DR. BROWETT'S OPHTHALMOMETERS

In estmating the degrees and kind of astigmatism, this eye instrument is most valuable and accurate. Dr. Browett has, during the past fifteen years, taught opticians the use of five different kinds of ophthalmometers, all of which were good instruments, but the one he now uses is conceded to be the most exact and the finest instrument made for the detection and estimation of astigmatism, and the measurements of the curvatures of the cornea of the eye. This and other instruments are used for many examinations daily at our office. We supply modern eye glasses at reasonable prices.

AN IDEAL SITE FOR A LIBRARY

Correspondent Points Out the Advantages of the Menzies Property in This Connection

Editor of the Review:

Sir—Is there no power under heaven that will prevent one of the prettiest spots in our city from being covered up by the dwellings of men? Are we in this city so lost to a sense of the beautiful that we will allow a place that we once pointed to with pride to be torn down or converted into a terrace of mechanical homes. As a site for a public library this Menzies property would seem to be ideal.

Within two blocks of our new Collegiate right on the path of our Normal school students, and within easy reach of any citizen who has time at all to devote to reading.

How proud our citizens would be to have a library that could be found without employing a guide, as is almost necessary with the present state of affairs. It would be worth while to grow old in this city if one could think of spending the long summer afternoons under the shade of those trees, where he might sit and read, with works of reference at hand.

Is there another place in this city that could be made so inviting, at such little expense? Already the work of excavation has commenced, but it is not too late yet and if prompt action is taken by those entrusted with our public library funds, the property, I think, might be saved. Any citizen who has taken any interest in this place at all will know that the man who have owned it; hesitated long before breaking it up, and in order to prevent an actual loss they were forced to sell. Let us have an expression of public opinion at once and not be found waiting when it is too late.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

I am, yours,

NORTH END

IS HOME FROM CONVENTION

Mr. H. C. Wright Greatly Impressed With Y.M.C.A. Gathering at Stratford

Mr. H. C. Wright, returned on Saturday from Stratford, where he had been attending the 36th convention of Y.M.C.A.'s of Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. F. B. Smith of New York, secretary of the International Committee of Religious Work Department, gave several addresses and paid high tribute to the Canadian Y.M.C.A. work, stating that Canadian Y.M.C. A.'s practically led the world in regard to work, and that they were looked up to by Y.M.C.A. men in every country.

There were about 250 delegates from both provinces at the convention, including His Honor Sir. Wm. Mortimer Clarke, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario; Fred B. Smith, International Religious Work Secretary, New York; T. H. Billings, International Student Secretary for Canada; Prof. A. L. McCrimmon of McMaster University; and C. M. Copeland, Provincial Secretary.

Mr. D. A. Budge of Montreal, delivered an address on "A Restatement of the Aims and purposes of the Association, in the Light of Experience." A number of the Y.M.C. A.'s are having this address printed in circular form, and will hold membership meetings to discuss it.

A banquet was held on Thursday night at which addresses were given given by the Lieutenant-Governor, Prof. A. L. McCrimmon, and Mr. C. M. Copeland. The banquet was attended by over 200 delegates.

The convention was closed on Friday night by a meeting of employed officers, at which Mr. Pitt Parker, the noted crayon artist of Boston, gave several beautiful crayon sketches.

The Provincial Committee's report showed that they had received and disbursed about ten thousand dollars in Y.M.C.A. work in the past year.

Y.M.C.A. work has been started in Huron county. This is the first county work ever attempted in Canada, and is proving a great success.

It was given to him on the occasion of the first anniversary of Knox church, and also as a token of the high esteem in which he pastor is held by Mr. and Mrs. McCannan.

Mr. Keith appreciates the kind thoughtfulness of his friends very much and expressed keen regret at their removal from the city.

ELDERLY FOLKS SHOULD TRY IT

Simple Home Mixture Relieves Kidneys and Bladder and Rheumatism

The great majority of men and women at the age of 50 years begin to feel the first signs of advancing age in some form of kidney trouble and bladder weakness. Few are entirely free from that torturous disease, rheumatism, which is not a disease in itself, by a symptom of deranged function of the kidneys which have become clogged and sluggish, failing in their duty of sifting and straining the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, permitting it to remain and decompose, settling about the joints and muscles, causing intense pain and suffering.

The bladder, however, causes the old folk the most annoyance, especially at night and early morning.

A noted authority in a recent article, stated that he had wonderful success with the old-time "vegetable treatment." He states:—"Of sixteen cases of bladder trouble and rheumatism which have been treated with this treatment only one very complicated case failed to fully yield to its remarkable influence. It is the most harmless treatment I have ever found to clean the system of rheumatic poisons; remove irritation of the bladder and relieve urinary difficulties of old people. It is a true vitalizing tonic to the entire kidney and urinary structure, reinvigorating the entire system."

What he terms "old vegetable treatment" consists of the following simple prescription, the ingredients which can be obtained from any good pharmacy at small cost:—Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and upon going to bed, also drink plenty of water. This prescription, though simple, is always effective in the diseases and difficulties of the kidneys and bladder.

GIRLS AWAY WAS A VALID EXCUSE

County Judge Reverses Decision of Police Magistrate

The Bobcaygeon Independent says: The decision of County Magistrate Moore in which he imposed a fine upon J. Twomey, of Fenelon Falls, on a charge of refusing to supply meals to a hockey team was reversed by the county judge on appeal. The excuse given for not doing so that the girls were away, was not considered valid by the magistrate. The judge considered that it was a valid excuse.

LOCAL MAN SAYS BUSINESS IS VERY QUIET IN ENGLAND

Bernard G. Poole, V. S. Home After a Four Months Visit to the Old Country — Immigrants are Given False Imformation.

"Business is very quiet in England, much more so than in Canada," said Mr. B. G. Poole, Veterinary Surgeon, this morning. Dr. Poole, accompanied by his wife and family, arrived in Peterborough yesterday afternoon after spending four months in the Old Country and expresses himself as glad to be back in Canada again. He had a most enjoyable time in England but states that times are pretty quiet there and buiness conditions not as favorable as in the Dominion. Mr. and Mrs. Poole arrived in England the day before Christmas after a stormy passage across the Atlantic. They returned to Canada on the C.P. R. steamship, "Empress of Ireland," that docked at St. John's Friday morning after a fine passage.

During his stay in the Old Country Dr. Poole took a course in the Royal Veterinary College and picked up all the latest ideas in veterinary science.

Dr. Poole stated to the Review that there were nearly a thousand immigrants came over on the "Empress of Ireland," and two boats which docked at St. John's shortly after the CPR. liner, also carried several thousand new comers to Canada.

"Goodness knows what they are coming over now for," said Dr. Poole. "They will have a hard time getting along in Canada with conditions as they are at present and many of them will be a burden to the country. Very few of them have any money and unless they can get work as soon as they strike Canada they are right up against it and have to depend on charity. The Canadian Government agents are deluding the immigrants, painting to them far too bright a picture of conditions in Canada. The poor Englishmen think they can pick up money on the streets when they reach this country, which of course is a conception that is not altogether correct."

Dr. Poole further stated that many of the immigrants intended working on farms when they reached Canada. This would be alright were it not for the fact that the bulk of them had never seen a farm in their lives and would have difficulty in distinguishing between the different species of domestic animals. Of course it will take some time for these fellows to become proficient in the art of farming.

Dr. Poole can now be found at his office, 320 Water street, and will be glad to meet all his old customers.

MEDICAL MEN DISAGREED AND BOY'S LIFE WAS ENDANGERED

Strange Story Comes From Galway—Boy Was Injured and Was Threatened With Blood Poisoning.

Fenelon Falls, April 9 — Michael McGuire, a young lad residing with his parents at Swamp Lake in Galway was brought to town by his mother, on Sunday and had the three first fingers of his right hand amputated by Dr. Graham assisted by Dr. Gould. The accident occurred Friday Friday previous, while the unfortunate little fellow was playing with a bicycle his hand becoming caught in the chain and the fingers torn and broken off. Owing to some disagreement between the medical men in the north country the injury was not properly attended to until he arrived here, after having been driven from his home in Kinmount and then from Kinmount to Fenelon Falls. The mother's story of the sufferings of the little fellow has touched the hearts of many of our citizens and there is considerable talk of demanding an investigation by the authorities into the conduct of those responsible for allowing the unfortunate boy to suffer for proper medical attendance and endangering his life from the possibility of blood poisoning.

THIS BUSINESS HAS GROWN WITH UNUSUAL RAPIDITY

Mr. J. T. Braund is Enlarging His Premises Again—Is Erecting New Feed Store.

Mr. J. T. Braund, the north-end grocer, whose business has increased so rapidly in the last few years, is once more compelled to enlarge his his premises in order to get sufficient floor space.

Mr Braunds many friends will remember when he first opened up a grocery store years ago in the building now occupied by Mrs Bell at Auburn, when his capital stock amounted in value to twenty-five dollars. Since that time his business has increased and prospered to something like fifteen thousand dollars.

In 1899 the business became cramped in the old premises and Mr Braund was compelled to move and bought the store on the corner of George and Smith streets, which proved to be the nucleus of his present building. Here he installed a butcher shop in the rear and for some time he and one helper did all the work of both grocery and meat store, including the delivering of goods.

Soon, however, more help was required and it eventually became necessary to place two delivery waggons on the road. In 1904 it was once more found necessary to enlarge the store, and an addition was built on the east side, and in the rear, which doubled his former floor space.

The old meat store was then given up to flour and feed and a new one partitioned off with glass in the interior.

Mr. Braund's present enlargement is in the nature of a new feed store which he is erecting on the north side of his building. The meat department will then be moved to the part of the building formerly used to store goods, while the grocery department will occupy the old feed store, in addition to its present space.

The removal of the meat store will give more space to the boots and shoes, which department Mr. Braund has found somewhat cramped lately, and will also allow room for a wide staircase which will lead to the first flat. Here several rooms formerly used as a dwelling, are being remodelled and will be fitted up in the form of a furnished home.

Mr Braund expects to have all improvements completed by the first of June, when it is his intention to place his business on a cash basis, excepting furniture, which may be paid for on the instalment plan.

The present staff consists of five clerks and two delivery men. More help will be required after opening the new premises.

188 MEN TOOK PLEDGE AT MEETING OF THE T. A. S.

Five Hundred in Attendance and Meeting Was Largest in History of Society—His Lordship's Words of Commendation.

There were over 500 in attendance at the regular meeting of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society held yesterday afternoon in the hall of St Peter's school at 3.30 o'clock.

About a month ago the T.A.S. determined to make an extra effort to increase its membership. The city was divided into wards and sub-divisions into different sections and each section was looked after by a committee of three men. Their duty was to visit every Catholic home and in the name of the society cordially invite the male members of the family, who were over sixteen years of age, to become members of the society.

188 MEN JOINED

Success has certainly crowned their efforts. Two weeks ago yesterday 43 men joined the association and yesterday at the largest meeting the society ever held, 188 men taking the pledge. The meeting had to be held at the assembly hall of the school, as the T.A.S. rooms were far too small to afford accommodation for the large crowd.

HIS LORDSHIP SPOKE

One of the chief features of the meeting was the presence of his Lordship Bishop O'Connor, who administered the pledge to the 188 who joined. He afterwards addressed the large gathering and expressed himself as being most agreeable surprised at the number of total abstainers present. He congratulated the officers and members upon the success of their efforts and also the men who joined upon their decision.

PERFECTION OF THE VIRTUE

His Lordship spoke on temperance in general as a great virtue and referred to the perfection of the virtue in the austinence from alcoholic beverages. He was glad to witness the good the society was doing on the occasion of the gathering, and would pray with renewed fervor for the spiritual and temporal prosperity of the members of the society.

The Perfect Man

By TROY ALLISON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by E. C. Parcells.

"I am getting frightfully cynical," Elberta said dolefully, arranging the cushions on the box couch so the becoming red one would be nearest her face, "and I don't like it. My dislike is not founded so much upon moral grounds as from a regard for my complexion."

"Eh?" remarked Mr. Terhune helplessly. "Your conversation, my dear Elberta, often seems involved. Your remarks are sometimes not as lucid—that is, as intelligible—as one might desire."

"Perhaps I am forgetting that the young or very feeble are fed on specially prepared food, John, and the rule probably applies as much to the mental as to the physical," she said, with mock petulance.

"SHE HAS THE DAINTIEST LITTLE NOSE I EVER SAW."

"Now, my dear girl, don't fly off into a psychological discussion, for either nature defrauded me or they left out something in my college course, I don't know which. The only thing I want to know is—why being cynical should affect your complexion."

"That's easily explained. It takes the sparkle out of my eyes, it draws my mouth down at the corners and destroys my dimple, and to cap the climax it makes me wonder if there is a living, breathing man worth marceling my hair for. So when I get in a cynical mood I go around straight haired, thin lipped, with a listless expression that makes me positively homely."

"But, my dear child," protested Mr. Terhune, "I could run in almost any time to admire the marceled hair, and if I didn't happen to come at the psychological moment you could phone me at any minute, and I would be delighted—dee-light-ed—to rush to admire—just count on me for any old time," he added graciously.

"John, you are at intervals positively foolish," she said severely, trying to select from the box in her lap a chocolate that contained a nut. "I am tired of being admired by plain, everyday men."

"Like me?" he suggested amiably.

"I didn't say I was rude or impolite enough to call you names. I merely said I was cynical," she demurred.

"Oh, call me a plain, everyday man if you like," he conceded graciously—"if it makes you feel one tiny bit better to work off your cynicism on me, Lady Fair. 'Tis sweet to die for—er—I'm not strong in poetry, Elberta, but I'm willing to help you out all I can. So you want the marcel to be admired by some wonderful being. Elberta, my child, don't you think a perfect man would let his thoughts run upon—er—scientific lines—and not undulations in—hair lines?"

"He wouldn't, I'm sure, labor under the impression that he could make puns," she sniffed disdainfully.

"Even if he didn't make puns he might be disagreeable in other respects," suggested Mr. Terhune hopefully. "His very perfections, my dear girl, would make him clear sighted enough to see the imperfections of others. Now, I think you are perfect, but he probably would not take to you at all on account of your imperfections."

"Indeed? Would you enumerate them?" The tone struck Mr. Terhune as being slightly icy, but, however foolish, he evidently was not lacking in bravery.

"If you will for once let me assume that I, even I, am a perfect man, perhaps I can give you a few of the ideas he might entertain."

"Pray do. It cannot fail to be interesting," freezingly.

"That reminds me. I met Miss Deland on the street this afternoon, and I never in my life saw so perfect a profile. She is the exact type that would make a suitable mate for your perfect man. And I think she has the daintiest little nose I ever saw," reminiscently.

Elberta reddened slightly. She had always wondered if her nose were not a trifle large, and her fingers unconsciously flew to her face to be passed furtively over the suspected member.

"And she always makes herself so entirely charming—she doesn't seem to be moody—one could not imagine her ever being—er—rude. She is an ideal feminine character, a perfectly womanly woman—she would give her husband just the proper amount of adoration necessary to stimulate him to success—she wouldn't expect the perfect man to waste time in admiring a mere woman—a frail, impulsive, whimsical woman. The perfect man, my dear, would probably—at least possibly—be the center of attraction himself. I can imagine that his wife would occupy the subordinate position of second fiddle."

Elberta sat quietly stroking her nose with her finger, evidently deeply absorbed in thought.

"John—do you think my nose is—very large?" she asked timidly, almost humbly.

"Oh, I have seen a few larger," declared Mr. Terhune airily.

It is hard to have one's sensitive point so negligently handled, and the girl looked at him in grieved surprise. "I had no idea you were so disagreeably critical. Of course I never thought I was a beauty, but I can't help the size of my nose."

"Of course you can't," consolingly. "Nobody can blame you for it," he declared piously. "We should not blame people for their misfortunes. We should sympathize."

She looked at him a second, tears of mortification in her eyes. "You are—cruel," she said in muffled tones from the depth of the red pillow where she buried her face.

Mr. Terhune without her eyes upon him permitted a look of satisfaction to creep over his face.

"Wouldn't it be awful to live in the same house with a man so perfect himself that he never noticed your eyes or hair, who perhaps had so perfect a nose that he would make disagreeable comparisons of your own—er—features?" he suggested wickedly.

A slight sob from the red cushion and an unhappy tapping on the floor by the small slippered foot nearest him was the only response.

"Wouldn't you rather have a—well, just a plain everyday man who thought you altogether charming?" He dared to put his hand on the mass of fluffy hair that showed off well on the red cushion. He had never been so daring before, and the sobs stopped in amazement.

"He—he might like Miss Deland's type too. I haven't a profile like hers," came the muffled tones.

"Pshaw!" said Mr. Terhune, with a fine flow of scorn. "She is always so exactly the same that she would soon grow monotonous." And he deftly lifted the bowed head to his shoulder.

"But is my nose—so very large?" came a whisper from his shoulder.

"You dear," said the plain, everyday man enthusiastically, "there's not in the whole world a more charming feature."

Story of a Black Cap.

A court martial was being held on board the Hibernia at Malta for the trial of a gunner who had been drinking not wisely, but too well. The evidence had been taken, the finding decided on and the court cleared to consider the sentence. The court was reopened and the prisoner ushered in. Hardly had he crossed the threshold when, to the astonishment of the members of the court, he threw himself face downward, uttered a wild shriek and pleaded piteously for mercy. Every one looked at the president, and the reason for the prisoner's strange behavior at once dawned on their perplexed minds. The president's hair on top was conspicuous by its absence, and in private life he invariably wore a black skullcap. Now, the Hibernia was one of the draftiest ships in the navy, and the deliberations had been somewhat long, so in the prisoner's absence the president had covered his head with its usual protector, but on the man's re-entry quite forgot to hide it by putting on his cocked hat. The unfortunate gunner, whose nerves were somewhat unstrung as a result of his recent debauch, jumped at the conclusion that the wearing of the black cap by the president signified that he was to be hanged for his offense, instead of which his punishment turned out to be a few days in the cells.—London P. MANY HEARD EVANGELIST

Mr. Douglas Russell Had a Busy Day Yesterday---Spoke at Four Meetings

Mr Douglas Russell, evangelist and hymn-writer, was a very busy man yesterday. He preached at Gospel Hall at 1 o'clock on the "Lord's Supper, Its Beauty and Importance," at three in the afternoon the Sunday school had the pleasure of listening to an address on the "Immense Importance of Early Decision for Christ." At four o'clock, at the men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. a large number heard him on "Think, Have and Know," and again at Gospel Hall he spoke on "What Think Ye of Christ." Those who heard him thirty-five years ago say he is just the same simple, earnest and inspiring speaker as when last heard here. At the meeting all his own hymns were used and the audience soon got the swing and sang with real enthusiasm. To-night Mr. Russell will speak at the Y.M.C.A. hall and the singing will be all his own hymns. All are invited. Singing will commence sharp at eight o'clock.

KNOX CHURCH COULD NOT ACCOMMADATE THE CROWDS

That Attended Evening Service in Connection With Church's First Anniversary---Rev. W. D. Reid Gave Splendid Addresses at Three Services---Is a Powerful Preacher

The services in connection with the first anniversary of Knox church were gratifyingly successful and large numbers were on hand for the three services. Rev. W. D. Reid, who preached on all three occasions, proved a speaker of unusual force and directness, and his sermons were most lucid and convincing.

In the morning he spoke upon "Conditions for Spiritual Development," and in the afternoon he addressed a men's meeting on "The Second Mile," and the evening the topic of his sermon was, "The Man That God Calls a Fool."

Special music by the choir under the direction of Mr. Duncan Campbell, was a feature of the services. The choirsters acquitted themselves admirably and the anthems and solos were rendered in a splendid manner.

At the evening service the congregation was the largest that has ever assembled in the church, and many were unable to secure admission.

THE MUSIC.

The music for the day was as follows;

The anthem, with quartette, for the morning service was "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace," the solo, "The Children's Home," taken by Mr. Thompson. In the afternoon at the 4.15 service a male choir had charge of the music. At the evening service the anthem was "Be Joyful in the Lord," and "Son of My Soul." Mr. D. Campbell sang a solo in splendid voice.

ADDRESS TO MEN.

In connection with the anniversary services at Knox church yesterday. Rev. W. D. Reid, B.D., of Taylor church, Montreal, delivered a very practical address at a largely attended men's meeting held in the afternoon. The congregations of other city churches were well represented and the service could not fail to be as profitable as it was interesting. Rev. Mr. Reid is a forcible, earnest speaker, and his short eloquent sentences carry conviction. His address was one entirely suited to the occasion, dealing as it did with the problems of every day life and the manner in which they should be met. His text was St. Matthew 5, 41, "And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain." This, as the speaker explained, in commencing, had reference to the old Roman custom obtained originally from the Persians, that a courier bent on the ruler's business could commandeer the services of any person to help him on his way. Rev. Mr. Reid took the text to mean that people should accept the compulsions of life in a cheerful spirit, not to do things because they had to do them. There were many Roman couriers of compulsion in life, and one was that ninety-nine per cent. of the people were compelled to do hard work in order to earn their bread.

The speaker commented on the different way in which people met this compulsion and drew realistic pictures of the man who had no interest in his work, except that he had to do it—the one mile man as it were—as compared with the man who was interested and delighted with his work—the two mile man; the one mile housewife who was satisfied with her house if it would "do," and rather attend a Ladies' Aid Society meeting than perform the humdrum duties of the household, as compared with the one who delighted in her home work; and the one mile minister who neglected his sermon until Saturday night, as compared with the clergyman who had it before him all week and had something worth while to offer his people on Sunday.

The Roman courier of adverse circumstances was also met in these two different ways, and the speaker illustrated the point by a touching reference to Henry Drummond, who although he lay dying for two years with a terrible disease, was bright and cheerful to the end, meeting his affliction with a two mile spirit.

The one mile spirit and the two mile spirit were found in the social obligations of life. There was the one mile man who was satisfied if he gave his wife all she required and didn't abuse. The speaker pitied the one mile homes, and there were many of them, where each performed their several duties but did no more, where love was kept in the background.

There was a one mile religion and a two mile religion. In the first case men went to church because they felt they were compelled to do so. They did not enjoy it: they were glad when it was over and some slept through the service, and yet they went because they felt that it was right to do so. Rev. Mr. Reid advised such men to take their religion in the two mile spirit and they would find nothing bitter or uncongenial in it.

The same spirit was met in death and in concluding the speaker exhorted his hearers to be prepared so that they could meet the Roman courier of death without fear and in the two mile way.

Mr. Sheriff Hall presided at the meeting, which was opened with prayer by Rev. H. J. Keith. Before Rev. Mr. Reid's address a quartette, composed of Messrs. Campbell, Davenport, McCannon and Thompson, rendered a selection artistically. The choir was composed entirely of male voices.

EVENING SERMON.

Verses 13 to 21 from the 12th chapter of St. Luke formed the text of the sermon, and the subject was; "The Man That God Calls a Fool." The verses deal with Christ preaching in Palestine, and of His being interrupted during his sublime discourse by one of His listeners saying unto Him: "Master, speak to my brother that he divide the inheritance with me." Christ reproved the man for his untimely remark, and told the parable of the rich man whose barns were stored in excess, and said. "Soul thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink and be merry; but God said unto him, thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee."

When the man broke in with his irrevalent remarks Jesus was speaking on tremenduously solemn things, telling those who had assembled to hear Him of the great persecutions they would have in the world, and of the sin against the Holy Ghost, for which there is no forgiveness in this world nor the world to come. It seems unfortunate that his conversation was so abruptly concluded, but the parable he told after is of untold value. There are many today like the man in the parable, and he was the man that God called a fool.

TWO LINES OF THOUGHT.

There are two lines of thought opened by the parable Christ told on that occasion. From God's standpoint the man was a fool, but, from a worldly standpoint he was no fool. He had made a success of his life on his farm, and was therefore not a fool in the matter of ability. It takes a man of ability to farm successfully. But because he was wealthy was no reason why he was a fool from a spiritual standpoint. It is when riches become the master of the man that they become a curse. They may be a blessing if they are used for the uplifting of the world.

Judging this man from the business standpoint he was no fool. He was a man that must have had considerable common sense. And yet God Almighty looked down upon this man from Heaven and on all his possessions and called him a fool.

A MERE ANIMAL.

The man lived and talked as if he were a mere animal. He saw nothing but his grains, his money and his wine cellar. It's wonderful how much animal there is in the best of us. But man is a God-inspired being who is something more than a mere animal. And what a fool the man is who lives as if there were no God, as if there were no hereafter—who lives as a mere animla. And are we not surrounded by those who are living in simply the little present. Let us beware of the present for anyone who is living like this may well be called by Almighty God a fool.

REV. W. D. REID
Of Taylor Church, Montreal.

The man in the parable lived as if there were no God. He referred to his grain, to his money, to his soul. They were all God's and yet this rank athiest stood there and called them his own.

FARMER SHOULD KNOW OF GOD.

The man was a farmer, and if there is any man on earth that should realise the existence of God it is the farmer. He sees the great miracles of God day by day, and for this man amidst it all to say, my corn, my barn, my soul, such a man may be well pronounced a fool.

There are men who say they are self-made men, who claim all the powers that have made them the success they are as their owen.

EVERYTHING IS GOD'S.

Everything is God's. The wind is His, the lightning is His, all is His, and it is God to whom all success is due for everything. Even our powers are His. The man who contradicts this is a fool.

There are men who look at their gold and say all this is mine to have, to hold and to keep.

"Methinks," said the preacher, "the demons in hell must laugh at such a man."

Against the reasoning of such a man claiming all this money for himself are the contentions of Socialists and Nihilists, and indeed they seem to have some ground for their dissatisfaction, when the employers in large cities often cut down the wages when the times are hard and when they know the men cannot get work elsewhere.

THE MAN'S SOUL.

The man spoken of in the parable proved himself a fool when he said "Soul, take thine ease, eat, drink and be merry."

What man can feed his soul with corn? Man can never be satisfied until he satisfied his soul in God. How can a man satisfy his soul on mere things of this world? Communion with God, living with God, likeness to God they are the only things that can satisfy the soul.

In conclusion the speaker urged those present to go home that night and talk to their souls and to see what condition their souls were in and become Christians."

"May we be preserved from the folly of the man that God calls a fool."

The Russian Department of Agriculture was severely criticised in the Douma yesterday. Russia, it was asserted although the most extensive agricultural country in the world, ranks fifth on the basis of budget allotments for the help of agriculture, only two and a half per cent of the total income being given for the furtherance of the chief industry.

CHARGES AGAINST PLUMBING WORK

Review Has Received Letter From Mr. E. R. Stocker---Investigation is Awaited

The Review has received a communication from Mr. E. R. Stocker with reference to statements he wishes to make regarding the plumbing work at the local school buildings. As the matter was brought to the attention of the Board of Education at its last meeting and the Board, by resolution, decided to have an investigation, the matter stands until the results of the enquiry are made public.

The ratepayers are deeply interested in the whole matter. The specifications called for certain classes of work subject to the provisions laid down in the local by-law regarding such work. It should not be difficult to determine whether the conditions have been adhered to, and in the meantime that part of the work done should be left as it is, pending the investigation;

Mr. Thompson the plumbing inspector, was asked if he had passed the work done and he said he had passed the weighing in, and that it met the tests. He will make his report to the Board at the investigation.

The chairman of the Board, Mr. R Gair was seen and said that while date of the enquiry had not been settled, and it would be presently and the whole Board would be present and go into the matter.
